AVIATORS OPERATE OVER HELIGOLAND

The Information Was Revealed To-day When Death of Aviator is Announced

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, May 22.—That American naval aviators have operated over Heligoland Bight, was revealed to-day when the committee on Public Information announced the death of Ensign Stephen Potter, U. S. R. N. F., Detroit, Mich., in a spectacular battle with seven enemy single seaters.

Peterboro' Cheese Board Will Maintain Reputation By Making Coloured, Not White, Cheese

Cost of Colouring Has Advanced, But Peterboro' Has An Established Place in Home and Foreign Markets That Dairymen Are Loth to Lose—First Board This Morning—Price Was 22 7-16c.

The Peterborough Cheese Board made a number of important decisions at the first meeting of the year this morning. The factory salesmen agreed to become community leaders in the national registration on June 22nd. Factory inspection of cheese will be dispensed with this year, and finally Peterborough cheese will continue to be coloured.

Several of the salesmen referred to the advanced cost of colouring, and also pointed out that the Government's Cheese Commission does not discriminate in price between the white and coloured cheese. Hence, the representatives of the factories were inclined to question the advantage of continuing to make coloured cheese.

Mr. G. A. Gillespie reminded the Board that Peterborough was known everywhere for its coloured cheese, and after the war the old conditions of trade and the old customers would be in the market, and it would then be decidedly to the benefit of the dairy industry in this section to be able to present coloured cheese. Mr. Gillespie said that if the factories went into making white cheese they would lose their identity in the market and eventually would suffer financial loss.

Mr. Thompson Braden remarked that the cheesemakers preferred to make coloured cheese, and Mr. Ward, the local instructor, urged the salesmen not to depart from the coloured cheese. Peterborough had a reputation in the Canadian and British market as a producer of coloured cheese, and that reputation should be maintained.

It was also stated by Mr. J. A. Kerr that the cost of the colouring even at the present higher price was only about 1/32c. a pound. Last year the Cheese Commission showed a preference for coloured cheese, and if the price was the same as white, the returns for the season showed a greater revenue for the coloured cheese factories.

Mr. Robert Bullock moved, seconded by Mr. Braden, that the factories in the Peterborough Board continue to make coloured cheese. This was unanimously supported by both the salesmen and buyers.

Help to Register.

Mr. Kerr urged the salesmen to use their influence in their communities in order that the registration of the men and women of the Dominion over 16 years should be a success. "Those who don't register will not be permitted to pay a hired man, they will not be allowed to travel on the railways, and will find themselves confronted by very heavy fines."

Mr. Gillespie—Say that they can't live and that will cover it.

Continuing, Mr. Kerr reminded the salesmen that they were prominent farmers, and upon them, as well as others in the country, devolved the duty of co-operating with the Government in the forthcoming registration. Many people had the most vague idea of the registration and the obligation of obeying the law. These misconceptions would have to be removed, and it was the duty of the leading men to assist in spreading a real knowledge of this law and its method of operation.

The salesmen found considerable information in the discussion on registration and promised to do their bit on the back forties.

Old members Absent.

In opening the Board for the new season, Mr. Robt. Duff, chairman, said he voiced the regrets of the members in the absence of Mr. John Young and long experience on the Board. Mr. Young died since last year, and Mr. Mann represented Trewern factory, which was destroyed by fire last summer.

Treasurer's Report.

The treasurer's report, presented by Mr. E. Hawthorne, showed a balance of $12.36. The receipts amounted to $54.36 and the expenses to $42.00.

Officers Elected.

The following officers were elected:
President—Robert Duff.
1st Vice-Pres.—J. J. Breckenridge.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Thompson Braden.
Sec.-Treas.—E. Hawthorne.
Auditor—W. A. Anderson.

Montreal Weights.

Mr. G. A. Gillespie reminded the factory representatives that payment is made on the basis of Montreal weights, where the cheese must be half a pound "up beam." This is a regulation of the British Commission, and was in force last year.

Every factory is now required to send a copy of the original invoice of any shipment to Montreal, these statements to be forwarded through the local buyers. Mr. Gillespie stated that cheese are inspected and weighed in Montreal upon arrival.

Mr. Duff—There is no need then for the buyer inspecting at the factories, if the Montreal inspection by government is final.

Mr. Gillespie replied that the buyers kept the cheese makers in touch with conditions and were a help to the factories and the industry. The government had not been stringent examiners last year, the factories having received every consideration, even leniency, in some grading.

The Board finally decided to sell on Montreal inspection doing away with the former method of factory inspection by the buyers.

643 Cheese Boarded.

A year ago 1,177 cheese were sold at 21 13-16 cents. This morning there were 643 at 22 7-16c., as follows:

Warminster	60
Shearer	45
Selwyn	40
Villiers	30
Warsaw	55
Westwood	100
Oakdale	35
Ormonde	65
Young's Point	60
Lang	29
North Dummer	30
Norwood	43
Fleetwood	30
Killarney	30
Total	643

Mr. Kerr opened the bidding with 21 1-2c.; Mr. Gillespie raised to 22 cents; Mr. Morton 22 1-8c.; Mr. Gillespie 22 3-8c. for the board; Mr. Kerr 22 7-16c. All the factories accepted Mr. Kerr's bid.

Anzac Says Turks Are "Good Sports"

NEW YORK, May ...—Colonel W. K. Fethers, D. S. O., who is in command of the 500 Australian soldiers who are here on their way back to the front, says the Turks are fair fighters. He has been through the Gallipoli and Somme campaigns.

"It is hard to compare the two war fronts. They were both terrible, but each was so in its own particular way. At Gallipoli the conditions under which we fought were infinitely worse. I mean that personal hardships were greater in the fighting against the Turks than they were in France. At Gallipoli all our supplies had to come by sea and if there was a bit of a blow there were no supplies. We had a comparatively small force to hold our trenches, which meant that we had to stay in those trenches night and day, with hardly any relaxation. Any one who has been through it can testify to the invigorating effects of a rest period after a stay in the trenches. Also at Gallipoli we suffered from thirst, and our wounded could not be cared for efficiently. We didn't have such comfortable trenches as in France.

"But I do not believe, for all the hardships, that the Gallipoli campaign is to be compared to that in France for its effect on the men. The shelling at Gallipoli was only a fraction of the almost daily bombardment by the German guns. Even with the one day's rest in seven which was possible in France the strain on the men's nerves was far more severe than on the Dardanelles.

"But make no mistake about the merits of the Turk as a fighter. He hasn't the heavy artillery that the German has and he hasn't the masses of men to be used for cannon fodder whenever it suits the purpose of the high command, but when it comes to a man-to-man scrap I would rather face the German than the Turk. Abdullah, as we call the Turk, was always a gentleman and a good sport. Not one of the stories of his mutilation of the wounded was ever substantiated, and I do not believe them."

Colonel Fethers won his D.S.O. at the battle of Pozieres on the Somme in August, 1916. He was wounded on this occasion and invalided to England. Later he was sent to Australia on staff duty, whence he is returning to the front.

The German People Believe War Will Be Over This Year And Will End In A Draw Enemy Prisoners Also Repeat the Old Rumour That Hindenburg is Dead — The Battlefields Are Dusty.

THE WAR MACHINE

(By William Philip Simms.)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, May 22.— (10 O'clock Despatch.)— German troops and home folks believe the war will be over this year, that it will end in a draw and that Germany will succeed in obtaining good peace terms, according to enemy prisoners.

Those prisoners also repeat the old rumour that Field Marshal Hindenburg is dead. In fact, they say the Prussian "war god" has been dead some time. In support of this they point to Field Marshal Mackensen's alleged appearance on the west front. Allied army officials, however, place no credence in the rumour of Hindenburg's death.

I understand that the French and Belgian civilians are still forced to work on the battle fields behind the German lines, but that they are making the Germans furious because they do so little.

The French population in the territory held by the enemy is said to be in splendid spirits, treating British prisoners like their own kin, and offering them such food delicacies as they possess.

SUMMER WEATHER.

The lazy summer weather continues. Only at some points does trouble boil occasionally. Between the Somme and Arras, German artillery seems to have slightly increased the fire, The Allied front lines have been considerably pounded on these sectors, while the battery areas are targets for the heavy howitzers.

Allied infantry did not attempt anything ambitious to-day, although some raids and line rectifications were carried out.

The battle fields are dusty, the shells kicking up dust clouds instead of mud, which has been the case for some time.

Summer cast a drowsy spell over Northern France, but in the blazing sunshine the war machine is abuzz, and these who hold the levers are awake.

Stoney Lake Navigation Co.

Opening Trips of the Season —Thursday and Friday Arrangements

As usual, the Stoney Lake Navigation Company have announced their Victoria week opening trips to points on Stoney Lake. The first of these takes place on Thursday, May 23rd, via G.T.R. train to Lakefield at noon, where steamers will be in waiting for passengers. It is expected that, in addition to many local summer resort owners who will go up for the first time since the winter, that a large number from Toronto and other outside points will arrive for the lakes, bringing their equipments of summer freight for the opening of their cottages. As usual, these will remain until Monday, the 27th, when the steamer will make a return trip from the lakes in time to reach Peterborough at an early hour in the evening.

The second trip of the season will be on Victoria Day, Friday, May 24th. On this occasion, steamers will leave the George Street Wharf at 8 o'clock in the morning, and go over the Lift Lock, Canal route to Lakefield, and on to Stoney Lake points. This has been found necessary on account of the difficulty of securing correct train service in the morning. Excursionists, however, should be able to enjoy a pleasant water sail through the Trent Canal scenery to Lakefield, and then on to points on Stoney Lake. The steamer has been scheduled to return to Peterborough about 7.30 in the evening.

The commodious steamer "Stoney Lake" has been chartered by the Salvation Army for a big excursion on the 24th of May to Hiawatha, via the Otonabee River and Rice Lake, particulars of which may be learned by posters.

Girls! Draw A Moist Cloth Through Hair Double Its Beauty

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one smal strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter for a few cents.

SOLDIERS WRITE TO SOLDIERS' WIVES' AND MOTHERS' CLUB

SOCKS APPRECIATED BY THE SOLDIERS.

Seaford, April 28, 1918.
Mrs. John Monks.

Dear Madam,—I have just been given a pair of socks by one of the boys from Peterborough, Spr. S. Spooner, and when I felt in the toe of one of them I found your name and address. He said he had about thirty pairs sent from the Soldiers' Wives' and Mothers' Club. I think it is a splendid work that the women of Canada are doing in sending things like that. It shows that they are thinking of the boys over here, and makes our lives a little bit happier. S. Spooner was a comrade of mine in Belgium, and, being sick, I have met again over here in England. Thanking you very much for the socks. I remain, yours gratefully,

Always Welcome.

France, April 4th, 1918.
Mrs. Earl Downey,
58 Edinburgh St., Peterborough.

Dear Mrs. Downey,—Please convey to the very kind and thoughtful officers and members of the Soldiers' Wives' and Mothers' Club the sincere appreciation of the Peterborough boys, who shared with me, the splendid parcel of socks and gum, received a few days ago.

As the parcel did not furnish me with the name of the actual sender—so far as I could gather from the enclosed notes—and as no officer of your splendid organization was mentioned, I am writing to you, trusting that you will convey our sincere appreciation to the Soldiers' Wives and Mothers' Club in general, and to the following ladies in particular: Mrs. Richards, Mrs. J. Blake, Mrs. Wiskin, Mrs. Kent, Mrs. Fred. Stanley, Mrs. Blake (Park St.), Mrs. J. Monks, Mrs. Bradshaw and Mrs. McKinstry.

It is hardly necessary for me to say that socks are always welcomed by the boys "out here," and as we have had considerable wet weather of late, they were doubly appreciated, as a result. But regardless of the weather, the spirits of the boys are never dampened, which is one of the greatest helps we have in our daily routine and of which we are probably least aware. We are, of course, all longing for home, sweet home, but at the same time we fully realise just where our duty lies before our longing can become a reality, with our minds at rest, regarding the future.

The boys all join with me in wishing the Soldiers' Wives' and Mothers' Club the success and prosperity which is its due; and we want you to feel that the splendid work that the Club is doing is greatly appreciated by the "home" boys of this battery.

Again thanking the kind ladies of the Club for the splendid parcel—and, above all, for the kindly thoughts which prompted the sending.

I remain, yours sincerely,
(Signed on behalf of the Peterborough Boys)
Frank G. Allen.

Socks Scarce.

France, April 3rd, 1918.
Secretary, Soldiers' Wives and Mothers' Club.

My dear Friend,—I have the greatest pleasure in acknowledging your nice parcel of socks that the Club was so kind to send to me.

The socks came at a good time, when socks were scarce, and in handing them out to the boys of our section I can assure you all that they were appreciated in the right spirit.

We are very busy these days with the Huns, and no doubt you have read in the papers where he has advanced some, but don't get alarmed, for he has paid very dear for it, so cheer up, and wait until we have our say.

Enclosed is the slips that were in the socks. Each one is signed by the receiver, and I wish you would pass them around to the kind and thoughtful members who sent the socks so that they can see that their good work is well appreciated. I have no more to say, so will close, thanking you all very, very much and hoping this finds you all in the same old spirit in the trying hour.

Sincerely yours,
Pte. M. Shaw, 192321, 20th Canadian Signal Section, France.

TORONTO, May 22. — The largest rush for birth and marriage certificates to date occurred at the Registrar-General's office in the Parliament Buildings yesterday, when over 1,500 applications were received. The day before there were a thousand applications. There were formerly applications for birth certificates to every one for a marriage, but now there are as many requests for marriage certificates as there are for the others.

Doctors Will Be Prosecuted Says McCullough

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, May 22.— Prosecutions will be instituted immediately against any doctors in the province who do not register births, Col. J. W. S. McCullough Provincial Medical Health Officer, stated to-day. Complaints have been made that the doctors have been neglecting to register and Col. McCullough stated that charges would be laid against them as soon as the information was received at the Registrar-General's office. Proceedings have already been instituted at Ottawa. The Ottawa City Council passed a resolution authorizing the City Clerk to transmit weekly a report to the Registrar-General containing the names of any physicians who did not register the births, and as a result of the resolution eight Ottawa physicians were summoned to court. Three of them pleaded guilty to the charge and the other two were found guilty. Five dollar fines were imposed for the first offence.

Voice of The People

Correspondence under this heading containing or involving attacks on individuals, or violent or extreme statements, must, to secure insertion, be signed with the writer's real name, the owner of which thus assumes the responsibility.

Editor of the Examiner: I see that the Review not being able to make any headway with its advocacy of retaining the spoils system in the hands of political partizans, is now endorsing the foolish and suicidal suggestion of leaving home rule in Ireland to the arbitration of the neutral powers, and the United States, as if the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland had no statesmen capable of managing its own internal affairs.

Imagine, if you can, of such a proposal being made, say for instance, to the United States, at the time of the Civil War, that England and other neutral countries should step in and usurp the powers of government for that country and determine the right of the Confederate States to secede! I wonder if poor old Abe Lincoln, in his just indignation, could find his power of speech sufficiently strong to denounce the unwonted intrusion upon their domestic affairs.

By the way how would Germany act if a proposal were made to carve out Bavaria or any of the other German States from its federation? The question need only be asked to see its absurdity.

Yours, etc.,
United Empire.

IN PATRIOTIC WORK.

Mr. Wilson, in discussing the work of the life underwriters' association, pointed out that the members of the various local associations throughout the Dominion had proved of great assistance in patriotic endeavour. In connection with the last Victory Loan Campaign in the east, the local association of Toronto, handled one complete section and brought to bear on the work a corps of trained salesmen, who were eminently successful in the work. In Winnipeg the local association will take charge of a section of the military Y.M.C.A. campaign to be put on next month, and it is anticipated that the Regina local will do similar work in the city during the same campaign.

"The association can do and has done splendid work in this direction," said Mr. Wilson, "as the members are trained in this class of work."

Mr. Wilson and Mr. Graham will visit Peterboro to-morrow (Thursday) and be entertained by the Local Underwriters at the Empress Hotel.

Hindenburg May Still Be Alive But His Reputation Is Seeking Its Grave

There Is No Reason For Believing That Von Hindenburg Is Physically in His Grave—Failure of West Front Offensive.

(By J. W. T. Mason—United Press Service).

NEW YORK, May 22.—The persistent rumour of Von Hindenburg's death which is being repeated by captured German prisoners is the strongest evidence that has yet appeared of a realization by Germany of the failure of Von Hindenburg's Western front offensive.

There is no reason for believing that Von Hindenburg really is physically in his grave, but it is unquestionably true that the rumours to this effect have originated in the Kaiser's army to explain Von Hindenburg's enforced halt in Flanders and Picardy with his major objectives unattained. Reports of the death of high commanders never arise spontaneously in any army while victories are being won. It is the instinctive realization among the private soldiers that matters are going wrong, which starts such tales.

THE LONG PAUSE.

Von Hindenburg's long pause, while Ypres and Amiens remain uncaptured, and the Allied lines continue unbroken, must have created much pessimism in the German ranks. It is the pessimism which now maintains itself in the report that Von Hindenburg has sacrificed his own life to his machine of slaughter. The effect of the rumour must be profound up on the morale of the German troops. The growing lack of confidence in the efficiency of the high command would produce a more pronounced reaction among the Germans than in any other way, because the German system is based on the infallibility of the war lords.

A NEW SPIRIT.

That the Kaiser himself realizes the prevalence of a new spirit of unrest is amply demonstrated by his own recent efforts to explain away the break in the Western front fighting. His new argument, however, cannot fool anybody. It is but a mockery of the vast numbers of new German dead for the Kaiser to proclaim the desirability of awaiting patiently the fruits of victory without further sacrifices rather than attempt to gain immediate success by bloody losses.

All Germany knows that Von Hindenburg's offensive was preceded by an elaborate campaign among the German people, who were taught to expect the quick ending of the war by means of one final sacrifice of German manhood. The sacrifice has been made in appalling measure, but still peace does not appear. To replace the dead among the Allies, fresh American troops are filling the Western trenches, giving promise soon of approaching in numbers the full strength even of the German army itself in Flanders and Picardy. It is not to be wondered at that under these conditions the Germans are beginning to believe Von Hindenburg must be dead. His body may still be alive, but his reputation is seeking its grave.

SINN FEINERS SAID TO BE RECOVERING FROM FIRST SHOCK

Plans Are Being Made to Resist Conscription — Fund Mas be Confiscated.

"FATAL MISTAKE"

(By Webb Miller) United Press—DUBLIN, May 22.—The Sinn Feiners in Ireland is recovering from its first shock of surprise and consternation. It is determinedly pushing plans to resist conscription, rebuilding its shattered organization, appointing new leaders in the country districts and strengthening its weak places.

The organizations headquarters boast that Sinn Fein companies are drilling in the more remote sections of the country. Several raids in an effort to steal arms and ammunition are reported.

Confiscate Fund.

There are rumors that the government intends to confiscate the million dollars in anti-conscription fund. As a result the Irish independent advises the local treasurers to take necessary measures to protect the money. Temporarily the Sinn Feiners have turned their attention from the fate of their leaders to preparation for resistance to conscription which, they fear, looms behind the present situation. Meanwhile the alliance with the Nationalists is becoming shaky. It is only held together by the common fear of conscription. A large crack appeared at the Mansion House Conference, when such a violent manifesto was proposed by the radicals that John Dillon and others balked. The manifesto was toned down as a result. So long as conscription is hanging over their heads, the alliance probably will be held together after a fashion.

The Herald says, it would be a fatal mistake to jump at the conclusion that because a month has elapsed, "The Government has abandoned its nefarious designs upon the manhood of the country."

Canadian Press.

DUBLIN, May 22.—Mrs. Thomas J. Clark, whose husband was put to death for the part he took in the Irish uprising of 1917 was arrested today.

Thomas Clark, a Dublin striker was one of the Signers of Proclamation announcing the formation of Irish Republic. He was tried by court martial and the sentence of death was executed in May 1916.

WALTER SUDDARDS ELECTED TO BE TRIED BY JURY ON PERJURY CHARGE

Automobilist Fined $5 for Opening the Muffler of His Car Thereby Causing Unnecessary Noise—Other Cases Before Magistrate Dumble This Morning

THIS MORNING POLICE COURT

William Poulson, Motor Vehicles Act, fined $5 without costs.

Mrs. Powell, 465 McDonnell street, Dog by-law, $2 with costs.

Magistrate Dumble enlarged the case of Walter Suddards. Mr. F. D. Kerr, for the defendant pleaded not guilty and elected trial by a jury. The charge reads: — That Walter Suddards on Friday, may 17, 1918, did commit perjury in a judicial proceeding as part of his evidence upon oath at an investigation held by George F. Lewis, Deputy Fire Marshall, into the cause of origin of a fire at Hazlett street, he swearing to the effect that he sold a dresser to one Mrs. Rollo for $1.50, and that he told her he would have it up to the house for her on April 3, the said assertions being known to such witness to be false, and being intended by him to mislead the Court, contrary to Section 170 of the Criminal Code.

BASEBALL

One of the most interesting baseball games of the present season was played last evening between the Central Seniors and the Queen Mary Seniors in the Public School series. Excellent playing by both teams was a feature. The Centrals won by a score of eleven to six, and thus make a tie for the senior shield. The play off will probably be next Tuesday night at Riverside Park.

Mr. Solomon umpired with entire satisfaction.

BANKS WILL CLOSE EARLIER

OTTAWA, May 22.—The Minister of Justice today in the Commons presented a bill enabling banks to close at 2.30 instead of 3 p.m. Hon. Mr. Murphy, enquired if it was true that arrangements were being made that bank clerks of the age of 20, 21 and 22 had been granted exemption until next January 1st., while farmers were unable to get any exemptions. Sir Wilfrid Laurier complained that despite the government's announcement that farm help would be released from military service till after seeding, many were being compelled to report at once. Sir George Foster promised to make an enquiry into these matters.

Reports Indicate Good Progress In The Peterborough District

Four Hundred Men From This District of the Methodist Church Have Enlisted, Including Two Ministers —Reports of Circuits

The district of Peterborough laymen and pastors' annual meeting opened yesterday at St. James' Methodist church, Rev. R. J. Grearix presiding. Most satisfactory results have already been gained by the meeting, starting with the fact that the response to the call to meet was answered by a representative from each of the fifteen circuits.

The Reports.

This morning was devoted to reading of the reports, all of which indicated marked progress in every direction, with very few records of decreased membership. Four hundred men from the district have enlisted, also two clergymen, Major Frost and Sergt. Smart, of Bethany.

TUESDAY EVENING SESSION.

A very interesting discourse was given at the evening session, by the Rev. J. P. Wilson, D.D., of Trinity Methodist church. Dr. Wilson took as his subject "The Ministry of Preaching."

He impressed upon his fellow ministers the dignity and the responsibility of being a minister of the Christian Church. One man said that it was the best calling and the worst trade in the world. Christ's ministers is one of the greatest blessings that God has given to the world. The dignity of the Church is in the hands of the minister and if the messenger is not respected, they will not respect the message, because every true minister is a messenger or ambassador of God. Ministers must seek to be living illustrations of those referred to in the Bible. For instance, one minister announced his subject as "Keeping up with the Joneses." No doubt there is much to be said regarding the needless luxury and extravagance of this world, but such a subject is not in keeping with the dignity of the Church. The office of preacher arose with our Saviour. "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel," still holds good. Rituals, etc., have changed but the theme never has. In three centuries Europe, Asia and Africa received the gospel. The philosophy of Greece, Rome and Egypt went out against Christianity, but went down to defeat, and in the last three centuries a Christian emperor sat upon the throne of Rome.

A MIGHTY POWER.

After this the Church became a mighty organization. There were many genders of the great machine, but not many preachers. Bishops were the only ones allowed to preach, and very seldom did they travel over their respective dioceses. Most of them were warlike, or had some other main occupation. Then St. Francis and St. Dominic led a great revival in Europe. They founded an order of monks who devoted all their time preaching to the masses. And soon the zeal of these monks left the bounds of Christianity and ventured into the steppes of Russia and Mohammedan Turkey.

Wonderful tales of conversion were told and not less wonderful tales of martyrdom. Then came the Protestant reformation. Luther toured the country on preaching excursions, and Charles Wesley preached over 40,000 sermons.

The aim of preaching should be the salvation of the souls of men. The details of his work will be manifest, and he must give advice and receive confidences. We must convert, and then train. The work of preaching should not be confined to the ordained minister. Why the Church at Antioch was founded by the preaching of laymen.

ENTIRE FAMILY IS GRATEFUL FOR IT

Friends Say They Never Saw Such a Change in Anybody as Tanlac Made in Mrs. Spruit

"I tell you what, the way Tanlac has built me up and brought me out is the talk of the neighbourhood and my friends all tell me they never saw such a wonderful change in anybody before," said Mrs. Martha Spruit, of 296 Runnymede Road, Toronto, the other day.

"My troubles began over two years ago," she continued, "when I had such a serious breakdown that I had to be taken to the hospital and I was there seven weeks undergoing treatment, but couldn't get back my strength. In fact I was in such an awful fix that they took me home, where my friends said they expected to see the end at any time, and they even prepared my daughter for the worst by telling her I could never pull through. I lay flat on my back for six weeks, and was so weak and lifeless that I could hardly lift my hand, and my nurse had to feed me like I was a helpless baby. After while I managed to get out of bed, but I was still too weak and run-down to do anything but drag myself around unable even to wash a plate. I didn't have a bit of appetite, and for two or three days at a time could force down nothing more than a slice of bread. My nerves were in such a wretched condition that the wringing of the door bell or a spoon dropping on the floor would startle me so much that I wouldn't be able to speak for several minutes; and I was so restless that when I went to bed I would roll and toss from side to side and felt like the night would never end.

"In this miserable condition I was trying everything I could get, hoping to find something that would start me up hill, but nothing did me any good. Finally, after hearing so much about the good Tanlac was doing I decided to try it, and positively before I had finished my first bottle I felt so much improved that it wasn't long before my neighbours were telling me how much better I was looking. My appetite has grown so I can eat and relish most anything I want and my food is giving me the strength and energy I need. My nerves have quieted down so I now sleep all night like a baby and get up in the mornings rested and refreshed. I am getting stronger and better every day and all the members of my family feel so grateful for what Tanlac has done for me that we are boosting it all the time."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co. Ltd. In Havelock by A. C. Denike. In Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd. In Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter. In Gelert by A. J. Scott. In Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

EVENING 10--15--25c

FIREWORKS IN THE HOUSE

ber after member rose and spoke in favour of the proposal of Mr. Richardson (Springfield) to abolish all titles in Canada. The scheme of the Prime Minister merely abolished hereditary titles and put a limit on the granting of other titles, such as Knighthoods, Sir Robert taking the ground that in future no titles should be conferred upon persons domiciled in Canada, except with the approval of the Prime Minister.

Premier's Serious Attitude.

With the public galleries packed, and amid scenes of excitement, the House concluded the debate a few minutes before midnight. The end came after an announcement by the Prime Minister, which no doubt had its effect on the division. There had been a question whether an adverse vote on a sub-amendment submitted by the Prime Minister would be regarded as a vote of non-confidence. On this point Sir Robert made his position clear. "If," he declared, "the House does not propose to accept the choice which I have asked them frankly and with much respect to make, I should consider that I am relieved from my duty of carrying on any longer the government of this country, and I should ask His Excellency the Governor-General to seek other advisers. It seems to me that a somewhat peculiar course has been pursued by some honorable gentlemen on this side of the House in inquiring of the Leader of the Opposition as to whether or not this motion was to be treated as a motion of want of confidence. In my understanding of the course which is pursued on such occasions, I have always understood that the Leader of the Government should be asked with regard to that. And I cannot quite understand the reason why there should have been resort to my honorable friend on the other side of the House (Sir Wilfrid Laurier) to learn how I should regard a motion of this kind. However, the course has been taken, and it is entirely in the judgment of the House to determine what course they intend to pursue in the matter. So far as I am concerned, my course is absolutely clear and open."

The Prime Minister's sub-amendment was carried on this division: For, 104; against, 71; majority for, 33.

Messrs. T. Foster, Fielding and Nickle voted in the negative. Mr. Richardson did not vote.

The debate had arisen on Mr. Nickle's motion for an address to the King, praying that no further hereditary titles be conferred on residents of Canada. To this Mr. Richardson, of Springfield, Man., had proposed an amendment striking out the word "hereditary" and thereby seeking to have all future titles in Canada abolished.

Sir Robert's sub-amendment was an amendment to Mr. Richardson's amendment. It provided that the address request the King to refrain from granting titles to residents of Canada, except in accordance with the principles enunciated in the Order-in-Council of last March respecting titles. This was the Order-in-Council read to the House when titles were last discussed, and which requested the Imperial authorities not to confer any more titles on Canadians without the approval of the Prime Minister of Canada. The motion as modified by the sub-amendment was declared carried.

Allowed to Speak.

As soon as the Prime Minister had ceased speaking, Mr. Nickle rose to speak.

The Speaker said that Mr. Nickle could not speak again without the unanimous consent of the House.

Mr. Nickle stated that he had the unanimous consent of the House, but the Speaker declared that this was not the case.

Sir Robert Borden—Go on.

Levi Thomson—I understand that the Prime Minister is willing to let the member for Kingston make a personal explanation.

Sir Robert Borden—I am satisfied; yes, I would ask the House to permit it.

Mr. Nickle—When the Prime Minister was speaking, he turned in my direction as if I had made a public request of the Prime Minister and of the leader of the Opposition——

Sir Robert Borden—I was not referring to the hon. gentleman.

Mr. Nickle—Then I have nothing further to say.

Sir Robert Borden—I was referring to the member for West Peterborough (Mr. Burnham), who stated that he had sought that advice.

The Scarlet Riders.

(Regina Post.)

Within a short time the R. N. W. M. P. draft will be proceeding overseas. The regiment has been recruited to more than full strength, and nothing now remains to be done by connection with having the draft in readiness to take its place with the Canadian cavalry in France. The date of their departure rests with the military authorities in the east. The draft is ready to leave at any time. Officered by their own inspectors and with many of their former officers accompanying them in the non-commissioned ranks, the Scarlet Riders are as fine a body of men as ever left any part of the Empire.

Don't Spoil Your Hair By Washing It

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

GRAIN MARKET

Corn markets were easier yesterday. By the action of the Chicago Board of Trade the May option was closed out, the board deciding that all open contracts be closed at $1.28. After this action was announced the July option was the only one traded in and on this option the market declined to 141 5-8 at the close, 7-8c below Tuesday's close.

Oats took a downward turn at Winnipeg and Chicago. Winnipeg May oats closed 1 7-8c lower and the July option 3c lower. The advances made in oats in the past two or three markets are now said to have been due to a move in run in certain short interests. The move apparently succeeded, the market promptly falls back to its former position. Cash oats, Fort William basis, are 2 1-8c lower on No. 2 northern, and 1 7-8c lower on the other grades.

The local cash grain market has been a little more active the past couple of days, rye, barley and oats being in good demand.

TROUBLED FOR YEARS WITH BRONCHITIS
Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup GAVE INSTANT RELIEF

Bronchitis is a disease which is very prevalent during the late winter and early spring, when there are sudden atmospheric changes. It is a condition of inflammation of the bronchial tubes which produces mucous or phlegm. This irritates the throat and causes you to cough in order to get rid of it. The cough may be tight or loose according as to whether this mucous is sticky and hard to remove, or soft and easily expelled.

Bronchitis is not really dangerous but the complications which are liable to follow makes it necessary to get rid of it at the first sign. This you can do by using Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. A remedy that has been on the market for over 25 years.

John D. McFarlane, Jr., S.W. Margaree, N.S., writes: "I was troubled for years with bronchitis, and could not find any relief. I was especially bad on a damp day. I went to a druggist and asked him for something to stop the constant tickling in my throat. He gave me a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I found gave me instant relief. It is the best remedy for bronchitis I know of, and I now take care that I always have a bottle of it on hand."

See that you get "Dr. Wood's." Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c and 50c.; manufactured by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

Union Stock Yards — Receipts yesterday were 63 cars, with 756 cattle, 494 calves, 1406 hogs and 49 sheep and lambs.

CLAIMS THAT FRAUD WAS PRACTISED IN THE TAKING OF THE OVERSEAS VOTE

A. B. Copp Electrifies House With Accusations That Soldiers' Vote Was Misused—Asks the House to Make Inquiry

SCRUTINEERS WERE BARRED

OTTAWA, May 23.—A. B. Copp (Westmoreland) yesterday afternoon made a list of charges alleging fraud in the taking of the overseas vote which electrified the House of Commons. He asks for an investigation. The charges are as follows:

"I hereby state on my responsibility as a member of this honourable House that in the recent election carefully organized and systematic frauds were perpetrated in connection with the soldiers' vote.

"That these frauds were directed and practised by commanding officers, deputy presiding officers and poll clerks legally appointed under the authority of the Crown in Chancery.

"That evidence upon what will be submitted by me to a commission of enquiry establishing that the said soldiers' vote was systematically organized so as to transfer a fraudulent vote to certain selected constituencies in order to over-ride the legitimate vote of the said electoral district.

"That in certain of the said constituencies the soldiers' vote was fraudulently polled largely in excess of the legitimate soldiers' vote.

"That throughout camps in Great Britain ballot envelopes were endorsed in reply to the question set forth in form B by commissioned officers and non-commissioned officers outside the polling booth, and were given to the officials recording the votes without the said questions being directed to the voter. (Thus influentially relieving the presiding officer of the responsibility of asking the military electors the questions set forth in the said schedule B).

Scrutineers Were Barred.

"That Opposition scrutineers were forcibly prevented from attendance at certain polling booths during the whole time when military votes were being recorded.

"That in one instance the representative of the Opposition was forcibly removed from a polling booth, arrested and confined in the camp prison during the period when a large fraudulent vote was recorded in the said polling booth.

"That ballot envelopes partially filled in, signed by the deputy presiding officer, one of which is available, in which was enclosed ballots marked in favour of the Government, and said envelope was sealed and was in circulation as a means of facilitating the perpetration of the frauds hereinbefore mentioned.

"That military electors were canvassed by superior officers and were directed how they should make their ballots, in direct contravention of the King's Regulations and Orders.

Alleges Intimidation.

"That military electors were threatened with removal to the fighting line if they did not mark their ballots for the Government in the presence of and in the manner prescribed by the deputy presiding officer.

"That military electors who refused to vote as they were directed in the manner referred to in the preceding paragraph were accordingly immediately removed to regiments proceeding to the fighting line.

"That military electors were not recorded facilities for the proper observance of the secrecy of the ballot as provided by the Military Election Act, and were coerced to vote for the Government by open character of the vote."

ORDINARY BITRO-PHOSPHATE WILL DOUBLE THE STRENGTH OF WEAK DELICATE, NERVOUS PEOPLE IN TWO WEEKS' TIME IN MANY INSTANCES.

Weak nerves quickly reduce the strong and robust to an extremely pitiable condition and rob men and women of all the joys of life. Slowly and stealthily the health is destroyed, the poor sufferer only realizing the magnitude of his ailment when faulty memory, sleeplessness, indecision, lack of energy or other unmistakable symptoms indicate weak nerves. Then it is a serious and dangerous mistake to resort to the use of so-called tonics, alcoholic or drug stimulants.

Weak and exhausted nerves need food and nourishment—not stimulants that lash them into temporary activity. The food and nourishment advised by present day physicians is just one 5-grain tablet of pure bitro-phosphate taken during or immediately after each meal. Simple advice, but its soundness has been proven over and over again.

Moreover the genuine standard bitro-phosphate is inexpensive and is sold by McDermid & Jury and most all good druggists under a binding guarantee of satisfaction or money back.

Obeying Food Laws.

(Vancouver Province.)

It would be a relief to the bewildered public if the food regulators would establish schools of instruction in the various centres when the intricate wordings and confused phraseology of their numerous orders and regulations could be made clear to the ordinary lay mind. Consulting a clock, calendar, chemists' scale and an interpreter ought not to be a necessary preliminary to eating a meal.

Forethought and Good Judgment Used

Travellers show preference for Scenic Route; Busy Men use Night Trains

Nowadays, forethought, and a lively sense of public appreciation play an important part in the construction of a railroad. The Canadian Northern made a happy choice in the selection of its route between Toronto and Ottawa; skirting the shoreline of Lake Ontario and the Bay of Quinte; over the height of land between Napanee and Sydenham; and through Rideau Lakes region, adds zest to the daytime journey in Spring or Summer. Comfortable day and night trains, stopping at principal intermediate stations, have made the route very popular.

The Woman Who Changed

By JANE PHELPS

A LONG WAIT

CHAPTER LXXIV.

George telephoned he would not be at home to dinner. I ate my solitary meal, then went up to my room. Celeste was out. I could be as silly as I liked. So I took down my hair and arranged and rearranged it, in an attempt to find a style which would be more attractive in a picture. Then, too, I studied my face more carefully than I had ever done before. I would see in what I was lacking. George never told me I was pretty, nowadays, although he had frequently done before we were married. Perhaps that was because he made no comparisons, then, I thought. And now he was comparing me with the smart women of his old set—to my disadvantage.

I looked into the mirror. Yes, I was pretty! As pretty, or prettier, than most girls of my age. I had large eyes, long lashes, wavy brown hair, and a really fine and delicate skin. I was apt to be a little pale, but the slightest flush gave me a lovely colour. "Peach-blow" Merton Gray had once said. Perhaps George thought me too young looking. But that would improve with age. That thought relieved my mind. As I grew older, I would conform more nearly to his idea of beauty.

I undressed and slipped into a comfortable dressing gown. Then I took up a magazine, in which I had begun to read an interesting serial, and cuddled up on the chaise longue to wait for George. I had not realized how late it was until, hearing him come in, I glanced at the clock.

"I thought I had forbidden you to sit up for me," he said in a harsh voice.

"I didn't know it was so late; my story was interesting. I had no intention of sitting up for you," I explained, trying to stave off a scolding.

"Well, go to bed at once. And don't let me find you up at this hour again, when I am obliged to be out."

"Obliged to be out!" I thought, indignantly, as the clock struck two. I knew only too well that he had remained out because he wished to.

It is Terrible to be Ordered.

"I shall be at the studio, to-day, I want you to remember that I expect to see that you sit properly," then, after a moment, "And I want you to understand once for all, Helen, that I will not be annoyed by finding you sitting up when I come in. I am my own master. I have a perfect right to remain out, or come in. Next time I am detained, I want to find you in bed and asleep when I come in. Understand me, I will be obeyed in this."

After he left I ran to my room and fairly threw myself across the unmade bed. The windows were open and the cool morning air fanned my hot cheeks. It was dreadful to be ordered, as I was! I would not endure it. I declared over and over, knowing all the time that I would—that nothing I could do would alter George's disposition or make me brave enough to stand up against him. Yet, as always, after such a feeling of abasement, there came that determination to show him, some time, that I was his equal in poise—in everything that he seemed to think worth while; and that he could not order me, nor belittle me in any way. I was no longer a child, to be told when I should go to bed. I would NOT obey him in that, but I would not remain up quite so late, again. Then I remembered that if I did not do as he bade me, he would find means to compel me. Oh, yes, I would go to bed when he was out, and I would pretend to be asleep. Anything, even deceit, to make him care for me.

Yet even as I decided to do as he had ordered, I wondered if I were not helping to destroy my chance for happiness. If he shouldn't care for me in the end, after I had made myself over to please him, would I not have destroyed all personality I now possessed and become that uninteresting creature—a woman who has no mind, save as it is mirrored in her husband's?

The Society Woman's Idea.

It seemed to me that the women George knew and so admired had one idea, and only one. That was to be out all the time, to be seen, to be dressed in the height of fashion, and to be sought after by all the men and envied by the women. They belonged not to themselves, not to their husbands (those who had husbands), but to society—to men as a whole—and they were never happy unless in the public eye, doing what Evelyn called "stunts" to attract attention.

They seemed so callous, most of them. Hard as nails, I thought. They were jealous, too. They hated to see other women claim attention when they were around. They appeared to think that they were performing their entire duty when they were perfect hostesses or interesting guests.

Very likely I was not fair to them. They had been held up to me as a pattern by which I should shape myself, my actions. And I imagine no one would be over indulgent under the circumstances.

To-morrow—A Satisfactory Day.

Careless Shampooing Spoils The Hair

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

"Cat's Paw" Series No. 12—Watch for No. 13.

The "Broncho Buster"

By ROSE ESTHER MAYFIELD

"I'm Walton Druse and they used to call me the Broncho Buster."

"I've heard of you," smiled the president of the Tuskaloosa bank, "and of the cognomenic appelative you designate."

The hand of his visitor mechanically shot toward his hip pocket. Then he paused and looked apologetic.

"Excuse me," he said, "but the old man of sin still lingers with me. I fancied you were calling me names. I reckon I'm not educated up to the high-brow patter. You see, I've made my pile and have been recommended to you as a square banker. I want to leave some money with you."

"Thank you," bowed the banker profusely. "How much do you want to deposit?"

"Oh, say one hundred thousand dollars. Yes, I was called the Broncho Buster and wild hosses were my specialty. What I'm around these diggings for is to find a certain man."

"Who is he?"

"I don't even know his name, only that he was called the Professor. He lived somewhere in the county. Five years ago I got into a scrimmage a hundred miles from here, helping my brother get back some cattle a lot of greasers had stolen. They followed and we were fairly corralled, when a man jumped from the brush and saved our lives. I never saw a crowd mussed up so neatly as he did it. He told us to go on and he would manage the greasers. I learned later what I have told you. I swore then that if ever I got any money I'd hunt him up and divide with him. I want you to help me do it."

"Very well," nodded the banker. "I dimly recall a queer genius, half prospector, half scientist who lived about thirty miles from here."

"I shall be at Durbin for a week. Then I'm coming back here. Send me word if you succeed before then."

Druse strode out of the bank, a manly specimen good to look at. He had some old friends to look up and a stake at Durbin, and amazed them with his generosity and his refusal to drink and gamble.

"I've turned respectable, boys," he would say. Then one day he received a letter from the Tulsaloosa banker. It read: "The man you are looking for died about a year ago."

He left Durbin on horseback. Druse had no enemies that he could think of, but just then on his trail was the most dangerous outlaw of the district. Dan had heard of the wealth of the ranchman and coveted some of it. This was why Druse, leisurely directing his horse along a secluded river trail, was faced by the outlaw in question and four of his men. They had Druse lassoed before he realized it.

"What we're after," explained Dan bluntly, "is a ten thousand-dollar ransom. We'll keep you till one of us cashes your check for that amount."

"I'll think of it," observed Druse, and his captors headed for their haunt.

"We're hungry," he remarked. "We'll levy for fodder and grub at that little farm yonder." They drove into its stable yard. Dan went to the house. A young woman came to the door and he stood talking with her.

"Men folks all away," reported Dan, returning. "She's an independent one, that gal, but says we can have something to eat if we pay for it. Take Druse into the kitchen, feed the horses and hustle your meal."

Druse, bound, was led into the kitchen. He admiringly studied the girl who began setting the table. She was charmingly pretty.

"They tell me they're officers taking you to the prison down at Bohm," she said, and something of interest in her face caused Druse to inform her of the truth. Her dark eyes flashed, she ran to the rear door and barred it. She severed the rope securing his hands, then she threw open the door of a closet, revealing a perfect armament of weapons. She handed him a rifle, for herself selecting two revolvers. Then she approached a window.

"You stay in reserve," she ordered. "Halt, or I fire!" she cried to Dan, advancing twenty feet away. "Your prisoner says you are not officers, and I believe him. Within half an hour Mr. Walters and his two hired men will be here. You'll have to prove up to them before you get into this house."

Dan ran back to his men. En masse the group started a foray. Then the admiring eye of Druse caught some pretty play. Crack! Crack! Crack! —the girl aimed to cripple, not to kill. Twice she shot weapons from the hands of advancing foes. Three others she wounded below the knee. Limping and beaten, the crowd retreated. They were off on their horses as a wagon containing three men drove up. Ada Martin, housekeeper for the old man who owned the farm, led Druse into another room. "Sit here till I explain to Mr. Walters," she said.

"Hello!" ejaculated Druse, as his eye rested on a framed photograph. "The Professor! Miss, if you please—that picture?"

"My dead father," was the reply. Then she was startled, yet pleased, as Druse seized her hand and poured forth his eulogies of the friend he had ever forgotten.

"Fate sent me here!" he whispered to himself, and it had. His cherished vision of home, and wife, and love began to outline at that very moment.

LAUNDRY WAGON TO RESCUE

Lowly Peace Equipage Instrumental in Rendering Aid to Son of Mars in Misfortune.

Armored motorcar with half a dozen artillerymen aboard whirling along upper Broadway. Crossing an intersecting street, a sharp gust of wind blows off the hat of one of the artillerymen and sends it spinning upward into the air, as if it had been knocked off his head by a bit of shrapnel.

A moment later, of course, it drops to the street pavement to be promptly picked up by a passing citizen, who is naturally anxious to return it to the soldier. But so swiftly was it moving that the armored car got two blocks away before it halted.

The citizen, however, was quite equal to the occasion. At this moment there came along over this crossing and bound in the same direction a laundry delivery wagon and to the driver of this outfit the citizen intrusted the hat.

"Sure!" said the driver, and a minute later—an odd juxtaposition of peace and war—laid the laundry wagon alongside the armored motorcar and handed the hat over to the artilleryman.

Efficiency.

Joel Hadley, a teacher at Shortridge high school, has a friend and old classmate, Rudolph Harle, who is spending the winter in Deland, Fla. Harle sent him a large coconut, a little larger than a man's head. It came without any artificial covering, but was wrapped in its natural enveloping shell. The address was written on this shell with ink. The stamps were stuck above it.

The nut is about nine inches long and seven and one-half inches wide. It is shaped something like a three-sided pyramid. Mr. Hadley has not yet opened the outer shell, for, he says, it makes a good souvenir for future generations, "telling of the efficiency and higher development of the United States postal system in the twentieth century."

There Are Always Others.

In every circumstance of our lives lies the stirring knowledge that one's own case, however strange, is far from being singular. There are others besides myself with whom Poverty has taken up its abode; there are others from whose cup Despair has daily drunk; who, looking up from their daily bread, have found Sorrow's eyes forever on them.—Laura Spencer Porter, in the Atlantic.

Make More Cheese

(London Daily Express)

Cheese is the only real substitute for meaat. Bread and cheese is, indeed, a most perfect diet. Men have habitually done many hours' hard manual work with bread and cheese as their chief food. Margarine is a fairly satisfactory alternative for butter. There is no substitute for chese.

The Right Kind of Criticism

(Boston Globe)

Lively political criticism is, therefore, a sign of health and strength in a democratic country in war time. The only stipulation must be that such criticism should not be destructive, but constructive; not mere narrow partisan nagging, but generous and high-minded assistance.

AS CHARLIE SAYS:

20. What is the estimate of those who love to be flattered, and who angle frequently for the chief places in the church?

21. Verses 41-44. To what extent does Jesus still watch how much people put into the collection plate?

Not only is it absolutely pure, but it is whiter, of greater covering capacity and of longer life than any similar product. The paint in which it is used works easily and produces a tough, elastic film that is very durable.

Brandram's Genuine B.B. White Lead

Brandram Bros. & Co. of London, England, invented their process for corroding white lead in the reign of George II. Although almost 200 years have since passed and many other white leads have appeared on the market Brandram's Genuine B.B. White Lead has maintained its preferential price and position wherever it is sold throughout the world.

Washing Won't Rid Head of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this to-night, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

Habits of Crayfish.

The crayfish may be described as a fresh water lobster, and usually lives a purely aquatic life, keeping to the river bed. Some of the crayfish found in Australia, however, have forsaken the water and excavate burrows in damp soil. The tunnel leading to the heart of the burrow is free from water, but water is always present in the chambers at the end where the crayfish lives. They do much damage to artificial watercourses in the mining districts by ridding the banks and dams.

Understood His Condition.

One day as he was leaving his office in Portland, the late Thomas B. Reed was accosted by a stranger who had been imbibing so freely that he was "seeing things double." After apologizing profusely, the stranger managed to ask the congressman where he could get a car for the depot. Mr. Reed replied: "Go to the next corner; there you will see two cars; take the first one; the other won't be there."

Address and Presentation.

On the eve of her marriage, about twenty-five members of Bailieboro Methodist Church and Sunday School met at the home of the bride-to-be, and presented her with a copy of the following address, printed on silk, and a handsome hymn book:

Miss Iva Dawson.

Dear Iva,—You no doubt will be surprised to see so many of us invade your home at this hour. But we are all your friends, and have come to greet you as teachers and officers of the Bailieboro Methodist Sabbath School. We have learned with regret, and yet with joy, of your intended removal from our school, but we are comforted with the fact that our loss will be the gain of another church. We are deeply sensitive of the obliging spirit in which all your services have been rendered in every department of the church's activity, and especially in our Sabbath School. It is, however, with mingled feelings that we assemble here this evening to not only bid adieu but to express to you our very best wishes for your future happiness and prosperity, and also to ask you to kindly accept this hymn book as a slight memento of our appreciation and esteem.

As you sever your connection with our Sabbath School, be assured that you carry with you our best wishes for the prosperity, health and happiness of you both, and that it may be said of your both.

"They builded greater than they knew."

Signed on behalf of the School,
W. E. Earl, Superintendent.

During the evening Mrs. E. Dawson, mother of Miss Dawson, served dainty refreshments and a sociable time was spent by all present.

LETTER FROM CHAPLAIN.

Pte. Bennewith fought and died in a righteous cause, says a letter from the chaplain of his battalion.

France, April 25, 1918.

Mrs. J. Bennewith,
Millbrook, Ont.

Dear Mrs. Bennewith: I am the chaplain of the Canadian battalion to which your late husband belonged. I wish to express to you my heartfelt sympathy for you in your deep sorrow—I know no sorrow deeper than for the loss of a good noble husband.

While on outpost duty on the early morning of April 23, he and five others were hit by pieces of a bursting shell. Your husband with one other was instantly killed; another died shortly after. I buried him yesterday in Sucrerie British cemetery, near Ablain, St. Nazaire, in plot 4, row A, grave 15.

This is indeed a very very sad time for you. May the loving Heavenly Father bless, strengthen and comfort you. You understand how a child who wishes comfort, protection and rest just creeps into the unfolding loving mother's arms, and surrenders to that mother and quietly rests. He does not struggle for that rest but quietly accepts it, trusting the mother. That is just what the Heavenly Father, in His wonderful love for you and yours, wishes and is waiting for you to do in your time of heartache and loneliness. Just rest in His love and accept His peace.

It is well also to ever remember that your noble husband has fought and died in a just, righteous cause; for the sake of the sorrowing, oppressed and the downtrodden. It was the same cause for which our blessed Lord lived and died. May that dear Lord, bless and keep you. I am,

Sympathetically yours,
J. N. H. Jackson,
Capt. Can. Bn.

Mrs. Ed. McConnel of Lindsay, is a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nattrass.

Mr. Wilbert Peel is visiting friends in town.

Haig's Forces Carried Out a Successful Raid and Inflicted Heavy Casualties

HOSTILE ARTILLERY

Canadian Press:

LONDON, May 23.—Heavy artillery fighting in the Ancre Valley, south-east of Lens, and in the Flanders salient, is reported in to-day's official statement. The statement follows:

The enemy rushed one of our posts in the Avetuy Wood last night. Two of our men are missing.

We carried out successful raids in the neighbourhood of Ayette and Lieu St. Marc Wood, inflicting a number of casualties on the enemy and capturing a machine gun. The enemy also attempted to raid our positions in the vicinity of Riez du Vinage. He was driven off by rifle and machine gun fire. The hostile artillery was active last night in the Ancre Valley, south of Lens, east of Rosecq, and east of the Forest of Nieppe.

Canadian Press:

A German raid on French positions in Boise Mongival failed. French detachments patrolling in the Champaigne, brought in a number of prisoners and some war material.

FARMERS MUST PAY HERO.

"Most Miserable Creature," Comments Magistrate.

TORONTO, May 23. — Costs amounting to $20.25 and wages due Paul Rees, a returned soldier, were extracted from John Stanley Watson, a Pine Grove farmer, in County Court. In return, Major Brunton gave the defendant the following words to take home: "You knew this man had been wounded and was not so strong as you, who are a young and strong man, who should be at the front yourself; yet you employ him at $30 a month, a mere pittance, and expect him to do as much as an ordinary man could do."

"Won't you deduct the cost of the spade he broke" pleaded Watson, alleging that he had not refused to pay the first month's wages and had not ordered the plaintiff to go.

"Not a cent," replied the magistrate. "You are a most miserable creature. Thank God there are not many like you."

DOWN TOWN STORES WILL BE OPEN TO-NIGHT

Several Sisters Lost Their Lives When Huns Bombed The Hospitals

Not a Nurse Deserted Her Post —Crippled Soldiers and Women Victims of Latest German Outrage

HUGE BOMBS

(Associated Press.)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, May 23.— German airmen again have bombed heavily British hospitals in the area behind the lines, and this time have killed and wounded some hundreds among the personnel and patients of many different hospitals in the group.

Recorded in the casualty list are names of several Sisters who, with other women nurses, stood bravely by their posts throughout the terrific deluge of explosives.

Latest Horror.

This latest horror was perpetrated Sunday night, apparently by four squadrons of enemy planes, which appear to have comprised more than a score of machines. A great number of bombs were dropped, about thirty per cent of them huge affairs, which dug vast craters in the hospital grounds, and the rest high explosive shrapnel, which sent their death dealing bullets tearing in every direction through crowded hospital tents and buildings.

A three seated airplane was brought down by gun fire while flying at a low altitude and the occupants were made prisoners.

With a shrug of his shoulders the captain added that if the British choose to build their hospitals near railways they must expect to get them bombed.

Killed Outright.

Not a woman deserted her ward, but throughout the terrible bombing each one kept going her rounds and quieting the unfortunate men, who might easily have done themselves lasting harm by springing from their beds.

One Sister was killed outright while she was administering to a soldier's wants, and another was so seriously hurt that she died shortly afterwards. Still another was dying to-day.

Powerful Barrage.

The German airplanes taking part in the raid numbered about thirty. They were met by a powerful barrage fire from our aerial posts, acting in conjunction with our defence squadrons, fifty-four of our machines taking the air. Only one enemy machine rtached the capital, where it threw down some bombs. One death and twelve injured persons have been reported. A number of bombs were thrown on the suburbs, causing some victims.

Over 100 Killed or Wounded.

It is indicated to-day that more than one hundred Red Cross nurses and attendants, as well as some patients, were killed or wounded when the Germans bombarded the hospital in France on Sunday. The Prussian commander, whose machine was brought down, is now in one of the hospitals which his men shelled. He declares he did not see Red Cross signals.

ELECTION IN BELMONT.

Monday of next week, the 27th instant, will be an election day for the ratepayers of Belmont and Methuen, to fill the vacancy in the council, caused by the resignation of Mr. Gilbert Steenburgh.

At the nomination meeting on Monday, Messrs. George Smith, Marcenna Rylott and David Little were nominated. Mr. Smith was not present, but J. W. Ketchen spoke in his behalf, stating that he intended to stand for election.

Mr. Rylott said that he had had two years in the council, and had done the best he could, and if elected this time would do the same again.

Mr. Little thought that an election was entirely unnecessary at this time and resigned in favor of Mr. Smith, who he said was the highest defeated candidate at the last municipal election.

Shelling On The Western Front

Germans Are Careful to Avoid Losing Prisoners—Patrol Work Stopped

AERIAL ACTIVITY

(Special to Examiner.)

WITH THE AMERICANS IN PICARDY, May 23.—The Germans are taking the greatest precautions to avoid losing prisoners. They have ceased sending out patrols, and with drawn from their front lines at night, apparently in an effort to prevent Americans from capturing men who might give information regarding plans for resumption of the offensive.

Unusual aerial activity continues day and night. A boche last night flew so low over the villages directly in the rear of the American front that he seemed to perch on the roofs.

Back areas on both sides are almost continuously bombed and shelled. Brilliant moonlight necessitates keeping almost as close to cover as in the day.

Fine Weather For To-morrow

Where Many Peterboro' Citizens Will Spend the Holiday—What the Weatherman Says

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, May 23.—The weather man promises fine weather for the holiday, with not a drop of rain in sight. The weather will be moderately warm. Another heat record went by the boards for the year yesterday, when 82 degrees was registered. This is a portion of a degree higher than the temperature registered on the 20th and the 6th, when it was slightly over 81. London, with 84 degrees, was the hot place in the Dominion yesterday.

TO-MORROW IN PETERBOROUGH.

One of the biggest contrasts in the celebration of the 24th of May is that of the manner in which it will be spent on the two sides of the Atlantic. In Europe while things are shaping up with marked indications for the beginning of the big drive to start to-morrow, it is interesting to learn how the majority of the people in Peterborough will put in the time.

The Excursions.

Hundreds will probably take in the excursion run by G. R. Young up to the lakes while the Salvation Army trip on the river will doubtless attract many pleasure seekers. Weather permitting, anything more inviting than Jackson, Inverlea and Inverlea Parks and the golf links would be hard to find, and will no doubt, as usual, be crowded with pleasure seekers.

Went to Stoney Lake.

Already at noon an exodus to Stoney Lake began. Some who went up were: Mr. Alex. Gibson, Miss Mary Gibson, Sheriff and Miss Nan Hall, Mr. G. W. Ferguson, Mr. Harry Winch, Mr. and Mrs. Nugent, Mrs. Canniff, Mrs. Flemming, Mr. Douzlas Canniff, Mr. and Mrs. Shortley, Mr. T. E. Bradburn, Magistrate and Mrs. Dumble, Dr. and Mrs. Griffiths and Mr. Douglas Carlisle. The cottagers will likely return on Monday.

THE NEXT OFFENSIVE

Mackensen is Expected to Open Up About June 1st—May Be the Last

CONFIDENCE EXPRESSED

Special to the Examiner:

WASHINGTON, May 23. — The storm of Germany's third and perhaps final great drive on the Western front will be launched about June the first, according to the prediction today of General W. A. Bridges, Chief of the British Military Mission here.

Should Mackensen fail to break the Allied line at his objective in the Ypres salient and around Amiens, an Austro-German offensive against Italy probably will follow. General Bridges declared he expressed complete confidence in General Foch's ability to stem the invaders in all events.

Is Coming.

"The enemy has now on the Western battle line 1,500,000 bayonets. The drive probably will come about June the first. It may break before that or it may be delayed, but it is coming," said Bridges. "We expect the enemy to make his greatest effort around Ypres and northward of Bethune, in the vicinity of Hazebrock, while a subsidiary drive on a smaller scale is expected at Amiens."

Three Boats Chartered For The Excursion

In the Evening Salvation Army Band Will Give a Concert in the Park

A third boat has been secured to accommodate the crowd who have bought and will buy tickets for to-morrow's excursion. Two bands will accompany the excursion and will play on the grounds. A party of 50 from different points, including the Toronto silver band of the Dovercourt Corps of the S. A. Some will arrive at 8.25 p.m., some at 8.40 p.m. and some at 11.52 p.m. All will be in, however, for the boat trip to-morrow.

The excursion will return at 7 o'clock to-morrow evening and the united bands will do a great concert in Victoria Park at 8 o'clock, which no doubt many of the citizens will enjoy. The Toronto band will play in the market square at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and will have an automobile drive around the city at 3 p.m. and tea with the Temple Band at 5 p.m.

Open Air Meetings.

Two monster open airs will take place at seven o'clock and the greatest musical festival of the week end will take place on Saturday evening by the Toronto band.

Special services will be conducted by Brigadier and Mrs. Morehen, assisted by Adjt. and Mrs. Buntin at 7 a.m., 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. in the Temple.

At 3 p.m. a sacred concert will be given by the united band in Victoria Park at 3 o'clock.

Colonel and Mrs. McMillen and their two daughters, Brigadier and Mrs. Morehen, Adjt. and Mrs. Buntin, Ensign Eastwell and Lieut. Payton, Briadier Sandall, editor of the War Cry, and a number of others will visit the city for the week end.

All strangers are very welcome to the special meetings.

MAY REMOVE HYDRANT.

Projects in Sidewalk on Weller Street And is Dangerous.

A hydrant in the sidewalk on the north side of Weller Street was reported as a source of danger to the public by Ald. Taylor at the Fire, Water and Light Committee meeting last night. The City Engineer will report on it. Ald. Saunders wants more lights in the South-End, and will furnish a list at the next meeting.

VETERANS' MEETING

Big Convention Opens in Hamilton To-day—Delegates Welcomed

OPENING ADDRESS

Canadian Press:

HAMILTON, May 23.—The first annual convention of the Ontario branch of the Great War Veterans' Association, was opened here to-day by Lieut. Gov. Hendrie and Mayor Booker, who welcomed the delegates. Capt. Jenkins, president of the organization, declared that the G.W.V.A. would not develop into a menace for Canada, but an influence for good. The organization intended to combat all forms of profiteering, as well as work for the protection of the interests of its members.

Sergt. Reid May Go To Parry Sound As Chief Of Police

Sergeant James Reid of Chief Thompson's department, has been tendered the position of chief constable of Parry Sound, and left to-day to interview the officials there and to discuss with them details of the work. Sergt. Reid, itw as stated at the police station, has not yet accepted the position, but it is an attractive one and it will not be surprising if he takes it. In that event his promotion would be the second chief advanced from the Peterborough force in one year, and police staffs usually judge one another by the number of chiefs they produce.

Motor Car Owners Must Obey The Law

Automobile owners must obey the traffic bylaws and the Motor Vehicles Act. This is an ultimatum from Chief Thompson. A few nights ago one policeman reported eight cars standing on the street with the tail lights out. The owners were lost in the maizes of motion picture drama, unaware that night was falling, and the darkness obscuring their cars. The theatre-goers leave them outside in full daylight and when they come out it is night, and their lamps are unlit. This forgetfulness is going to cost the car owners regular fines, until they have been taught this little lesson in safety first.

The "cut out" nuisance is also in for a taming, in fact the police are just beginning to get busy, and at that they have had a procession of offenders heretofore. There is no pretense that every joy rider is run down but if their bursts of speed costs them a "piece of change" every time the police catch them in their flights, there will be loud applause from the sidewalk crowd who will otherwise soon demand "L" roads for pedestrians, or gates at every crossing.

The first enemy squadron failed to reach the city, being turned back by an aerial barrage. There were no victims from this attack. The second raid was made in several relays of machines. Although met with another violent aerial barrage this attack resulted in a number of bombs being dropped in the Paris area.

A Movement To Send Expedition Into Siberia

A New Agitation is Gathering Headway—The Prospects Are Not Very Encouraging.

GRAVE CONSEQUENCES

(United Press Service.)

(By J. W. T. Mason.)

NEW YORK, May 23. — A new agitation to attempt to persuade the Allies to send a military expedition into Siberia is gathering headway.

It shows evidence of being due primarily to a desire to discredit the Bolshevik and drive them from power. A strong force sent into Siberia to overpower the Bolshevik might possibly succeed in causing a reaction against Trotsky and Lenine in Mossow and Petrograd, but there is no certainty as to this result. The two leaders of the Bolsheviki have successfully withstood far more serious developments much nearer home.

NOW ANTI-GERMAN.

Even with Trotsky and Lenine overthrown, there is no guarantee that their successors would be able to carry Russia back into the war, which would be the dominate objective of an Allied military movement in Siberia. On the contrary even more radical and less experienced men might secure control of Russia's affairs and Russia in her perplexity might throw herself unreservedly into Germany's arms. The one basic fact in the situation is that if the Russian people really desire to ally themselves with Germany no army sent into Siberia can prevent them. Russia is too big and Germany is too near for that. The Russians are now anti-German because German militarists decided upon a policy of ruthless Suzerainty over the Slavs. But if the Allies engage in a Siberian military demonstration, there is every reason to expect that Russian agitators will charge that Western democratic nations are as imperialistic as Germany.

FINAL ADJUSTMENTS.

Under this accusation, the Russians may despair of disinterested assistance from any quarter, and may plunge permanently into the sphere of Teutonic influences. The treatment of Russia by the Allies is a matter that requires the utmost delicacy. In the final adjustments after the war, if Russia is found to have been alienated from the western democracies the result would be exploited by Germany, and would have grave consequences.

Russia cannot be treated like a naughty child to be spanked, into good behaviour, nor can the Allies spank Russia without hurting themselves.

The lowest priced tea is not the cheapest. A pound of Salada yields so many more cups of satisfying infusion than ordinary tea that it is the most economical in use besides being so delicious.

House of Commons Voted Down Judicial Enquiry Into Charges of Irregularities Respecting Elections

A LATE SESSION

Canadian Press.

OTTAWA, May 23.—On a division at 2.20 this morning the Union Government of Sir Robert Borden, was sustained by majority of 31, on straight party vote, when the commons refused the amendment of AB copp of West-Moreland New Brunswick providing for judicial enquiry in his thirty-two charges of irregularities respecting the taking of the overseas soldiers votes, at Dominion general elections last November. The vote was 61 to 92. This division was taken after the government had promised a judicial investigation into the charges of irregularities in polling soldiers votes in the constituency of Chambly Vercheres. The house adjourned at 2.45 a.m.

IMPORTANT CHANGES.

There will be a good deal of satisfaction in Canada, especially among the returned officers and men of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, if the announement from Ottawa of important changes in connection with the administration of Canada's overseas forces is confirmed. It is evident that the system of having two Ministers of Militia, one in Canada and the other in England has not been productive of satisfactory results and the abolition of the overseas ministry and the recall of Sir Edward Kemp is strongly favoured by military authorities who are familiar with the conditions overseas.

Equally important is the rumoured re-organization of Argyle House, the Canadian headquarters in England, where it has been claimed a combing out process has been urgently needed. When General Turner was brought back from France to take command of the Canadians in England it was thought that a vigorous weeding out of the forces would follow with a view to utilizing in France as many of the physically fit men who were in engaged in clerical and other similar work in England as possible. This was partially effected, but there were many difficulties in General Turner's path and the result of the weeding out process was not as successful as was expected.

Now, however, it is reported that General Sir Arthur Currie will be placed in command of the Canadians in England as well as those in France, so that he will be in control of his own reinforcements. This is a very important step and its effect will be awaited with interest.

THE TITLES DEBATE.

Capt. J. H. Burnham, M.P., has distinctly improved his standing as member of the "ginger group." By drawing a pointed rebuke from Sir Robert Border, the member for West Peterborough, gained a lap or two on the other members of Col. Currie's "circus" in their race for publicity. The title debate gave Capt. Burnham his chance to get into the limelight, and Peterborough's representative took full advantage of the opportunity, although when the time came to back up his words by his vote he was down on the casualty list as missing.

Capt. Burnham's attitude in regard to titles has been rather an amazing one. He was the man who was to have introduced a resolution against titles, but weakened because, as he said, he did not wish to embarrass the Government, and allowed Mr. W. F. Nickle, M.P., to bring the matter to the front. Then when Mr. Richardson, M.P., went a step further and proposed to abolish all titles, Capt. Burnham was enthusiastic in his praises of this amendment, until it came to the voting stage, and he was once more found wanting. It is as clear that Capt. Burnham cannot do anything to abolish titles by talking against them, and refused to vote as he talks, as it is certain that he cannot right the wrongs of the returned soldiers by making speeches about them in the Veterans' rooms.

People are sick of titles, the member for West Peterborough affirms. He may be correct, but there are many things that they are worrying about more than titles. For instance, most people are less concerned over Sir Joseph Flavelle's title than they are over the price of Sir Joseph's pork products. They don't care so much about whether it is Sir Adam Beck or plain Adam Beck as long as the public interests are served by the Hydro-Electric Commission. Titles have nothing to do with the war, and the people are probably as sick of reading about Parliament wasting two days in discussing them at this stage as they are about the subject of discussion itself.

However, Capt. Burnham succeeded in getting a lot of advertising during the debate, quite outdistancing Col. Currie in the day's proceedings, and to be specially mentioned by the Premier for his visit to Sir Wilfrid Laurier was "the end of a perfect day" for Peterborough's member of the "ginger group."

The Toronto Telegram describes Captain Burnham as "of the laughter-producing variety of member," and says that "he fled out into the night." Is it possible that the member for West Peterboro is being disowned by the ginger group, or is the Telegram peeved because he grabbed the spotligh away from Colonel Currie?

EMPIRE DAY.

To-morrow, May 24th, the anniversary of the birth of Britain's beloved Queen Victoria, is Empire Day. It is fitting that in these days when the Empire is more closely knit than ever before that the day should be celebrated.

The meaning of the occasion is aptly set forth in the address of the Earl of Meath:

"You ask me," said Lord Meath, "What is the Empire movement? The best way I can answer the question is to tell you first of all what it is not. Like all movements during the first years of their existence, it has in many quarters been misunderstood. The Empire movement does not spell militarism, it is not aggressive, it is not partly political, it is not confined to any section of the Empire, it is not restricted to any class, race or colour, it is not sectarian, it is not a glorification of the British race, it is not connected officially with any other organized league — although it owes a debt of gratitude to several; it is not an excuse for boasting or flag-wagging.

"What is it then? This is more difficult to answer, but I think it may be expressed as an earnest, organized effort, conceived in a deeply humble spirit, to arouse the people who constitute the British Empire, to the highest duties which lie at their door. It may also be said to be an attempt to regenerate our Imperial national life, to uplift the ideal of Empire, to found a wider patriotism, and to foster and cement brotherhood with our kinsmen overseas. It is distinctly an organization for the training of character, especially in children. It aims at the raising up of a Spartan, virile race, imbued from childhood with a determination to make themselves worthy of the great responsibilities which some day will rest upon their shoulders. Hence the movement appeals especially to women, and to mothers in particular.

"It is founded on four watchwords which it endeavours to imprint in indelible lines on the brain of every Briton. These watchwords are "Responsibility,' 'Duty,' 'Sympathy' and 'Self-Sacrifice.'

"You ask me to describe the Empire. The British Empire is a mighty political organization, the like of which the world has never before seen, and therefore there is no precedent whatever by which the citizen may be guided in his conduct. The Assyrian, Greek and Roman Empires were but small provinces compared with the British, and they were founded most of them by conquerors. Some of them broke up immediately on the death of the conqueror; they were founded to acquire the glory and honour of the conqueror, some individual man. The British Empire is not the result of the systematic thought or ambition of any one particular man or men. It has grown up of itself, and in spite of the efforts of leading statesmen to prevent its growth and even to diminish it. It has increased until it is one-fifth of the earth's surface, and contains a fifth of the earth's population, consisting of 450 millions of people, of almost every race, colour and religion."

Timely too in this connection are the prophetic verses in the song of the sons of Britain of Rudyard Kipling, written a quarter of a century ago:

One from the ends of the earth — gifts at an open door—
Treason has much, but we, Mother, they sons have more!
Turn, and the world is thine, Mother, be proud of thy seed!
Count, are we feeble or few Hear, is our speech so rude?
Look, are we poor in the land? Judge, are we men of The Blood?

Those that have stayed at thy knees, Mother, go call them in—
We that were bred overseas wait and would speak with our kin.
Not in the dark do we fight — haggle and flout and gibe;
Selling our love for a price, loaning our hearts for a bribe.
Gifts have we only to-day—Love without promise or fee—
Hear, for thy children speak, from the uttermost parts of the sea!
And the unity of the world-wide Empire is proved, even as the poet foresaw it.
The Homeland answers to the Oversea,
Dominions, Great Britain answers Greater Britain:—
Thus, for the good of your peoples,
Thus, for the pride of the Race.
Also, we will make promise;
So long as The Blood endures,
I shall know that your good is mine;
Ye shall feel my strength is yours:
In the day of Armageddon,
At the last great fight of all,
That Our House may stand together
And the pillars do not fall!

How would it be to draft the leaders of the Winnipeg strike, for work on the farms

Many people will share in the wonder expressed by Mr. R. H. Butts, M.P., during the title debate that "200 men assembled in Ottawa to legislate for the country, should spend hours talking about this trivial affair when the world is in the greatest travail that it has ever experienced."

A NATIONAL EFFORT.

Sir,—May I be allowed to draw the attention of our citizens to the meeting arranged to be held in the Murray street church to-morrow evening.

It is perhaps easier for us who have been in France than for others to visualize the tremendous events which are now taking place there, and to understand their critical import.

We recognize, too, how extremely important it is to have every part of the Empire not only united in backing our armies, but also giving definite outward expression to such support, and fervent united intercession is certainly one means to this end.

To-morrow will be a national day. What more fitting than that we should get together for material effort and for the expression of our national unity, our national faith and our national determination?

Yours, etc.,
J. C. Davidson.

Editor, Examiner, City:

Dear Sir,—The last gas attack which Mr. Burnham has tried to put over has been the most amusing one of the lot. He went before the War Veterans, hammered the table, waived his arms and made an attack on the Y. M.C.A. and those who were supporting it, and disgusted everybody who heard him. He criticizes the government, the Pension Board and every person else, just to obtain a little cheap applause. For years he has been screaming against titles, although no one ever knew why, and there was no chance of him getting one himself, but when it comes to vote for the abolition of titles, he runs away and gets out in the great open air, as he himself telegraphs the papers.

Mr. Burnham's reputation for failure has been very complete. He tried to wreck the Patriotic Fund by keeping the local branch from joining the Dominion Order and becoming part of it, remitting funds to the central organization and in turn drawing from that organization.

When Mr. W. H. Bradburn was Mayor of the city, he turned the city down in the question of the C. P. R. bridge and washed his hands clear of the whole thing as he himself said in a telegram. If it had not been for ex-Mayor Bradburn's prompt action in forcing the Minister of Railways and Canals to deal with the C.P.R., the city would have been saddled with the costs of a $40,000 draw bridge over the river where the C. P. R. bridge now stands. In addition to that, he allowed the Metal Products Company to move out when he could have gone to his friend, Sir Joseph Flavelle and had Sir Joseph Flavelle insist upon the company staying here. This was a company which was spent $1,500.00 a day in Peterborough, and he let that go and the factory remains vacant.

At Campbellford, the government put in a new bridge there and paid the whole cost on the Grand Trunk's right-of-way, makin ga drawbridge of it. In Peterborough, the people of the city are required to pay $280,000.00 for bridges and the government is not paying a cent, notwithstanding that the new high level bridge near the Quaker Oats will be of the greatest benefit to the government in allowing steamboats to get up the river beyond Hunter street, which they cannot do with the present iron bridge in existence. The government ought to pay at least half the cost of this bridge and Mr. Burnham could have arranged this, as every person else has got his hands into the pork barrel excepting West Peterborough, and the people of Peterborough will be taxed for the next half century to pay for this bridge which Mr. Burnham should have made the government pay for.

The government should, in a first class healthy neighbourhood like Peterborough, establish a military hospital, but they have been putting these all over the country, as well as vocational schools, and Peterborough has not got a thing excepting the notoriety of being misrepresented by Mr. Burnham in the House of Commons.

Mr. Burnham's last escapage is to run out of the House of Commons and decline to vote on the title matter because it might embarrass the government. He said in the House, before the vote, that the people did not want the titles and they should be got rid of, and yet when he is called upon to do his duty he turns his back and runs away from doing what he must have known he should do, simply because he is a quitter from the political standpoint.

In addition to this, he promised that every farmer actually engaged in farming should get exemption and had printed a letter from Ottawa to this effect. When these men came in to see him, who had paid their money for machinery to assist in greater production, Mr. Burnham had fled to Ottawa and was keeping out of the way, and they fell into the hands of Mr. J. Guise-Bagley, in whose office Mr. Burnham has his name printed in large letters at the window and there, at so much per application these men put through their business and paid for it in many cases, and in many cases have yet to pay. We know what the result has been, how nearly every young farmer was conscripted, notwithstanding Mr. Burnham's promises.

Yours truly,
UNION.

Last Advance In Firemen's Pay Was Wade In June Last Year

The firemen's petition for an increase in the salaries of $182.60 a man, recalls the fact that the last advance as made on June 11th, 1917, when the council acceded to their pressure that the previous increase on March 5th in the same year was insufficient to meet the rising cost of living. Within the year, since June 5th, the said H.C.L. has been steadily soaring, and the firemen's caps are back in the ring.

From the council's point of view the request presented last night is inopportune because this year's revenue has been allotted, and the $25,000 appropiation to the Fire, Water and Light Committee was a considerable jump over former years. On the other hand the firemen point out that the salaries fixed last year have lost their adequacy in the advancing cost of living. Hence, their present call that the council "ante up" again.

The salaries granted in March, 1917, were as follows: 1st year men, $700, 2nd grade men $800, and 1st grade $900. In June this was advanced to $1000 for the 1st grade and $900 for the 2nd grade men.

There are now nine first grade men, and two second grade men, indicating that the brigade is largely composed of experienced men. In addition there are the electrician, Joseph Burkton, the engineer, P. Pammett, the lieutenant, Jos. Ward, Captain Archie McDonald and Assistant Chief H. Johnston. The petition presented to the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night asks for an increase of $182.60 a year to each of these sixteen employees, and the total increase would be $2,921.60.

COTTAGE BURNED AT STURGEON POINT.

LINDSAY, May 22. — Yesterday news was received from Sturgeon Point that a bad fire was raging and that help was urgently needed from Lindsay to fight the flames. The fire had spread to the cottage belonging to Mr. Robert Nugent, just behind the summer home of Mr. Wm. Needler, and as it was surrounded by other cottages the danger of a serious conflagration was apparent.

Mr. Wm. Brown lost no time in getting a party together and left for the Point around noon, while others motored to Pleasant Point, and were taken across the lake in launches. Fire Chief Beadle also sent down chemical appliances to fight the fire.

About 1.30 o'clock word was received from the Point to the effect that the fire was under control, after a hard fight, the only cottage burned being that owned by Mr. Robert Nugent.

The origin of the fire has been traced, it is said, to the burning of leaves, etc.

More Than One Hundred Nurses, Patients And Attendants Were Killed In Air Raid

A Score of Huge Goetha Airplanes Bombed a Number of Hospitals in France With Disastrous Results—Buildings Reduced to Splinters

NURSES DISPLAY WONDERFUL COURAGE

(By William Philip Simms).

10 O'clock Despatch:

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, May 23.—More than one hundred women nurses, patients and attendants were killed or wounded in a raid on a large number of hospitals by German airmen.

In this, the latest Prussian air attack, a score of huge Gotha airplanes circled over their objective, where the Red Cross was plainly visible, dropping a number of bombs or enormous size to smash the buildings, and a still greater number of small shrapnel bombs to kill nurses and wounded. The shrapnel was timed to burst at the level of the ground, so as to ensure the greatest possible destruction of life.

British aviators and anti-aircraft guns battled with the Hun squadron, bringing down the enemy commander's machine.

I visited the scene of the bombing to-day. Huts about the hospitals were in splinters. One half of the entire hospital, where the most damage was done, had almost entirely disappeared. Nearby was a crater, fifteen feet across and ten feet deep, where a large bomb fell on the nurses' quarters.

Wonderful Courage.

Coupled with shrapnel bombs fragments, those who witnessed the attack, told me they never had seen anything so wonderful as the courage of the women during the raid, which began at 10.30 a.m., and lasted for two hours. Dugouts were provided for them in case of danger, but none deserted the patients.

Many of these latter were very bad cases of horrible compound fractures, with open wounds, necessitating suspension in harnesses. Other poor chaps were strapped in bed in order that their bones would knit straight. The slightest movement for any of these men, not only was agonizing, but extremely dangerous.

Throughout two solid hours, while an endless chain of German bombers swirled across the hospital area, dropping explosives on the helpless victims below, women went smilingly from one critical case to another, laying gentle hands on fevered heads.

Commander Captured.

"My God, it was great," one youngster said.

In a plane which was downed was the squadron commander. He was wounded in the arm and his observer was wounded in the leg. The third occupant of the machine was also wounded.

The Prussian commander speaks English perfectly. He is now in one of the hospitals which he bombed, being cared for by the women whose sisters he killed. He said he was following a railway train.

These hospitals never were bombed before. There were some Americans in the group, but none of these were touched.

This Frees Your Skin From Hair or Fuzz

(Toilet Tips.)

The method here suggested for the removal of superfluous hair is quick and certain and unless the growth is extremely stubborn, a single application does the work. Make a stiff paste with some powdered delatone and water; apply this to the hairy surface and after about 2 minutes rub it off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. To avoid disappointment, be sure your druggist sells you delatone.

GOVERNMENT MEMBERS HAVE BEEN ASKED TO RESIGN

Some of the Members Believe That the Government Will Modify the Military Service Act.

AN ULTIMATUM

(Special to Examiner.)

Ottawa, May 23.—Rightly or wrongly there is an impression among the members that some modification at least of the new Military Service Regulations or of their application is pending and will be announced by the government before the session closes. That such modification will not take the form of any specific amendment to the regulations themselves, but will be more in the nature of conferring discretionary powers to the authorities in connection with certain extraordinary cases, is believed. The purpose of the new regulations in the first place was to wipe out in the case of unmarried men between the ages of 20 and 23 inclusive, all the cumbersome and dilatory machinery of tribunal and appeal, and the chief reason of the government's refusal so far to budge one inch from the provisions laid down, has been the fear that to deviate in any degree would mean the throwing open of the door once more to such delays.

MADE AN IMPRESSION.

There can be no doubt that the big delegation of farmers which came to Ottawa recently made a considerable impression upon the legislators, and more especially on the private members though the results of the conference were apparently nil. However, many things have happened since, which have gone to strengthen their case. In the first place members have been simply deluged with communications, telegrams, and petitions (the latter very heavily signed) demanding modifications of the regulations to cover extraordinary cases, or urging that the administration of the regulations be delayed in the case of farmers until after the man power registration of the Dominion has been completed in June.

The government members have been requested to alter their stand on the matter, and to work for the changes suggested, otherwise they are requested to resign forthwith.

The House May Progrogue To-morrow

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

OTTAWA, May 23.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier forced another eleventh-hour division, just before luncheon in this morning's session of the Commons, and the Government was sustained by a majority of 21 on a vote of 74 to 53. The Opposition leader's move came as a complete surprise. The House was discussing revision of the War-Time Election Act, and Sir Wilfrid offered an amendment to the effect that this act should be repealed.

The result was a straight party vote with the exception of Hon. W. S. Fielding, who voted with the Opposition. Indications are that the House may prorogue to-night or early to-morrow morning.

GASOLINE SHORTAGE IN THE CITY TO-DAY.

"Nothing in it," said Mr. C. R. Banks, of the Banks' Garage, when asked about the high price of gasoline this spring.

"Gasoline will not be 80 or 85 cents a gallon, or nothing like that."

Most of the dealers have no gasoline at all, but they are all emphatic that there will be plenty of it soon.

A great deal of it is being shipped to England, and to facilitate the movement to the seaboard the Government has requisitioned all the tank cars, and thus the dealers are unable to obtain any of the precious liquid. Although the dealers have had none since Monday, they are expecting a supply any day.

Overwork Paralysis

Doctors Said His Case Was Hopeless—Could Not Walk or Write—Speech Almost Gone—How Cure Was Effected.

ST. ANN'S, Ont., March 21.— Paralysis is far more easily prevented than cured. For this reason it is only wise to be warned by sleeplessness, headache, nervous indigestion and neuralgic pains and begin reconstruction treatment before the nervous system becomes too far depleted.

This letter from Mr. Hyatt is quoted to prove to you that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is effective even after paralysis has set in. It is not advisable, however, to neglect nervous disorders until such conditions are developed.

Mr. Avery Hyatt, Blacksmith, St. Ann's, Lincoln County, Ont., writes: "I am a blacksmith by trade, and ten years ago became afflicted with paralysis. I could not walk or read or write, and could talk with difficulty, so that it was a hard matter to understand anything I would say. Being only a young man, I was nearly discouraged. Two doctors told me it was brought on by overwork, and that my case was hopeless.

"One day my father read about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and advised me to try it. I bought 12 boxes, and when the fifth was used I saw that I was getting better. By the time the 12 boxes were used I was cured I am well and strong and working every day, thanks to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

This statement is certified to by Mr. Elmore J. Hodgins, J.P.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.75, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a sub-

Severe Storm Struck Lakefield

Barn Was Struck by Lightning Yesterday—Woman Stunned

LAKEFIELD, May 23.—One of the worst thunder storms for many years struck Lakefield yesterday afternoon shortly after four o'clock. Rain poured down in torrents and lightning flashed wickedly on all sides. A tree was struck near the residence of Mr. C. F. Tanner. Lightning also struck the barn on the property of Mr. George Lennox, splintered a couple of timber and ripped off a number of board. One of the boards was carried seventy-five feet by the wind into the property of Mr. T. R. White. The barn did not catch fire.

On a farm near Mr. Thompson's property in Douro, a tree was seen burning twenty feet up from the ground having been struck by lightning. Mrs. Edward Armstrong, who was out at the well getting a pail of water sustained a severe shock when a heavy crash struck near her. She was stunned for a short time. Mr. J. Porter, who was about to close the door of his store also received a shock.

Postal Clerks Lodge Protest

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, May 23.—City postal clerks have lodged a protest with the Government against the alleged inadequate amount of the increase provided for in the war bonus in the supplementary estimates. They claim that the bonus so far as they are concerned does not work out at $150 per year, but that it actually amounts to only $50, since the war bonus of $100 granted them last year, is wiped out. The sum of fifty dollars per year, they claim, is entirely insignificant as compared with the tremendous increase in the cost of living with the past year.

Representatives of the employees laid their case before the acting Minister of Finance and the acting Postmaster-General this morning and urged redress. The matter is now under consideration. It is stated that seven thousand clerks are affected.

Most of the misery and ill-health that humanity is burdened with arises from disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. If you are feeling out of sorts, have pains in the stomach, especially after eating, bilious spells, headaches, sour stomach, coated tongue, sallow or muddy complexion, specks floating before the eyes, you should take a few doses of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and note the change.

Miss Ida Hogan, Dunrobin, Ont., writes: "For over five years I have suffered great agony from pains in the stomach. I tried several remedies but got no relief until a friend advised me to take Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I started with two vials and before I had one quite used, I found much relief. I continued until I used four vials, and they have completely cured me. That was fourteen months ago and I have not had the slightest return since. The best praise I could give them is not enough."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH NEAR KINMOUNT

On Friday last, James Quinn, who lives at Dongola, between Norland and Kinmount, went to a beaver meadow about two miles from his home, to burn grass. He left his horse at a neighbors, and failing to return in the evening a search was instituted as it was feared he might have been burned while fighting fire. About 11 o'clock his body was found at the meadow.

The deceased, who leaves a wife and large family, was buried on Sunday.

District Meeting Came To A Close Yesterday Afternoon

CLOSING MOTION

The meeting of the Methodist ministers of Peterboro district, closed yesterday afternoon, after the business for the year had been arranged for. Throughout the entire conference most hopeful and encouraging reports were brought in from the various circuits. Yesterday afternoon's session was marked by several important resolutions.

THE RESOLUTIONS.

That, whereas, we, the members of Peterboro District, lay and clerical, having learned with regret the decision of Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A., D.D., to ask for a superannuated relation at the approaching conference, desire to place on record our hearty appreciation of his sterling character, and grateful recognition of the splendid service rendered our church during 45 years of eminently successful ministry. His life has ever been a benediction to his brethren. As a preacher Dr. Wilson has been a blessing to his congregation and a standard of dignity and strength to our church. His ministry has revealed the culture and character of a Christian gentleman.

We pray that our brother may be spared to serve the church in his new relation for many years; the church in which he has been for nearly half a century a pillar, and that God may richly bless the pilgrimage down the western side of the hill of life to the glories of the eternal sunset.

Carried by a standing vote, after which there was sung one stanza of "Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love."

A motion was passed to the effect that the District meeting view with approval the action of the Union Government in taking measures to abolish the patronage evil.

FIREMEN ASK FOR SALARY INCREASE OF $182.00 A MAN

Assert That the High Cost of Living Has Soared Since Their Last Increase—"Where Is the Money to Come From" Asks Mayor Duncan.

SIXTEEN MEN AFFECTED

The officers and men of the Fire Department, with the exception of Chief Grange, want a new salary increase of $182.60 a man. Their petition was received by the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night in a letter from Chief Grange, who wrote that the men had requested him to present their application. The communication was referred to the Committee of the Whole Council.

The brigade is now composed of thirteen men, one lieutenant, one captain, an assistant chief, and Chief Grange himself. Their present salaries, and those which they expect to get, are as follows:

	Present.	Requested.
1st grade men	$1000	$1182.60
2nd grade men	900	1082.60
Lieutenant	1050	1232.60
Captain	1075	1257.60
Asst. Chief	1150	1332.60

The firemen's demand had been mooted for some time, but the council had hoped that the previous increase would have been sufficient for this year. Ald. Dobbin broke the news last night as quietly as possible, and the committee looked blankly at each other for the answer.

"Where do they think the money is coming from?" asked Mayor Duncan.

"The chief says it's in the bank," replied Chairman Dobbin.

Chief Grange's letter embodying the men's request informed the committee that the present salary to first grade men, $1000 a year, means $2.74 a day, or 11 5-12c an hour; and the $900 to second grade men is actually $2.47 a day, or only 10 1-3c an hour.

"We request 13 1-2c an hour for the high grade men and for the second grade men $100 a year less."

There was little discussion on the petition. It was suggested that four men might be dispensed with, and eight call men engaged in nearby shops, or that the brigade might be re-established on the basis of 12-hour shifts. It was only a casual reflection, however, and the Committee of the Whole Council will have the pleasant task of disposing of the firemen's latest touch.

ONLY ONE TAILOR TENDERED.

Chief Grange reported that he had asked three tailors for prices for sixteen new suits and extra trousers, but only one tender was received. Mercell & Meredith and Anderson, did not submit quotations, and Mr. George Ball had the field to himself. Early in the year summer suits were mentioned for the brigade, but the cloth, of which Mr. Ball enclosed a sample, is of 20 ounce weight.

On a motion by Ald. Jones, seconded by Ald. Saunders, it was decided to advertise in the local papers for tenders for the firemen's suits, to be submitted on or before June 5th.

THE FIRE WARDEN'S RECOMMENDATIONS.

Ald. Dobbin told the committee that the Fire Warden had recently examined the city's fire fighting equipment and had suggested that the alarm boxes be painted a conspicuous reddish yellow, and that a red light be placed over each of them to guide the people to them after dark. He had also recommended a fire station in the south end of the city, and urged the enforcement of the bylaw that requires premises to be kept tidy and free of rubbish.

And to these proposed improvements were added several items presented by Chief Grange. His red runabout was slammed by a wind-blown gate entering the Hicks coal yard. The front of the car had been dented and otherwise disfigured, but first aid at the Duffus garage had restored its features. The accident the Chief reported was unavoidable.

Parts of the car excepting the body and wheels, will be repainted, and if the committee can raise the money a siren will replace the bell on the red runabout. Several accidents have shown the necessity of a louder warning than the bell with which the car of the Chief is supplied. Two play pipes were also ordered; also a draw bar for the fire engine, in order that a motor truck may take it in tow, when needed at a fire.

The City Trust will be asked to shore up the north section of the fire hall to support the motor truck which the Chief reports should be kept on that side to enable the men to get away as quickly as possible.

Mayor Duncan Not Satisfied With Peterboro's Coal Outlook

If Retail Dealers Do Not Receive Greater Shipments Soon, the City Council Will Put Forth New Efforts —Ask For 5,000 Tons For Municipal Fuel Yard.

BUYS COAL AND COKE

Mayor Duncan is becoming uneasy about this city's coal supplies for next winter. Following last night's meeting of the Fire, Water and Light committee, he stated this morning that if the dealers are unable to obtain greater shipments than have been arriving the municipal fuel yard would have to put forth its strongest efforts to load up if possible. At the present time, the onus of bringing in coal for next winter rests upon the retail dealers. The responsibility is theirs, and the Council has not been eager to interfere while the dealers are getting coal; but the Mayor is unwilling to take chances, but will not yet break into heavier buying.

At last nights' meeting it was decided to order five cars of coke with five cars of nut coal. The coke will cost $9.90 on the rails here. Ald. Saunders wasn't enthusiastic about it. The committee is approaching the conclusion that they will buy any fuel they can obtain. There is some hesitation about taking the coke and mine run, but the Mayor's assertions this morning indicate that they will not toy with this question.

Asked For 5,000 Tons.

A communication from the fuel administrator inquired into the city's fuel needs for the municipal yard next winter. The estimate to be reported was 5,000 tons of coal and 2,000 cords of wood.

MR. A. H. CAMPBELL JOINS THE G. A. GILLESPIE STAFF ON JUNE FIRST.

Mr. Alexander H. Campbell, proprietor of the Harwood Creamery, will take charge of the butter making department of the Peterboro Milk Products, Limited, on June 1st. He has made a fine reputation as a successful butter maker at Harwood, and had acquired the Millbrook Creamery. Both of these factories were recently purchased by Flavelles Limited, of Lindsay, and Mr. Campbell moves to Peterboro, where his skill as a butter maker will be a considerable asset to Mr. G. A. Gillespie's growing business. He and Mr. Campbell are old friends. Both of them worked as cheese makers at Central Smith. Mr. Gillespie purchased the Harwood factory and afterwards sold it to Mr. Campbell, who has made the term 'Harwood Creamery' synonymous with good butter.

The Ottawa Fall Exhibition Sure To Be Held

OTTAWA, May 23.—There is absolutely no likelihood that the Central Canada Exhibition will be cancelled this year, directors state. The question of the transfer of the troops from Lansdowne Park to Rockliffe has been between officers at Lansdowne Park and the higher military authorities, not between the military and the city or the exhibition association, it is stated.
It has been the practice since the commencement of the war for the troops training in Ottawa to go to the Rockliffe camp for summer training, that camp being equipped for the purpose. The 77th and 207th Battalions trained there, and the camp has been considered satisfactory, it is pointed out.
As in other years, the military authorities intend to use the camp this year, it is said, but objections have been raised by officers occupying buildings at Lansdowne Park who prefer to stay there.
The holding of the exhibition, directors of the Exhibition Association point out, has never interfered with military work. The troops may have the use of the park and the buildings for all but a few weeks but the military authorities have preferred Rockliffe for summer training. It is pointed out that last year, through agitation on the part of some military officers, the Eastern Ontario Live Stock Show was cancelled to let the troops have Howick Hall, and, at the time the show was to have been held the building wasn't occupied by troops.
The directors point out that they are providing for larger exhibition than ever.

Men Without Papers Will Be Penalized

Stringent Enforcement of Amendment to M.S.A. Will Be Prosecuted, Providing For Drastic Treatment For Failure to Comply

After June 1 half-way measures in regard to men who do not carry the necessary papers for immediate presentation as proof that they are not liable for military service will be at an end. Energetic measures are to be undertaken by the Dominion Police with the beginning of next month to carry out the far-reaching amendments to the Military Service Act, and their machinery is now being arranged to look after the onerous duties which will be theirs then. Every man who is within Class One under the Act, and aliens, will be required to have on his person, or in the building in which he is, proof that he is exempted from or not liable to military service. In the event of his not having the papers upon him he will not, as heretofore, be permitted to use the 'phone to have them brought to him, but will go to the police station and will be liable to a fine and service in the army. He will be liable to a fine of $50 for not having his papers, or to imprisonment for one month or to both. The person found without papers may also be taken into military custody and be required to perform military duty in the C. E. F. until a competent authority decides that he is not liable for military duty.

Must Carry Documents.

If a man claims that he is not within the class by reason of age, his safety will lie in the fact that he carries with him an official certificate of the date of his birth or a certificate of his age signed by two reputable citizens residing in the community in which he lives, and having knowledge of the fact. If the man claims to be married he must have a marriage certificate with him, either official or signed by two reputable citizens. If a man objects to carrying his marriage certificate around with him he can secure a copy of it from the Registrar-Generals Department, and carry this. A man claiming to be free from the class by reason of his nationality must have a certificate signed by a Consul or Vice-Consul of the foreign State or country to which he claims his allegiance.

Credentials for Clergymen.

Men who have been discharged from the military or naval forces of Great Britain or her Allies must have official documents to this effect upon them. Clergymen or a member of any order which is of an exclusively religious character must have a certificate to this effect signed by an office-holders competent to so certify him, under the regulations of the Church, order or denomination to which he belongs.

Exempted men or those not liable to military service by reason of any exemption granted or claimed on application pending, must have exemption papers or a certificate from the Registrar or Deputy Registrar of the district to which he belongs.

Penalty for Misinformation.

The certificates of two reputable citizens may in many cases cause the Dominion an extra lot of trouble, as probably the signers of the certificate would have to be investigated, and it would not appear to be advisable to use such a means of certifying unless as a last resort. If the certificate given is in any material respect false or misleading, to the knowledge of the person using, signing or giving the same, its use, signing or giving will be an offence punishable by a fine of $500 or a term of imprisonment not exceeding six months.

The Habeas Corpus Act cannot be invoked in regard to men who are taken into custody or held under the new amendments to the Act. They will be held until released by direction of the Minister of Militia and Defence or delivered by his order to the civil authorities.

Presentation To Three Smith Township Boys

John Steinkrauss, Fred Steinkrauss and Donald Dickson, of Smith Township, were each presented with an address and a wrist watch on the eve of their departure for Kingston where they will report for service.

The presentation to John Steinkrauss was made at his home on the Second Line of Smith Township, while the presentation to the other two members of the trio was made at the home of Miss Medda Swinton, of the First Line of Smith Township. Mr. Archie Ackison read the address and Miss Swinton made the presentation:

The Address.

The address reads as fololws:

Hearing within the last few days that you had been notified to prepare for departure for the front, we thought that although the time was short we would make an attempt to express to you our pride in your action and at the same time, our sorrow at your departure from our midst.

We know it was not from lack of patriotism that you are not already in the ranks with our brother Canadians in France and Flanders, but have stayed at home doing what you felt to be your duty by serving in a different sphere of usefulness, believing under certain conditoins that the plow is mightier than the sword, a less glorious "bit" perhaps, but of as much importance in gaining "Our Objective."

We feel that our Empire is in dire need of men in the present great crisis of the war, but pray that this may be the dark hour before the dawn, and while we shall greatly miss your companionship and friendly assistance, we look forawrd to some time, in the near future we hope, when we shall welcome you and your comrades in arms home again, when Great Britain and her Allies shall have triumphed over brute force and Prussian arrogance.

It is with very sincer regret that we wish you "Au revoir," knowing full well that the good name of and universal respect for "This Canada of Ours" will suffer nothing in your personal keeping.

Will you please accept the accompanying wrist-watch, with this one admonition from us "Watch your steps."

E. C. HARPER,
J. A. MIDDLETON.

Lily Lake, Ontario, 20th May, 1918.

Gompers Was Wise.

(Hamilton Herald.)

Seeing is believing. Some months ago Mr. Baker, U. S. Secretary of War was trying to soothe the American people with the reminder that the war was "three thousand miles away," and there was therefore no need for hurry. Mr. Baker has just got back from a visit to the western front, and he has lost no time in recommending that the American army be doubled without delay.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receipts Thursday, 34 cars, with 262 cattle, 117 calves, 1,305 hogs, and 27 sheep and lambs.

On the eve of the holiday the market was unusually quiet, even for a Thursday market. There were but about a couple of hundred fresh cattle offering, and a few of these were of the small light weight class, for which there was hardly any demand. So quiet, in fact, was the trade that only weighty cattle were taken by the few buyers in the market, and the light weight stuff was almost entirely neglected, a few part loads of these being left over. With this exception as to the light cattle, the market for good weighty butcher cattle, and the choice heavy steers, holds quite steady to firm at this week's high prices.

Fat butcher cows and bulls continue in good demand.

Calf trade is strong.

Sheep and lambs firm, but offerings still very light.

Hogs steady at $20.50, fed and watered.

The Most Artistic Roof

is the one that completely harmonizes with the design and finishing of the house. For this reason there is a steadily increasing demand for Brantford Asphalt Slates for the modern style of homes.

Brantford Asphalt Slates have a surface of crushed slate embedded into our asphalt coating, the base of the roofing being felt saturated with asphalt. They are cut the size of shingles, and their beautiful soft colors of reddish brown and dark green give a roof a most artistic appearance. The colors are the natural shades of the slate as it comes out of the quarries. Brantford Asphalt Slates are, therefore, unfadeable —never require painting.

Brantford Asphalt Slates

are accurate in size and pliable, which makes them very easily handled and quickly laid, saving time and labor, and therefore costing less to lay.

The Woman Who Changed

By JANE PHELPS

A SATISFACTORY DAY

A SATISFACTORY DAY.
CHAPTER LXXV.

My unhappy thoughts were interrupted by Celeste.

"It is time Madame dressed for the studio," she said. She had my dress on her arm—a new one I never had worn, but which I had told her I would christen because George was going to be at the studio.

I bathed my face, then dressed as quickly as possible. We would walk to the studio. It would help me to forget my musings, help me to forgive my husband's ungracious speech.

It was a lovely morning, and by the time we reached the studio I had almost recovered my usual spirits. Merton was very enthusiastic, in spite of the unsatisfactory first sitting.

"We will have a wonderful portrait," he remarked as he started to work.

"I hope so, Mr. Howard is very anxious that it shall turn out well. He is coming in a little later."

"Did I imagine it, or did a flicker of annoyance recalls pass over the of annoyance really pass over the he didn't want anyone to watch his work. I felt I should be so conscious, and that perhaps George would be disagreeable.

George Has a Companion.

The portrait went amazingly well. I was not nervous, and was able to hold the pose for a much longer time. I was resting when Merton's man ushered in George and Julia Collins.

"How it is going?" George asked, after greetings had been exchanged.

"Fine! I am delighted with my sitter."

"I am very glad. From Mrs. Howard's report, I judged she was anything but satisfactory in holding a pose for you."

"Three quarters," Mr. Gray said curtly.

"What kind of gown are you to wear, the one you have on? It is very pretty," there was a patronizing note in her voice which nettled me.

"No, Mrs. Collins, I have had a very lovely gown made for the picture. This is one of my new summer gowns. I think it rather pretty, myself." I copied her tone as nearly as possible. I would be patronizing, too.

I saw a flash of some emotion cross George's face. It looked like pride, but I could not be sure.

"The gown makes very little difference, when the subject is young and beautiful," Merton Gray said soberly. "An older woman needs the softening effect of velvets and satins, to set her off, but Mrs. Howard needs nothing save the gauzy draperies that accentuate her youth."

Julia Collins looked as if she would like to bite something.

"I suppose you mean to imply that I would have to be painted in a black velvet gown?" she said, with a laugh that failed to hide the sneer that lay behind it.

"Yes, you would need a gown of that sort, or some draperies to soften the portrait," he returned, evidently oblivious to her sneer. But I was sure he had noticed it, and was paying her back.

Holding Her Own.

My spirits were rising. I felt that Mrs. Collins was trying to belittle me before my husband, and I would not allow it. So I met jest with jest, repartee with repartee, veiled sneer with one still more delicately veiled. It was like an intricate game, where you watched your opponent's move and attempted to outwit him.

For once, I thought gratefully of Mrs. Sexton. The memory of her compliment, when I repeated how I had met Julia Collins' snub, that day in the street, helped me wonderfully to hold my own now.

Mrs. Collins looked charming. That, I had to concede. She wore a smart tailored suit of Scotch tweed, and a tiny hat of crimson straw that was wonderfully becoming to her dark beauty. The hat would have been most trying to nearly any other woman, but she had a knack of wearing unusual things in a chic way, all her own.

"We have done enough for to-day. Won't you allow me to offer you tea?" Merton asked.

"Tea! At this time of day! No indeed. You go on with your picture. George will take me to the Elite for luncheon, won't you George?"

I felt myself flush at the intimacy, displayed so openingly, but I thought again of Mrs. Sexton, and said calmly:

"Yes George, do. I am sure, if you had not come in, Mr. Gray would have worked longer. I am not at all tired, and you know my time is short."

"Come on, George. You see they don't want us!" Mrs. Collins broke in, giving him no time to reply. He took his hat and they bade us goodbye.

"You have earned a reward. What shall it be?" Merton Gray asked, his eyes twinkling.

Monday—Helen's Reward.

KEEP YOUR HOLIDAY HEALTH

Make it your business to always look and feel as well as you do at the end of your vacation. Sunshine, fresh air and exercise are nature's great restorers and the health gained during a holiday should carry you well along to the next vacation.

It is most important that the blood be kept cleared of impurities. This is the business of the Kidneys. One hour's incapacity on the part of the Kidneys and the blood begins to get clogged with poisons which are carried to all parts of the body—giving rise to one or more of the following symptoms:—

Swollen joints and ankles indicate the immediate need for Gin Pills. Pains in the sides and back and through the groins, constant headaches, restless nights, derangements of the urinary system, stone and gravel, puffiness under the eyes and frequent chills—all these should be taken as warnings and a treatment with Gin Pills taken at once.

AT WAR WITH SNOBBERY.

Talk of Limiting Titles Dates Back to 1902.

The recent action of the Canadian Government with regard to titles which will lead to a greater economy in snobbery in our young democracy recalls the fact that other efforts were made in the past in the same direction. That was before the British understood Canadians as well as they now do. The suggestion that the Canadian Government should advise the crown upon the exercise of the prerogative of bestowing honors and titular distinctions was put forward in 1902, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier was Prime Minister. At that time, however, the late Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain took the position that in all but exceptional cases the responsibility of recommending persons for honors rested upon the Imperial Government. He suggested that if service of a political or administrative character rendered in the sphere of the Canadian Government was to be recognized that Government might make recommendations. In other cases in which it was proposed to confer honors the Dominion Prime Minister would simply be entitled to make such observations as he might desire upon a list submitted to him.

It is interesting to note that at the present time the list of Canadian peers to which it is proposed there shall be no additions and which will if the Government's proposal is carried out become extinct, includes two earls, eight barons, two baronesses and ten baronets. Of that list only four barons, one of them holding the title of Baron de Longueuil, granted by Louis XIV. of France, and recognized by Queen Victoria, and four baronets actually reside in Canada. Lord Shaughnessy and Lord Atholstan in Montreal, Lord Aylmer in the Okanagan Valley, B.C., and Lord Somers in Pickering, Ont. Lord Somers, however, succeeded to an English title before coming to settle in Canada.

Five baronets live in the Dominion, Sir Joseph Flavelle in Toronto, Sir Edmond Johnson Hunt, Col. Sir Edward Murray and Sir Vincent Meredith, of Montreal, and Sir Charles Tupper, of Winnipeg. Sir Edward Johnston and Sir Edward Murray succeeded to titles conferred in 1755 and 1626 respectively.

Should Finance Canada.

While Canada is preparing for her new war credit we here in the United States can do nothing better for that heroic member of the allies and nothing better for ourselves than to play a large part in the financing of our neighbor. We need to do this to sustain one of the stoutest arms raining blows upon the advancing Germans in France. We need to do it to preserve a foreign trade which, peace or war, is worth more to us, with the single exception of the United Kingdom, than that of any other domain on earth.

Consider Canada's population, her quick cash assets, her distance from the fighting zone, and what she has done on the battlefields is thus far the marvel of the war. With a population of only about 7,000,000 in round numbers — lower by some three millions than the population of the State of New York — she has maintained at the front a superb army of 300,000 men, whose fighting power, man for man, has been unexcelled by any in the war. She has poured into the struggle upward of a billion and a half of funded treasure. And now she is to begin the raising of another five hundred millions — or two billions within four years.

Our work for Canada is cut out for us both as a war measure and as a foreign trade measure. Why not finance Canada, heroic fighter and splendid ally, with loans to be spent in this country? Why not finance her above any other country? We lend Great Britain credits to spend in this country. We lend France, Italy, Belgium for the same purpose. We even lend Serbia, Roumania and Greece. For all these nations $5,285,600,000, and not a penny yet for Canada.

Why not, in truth, Canada, trusted as a good debtor, esteemed as a near neighbor, honored as a noble ally? Certainly we can do no less for Canada than we do for the others. Undoubtedly we ought to do more. For her war making as an ally, for her industry building as our neighbor and next to kin, we must lend Canada willingly, generously, as long as we can lend a cent to any other power.—New York Sun.

re Waste In Canada Must Be Reduced Before Insurance Rates Are Lowered

vention is the Remedy—Special Committee of the C.M.A. Recommend the Creation of New Fire Prevention Association —Two Factors

When the fire waste in Canada s the same relation to our pro- y values as is the case of Great ain, we may expect to be paying ut one-third of our present insur- e rates, but until our fire waste is siderably reduced there is no pos- lity of any material reduction in s," reports the special committee fire waste and insurance rates in report submitted at the annual eting of the Toronto branch of C.M.A. held this week.

It is doubtful," says the report, ether much real progress will be de until the whole business of fire rance, is taken over either by the minion or the Provincial Govern- nt. At present, practically the re responsibility for the preven- of fires, if any such responsibili- exists, is vested in the municipali- . The municipalities, however, ear either unable or unwilling to extend their views beyond the range of fire extinguishment.

"If a small proportion of the money now spent on fire extinguishment were utilized for fire prevention, the results would probably be both immediate and very marked. The municipalities are apparently so jealous of their authority that they resent any suggestion that the responsibility for preventing of fires should be taken out of their hands, although they have practically proved themselves unfit for the responsibility involved.

"Probably the two principal factors in efficient fire prevention speaking at least of factors now under the control of the municipalities, are greater severity in building restrictions and an efficient system of inspections of all manufacturing and mercantile premises.

"It would be very beneficial, for instance, and would probably result in the prevention of many fires, if all matches were prohibited from being used, except the kind that strike only on the box.

"There is also the question of individual liability for damages occurring to a neighbour's property caused by fire originating through carelessness.

"A further contributing cause in the present inflation of insurance rates, is the excessive commission paid to insurance agents, of whom there are too many in Canada. If such agents were examined and required licenses it would be highly desirable."

Revive Prevention Association.

It is recommended: "That the Fire Prevention Association, formerly in existence, under the auspices of the C. M. A., be revived, or a new Fire Prevention Association formed, with power to invite representatives of other interest to co-operate, to study in detail the question of fire waste anad fire prevention, with a view to bring the whole problem of fire prevention forcibly to the attention of the Government, so as to discover and develop adequate remedies."

A resolution was presented at the meeting that the Ontario Government be asked to take action to reduce the fire waste.

WHEN THE STOMACH IS WRONG LIFE SEEMS TO BE A BURDEN

digestion Comes With a Delilitated and Run-down Condition of the System and Can Be Cured Through Enriching the Blood.

There are many symptoms of indigestion, such as acute pain after eating, belch of wind, nausea and vomiting, bloating and pains in the region of the heart, a ad of food for the misery it causes. Dieting and the use of pre-digested foods may e ease, but can't cure—they only further weaken the stomach. The work of digesn depends upon the blood and the nerves, and the only way to cure indigestion is to e up the stomach through the blood to do the work nature intended it should do. e very best way to cure indigestion is through a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, ich renew the blood, strengthen the nerves and enable the stomach to do its work h ease and comfort. Neglected indigestion means prolonged misery, and a more ficult cure. If you have any of the symptoms of this trouble try the tonic treatment h Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once, and you will be gratified with the results.

APPETITE FAILED.

r. Daniel Dexter, Liverpool, N.S., : "For years I was a great suf- r from indigestion. I was troubled h gas on the stomach which caused iently troubled with nausea and iting, which were very distress- As a result of my trouble my etite almost completely failed, and at I did eat caused me constant n. I was continually doctoring, but not get any benefit, and had about de up my mind that I would suffer life. One day a friend asked me y I did not try Dr. Williams' Pink ls and while I had not much hope a cure I decided to do so. I had ly taken a few boxes, however, when found they were helping me. Very idly then I continued the use of the ls, and in less than three months I is as well as ever I had been, able eat a hearty meal, and to feel that was again worth living. I had al- been troubled from time to time th attacks of rheumatism, and the e of the pills cure this as well as s indigestion. It is now over a year nce I took the pills, and in that time have had no return of the trouble."

FOOD TURNED SOUR.

Mrs. J. Harris, Gerrard street, Toronto, says: "About three years ago I was seized with a severe attack of indigestion and vomiting. My food seemed to turn sour as soon as I ate it and I would turn so deadly sick that sometimes I would fall on the floor after vomiting. I tried home remedies, but they did not help me. Then I went to a doctor who gave me some powders, but they seemed to make me worse. This went on for nearly two months and by that time my stomach was in such a state that I could not keep down a drink of water and I was wasted to a skeleton and felt that life was not worth living. I was not married at this time and one Sunday evening on the way to church with my intended husband I was taken with a bad spell on the street. He took me to a drug store where the clerk fixed up something to take, and my intended got me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. By the end of the first week I could feel some improvement from the use of the pills, and I gladly continued taking them until every symptom of the trouble was gone, and I was again enjoying the best of health. These pills are now my standby and I tell all my friends what they did for me."

SUFFERED GREAT DISTRESS.

Mrs. Albert Hall, Sonya, Ont., says: "I have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with wonderful results. For two years I was a great sufferer from indigestion which almost made me a physical wreck. At times my sufferings were so great that I was unable to attend to my household duties. I had smothering spells at times and was afraid to lie down to rest. After every meal, no matter how sparingly I ate, I suffered great distress. I tried several doctors but their medicine did not seem to help me in the least. I saw Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised to cure this trouble and decided to try them. I had not been taking them long when I felt somewhat improved. This improvement continued and after taking ten boxes I could eat and digest all kinds of food and felt better than I had done for years. You may be sure I am very grateful for the wonderful relief these pills have given me. I knew they are also a cure for anaemic suffers, as an intimate friend of mine was badly affected with this trouble and after taking several boxes she was entirely cured."

If you are suffering from any form of stomach trouble, or any of the many ailments due to weak, watery blood, do not waste time and money experimenting with other remedies, but begin Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once. To do your duty during these trying times your health should be your first consideration. These two women tell how they found health.

Hellam, Pa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles and a displacement. I felt all run down and was very weak. I had been treated by a physician without results, so decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and felt better right away. I am keeping house since last April and doing all my housework, where before I was unable to do any work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is certainly the best medicine a woman can take when in this condition. I give you permission to publish this letter."—Mrs. E. R. Crumling, R. No. 1, Hellam, Pa.

is Your Gillette Shave as Clean and Easy as Your Friend's

If your friends are enjoying Gillette shaves that are quicker, cleaner or more comfortable than your's, it's just because you haven't caught—as they have—the simple knack of using it. For the Gillette Safety Razor packs a real, good shave for every man that grows a beard!

Hold each new blade under really hot water to remove the oil film which protects its edges from the slightest trace of rust. Then shave with the ANGLE STROKE. Don't use the Gillette hoe fashion—hold it diagonally, so that the blade slides across the hairs at an angle—the way you have to handle an ordinary razor to make it shave at all.

Held in this way, and used with a swift, easy stroke, the Gillette makes light of the stiffest beard that grows. Try your Gillette this way—give it a chance—and enjoy the way it makes good!

BELFAST'S NEW SHIPYARD.

The Belfast correspondent of the London Times says:

Contractors have now entered on preliminary work in connection with the construction of a new shipbuilding yard at Musgrave Channel, Belfast, for Messrs. Harland and Wolff. The land, secured from the Harbour Commissioners, exceeds in extent by several acres the ground occupied in the present yard.

The new site will accommodate six slips, each of which will be 700 feet in length, so that the largest types of vessels can be built. Excellent launching facilities will be provided, and when the site is fully equipped, Messrs. Harland and Wolff will be enabled to place in the water total tonnage each year greatly in excess of that of any other establishment.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

Not Likely.

(Rochester Post Express.)

It is reported that Kaiser Wilhelm smiled when he heard that Guatemala was planning to become an active belligerent. He won't feel so humorously inclined after the war, however, when Guatemala, with other South Central American countries, refuse to admit "goods made in Germany."

More to Face.

(Toronto Mail and Empire.)

If the Germans hold up their renewed drive for a little longer they will have additional tens of thousands of United States troops to face. Every month the United States forces in France will be increased by probably 200,000 men.

Not a Sinecure.

(Toronto Globe.)

Sir George Foster as Postmaster of Toronto would be a return to the spoils system with a vengeance. The Postmastership ought to be an occupation, not a sinecure.

Progressive Quebec.

(Kingston Standard.)

Two aviators have been engaged to patrol the wilds of Northern Quebec and other forest territories in order to discover and prevent fires. We believe this to be the first application of such a plan in Canada and Quebec deserves credit for introducing it.

The Odoriferous Stogie.

(Guelph Mercury.)

Save the poor man's smoke, the nickel cigar, from excessive taxation, the dealers demand. If some of the stogies were taxed high enough to prohibit their use, the public would be grateful. A cigar that announces its coming six blocks away is not a cigar; it is a gas attack.

Libel on Germany Gunnery.

(Savannah News.)

"A shell fired by the German long-range gun has struck a foundling asylum in Paris." And yet some observers say the monster weapon can't be fired accurately.

Another Hardship.

(London Advertiser.)

Another war hardship! American tanners decide people will have to be content with shoes of tan black, or white because of the shortage of dyes. A sad farewell to those silvery, gold, brilliant yellow and multi-coloured boots and shoes.

First Place.

(Kingston Whig.)

Every employer of labour should gladly give first place to the claims of the returned soldier. The same qualities of loyalty and steadfastness which made these men fight for ther country are just the qualities most needed in employees.

Germany.

(Troy Times.)

A resident of England, of German birth and held in a detention camp, committeed suicide because the government proposed to send him back to Germany. The incident indicates the opinion some Germans entertain regarding Germany as a dwelling place just now.

Time For Action.

(New York Sun.)

It is no time for jeremiads and vain regrets now. They should all be drowned out in the whir of aircraft machinery running night and day, full time and overtime, at the highest speed pressure that roaring fires under the boilers can drive them.

Daylight Saving.

(Utica Herald-Dispatch.)

There is one thing about the daylight saving proposition that is noteworthy. The robins and the rest of the feathered choir continue to do business, according to the old timetable. Mere man may fail for the camouflage, but the birds aren't deceived for a York second.

Airplane Situation.

(Indianapolis News.)

Borglum insists there has been no proper judicial inquiry into the airplane situation. If we have spent $1,000,000,000 without getting one serviceable airplane, it would appear that a place might yet be found in some of the federal prisons for those who got the money.

WAS OFF WORK 4 OR 5 MONTHS A YEAR WITH CONSTIPATION

If the truth were only known you would find that over one-half of the ills of life are caused by allowing the bowels to get into a constipated condition.

When the bowels become constipated the stomach gets out of order, the liver does not work properly, and then follows the violent sick headaches, the sourness of the stomach, heartburn, water brash, etc.

Keep your bowels regular by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. They work on the bowels gently and naturally, and will cure the worst cases of constipation.

Mr. Sylvester Clements, Galt, Ont., writes: "I desire to express my heartfelt thanks for what Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills have done for me. I have been suffering from a bad stomach and constipation and would be off work 4 or 5 months a year. I was hardly able to be inside without getting a severe headache. I tried doctors' medicine and other remedies, but got no relief until a friend advised me to use Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. Now I can work inside without any headaches or pain. I would not be without your remedy for anything. I write this so that anyone suffering the same as I did may use them and be cured."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

ALEXANDROVITCH

By WILLIAM H. OSBORNE

—Copyright, "" by T. C. McClure.—

Alexandrovitch was a man with a memory—a memory of death. Alexandrovitch was still young, almost a boy, but he was younger then, when he had met death and walked part way with her hand in hand. It was summer now, but then it had been winter. Alexandrovitch, for the nonce cast out of good employment, had started in on Shankowitch's mare to trudge from one village to another.

He did not make a fine appearance altogether. His clothes were thin, and he had tied his hands and feet in burlaps—burlaps picked up in the gutter—and he had started off. Remember, this had been some years ago. He had started out, bending his muscular body to the gale, pressing on in the teeth of the wind.

He had started out; that was all. He remembered but little else, for he was but one-third of the way out of Nodolosk when the blizzard struck him. But on he went, running briskly to keep the blood warm in his limbs and following the road as best he could. And then there had come a time when he felt his very soul freeze within him. He cried aloud in agony. But he pressed on.

Suddenly all this was changed. In place of the cold a drowsy warmth spread over him. He thought that he was lying wrapped in furs before some great log fire. Red flames danced before his eyes. Alexandrovitch thought that he danced and laughed aloud, he felt so comfortable. But he did not. He was simply staggering through the deep snow, his head lolling from side to side and his dark eyes staring at vacancy. Finally he pitched headforemost.

"Ah," muttered Alexandrovitch to himself pleasantly, "this is indeed a bed of down! Now shall I sleep and sleep and sleep."

And Alexandrovitch slept. And the blizzard roared about him. It was a strange thing that but twelve feet to the right of Alexandrovitch there was a small cottage, almost covered with the snow. Inside was a young girl, the daughter of Abram Saratovsky. Saratovsky was a Jew, a Russian Jew. There was but one window to this cottage, and in this window sat the young girl, closely wrapped up in a rug, for the cold entered and the snow drifted in through the pane of glass. She was peering out, watching the storm. Now the snow dashed against the house and blinded her. Then with a sudden gust it would blow away and open up a wide vista outdoors. During one of these swirls the girl caught a glimpse of something dark that lay prone upon a bed of snow. She shuddered. This girl was alone. The family had gone to market at a nearby village. There they would stay until the storm had spent its force. Anna Saratovsky peered out at the dark spot in the snow. Obeying a sudden impulse, she rose and ventured to the door. Then she returned.

"It is nothing," she assured herself. "It is not a man. I am seeing sights. It is the storm." Again she peered out. "It is—it is a man," she exclaimed to herself—"a man who will surely freeze to death!"

She gathered her rug close about her. Then with sudden energy she threw open the little door and staggered, buffeted by the storm, across the space of twelve feet. It might just as well have been twelve yards. The storm which had designs upon Alexandrovitch, prevented her from reaching him. But only for a time. Making an extra effort, she cast off the rug that hampered her, and then, with a sudden leap, she plunged forward and fell prone upon the dark object by the roadside. The object stirred.

"He is alive," exclaimed Anna Saratovsky—"alive, and I must save him!"

The next few moments made a woman out of a mere girl. The work of those few moments was the work of a lifetime. But she did it. Fifteen minutes later Anna Saratovsky was rubbing with snow the hands and face and feet of a strong young man, who was fair to look upon, and all the fairer because he was in the valley of the shadow of death. At last she was rewarded. Alexandrovitch slowly opened his eyes and looked into the face of a beautiful young girl. "You are one of the angels up in heaven," he murmured.

And all this was some years ago.

In Anna Saratovsky's village Alexandrovitch lived and moved and had his being. He was a Russian, and she was a Jewess, but to him she was one of the angels up in heaven.

It was early summer in the village. One night without a sound 200 men stole each from his house and met under cover of the darkness in the market place. Suddenly a mighty shout went up from them.

"The Jews! The Jews!" they cried. "Death to the Jews!" That was the beginning; after that, battle, murder, sudden death, blood and fire, fire and blood. The men were Russians; their neighbors were the Jews. Each man turned upon his neighbor; each man armed himself and struck and struck and struck to kill. They entered home after home, dragging the innocents into the streets and slaughtering them like cattle. Alexandrovitch was a Russian. He, too, sought a house. He was almost too late. Two people of the name of Saratovsky lay weltering in blood. They lay there at their doorpost, where Alexandrovitch had lain so many months before. Alexandrovitch looked upon them. His heart bled with pity.

"If one could only have foreseen all this!" he cried. "If I could have but known!" He shuddered not with fear, but with dread. He heard footsteps in the house.

"Anna—Anna Saratovsky!" he cried in a low voice. He heard an inarticulate sound. Alexandrovitch strode over the dead. He sought the living. He peered into the house. In a corner a silent struggle—a struggle to the death—was being fought. It was a young girl, Anna Saratovsky, gagged, but with free hands that she had torn clear of their bonds, fighting for dear life against two men. It did not last long, for Alexandrovitch was there. He sprang into the midst and struck out right and left.

"So, so, Baroski," he cried to one of the men. "It is you who are the dastard. That for you, Boroski!" And that for you, Mongolovitch!"

These two men were men that Alexandrovitch knew as well as he knew his brother, but it was all one now, for there was murder in the heart of Alexandrovitch, even as there had been murder in the heart of the two men, for Alexandrovitch was fighting for something more than his own life, and he was a maniac for the instant—a wild beast. Finally he drew his hand across his brow and turned to Anna Saratovsky. Then he stepped back and opened a rear door.

"Anna Saratovsky," he said, "thy father and thy mother are beyond all aid; none can help them now. We must even leave them where they are. The Holy Mother will protect them. Come thou with me, Anna Saratovsky." He did not give her time to hesitate. He caught her in his arms and forced her through the open door.

"Fly, Anna Saratovsky!" he whispered in her ear. "Fly, for the flying death comes after us."

It was a wild night, that night of the dread massacre. But at last the two had left pursuit behind. As the day began to break Alexandrovitch reached forth his arm and lifted from the ground the form of the fainting girl. Then with his precious burden he struck across the country. He reached a small, secluded and deserted stable. With the girl still in his arms he entered. They crouched there in a corner. Suddenly the girl burst into hysterical weeping. "My father and my mother!" she exclaimed. "My father and my mother!"

Alexandrovitch comforted her. There was a long silence between them. Suddenly Alexandrovitch bent down his head. "Little one," he whispered, "thou art alone in this wide world. Thou didst save me once from death. My life belongs to you and yours to me. Let us go through life together, little one. Today our faith is one—our creed is love."

Anna Saratovsky clung to him. "Whither thou goest," she whispered, "I will go. Where thou lodgest I will lodge. Thy people shall be my people, thy God my God."

Building-up for the Spring Attack at the Front is a good deal like putting the body in condition for an invasion of the germs of grip, pneumonia or "Spring fever" here at home.

At this time of the year most people suffer from a condition often called Spring Fever. They feel tired, worn out, before the day is half thru. They may have frequent headaches and sometimes "pimply" or pale skin and white lips. The reason for this is that during the wintertime, shut up within doors, eating too much meat and too little green vegetables, one heaps fuel into the system which is not burned up and the clinkers remain to poison the system—a clogging up of the circulation—with inactive liver and kidneys. Time to put your house in order.

For an invigorating tonic which will clarify the blood, put new life in the body, sparkle to the eyes, and a wholesome skin, nothing does so well as a glyceric herb extract made from Golden Seal root, Blood and Stone root, Oregon grape root and Wild Cherry bark. This can be had in convenient, ready-to-use tablet form at all drug stores, fifty cents, and has been sold for the past fifty years as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. By reason of the nerves feeding on the blood, when the blood is pure the nerves feel the effect, and neuralgia or other nerve pains disappear because such pain is the cry of the starved nerves for food. When suffering from backache, frequent or scanty urine, rheumatic pains here or there, or that constant tired feeling, the simple way to overcome these disorders is merely to obtain Dr. Pierce's Anuric from your druggist. In tablets, fifty cents.

Different From a Mountain.

A certain Philadelphian, who is at once a minister of the gospel and a registered physician, had an amusing experience in his attempt to corner a Christian Scientist, according to the Philadelphia Ledger.

Every time they met this scientist took occasion to scoff at medical science and to dwell upon the wonders that could be performed through faith.

"You are convinced that through faith you can do anything," said the medical man one day.

"Yes," he replied; "faith will move mountains."

A week later he was in the doctor's office with a swollen jaw, due to toothache.

"Oh, doctor," he said, "I have suffered agony all through the night. I simply can't stand this pain any longer."

"Have you tried faith?" the physician asked him. "You know you told me faith could move mountains."

"But this is a cavity, doctor."

Piccadilly Again.

It was at Pozieres that an officer of the S—s had an amusing experience. He was working along a communication trench with a party of bombers when he met a regular procession of Boches, all holding their hands well up, and led by one who carried an enormous cigar-box over his head. The British officer suspected some sort of foul play, of course. The Boches have played so many dirty tricks. But the fellow whipped open the big box and showed it had nothing in it but cigars, and explained as well as he could that it was by way of being a sort of propitiatory offering. He wound up by saying: "This war no good; no good at all, sir. Piccadilly again soon, now, sir!"—Montreal Herald.

After the third or fourth application of this grand Ointment I obtained relief and a few boxes were sufficient to make a thorough cure

TESTED TIRES
THERE'S a lot of geography in the wear of tires. Some wear well in one region, and wear out in another. Climate, peculiar roads and road conditions are the cause of it. Therefore, good service in a single region is not enough proof of tires that must undergo nationwide use. Least of all could it measure tires up to the TESTED standard, Goodrich demands of tires.
With a command to find out what Goodrich Tires do on the roads of every section of our country, and what the roads of every section do to Goodrich Tires, Goodrich sent its famous Six Fleets of over forty cars, light and heavy, the length and breadth of our nation to an aggregate mileage of 1,044,686 linear miles, and 4,178,744 tire miles.
Throughout this road roughing, SILVERTOWN CORDS, and BLACK SAFETY TREADS, proved themselves the tires of durability and dependability wherever you go in our broad land. They verified all the good qualities of Goodrich Tires, and revealed many new virtues.

The Canadian Bankers' Association

Staffs Heavily Reduced by War

MORE than half the men in the banks of Canada are now on military service, and the number which remains is being steadily reduced.

Women clerks have been employed in thousands and have done splendidly, but they have not the experience of the men they replace. It would be out of the question to expect them to work as rapidly or with the same knowledge of banking as officers of many years training in the profession.

The drain upon the number of experienced officers has now reached a point where it is necessary to ask the public to take into consideration this decrease in efficiency, and to lighten, as far as they can, the burden thus thrown upon those left to run the business. Canada was never so busy as now and the volume of banking business is greater than ever before.

How the Public Can Help

Transact your banking business in the morning as far as possible, and as early as possible. Try to avoid a rush at closing time.

Do not draw any more cheques than are absolutely necessary. Instead of paying small accounts by cheque, draw the money in one amount and pay in cash.

Change in Banking Hours June 1st.

On and after June 1st banking hours will be: 9.30 to 2.30; Saturdays 9.30 to 12.00.

This arrangement will give the staff more time to complete the large amount of work which cannot be taken up until after the office is closed to the public.

Special Services Discontinued July 1st.

Certain services must of necessity be discontinued, for a time at least.

On July 1st banks will discontinue receiving payments for tax bills and the bills of gas, electric and other public service corporations.

The banks desire to render all essential services including many special ones arising out of the war. In order to do this they make this appeal for co-operation in the manner suggested above

ENNISMORE BOY HAS AN EXCITING EXPERIENCE WITH THE BRITISH AERIAL FORCES

Letter Describes the Destruction of Two Enemy Machines in a Fight Over the Lines.

Mr. Eugene Moloney, Ennismore, has received the following interesting letter from his son, Lieut. P. J. Moloney, who until he was wounded, served with the flying corps in France. In his letter, Lieut Moloney relates some of his interesting experiences:

My Dear Dad: Just a few lines this a.m., as I am feeling much better, and find nothing to do. There is no news here whatever, only the "Duke of Connugh," was here the other day, and I had a long chat with him.

When he asked me where I was from, I thought I would have a little joke, and said "Ennismore." I never dreamed that he would know where it was, but he had an idea, and was in the correct province anyway.

I have as I said no news to-day, only the Col. was around this a.m., and I am going to get up to-day; I do not know for how long. Was just looking at my log book and will take up a little time by telling you of the scrap we had in France.

You remember how we hated to get up at home in the early morning. Well that is about the same as getting ready for an early morning offensive patrol. And this particular morning I am going to describe. I simply hated to get up; the weather was not too promising and pretty cold at that early morning hour. The orderly came along about 4.30 a.m., dropped on my bed, and whispered in a loud voice "Your're on early patrol, Sir!" Rolled over as if to take just one more wink, but saw old —— on the opposite side of our hut up and half dressed. I could not imagine myself being late at the sheds, so I jumped up and dressed, had a hot cup of coffee and made for "A" flight sheds. By this time there was a lovely dawn but no one seemed to pay any attention to it. When I got there the major was there in his pyjamas with his long coat on, and I gave him my usual morning salute. In answer he said, "Moloney, you are to lead the patrol; your orders are in my office."

I was rather surprised. The orders read as follows: "A D.O.P. to leave the aerodrome at 5.25, to work at 10,000 between R— and A—." The here mentioned points were well over the enemy's lines. I rushed around, got out all the machines, ran up the engines and had everything on minutes before time.

When the hour came for leaving, the C. O. gave the start off. We taxied out, got into formation, and took off in excellent formation, and started for the lines. I looked around and everyone was in his place. I felt good, for on the rear of the formation was a very stout young Canadian chap not far from home, and one of our "ace" pilots, who was a rosy faced chap who said he came from "God's country, Australia."

We got out to the lines and did not have over 10,000 feet; went north a while and climbed to the place where our order read. The sun by this time was gleaming strong from the east and made visibility almost impossible. However, I spotted an old two seater with black crosses (the German machine marks.)

I was about 3,000 feet above them; gave the signal to the others in patrol, but the most of them had already spotted it; and we got into shape for a scrap. I looked up to see if there were any enemy scouts above us but all was clear, and by this time there were two two-seaters, but one had already spotted us. We went down on them. I found myself on the tail of one, but his observer was not yet done, for he was peppering at me until it got a little too hot. I got into one of his blind spots and gave him about forty rounds. I could see his observer was done, and the pilot also must have been hit. The machine turned over completely out of control. I did not follow it down for I heard the rat-ta-ta-tat of machine guns, but on climbing up again I found it was two of our fellows after the other machine. He had put his nose down and beat it east as hard as he could. Our chaps were firing at long range so we could not say what damage was done.

Lieut. P. J. Maloney.

I made back to our rendezvous to pick up the others but as I turned I saw a D.V. albatross going about 130 miles an hour. He evidently had not seen me, as he was going to the rescue of his pals who were chased by our two scouts. It was a beautiful chance for me. I got above him slightly, got both guns ready, and as soon as he flew into my line of sight, pulled both levers and let him have it with both guns. I must have riddled him, for according to the A. A. reports he was burned to pieces before he fell to earth.

I found on returning that the three fellows who had not come down were just watching a chance to leap on anything from above.

When I got back to the rendezvous I found everybody there. We finished the patrol and when it was time to go home I gave the signal and you should have seen the boys how they opened their throttles and beat it for home.

When we landed and taxied our machines up to the sheds the R. O. (adj.) came up when I stopped my engine and said that five S. E. had been seen scrapping over A—. Two of the enemy airplanes were observed to have fallen in flames and another came down out of control.

All all it was not such a bad morning's work. We made out our combat reports and went to have breakfast, after that a wash up and smoke; and then went and looked our machines and engines over.

We all felt that after was said and down early patrol was not so bad as it was painted. This will give you an idea of what a flying officer's life is in France.

Kind regards to all, your son,
R. Moloney.

PLANTING.

The condition the potatoes are in at the time of planting is a very important factor in obtaining a maximum crop. If possible potatoes should be prevented from sprouting. Usually they are cut into four parts, but this depends largely on the seed itself. Experiments go to prove that the most economical kind of set to use is one with about four eyes and a good amount of flesh. The seed potato should be from 14 to 18 inches apart in the row. There is only one thing in favor of sets with few eyes, and that is, the fewer eyes to a set the smaller proportion of unmarketable potatoes there will be.

The best practice is to select good, medium sized potatoes and make four sets out of them, cutting lengthwise, and then across. There are several potato cutters on the market, but while some of these are better than others, the most satisfactory way is to cut by hand. Actual experiment has proved that seed planted as soon as it is cut yields on an average 8 bushels per acre more than when left unplanted for four or five days. It is very important to plant freshly cut seed. Leaving the sets uncovered in the trenches lessens the yield. This is worth remembering.

Canadian Northern Railway Award Is Fixed At Ten Million Dollars

The Award Which is Unanimous Stipulates That Each of the Parties to the Arbitration Proceedings Shall Pay Their Own Costs

SIR WILLIAM'S VIEWS

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, May 25.—The award of the C.N.R. arbitration was announced by Chief Justice Sir William Meredith to-day, fixing the value of 800,000 shares of comon stock of the C.N.R. at $10,800,000.

The award, which is unanimous, stipulates that each of the parties to the abitration proceedings shall pay their own costs.

By Act of Parliament the award of the arbitrators Sir William Meredith, Chief Jusice Harris, of Nova Scotia and Hon. Wallace Nesbitt, K. C., was limited to ten million dollars. The proceedings lasted about fifty days, during which over 2,000 words were spoken in evidence, and over 200 documents filed. The proceedings were concluded on May 15th

Sir William's Views.

"I haven't read the document yet," said Sir William Mackenzie, former President of the C.N.R., when asked his opinion of the award. During the early stages of the argument before the Commission at Osgoode Hall, Sir William expressed the hope that the arbitrators would find the stock worth between forty million dollars and fifty million dollars.

SEED POTATOES $1.25

Were Cheap on the Market Yesterday with Few Buyers.

Seed potatoes were selling at $1.25 a bag on the market this morning with comparatively few buyers in elsewhere at $2.00, but on the whole there is no strength left in the market. The threat of the Government to prosecute farmers who were feeding spuds to hogs had a salutary effect. There has been a freer offering on the market, and prices have been more satisfactory.

Peterboro' Boy Died Of Wounds

Pte. "Jock" Smythe Had Only Been in France a Few Days When He Met His Death.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Smythe, 582 Bolivar Street, received word yesterday that their son, David Edgar, had died of wounds on May 20, received when, on May 19th, the field hospital in France was bombed by the Germans. No particulars of what hospital were sent, but it was undoubtedly that bombed on Sunday by air raiders just behind the lines, and in which several nursing sisters were killed.

Pte. Smythe, who was known as "Jock," was 20 years of age, and enlisted with the Queen's Field Ambulance two years ago. He was one of those who gave an exhibition of field hospital work at the Fall Fair two years ago, and was a stretcher bearer. Previous to enlistment he was with the Dominion Bank staff. He leaves four brothers, one of whom is training now in Toronto.

PEASANTS DECIDE TO OPPOSE PROPOSED PEACE NEGOTIATIONS

(Special to The Examiner.)

MOSCOW, May 25.—General Skoropadski, "hetman" of the Ukraine, and representative of the Russian Soviets, will negotiate a peace pact May 28, it was announced here to-day.

M. Grossevisky and M. Golouzovitch, leaders of the Ukrainian Rads, have promised to suspend the sittings of that body, but the peasants' conference, at a secret meeting, decided to oppose any peace negotiation in which Skoropadski participated.

APPEAL FOR VOLUNTARY ENLISTMENT HAS NOT HAD SLIGHTEST EFFECT

Walter Long, Colonial Secretary Has Been Sent to Ireland For a Conference.

DEFENSE FUND

(By Webb Miller.)

(United Press Service.)

DUBLIN, May 25.—The Sinn Fein and Nationalist press are attaching much significance to the arrival here of Walter Hume Long, Colonial Secretary and chairman of the committee drafting the Home Rule Bill, for a conference with Field Marshal French, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. Long recently was designated to address the Irish executive. Newspapers believe his presence here portends another move in the Government's policy, which is awaited with foreboding.

Drama Developing.

"Secretary Long's arrival suggests that the drama is rapidly developing," declared the Freeman's Journal. "We boldly forecast it will be along the well-known lines of voercion. Long was the real inspirer of the lot proclamation."

French's appeal for voluntary enlistment has not had the slightest effect. Everybody agrees it is practically impossible to find any plan that will be successful until the present situation is cleared up.

Fund Is Growing.

The anti-Conscriptionists national defense fund, which already amounts to nearly one million dollars, is growing at the rate of about $30,000 a day. Limerick city recently sent $20,000. In many places workers' societies are collecting $5 from each member.

Italy Is Now Well Supplied With Food

Americans Are Assisting the Natives to Produce Larger Crops—Additional Aid in Prospect

CONFIDENCE EXPRESSED

(Special to Examiner.)

Washington, May 25.—American man-power is aiding Italy now along non-military lines. This fact can be published to-day after Secretary of War Baker's announcement in New York that soon American infantry, guners and artillerymen would be side by side with the Italians.

The non-military tasks performed by Americans in Italy to-day are mainly in assisting the natives to produce larger crops. Untrained in intensive agriculture, the Italians have failed to get the maximum from their soil.

STRENGTHEN MORALE.

The problem of supply of coal and wheat to Italy, according to entente sources, was a difficult one recently, but Italy is now adequately aided.

The question of sending this has been under discussion fo some time. Secretary Baker imposed confidence on the press as to the affair, but made the announcement himself in New York last night at an Italian war anniversary meeting.

PEOPLE'S COUNCIL DECLARES A DEFENSIVE MOBILIZATION

Special to The Examiner:

MOSCOW May 25.— The People's Council at Kursk (about 275 miles south of Moscow) has declared a defensive mobilization because large German forces are reported moving through that region toward Moscow.

The newspaper Pravda stated to-day that the Germans are crosing Kursk with the object of cutting off the railroad and waterway communication south of Moscow.

It is also stated that a German ultimatum, demanding annulment of military relations between Russia and the Entente is expected soon.

The army of Gen. Semenoff, the anti-Bolsheviki leader, is reported to have invaded Sama, with the aid of Chinese and Japanese forces.

A Republic.

"White Russia" has proclaimed itself a republic, with a coalition government. It is seeking to unite with Lithuania under a German protectorate.

"White Russia" has no definite boundaries, but it is that name applied to the Provinces of Mohilieff and Vitebsk by Empress Cathrine. It is the region east of Poland, north of Ukraine and south and west of "great Russia."

RELATIONS SEVERED

Mexico Has Broken Diplomatic Relations With Cuba—Ministers Recalled

THE CAUSE

Canadian Press:

MEXICO CITY, May 25.— Mexico has severed diplomatic relations with Cuba. This was learned officially after a report that the Mexican Charge D'Affaires at Havana and the Cuban Minister here had been recalled from their respective posts had been confirmed at the foreign office.

The recall of the Mexican representative to Cuba and suspending for an indefinite time of the sending of a new representative is explained officially as due to the fact that because of the war in which Cuba is involved that the Government has been obliged to dictate a measure that affects the interest of Mexican government in many interests.

POLICY IS SETTLED

Allies Are Agreed on the Course To Be Pursued Towards Russia —Will Not Interfere

"HANDS OFF"

(Special to The Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, May 25. — The United States and the Allies are agreed on the course to be pursued toward Russia—at least for the present it will be "hands off" the military policy. While at the same time, offering any active aid possible in supplies, there will be no interference now unless requested.

During the last week the British and French have both urged a change in this country's attitude toward possible military co-operation with the Russians and Japanese in the effort to rehabitate Russia to spirited defense against the German invaders. Ambassador Reading this week saw President Wilson personally on the project.

Watch and Wait.

But President Wilson's position is that while this would be the more "heroic" action, he believes his course —watch and wait—is the wiser. And it appears that this definitely settles for the time all thought of Allied intervention in Russia.

Meantime, it is being made very clear to Japan by this country and England that this "hands off" course is a question of policy and not one resulting from the slightest suspicion of Japanese intentions.

Germany's Efforts To Stir Up Revolution In Ireland Revealed In Official Report

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, May 25.—(via Reuters)—Germany's untiring efforts to foment revolution in Ireland with the aid of the Sinn Fein are laid bare in a statement from the Official Press Bureau, reviewing this phase of the Irish political situation since the beginning of the war.

After the abortive rebellion of Easter week, 1916, plans were made for a revolution in 1917, but this miscarried because of America's entry into the war and Germany's inability to send troops to Ireland. An uprising in Ireland was planned for this year after the German offensive in the west had been successful and when Great Britain presumably would be stripped of troops. Plans were developed largely in the United States.

Recent Arrests.

Concerning recent arrests in Ireland the statement says that facts and documents for obvious reasons cannot be disclosed at this time nor can means of communication between Germany and Ireland. One phase of every plan called for the establishment of submarine bases in Ireland. In the present circumstance it is added, no other course was open to the Government if useless bloodshed was to be avoided, and its duties to its Allies fulfilled, but to intern the authors and abettors of this criminal intrigue.

The Press Bureau statement indicates that the abortive Irish rebellion of Easter, 1916, was engineered largely in America by Count Bernstorff and an agent whom he sent to Germany, Father John T. Nicholson, an American priest of Irish birth. There Casement was secured as a leader and German Foreign Minister Von Jagow gave every assistance.

Fifty-Six American Lives Lost In Sinking Of British Transport

Steamer "Moldovia," 9,500 Tons Was Torpedoed Yesterday —British Destroyers Took the Men Off Sinking Vessel.

MEN WERE ASLEEP

(Special to The Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, May 25. — The Government was without additional details early to-day regarding the destruction of the British transport "Moldavia," and the probable loss of fifty-six Americans thereon. Information to the Government last night was based solely on the Admiralty statement.

DETAILS LACKING.

(Special to The Examiner.)

AN ENGLISH PORT, May 25. — "I have learned little yet except that the men got off the boat in orderly fashion," declared Major-General Biddle, Commander of American Forces in Great Britain to-day, following a visit to survivors of the torpedoed "Moldavia."

MEN WERE ASLEEP.

"Most of the men were asleep at the time of the explosion," said one officer among the survivors, "but there was no disorder, so far as is known. No one was drowned. All the casualties occurred at the moment of the explosion.

After the ship was struck, her officers kept on, hoping to remain afloat, but when it was seen that this was impossible British destroyers picked us up. The men were most courageous."

Discipline Was Good.

AN ENGLISH PORT, May 25.— "I never saw better discipline," declared Captain Johnson of the United States infantry, a survivor, in describing the torpedoing of the transport Moldavia in the English Channel, Thursday morning.

"The torpedo struck the Moldavia forward of the engines on the port side," Johnson said. "All the troops were slepeing in bunks in their uniforms. There was a loud explosion and the ship's whistle sounded the alarm. All assembled on deck alongside the boats in perfect order. It was just like a daily boat drill. I never saw better discipline."

DEPTH CHARGES.

The Moldavia continued under her own steam for a time for the purpose of avoiding a second torpedo. The destroyers escorting us circled about and dropped a number of depth charges but no one saw the submarine.

It is supposed that the force of the explosion cut off the means of escape, for several men who were on the troop deck. The survivors lost all their personal belongings.

"It was a situation caling for the utmost courage and steadiness. The men responded nobly and sang as they took to the boats. They gave three cheers as the Moldavia sank."

The survivors are now at a rest camp. They are enthusiastic over the splendid work of the ship's officers and crew and of the British destroyers.

WAS CAUGHT ROBBING STORE OF CHURCH GOODS

(Special to The Examiner.)

MONTREAL, P.Q., May 25.— Wm. Wilson, a sailor of a ship in port here, was caught in the act of robbing a church goods store at one o'clock this morning. He had gathered together $500 worth of rosaries and scapulars.

SPECIAL SERVICES IN MURRAY STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

Dr. Marshall Will Preach the Anniversary Services.

Dr. Marshall, who will preach the anniversary sermons of Murray Street Baptist Church to-morrow, followed Rev. John MacNeil as pastor of First Baptist Church, Winnipeg. When Mr. MacNeil was called to undertake work in France for the Y.M.C.A., the people of Walmer Road, Toronto, immediately sought, and secured the services of their pastor's Winnipeg successor. The three months which he spent in Toronto are gratefully remembered by all who had the privilege of sitting under his ministry. His force, versatility and magnetism have given him a place second to none in our Canadian ministry.

Dr. Marshall will preach at both the morning and evening services at Murray Street to-morrow. He will be the guest of Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Scott.

THE WEATHER

During the lifetime of Queen Victoria, her birthday, on May 24th, was invariably associated with a beautiful day, even if the weather before or following that date was not of the best. Since her decease these conditions have largely prevailed, though there have been exceptions. Yesterday, however, endeavored to supply the usual "Queen's weather"—bright and clear, but a trifle cool, the thermometer only rising to 66. There was a close approach to a killing frost in the morning, 35 degrees being touched, and white frost was plentiful.—W. P.

You should make every endeavour to hear Ada Ward in her new fashons lecture entitled "Faces in the Crowd," in St. Paul's church on Monday evening, May 27th, under the auspices of 53th Chapter, I.O.D.E. This is one of the most interesting and entertaining lectures before the public. 20-22-25-27

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

The Sunday School Convention for the Peterboro district will be held in Murray Street Church on Tuesday, May 28th, commencing at 10 a.m. Delegates will be present from all the Sunday Schools in the district. Dinner will be served in the basement of the church at 12.30 p.m. Supper will be served at 6 p.m. Tickets 50c each. Everybody welcome.

UNION PRAYER SERVICE SUNDAY

After the regular service on Sunday evening next a union service for prayer will be held under the auspices of St. John's, St. Paul's, Murray street and George street, in the George street church. It will begin promptly at 8.30 o'clock and will continue for half an hour. It is felt that owing to the crisis through which we are passing, and especially in view of the great offensive which will soon be launched, that such a meeting is urgently needed and should be largely attended.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

SATURDAY, MAY 25TH, 1918.

SERVICE FLAGS.

The service flag is coming into general use in Canada, following the inception of the idea in the United States, where these symbols of loyal service are to be seen everywhere. Every family which has a representative in the overseas forces of the Empire is emitled to display the Canadian service flag, which carries a maple leaf for each member who has served or is serving with the colours. Peterboro has not so far adopted the use of the flag, but the opportunity is now offered together with a chance to help the Peterboro boys who are prisoners of war in Germany. The Peter Robinson Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire, are offering service flags for sale, the proceeds to be devoted to the Prisoners of War Fund, and it is to be hoped that there will be a ready demand for the flags.

THE BANKS' RECORD.

That Canadian banks have a record in contribution to Canada's armies, of which they may well be proud, is shown by figures recently received by local bank managers. These statistics show that Canadian banks have contributed not far short of ten full battalions for service overseas, that is, over 10,000 men. At the beginning of the war, 17,674 men and 1,609 women were employed in the Canadian banks. By January 15, 1918, the number of men had been reduced by 3,454 and the number of women had been increased by 5,160. The total enlistments up to the middle of January from the bank staffs was 7,741. Under the decision of the Central Appeal Judge, in March last, 820 additional banking men were called to the colours, and since January 15, 300 have voluntarily enlisted, and 1200 have been called by recent amendment to the Military Service Act.

These figures show that more than half of the men in the banks of Canada are in military service, and the number that remain are being reduced steadily. Thousands of women have been employed to take the places of the men, but while all of the local banks report that the women are doing splendidly, they have not the experience of the men that they replace. It is for this reason, say the local bank managers, that the Canadian bankers association is about to issue an appeal to the public to co-operate with the banks so that banking business may be transacted as efficiently as possible under the exceptionally difficult conditions. An announcement of a change in banking hours is to be made, and the public will be urged to do their banking early in the day, and avoid drawing unnecessary cheques.

THE COPP CHARGES.

The charges made by Mr. A. B. Copp, member for Westmoreland, of "grievous irregularities and frauds" in taking the soldiers' vote in England, in the recent election are too serious to be waved aside with the statement that they are based on "the flimsiest kind of evidence."

Of the thirty two preferred by Mr. Copp, the most grave charge is that soldiers were threatened that if they did not vote for the government they would be taken at once to the front, and that men who did refuse to obey these orders were immediately transferred to drafts proceeding to the firing line. That is a terrible indictment, and if proven, the guilty officers and officials are deserving of the heaviest punishment. The other charges made by the member for Westmoreland, are serious and all are made upon his responsibility as a member of Parliament. In spite of that fact, a straight party vote has blocked a judicial investigation into these accusations.

The people of Canada complacent, as they sometimes seem to be with election irregularities of the ordinary kind, will be shocked at the thought that men who refused to vote against the dictates of their conscience, were punished by being immediately rushed to the front. Mr. Copp alleges that this crime has actually taken place, and when the Government refuses to allow the matter to be investigated, it may take more than Hon. Martin Burrell's abuse of Mr. W. T. R. Preston, overseas election agent of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, to convince the Canadian people that the charges should not be probed to the limit. The honour of Canada demands that such a course be adopted.

Mr. Joseph Archambault's charge of irregularities in the election in Chambly-Vercheres, a charge serious enough in itself, but not approaching in gravity the alleged intimidation used to force soldiers in England to vote for the Government, is to be investigated. Why should similar action be refused in the cases mentioned by Mr. Copp?

AN UNRESENTED INSULT.

Victoria, B.C., Times: J. H. Burnham, Unionist member for Peterboro in a criticism of the Civil Service Bill now before Parliament, said it was an insult to the people to assume that members of Parliament were not fit to recommend appointments. The people will bear up under the "insult" with perfect composure. They would rather be insulted in that way than to have to dig up the millions wrung from them by the patronage system of which Mr. Burnham thinks so highly. In less than two years after 1911 over 21,000 appointments were made on the recommendation of members for 10,000 jobs, and many of the appointees were not worth their salt. If the abolition of this system is an sult to the people, Parliament cannot insult them too much in the same way."

EVADING THE ACT.

Through the medium of the Ottawa Journal, the apparently deliberate evasion of the Military Service Act by a government department has been revealed. It seems that Joseph O. Leblanc, chief correspondence clerk of the Naval Service Department, was one of those called out in the first class, and his appeal for exemption supported by Deputy Minister Desbarats, eventually reached the Central Appeal Judge, Mr. Justice Duff, who ruled that the exemption should be refused, pointing out that there had been ample time for the Department to secure a substitute.

The last appeal having failed, it would be natural to expect to find Mr. Leblanc in the overseas forces. Instead of that, it has been discovered that he is still employed as a clerk in the Department at Ottawa, although to evade the spirit of the Miliary Service Act, he has been "enlisted" as a writer in the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve.

The Journal expresses an indignation that will be general when the facts are known, in the following editorial:

Having regard to Justice Duff's ruling that Mr. Leblanc was doing work in the department for which a substitute could be found within a reasonable time—a ruling that followed careful consideration of the facts and the representation of Mr. Desbarats; having regard to the example that one would naturally expect the Government to set to private employers; and having regard to the very bold answer given by Sir Robert Borden to the farmers of Canada who urged that their sons be exempted to do work on the farm for which no substitutes could be found; having regard to these things, what can be said of this matter other than that it is a wretched piece of business which the members of the Cabinet ought not to tolerate for one day longer?

The Department of Naval Service is apparently convicted of complicity in evasion of the Military Service Act in favour of a young man in every way physically fit for the army, and not employed on work for which a substitute cannot be obtained.

One of the essentials to the successful operation of the compulsory Military Service Act is the assurance in the public mind that it is applied on the same terms to all who come within its provisions. The discovery that one of the Government departments is a party to a deliberate evasion of the Act, displaying what, in face of Justice Duff's decision, can be described only as favouritism, certainly must tend to undermine public confidence.

Evasion here, why not there? How many other cases in the Civil Service are there like that of Mr. Leblanc?

This paper hopes to be able to announce promptly that the matter has been rectified and that Mr. Leblanc and any others in the same position, have been ordered to report forthwith to the military authorities for service.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The exploit of Lieut. Commander Pellegrini, and his three companions of the Italian navy, in entering the Austrian harbour of Pola, and blowing up an enemy battleship, was one of the finest feats of the war.

The latest reports from the West that there has been abundant moisture and that the prospects for a record harvest were never brighter, make good reading.

Canadian flying men continue to absorb much of the glory at the front. It has now developed that a young Ontario flyer, Captain Roy Brown, of Carleton Place, brought down the greatest German flyer, Count Von Richthofen.

Yes, I Intend To But Not Now

Have YOU any idea what that decision is costing you—even if you live? Of course if you die the cost is much GREATER.

Read the following facts and then decide for yourself:

The premium you would pay for $1,000 of insurance at age 60 WOULD BUY YOU nearly $4,000 of insurance at age 21.

The premium you pay for $1,000 of insurance at age 50 WOULD BUY YOU nearly $2,500 at age 21,

The premium you pay for $1,000 of insurance at age 35 WOULD BUY YOU $1,440 at age 21.

Besides while you may be insurable at age 21 you may not be insurable, AT ANY PRICE, at the other ages mentioned.

The one great fate that touches our lives is the verdict of NOW.

See a Sun Life agent about this.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR PETERBORO'

Farmers and Market Gardeners Are Now Producing Seeds—Supply May Be Cut Off

Peterborough is starting a new industry as a result of the war, in the growing of seeds. Before the war farmers and market gardeners obtained all the seed necessary from Denmark, Holland an d Sweden at a very low price. Under the changed conditions, such seed as spinach, turnip, radish, bean, etc., have jumped from 15 and 25 cents a pound to $1.75 and $2.00, with a probability that the supply at any time may be completely cut off.

Acting on advice from the government, which warned the Ontario farmers of the probable shortage, the farmers about Peterborough county are going in for seed growing with a view not only of supplying themselves, but to put the seed on the market. M. Bruce Johnston, North Monaghan, said last night, that he has started in earnest to grow a big supply of turnips, beans, pickling onions (which last year were as seed, unfavourable), radish, carrots and beets, and said that the farmers about him are speeding up the idea.

Parliament Ends Present Session At Lightning Speed

Closing Hours See Eighty Million Dollars of Items Put Through

Ottawa, May 24. — From 7 o'clock till 10 Thursday night the House raced through the appropriations for the current fiscal year. Nineteen million dollars were appropriated for the post office department after a brief discussion, during which Hon. W. S. Fielding protested vigorously against parliament being compelled to prorogue before the business of the House had received proper consideration.

The supplementary estimates, aggregating $61,000,000, were passed with lightning-like rapidity, including an item of $3,000,000 in connection with the famous Quebec and Saguenay enterprise. There was a rush to get through by 11 o'clock, and shortly after that hour His Excellency the Governor-General gave the royal assent to the supply bill and other legislation, and thus formally brought to a close the first session of the thirteenth parliament.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts, which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

Children's Shoes

THE buying of children's shoes is a difficult problem for parents these days. We believe you will want to know some of the important facts that we can tell you on this subject. So far as your own boots and shoes are concerned—that is, shoes for men and women—you know that advanced prices are necessary. This situation has been accepted as inevitable.

But when it comes to paying advanced prices for children's shoes, some parents are apt to regard that as a different matter.

As a matter of fact, while there is less material in a child's shoe than in an adult's, they cost almost as much to make. A boy's shoe costs as much today as did his father's a few years ago. And this is a condition which it is not possible to avoid.

Efforts to buy shoes for children at low prices because they are children's shoes, are not practical. Suppose you were to demand children's shoes from your dealer at the prices current two years ago; he in turn would exert pressure on the manufacturer to supply a cheaper shoe, one which he could sell for less money than conditions make possible. The result would be most unsatisfactory, because to cheapen a shoe beyond a certain point, just in order to meet an impossible price, is wasteful. Such a shoe cannot give the wear it should.

Make it a point to buy good shoes for your children—shoes of sterling quality, and be assured that a good shoe cannot be made except at a reasonable price, everything considered.

We make thousands of pairs of children's shoes a year. They are made in a factory where extreme care is taken in the selection of materials, where the grade of workmanship is high, and under manufacturing conditions of the greatest efficiency and economy.

In Ames Holden McCready shoes you get full value, and it is not possible to get the same value for less money.

The next time you have occasion to buy children's shoes, ask your dealer to show you shoes branded A.H.M. Perhaps your children are wearing these shoes now—but the next time, as a matter of value and economy, look for the A.H.M. stamped on the sole.

SPECIFIC FOR BRONCHITIS.

The turpentine used in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is not the ordinary commercial article, which is little used because of the unpleasantness of taste, but is specially extracted from tamarac and spruce gum and so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be at the same time pleasant to use and wonderfully effective in the cure of affections of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

DANGER LURKS IN EVERY ONE OF US

We Are As Full of Deadly Poisons As A Germ Laboratory.

AUTO-INTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Absolutely Prevents This Dangerous Condition.

The chief cause of poor health is our neglect of the bowels. Waste matter, instead of passing from the lower intestine regularly every day, is allowed to remain there, generating poisons which are absorbed by the blood.

In other words, a person who is habitually constipated, is poisoning himself. We know now that Auto-intoxication, due to non-action of the bowels, is directly responsible for serious Kidney and Bladder Troubles; that it upsets the Stomach, causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Sleeplessness; that chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Pain In The Back, are relieved as soon as the bowels become regular; and that Pimples, Rashes, Eczema and other Skin Affections disappear when "Fruit-a-tives" are taken to correct Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives" will protect you against Auto-intoxication because this wonderful fruit medicine acts directly on all the eliminating organs.

Children Are Well Cared For At The Children's Shelter

New Playroom Has Been Provided—Herbert Jackson the Baby Who Was Abandoned Sometime Ago is Still at the Institution and is Doing Well—Gardening Activities.

CHILDREN HAVE DAILY PRAYERS

To the casual public the Children's Shelter is more or less a clearing house for dispensing with neglected children. To the visitor who goes with an eye to just what goes on in that house it is a big, well ordered home, where little children get as good care, and better in many cases, as in many of the homes in the city.

Nine Children.

At present Mrs. Reid, the matron, has in her care nine small children, ranging in age from a year to eight. One of the nine is out on "probation" at a home in the city, pending adoption.

New Play-room.

The house itself has been altered to a certain degree lately, with the result that the children now have a big, roomy play-room where the kitchen used to be; the former play-room has been turned into the kitchen. This room is neat to the last degree. Rows of books have been placed around the walls, and no child leaves his clothes in an untidy heap.

Good Meals.

In a neat, orderly dining-room the children get a plain, healthy diet. For instance to-day (Saturday) they have had good vegetable soup, with a plain pudding for desert, and for tea will have cocoa, bread, and milk and jam. This menu is altered daily, always with an eye to what is best for the children's health. The fare even in an orphanage may be altered by war, and home-made jam has been substituted for prunes and stewed figs. These jams Mrs. Reid prepared last fall from fruit grown on the grounds. Two vegetables are served every other day; these, too, were grown on the grounds of the Shelter.

Prayers at Home.

The children have daily prayers, and every morning, in offering thanks for the day, the soldiers at the front are remembered. At night, before the children are washed and put to bed at 7 o'clock, they again have prayers.

No Grumbling.

The little ones never grumble. In fact the matron claims that even the big ones of 18 years who sometimes come back, take things as they find them, and never complain. Their manners are strictly looked after, likewise their habits, which, as the children are often from desolate homes, are at times filthy.

Abandoned Baby.

No one who saw Herbert Jackson, the little boy who was abandoned this winter, at the time he was taken to the Shelter, would recognize now the big, good-natured, well-fed baby, which, cleanly dressed and happy, spends his days crawling about the floors, and at night sleeps with the Matron.

The Garden.

Mrs. Reid is very particular about the garden, as she looks upon it as the probable fare for next winter. The little ones help as far as they are able in fixing up the ground and weeding. Orderly rows of potatoes, cabbages, cauliflowers, onions, and beets already bear promise of plenty of vegetables.

Medical Treatment.

Between Dr. King, who attends gratuitously to the health of the children, and Dr. Middleton, to their teeth, the little ones are fair specimens of what children ought to be. The Home is open at all times for visitors who care to get in touch with how little children, not so fortunate as their in having homes, are treated.

JOINS HUSBAND IN PRAISING TANLAC

Mrs. Benson Says Results She Derived Have Been Marvelous

A few weeks ago, when James Benson, of 683 Runnymede Road, Toronto, a returned veteran, now employed by the Harris Abbattoir Company, gave a testimonial, which was printed in this paper, telling how Tanlac had relieved him of a serious stomach trouble, it attracted widespread attention. His wife, Mrs. Emma Benson, now not only corroborates his statement, but in the following story of her own experience, which she related a few days ago, she tells of the benefits she has personally derived from the use of Tanlac.

"A friend in need is a friend indeed," said Mrs. Benson, "and that is exactly what I think of this wonderful Tanlac ever since it relieved me of my neuralgia and those awful headaches I used to suffer from so much.

"I had been in a badly run-down condition for a long time," she continued, "and I had such terrible attacks of neuralgia and my head ached so that I would just take to my bed and lie there in agony for as long as four days at a time. Going through with this awful experience just shattered my nervous system so that I would lay awake at night for hours before I would dose off, and then it wouldn't be a sound, restful sleep, but I'd get up in the mornings feeling so wretched that I couldn't get a bit of my housework done till almost noon. Many a time when I would start to get out of bed I'd be so weak and nervous that I'd actually faint dead away. I tell you what I was completely worn out and my life was simply one day of misery after another.

"When I saw how Tanlac had relieved my husband of his stomach trouble I decided to see if it would help me too, and I can truthfully say that the results have been simply marvellous. I have taken only three bottles so far, and that terrible neuralgia is completely gone. I haven't had a headache since I started on Tanlac, my nerves are quieter, and I sleep like a baby. That tired, worn-out feeling has passed away and I am stronger and better in every way than I have been in a long time. My husband and I both think so much of Tanlac that we have made it our family medicine and have already recommended it to many of our friends."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

Peterborough, May 22, 1918.

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—I read in your paper an interesting sermon by Rev. R. Pogue. Some of the statements were not quite clear in regard to Christian theology. Now, if Christian theology was based on Gods words why not stand by it, but if the times and experiences of these awful times are as he says, then men's minds must have a drastic change in belief. If a man die shall he live again, Job, 14-14, Read the whole verse and you say yes. 1 Thes., 4-14, 1 Cor. 15-22. As in Adam all die (sinners) so in Christ shall all be made alive. In Jer., 31, verse 16:17, the Lords says: Refrain thy voice from weeping and thine eyes from tears, for thy work shall be rewarded, saith the Lord. They shall come again from the land of the enemy (death), and there is hope in thine end saith the Lord. Thy children shall come again to their own obrder. Now, because the atmosphere in which our imaginations live it does not alter God's plan; neither does the war. God says the soul that sinneth shall die, and there is no wisdom nor knowledge or device in the gave and the dead know not anything, therefore the plan of God is plain. The only hope is by and through the resurrection of the dead, not the body of clay, but of the soul, or being and God giveth it a body as it hath pleased Him, natural or spiritual, for there is a natural body and there is a spiritual body. It's quite true none can tell the thoughts of a soldier in the moment of death, or a little before. His cry, Lord remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom. Could he please God in that little time, that he would change from a natural to a spiritual body in the resurrection. Christ said on that day, and it was a day of darkness, 'To-day thou shalt be with me in paradise.' Jesus died that day and God raised Him from the dead the third ay. The thief will be raised from the dead in the resurection, when all that are in death shall hear the voice of the Son of God and come forth into the new kingdom. Paradise lost by Adam and redeemed by Christ and for which all Christians have been praying thy kingdom come, and thy will be done for behold I create a new heaven and a new earth. Isa., 65:17-25. The sacrifice of calvary is nto in vain. He broke the barrier of the tomb and paid the ransom for all to be testified in due time.

Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—I think our City Fathers can hardly realize the discomfort the citizens of Peterborough are feeling from the dust which is filling our houses and preventing the enjoyment of taking air on verandahs, etc. I do hope some effort is being made towards oiling our streets, which is the only permanent remedy for this nuisance.

The motorists can enjoy George street, but it is hoped that those who are without cars will not be doomed much longer to swallow the dust in patience.

FALSE ALARM GAVE FIREMEN RUN LAST NIGHT

Exactly at one o'clock this morning the fire brigade was called out to a false alarm. While Chief Grange was fixing the glass in the box, some young people who had just left a dance in the vicinity gathered around to watch the Chief at work. P. C. Wigg happened to saunter around and the Chief advised him to take the names of the young people. All the names were taken and they will likely be called in court for ringing in a false alarm.

SUNDAY EVENING AT ALL SAINTS.

The service at All Saints' Church Sunday evening will be of a patriotic nature, in keeping with Empire Day. In view of the great drive anticipated on the Western front, it is hoped that many will use this national occasion for intercession on behalf of our men and for the success of the Allied armies. Special mention will again be made of the members of the congregation overseas, whose relatives and friends are particularly invited to attend the service.

Salvation Army Excursion Was A Successful Event

Three Boats Carried a Record Crowd Down the River—Band Concert in Victoria Park

On the Salvation Army picnic to Hiawatha, the three boats were packed to capacity, and many had to be turned away. The Stoney Lake had on board the Dovercourt Band, while the Geneva had the Temple Band. The Rainbow was also chartered for the trip.

"Everything went off without a mishap," said Colonel McMillan, of the headquarters' staff Toronto.

The boats left the wharf sharp at 8 o'clock and landed at Hiawatha at 11 o'clock. A band concert was the first feature on the grounds, rendered by Toronto's crack corps, the Dovercourts. Refreshments were served on the grounds.

Football Match.

The event of the day was a football match between the bandsmen and the Hiawatha Indians. The ndian Chief especially showed his mettle and was a formidable opponent.

It is estimated that there were over a thousand people on the grounds. Among the officers present were: Mayor G. H. Duncan, Colonel McMillan, Deputy to Commodore Richards, Brigadier Morehen, Captain and Mrs. Wilson, of Toronto; Commandant and Mrs. McElhiney.

The boats returned to Peterborough at 8 p.m. A band concert was given in Victoria Park by the Dovercourt Band and was attended by a tremendous throng who listened attentively to the fine programme.

At noon yesterday Mr. Hugh Crawford and his son were capsized in a canoe near the George street wharf. Men from the Matthews-Blackwell plant put out in a punt and rescued the party who were none the worse for their submersion in the Otonabee River. A large sail with which the canoe was propelled was the cause of the accident. Mr. Crawford was preparing to turn around when a gust of wind struck the sail and overturned the frail craft.

MR. J. T. WILSON ENTERTAINED BY THE LOCAL UNDERWRITERS

Several Interesting Speeches Followed a Banquet at the Empress Hotel on Thursday Evening.

THE PROGRAMME

At the Empress Hotel on Thursday evening the entertainment and reception for Mr. J. T. Wilson, Halifax president of the Dominion Life Underwriters' Association of Canada and Mr. J. Cassel Graham, Dominion general secretary, were brought to a close by a banquet to the two gentlemen which was attended by twenty-five of the local Underwriters' Association. Mr. R. F. Sedgwick, president of the Association for Central Ontario, occupied the chair. As the banquet was informal, toasts were dispensed with.

The Speeches.

Following the banquet all the members were heard from on the topic of the Association. Mr. Wilson spoke briefly, eulogizing the city, which he had toured during the day. He also spoke of the ethics of life insurance.

Mr. Cassell Graham spoke of the insurance laws and the great benefits and protection derived by the public and agents from the Association.

Mr. Sedgwwick wa shighly complimented and commended by all on his able speech on the benefits of the Association and the service given to the public by the assurance agent, which service is second only to that rendered by the Ministerial Association. The Association was enthusiastic on the admirable maner in which Mr. Sedgwick filled his duties as chairman.

A Programme.

A good programme was given to which, by special request, Mr. Hughson Johnstone contributed a recitation, "The Face Upon the Barroom Floor," with an encore of Gungedin. Mr. Roy gave a very acceptable Scotch solo.

Executive Commended.

The executive was much commended on the way they are conducting meetings for the present year and the educational entertainments being given.

Broke Up at 12.

Two New Ministers In Ontario Cabinet

ARCHDEACON CODY BECOMES MINISTER OF EDUCATION AND GEORGE S. HENRY MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE.

Toronto, May 25. — Shortly before 6 o'clock on Thursday evening Archdeacon Cody was sworn in as Minister of Agriculture, and George S. Henry as Minister of Agriculture in the Ontario government, the announcement by Sir William Hearst coming as a great surprise. Hon. Dr. Pyne, former Minister of Education, has been appointed Clerk of the County Court, succeeding the late John Shaw.

In relinquishing the portfolio of Minister of Agriculture, Sir William Hearst has followed the plan which he announced when accepting it, and while rumors have been current for some time that Mr. Henry would receive the appointment, there have been no indication that it would come so soon

On the arrival of Sir John Hendrie from Hamilton late in the afternoon, the members of the Cabinet were called to the Prime Minister's office, where they were sworn in.

A tribute to the years of service given by Hon. Dr. Pyne was paid by the Prime Minister when he made the official announcement.

REFUSE A MAGISTRACY?

Appointee at Windsor May Return to the Front Instead.

WINDSOR, May 225.—Preferring to return to France, Lieutenant Donald Gregory, who has been recommended for magisterial vacancy at Windsor, declared he might refuse the appointment. His friends are advising him to accept the office, but he refuses until the Militia Department definitely rejects him for further service at the front.

NOISES IN EARS, TWITCHING NERVES

Told of the Exhausted Condition of the Nerves—Indigestion and Weak Heart Action Were Other Symptoms.

KINGSTON, Ont., March 22.—There are few people in this city who are not acquainted with the exceptional restorative power of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Reports have come from almost every street of the Limestone City telling of cures effected by this treatment, and the druggists have been surprised at the enormous demand for this great nerve restorative.

This is not to be wondered at when cure is effected in such extreme and complicated cases as the one described in this letter.

Mrs. M. A. Couling, 61 Stanley street, Kingston, Ont., writes:

"For a number of years I suffered from a rundown condition of the system, due to overwork. I could not sleep and was restless and worried. I had pains through my back, buzzing in the ears and twitching of my nerves and muscles. I had indigestion and my appetite became poor. I would get drowsy after eating and frequently suffered from great weakness. My circulation was poor, my hands and feet always cold and my heart action weak. I consulted doctors, but they could do nothing for me. Whilst in this condition I decided upon a trial of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. After taking eight boxes of this medicine I am relieved of all the symptoms from which I suffered before, and in general I feel like a new woman. I used to be very constipated, so I took Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in connection with the Nerve Food, and am completely cured of that trouble, too."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c. a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.75, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

AUTOMOBILE WAS DEMOLISHED BY A STREET CAR

Brand New Car of Mr. Ben Stacey Was Struck Amidships With Disastrous Results

Mr. Ben. Stacey, King street, district manager for the De Laval Company, had a disastrous ending to his first outing in his new Chevrolet car on Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. With three ladies he was coming down Hunter street at a fair speed and apparently attemnted to cross the track at the corner of Park and Hunter before the Jackson Park car, which was coming north on Park. Evidently misjudging the speed of the street car the two cars struck the same place at the same time. The street car caught the Chevrolet broadsides, the fender running under the automobile. To the chorus of excited screams from the ladies, and reports of two tires bursting, the automobile was carried by the street car up the tracks about 80 feet before the motorman could stop, as at the time of the collision the street car was going fairly quickly. Crowds immediately gathered expecting a casualty, but the party and car miraculously escaped with a few hundred dollars' damage to the automobile.

ROAD OIL HAS ARRIVED

The city has managed to secure a supply of road oil and the work of distributing it on the dusty highways is under way. Oil is a difficult commodity to get and there is every reason to believe that only a limited amount will be available the year. One application is all that the most of the streets will get this year.

Can You Solve This Great War Puzzle?

Four Things That Will Win The War

WHAT ARE THEY?

THE 16 Circles above can be made to spell out the names of the four chief things that are going to win the war. Our bright loyal Canadian boys and girls can help provide at least one of these things. Every boy and girl should know all of them. Can you tell what words the four magic circles represent?

How to solve it.—Each circle represents a letter of the word called for. The number of dots in the circle represents the position of that letter in the alphabet. For instance: "A" would be represented by a circle with one dot because it is the first letter of the alphabet, "B" would be represented by a circle with two dots because it is the second letter, "C" would be represented by three dots, "D" by four dots and so on. You must correctly count the dots in each circle, figure out the letter represented by its position in the alphabet and when you have them all figured out put them into proper rotation to spell the name wanted. It's not an easy puzzle but if you can solve it correctly you may win this lovely shetland pony or one of the grand Cash prizes above.

Next to its unique flavour, the great economy of Salada Tea has been the reason for its enormous sale.

POLICE AFTER THE FIRECRACKER PEST.

A NUMBER OF THEM WERE APPREHENDED YESTERDAY FOR DISTURBING THE PEACE.

The latest form of pest to make its presence felt in the city is the firecracker fiend. It usually afflicts the youth who wears a pinch-back suit, a fancy striped collar, or that effeminate creation known as the sport shirt. The method of operation is to stand on the street corner, ogle every girl that passes and then scare her out of a year's growth by slamming a percussion cap at her heels. Yesterday the police took a hand in the pastime and waltzed a number of these noble young men into the police station, where they were warned not to repeat the practice.

Scene From "The Heart of W etona" Here Next Wednesday.

David Belasco's wonderful play, "The Heart of Wetona," comes to The Grand on Wednesday evening next. "The Heart of Wetona" is regarded by many as the greatest play of northwestern life ever produced on the English speaking stage. The play has to do with the daughter of an Indian chief, who has had the educational advantages of Eastern colleges, and intimately deals with many phases of Northwestern life. Into it is woven a romantic heart story of love and reality, and the play is one of deeply sustained interest throughout. "The Heart of Wetona" was first produced by David Belasco and Charles Frohman at the Lyceum Theatre, New York, and enjoyed a run of an entire season. The New York critics were a unit in pronouncing it a smashing good play, a play of joyous excitement for young folks or folks who still retain youthful hearts. There are fun, excitement, tears, smiles, until the audience literally howls with delight.

CAMPBELL & BEST

The Official Laboratory Model in a Exquisite Walnut Cabinet

It was selected by a process of elimination from a field of forty candidates. Forty sketches were submitted by leading designers. Fifteen cabinets were actually constructed; one from each of the fifteen sketches were selected as deserving consideration. And finally the model you see was voted the most beautiful—worthy of encasing.

The New Edison

"The Phonograph With a Soul"

No Picture can do justice to this exquisite cabinet. You must actually see it—see the warm rich tints, the velvety texture of the walnut surfaces.

See it in our window, or, better still come into our store and hear the instrument itself.

SILVER STOCKS

The fixing of silver metal price at $1.00 means great prosperity for Cobalt properties. This price will remain for years to come. The purchase of 350,000,000 ounces by the United States Government cannot be completed under five years, possibly ten. Buy now before the boom starts in Silver shares.

The New York Curb is beginning to take an active interest in Silver. We have direct wire to that market.

Corn Frowns Vanish in a Moment

HERE is a fact which millions know. It is so clear, so simple that it makes a corn ridiculous. You can stop any corn pain in a jiffy, and stop it for good.

You can end any corn quickly and end it completely. You can do this without any bother, without any soreness, without any muss.

So corns are utterly unnecessary. And folks who have them nowadays do themselves a wrong.

You can prove these facts on any corn by applying a Blue-jay plaster. The pain will stop instantly.

Then a bit of red wax, centered on the corn, will gently undermine it. In two days, usually, the whole corn disappears. An occasional corn needs a second application.

It is simple and gentle, yet sure.

The whole effect is centered on the corn, so it doesn't lead to soreness.

To pare a corn—for brief relief—takes ten times longer than to apply a Blue-jay.

Try Blue-jay on one corn. See how promptly you forget it—see how soon it ends. Then remember that every corn—right at the start—can be ended in like way. You should never for a moment suffer corns.

Congregational Meeting Of The George Street Methodist Church

Instead of the usual prayer meeting, a large congregational meeting was held in the George Street Methodist Church on Wednesday evening, May 22, 1918.

The pastor, Rev. A. J. Thomas, B.A., B.D., presided, and reports were received from the various departments of the church. Mr. C. C. Parsons, superintendent of the Sunday School, gave an exceptionally favourable report of the year's work. Sixty members of the school joined the church during the year; the average attendance showed an increase of 28 over that of last year; over twice the amount was contributed to missions through the "King's Bank," which was installed January 1st, 1918, and the average Sunday collections showed an increase of 16 per cent. over the preceding year. The treasurer, Mr. George Robertson, reported a substantial balance on hand to begin the new year.

Mrs. B. Shortly, secretary of the Ladies' Aid Society, presented a splendid report from this society, the total amount raised during the year being about $1,200. Five hundred dollars of this was paid towards a new carpet for the church.

Financial Report.

Mr. Felix Brownscombe, treasuret of the church, presented the financial report, which was most encouraging indeed. Several expenditures of an exceptional nature, including new carpet on the aisles and platform of the church, new chairs in the gallery and a new furnace in the parsonage, were made during the year, but notwithstanding, a substantial credit balance was reported. Nearly sixteen thousand dollars was contributed during the year for all purposes.

Mr. T. W. Robinson, missionary treasurer, reported a very successful year, which was well in advance of the year preceding, with the exception of two special contributions which were made to this fund a year ago.

Reports from the Senior and Junior Leagues were read by Misses Clydesdale and Outram respectively, and were very gratifying indeed.

Mr. C. C. Carruthers, recording steward, presented the statistical report, showing a membership of about one thousand and fifty, which is a net increase of one hundred over last year.

Music Committee.

Mr. S. R. Armstrong, chairman of the Music Committee, moved a vote of thanks to Mr. J. H. Renwick and the choir for the splendid music provided during the year. Mrs. Renwick sang a much appreciated solo.

During the evening Mr. J. J. Hartley and Mr. D. W. Dumble spoke of the excellent work which has been accomplished the past year, and stated that this was largely due to the excellent work of the pastor, Mr. Thomas. The reports given showed the church to be in a very healthy flourishing state. The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the doxology, after which the joint boards of the church met and elected the standing committees for the ensuing year.

Are Home From Service Overseas

A number of Peterboro soldiers invalided home from overseas reached the city on Thursday evening. Among those in the party were Sergt. Leonard Williams, a member of the original 21st Battalion, Lance Corp. Johnston Paudash, the Hiawatha Indian who distinguished himself as a sniper and won the Military Medal while fighting in France with the same battalion, and Pte. L. Lebarr, and M. Hallihan, who went overseas with the 93rd Peterboro Battalion.

Nothing Like Internal Bathing For Constipation

If people only knew what Internal Bathing is doing for thousands of others there would be fewer Pills and Laxatives swallowed, and very much less suffering from Constipation and the accompanying Stomach and Nervous troubles resulting from it.

Mrs. Cake, 941 Ellery Street, Victoria, B. C., writes:

"Before using the 'J.B.L. Cascade' I suffered constantly from Constipation and frequent bilious attacks and sick headaches. Since beginning your system of Internal Bathing with the 'J.B.L. Cascade' four months ago I have not had one attack and feel stronger and better in every way. My only regret is that I did not get a Cascade sooner."

By the proper application of Nature's cure, warm water, by means of the "J.B.L. Cascade" the lower intestines are kept free from all poisonous waste. Drugs force Nature. Internal Bathing assists her.

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York, a specialist on Internal Bathing, invented and perfected the "J. B. L. Cascade," which has done more during the past 2 years in restoring health and lessening disease than all other means combined. Ask the Warne Drug Co., Peterboro, for Booklet, "Why Man of To-day is Only 5 Per Cent. Efficient." They will also be pleased to show and explain the J. B. L. Cascade to you.

BOWLERS WERE BUSY YESTERDAY

Honours broke evenly at the Aylmer Street Bowling Green yesterday when the local green was opened for the season by a friendly game between Port Hope and Peterborough. In four games the score close 2-2.

Trent Valley Canal Will Be a Valuable Asset to Peterboro City and County

Preparations are under way for the official opening of the Trent Canal, which will take place next month. A few days ago when the matter of a five hundred thousand dollar appropriation was brought up in the House of Commons, the discussion that arose revealed a number of the advantages that will result when the waterway is open for traffic. "Hansard" containing the official report of the discussion is as follows:—

Railways and Canals—Chargeable to capital—canals—Trent canal construction, $500,000.

Mr. BURNHAM:—I should like to have the privilege of congratulating the Government on the approaching opening of this splendid work. It is true that only four-fifths of the canal is now completed, but it means the opening of the canal to all that vast arterial commerce of central Ontario upon lake Ontario. The upper part, which connects with Georgian bay is, of course, not yet finished. It is progressing according to war conditions. That is the best that can be said, and we do not expect anything more, but it will necessarily be completed in a very few years. It is a fine thing to think that this great work, which has been under construction for no less than seventy-eight years, is about to be opened. It must have been a great proposition, or it would have died a natural death or been slain by criticism many a long year ago. Of course, in recent years the population of the country, and of central Ontario, has very considerably increased. The consequence is that, as in all countries where population accumulates, industries have arisen and favourable opportunities such as exist along the line of the Trent canal are sure to be taken advantage of. Places like Trenton, Cambellford, Peterborough, Lakefield, Lindsay, Fenelon Falls, Orillia, Barrie—all of those places have become centres of indistry. The Hydro-Electric has an opportunity of developing 150,000 horse-power. That opportunity has arisen in consequence of this canal.

Mr. LEMIEUX:—Is that the available horse-power?

Mr. BURNHAM:—That will be the available horse-power. The consequence is that you will have a cheap waterway which will immediately serve the interest of no less than 2,000,000 people. More than forty-three constituencies are directly concerned. It is only necessary to quote an instance or two to show how important the opening of this canal is to the whole district to which I refer. The Quaker Oats Company have just completed the reconstruction of their factory in Peterborough. The manager of the firm from Chicago, told me the other day that the work cost them $2,250,000, and he assured me that the minute the other end of the canal was opened and they could bring in their grain from the West in their own barges, they would treble this expenditure, and factories totalling not less than six or seven million dollars would immediately arise. He said the people of Canada especially, in that district, had no idea of what was in contemplation and of the industrial development that must take place as soon as the canal was completed. There are at present 615,000 bushels of oats of the company at Portt McNicoll awaiting transportation. The grain cannot be shipped because of the shortage of cars. Last year, the year before, and on several other occasions this immense factory had to be shutt down because they could not get transportation facilities. This great industrial concern is capable of elevating 288,000 bushels of grain a day, and they turn out in one day a hundred cars of their finished product. It is an immense concern, backed by an enormous American capital, and such enterprises as these have sprung up solely because of the Trent canal. At last we have a very respectable means of conveyance. Right up as far as Peterborough it is eight feet four inches on the sill, and in the course of time we shall have it all the way through. This will enable a long stretch of territory frong Peterboro to Lake Ontario and the waters tributary thereto the goods they need. Therefore, I say I cannot let this milestone in the progress of that district pass—and a milestone also in the progress of Canada for this is a great national undertaking—without directing attention to this great event. On or about 1stt June the minister, accompanied by all the members who care to go, will take a boat here at Ottawa, will sail througr the Rideau to Kingston, will leave Kingston for Trenton and on up to Peterborough and into the Lake Simcoe—the loveliest as well as the most serviceable water route that I know of anywhere in Canada. I am well aware that in the East and, needless to say, in the Rockies, there is some beautiful scenery.

Mr. McKENZIE:—Did my hon. friend ever sail around the Bras d'Or lakes?

Mr. BURNHAM:—They are very fine. The hon. gentleman was not quite so appreciative of his own district the other day when he said, speaking on the Civil Service Bill, that composition in Cape Breton was considered decomposition in Ontario.

Mr. McKENZIE:—I did not say that.

Mr. BURNHAM:—The Bras d'Or lakes, the Annapolis valley and many other portions of the East are extremely beautiful.

Mr. McKENZIE:—We do not require canals to beautify the country.

Mr. BURNHAM:—The flowery eloquence of its representatives is enough. In calling attention with my humble voice to the completion, so far as I have outlined it, of this really splendid and important undertaking, let me thank the Government for what it has done. The work has been done under war conditions, which has meant that it has crawled rathen than proceeded at the speed we otherwise should have liked to see. I should like further, in the name of that whole district, to invite all hon. gentlemen to accompany the minister on his trip through the canal. The House will then be closed, at any rate until August possibly—I have no authority for saying that, but I fancy it may happen—and I hope all who can will come and see for themselves what I have endeavoured to call attention to, and I can assusre them they will be surprised at the importance and greatness of the undertaking to Canada.

Sir SAM HUGHES:—Does this item include the works for storage dams?

Mr. J. D. REID:—No, that is under items chargeable to income.

Sir SAM HUGHES:—I heartily endorse the very charming address given by my hon. friend from Peterborough, and join in wishing a speedy opening of the canal.

Lakefield Car Badly Damaged

Harry E. Rogers, of Castleton, Ont., driving south on George street last night collided with a new car driven by Mr. W. J. Madill of Lakefield at the corner of McDonnel street. Mr. Madill was going east and had the right of way, but the Castleton car apparently did not see the Lakefield Ford until it was right on top of it. One side of Mr. Madill's Ford was caved in, the running board wrecked and there was other damage that was immediately noticeable. Mr. Madill received a slight shaking up, but fortunately there were no serious injuries from the accident. Three Peterborough girls were motoring with Mr. Rogers, who paid $12.60 at the police station for reckless driving, and may be called upon to pay for the damages to the car. He carries exemption papers that expire on June 1st.

CAPTAIN'S TEAM WON THE MATCH

At the formal opening of the golf links yesterday the Captain, Mr. Moss' team, won the match. In opening, luncheon was given at the club house but the links were crowded from early morning until late at night, a number remaining for luncheon and tea. The opening up of the new grounds to the north of the links is a decidedly needed and appreciated addition.

IN MEMORIAM.

McKINLEY.—In Loving Memory of my dearly beloved husband, Samuel McKinley, who departed this life at 310 Margaret Ave., 26th May, 1916.

When you held out your hand that morning and cried
For me to come and stand by.
As I had done in the many years that had past,
My heart gave out in a heavy, heavy sigh.

When I looked on your care-worn face,
I knew too soon all would be o'er;
And I would be left in my widowhood,
With hardships at my door.

We laid you in your lowly bed,
And I turned away with a heart like lead,
For I knew next morn I must say good-bye
To my other dear boys who were going for their country to fight.

It is true you little knew
The tasks I had to go through,
But God in His love, with thoughts from above,
Has promised to carry me through.

He will never leave or forsake me,
No matter if the whole world should turn,
So in Him I'll trust and in His great love,
He has taught me no more for to mourn.

But our hearts and our home is so lonely to-day,
For we are all so far apart;
But when it is God's will and your desire fulfilled,
You will welcome me home at last.

—Inserted by his Widow,

TELLS LADIES HERE "WATCH YOUR STEP"

Can not camouflage a touchy corn but says they lift right out

A brisk, lively step is what charms more than a lovely skin, but your high heels have caused corns and you limp a little. That's bad, girls, and you know it. Corns destroy beauty and grace, besides corns can be lifted out with the fingers.

Rid your feet of every corn by asking at any drug store for a quarter of an ounce of freezone. This will cost little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet.

A few drops applied directly upon a tender, touchy corn relieves the soreness and soon the entire corn root and all, lifts right out without pain.

This freezone is a gummy substance which dries instantly and simply shrivels up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding skin.

Women must keep in mind that cornless feet create a youthful step.

NO MORE ASTHMA A CURE DISCOVERED THAT REALLY DOES CURE

The country is simply wild over the wonderful cures of chronic asthma that are being made every day by Catarrhozone. It is a scientific surprise, a perfect marvel the way it brings old chronics back to health. You will say so yourself after you have used it once, say so after the very first time. Ever since people first began to have asthma, Catarrhozone is certainly the best remedy discovered.

Creighton E. Thompson, well known in Calgary, writes:—"Nothing too strong can be said for Catarrhozone. I suffered four years from asthma in a way that would beggar description. I went through everything that man could suffer. I was told of Catarrhozone by a clerk in Findlay's drug store and purchased a dollar package. It was worth hundreds to me in a week, and I place a priceless value on the benefit I have since derived. I strongly urge every sufferer to use Catarrhozone for Asthma, Bronchitis and Catarrh.

The one-dollar package last two months; small size, 50c.; sample size, 25c.; all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

PETERBOROUGH MAN LOST HIS AUTOMOBILE

"How did the railway man who lives on William street north, enjoy the ride he took in a stolen Ford last night?" This foolish question is asked by the Lindsay Warder, which proceeds to say:

Several cars from Peterborough conveying members of the Woodmen Degree staff, visited Lindsay last night and while the brethren were in session one of the cars was stolen by some young men wishing to enjoy a ride. It was a mean trick, and also a dangerous one, as the party is liable to a heavy fine.

When the owner came to look for his car it was gone, and it was some time afterwards the car was finally found on William street south, with lights all out.

FIRE DESTROYS BOBCAYGEON HOME.

BOBCAYGEON, May 25.—While out milking Mr. Alex. Robertson, of the Scotch Line (Verulam), two miles east of Dunsford, had his house and entire contents destroyed by fire, the only thing saved being the piano. No one was in the house at the time except a lady visitor from Toronto, Miss Elizabeth Hunter, of the Sick Children's Hospital, who was spending a couple of weeks in order to recuperate her health. She managed to escape in her night clothes, but was badly burnt. Every stitch of wearing apparel, except what the family wore on their backs, was lost, as well as a considerable amount of money. Torrance Robertson had $40 in a new $30 suit of clothes, and other members also had money in the house.

It is estimated that Mr. Robertson's loss will be in the neighbourhood of $4,000. The house was insured for $1,200.

LADY MARY'S DIET.

It Was Entirely Too Dainty to Suit Her Italian Doctor.

That recipe of the tallest Scotsman in London—two meals a day and live forever—would not have appealed to the Englishman of the eighteenth century nor yet to the man who lived abroad. Here, for instance, are a few rather which Lady Mary Montagu managed to exist on in Italy:

"I wake about 7 and drink half a pint of warm asses' milk," she wrote, "after which I sleep two hours. Then come three large cups of milk coffee and two hours after a large cup of milk chocolate. Two hours later my dinner, where I never fail to swallow a good dish (I don't mean plate) of gravy soup, with all the bread, roots, etc., belonging to it. I then eat the wing and the whole body of a large fat capon and a veal sweetbread, concluding with a competent quantity of custard and some roasted chestnuts."

Even then the day was not done. Lady Mary goes on: "At 5 in the afternoon I take another dose of asses' milk and for supper twelve chestnuts, one new laid egg and a handsome porringer of white milk." In these degenerate days it would be thought that the patient had done very well.

The eighteenth century Italian was not so easily satisfied. The parish doctor marveled how Lady Mary managed to survive with such a finicking appetite.—London Chronicle.

4 U-BOATS BETRAYED BY GERMAN CAPTAIN

CAUGHT FIRST BY SURPRISE

Took Commander Aboard British Boat, and, Fearing Atack, He Told Location of Others.

NEW YORK, May 27. — Some months ago Premier Lloyd George announced in the course of a speech that five German submarines had been sunk in a single day. The first detailed account of this episode, which laid the fate of four of the German U-boats to the cowardice of the Captain of the other, was given recently by Louis Tracy, the novelist, who is now attached to the British War Mission in this country. Mr. Tracy was speaking at the American Artists' Exhibit at the Anderson Galleries in aid of the American, British, French, Belgian Permanent Blind War Relief Fund.

"A British submarine," he said, "was lying off the coast of Ireland and had come to the surface. As she lay quietly with her officers and crew, assembled on the deck for relaxation, there suddenly appeared, not more than forty feet away, the periscope of a German U-boat, which apparently had been oblivious of the presence of the British submarine. The British craft immediately fired, and disabled the U-boat, so that the British were able to capture her with her commanding officer and men. The men were kept on the German boat, but the commander was taken aboard the British submarine, where he was accorded a chaffing, but not altogether unpleasant reception. The British commander handed him some cigarettes and he was taken below and given a glass of wine. Despite these hospitalities, he seemed very much ill at ease and kept taking out his watch.

Told Location of Other U-Boats.

"Finally he informed the British commander that there were four other German U-boats in the vicinity. He knew that if one of these should first observe the British submarine that he, together with the British sailors, would be sent to the bottom. The British commander on securing this information immediately communicated with his home station by wireless, and British destroyers were rushed in all directions toward the spots where the German commander indicated the German U-boats were apt to be. As a result every one of the four remaining U-boats were destroyed during the afternoon, marking the largest single bag of German submarines during the war."

HAIG VISITS CANADIANS.

Canadian Army Headquarters in the Field, May 25. — The Canadian force has again been honoured by a short, unofficial visit from the Commander-in-Chief. Sir Douglas Haig spoke in the warmest terms of Canadian war services, and Canada will be as gratified as was the Canadian commander at his high appreciation of the Canadain forces.

Save for increased artillery activity in one sector and some scattered hostile gas shelling, there is nothing outside the usual patrol activity to report on the Canadian front.

Bishop Fallon of London, Ont., has been paying a ten day's visit to the corps.

Pliny's Yarns.

Pliny's yarns about human anatomy were something wonderful. He tells of a race of savage men whose feet are turned backward and of a race known as Monocoli, who have only one leg, but are able to leap with surprising agility. The same people are also called the Sciapodae, because they are in the habit of lying on their backs during the extreme heat and protecting themselves from the sun by the shade of their feet. These people dwell not far from the Troglodytae, to the west of whom again there are a tribe who are without necks and have their eyes in their shoulders.

Great Britain, or rather the British empire, owns the largest share of the earth. The figures are as follows: British empire, in square miles, 11,271,000; Russia, 8,660,000; Chinese empire, 4,248,000; United States (continental), 3,000,000; Brazil, 3,200,000. These five nations own two-thirds of the world. In wealth the United States is far in advance of any other nation.—New York American.

LIEUT.-COL. SAM SHARPE DIES FROM A FALL IN MONTREAL

Landed in Halifax on Monday and Taken to Hospital For Treatment—Was M.P., Lawyer and Won D.S.O.

HAD SERVED IN FRANCE

MONTREAL, May 27. — Col. Sam Sharpe, Uxbridge, Ont., recently returned from England, met his death Saturday at the Ross Pavilion, the Royal Victoria, by falling from a second storey window to the concrete pavement below. The nurse, who left his room a few minutes previously, reports he showed no signs of mental aberration and talked quite intelligently to her. He was dressing to go out for a drive which had been arranged by the nurse.

Tidings of his death came as a great shock to his friends, as he had arrived in Halifax on Monday last and fellow-officers on the voyage across had not regarded his condition as critical.

"I saw him on at Halifax Monday last," said one friend. "I knew that he had been in England owing to illness, after service in France, but I concluded that his health must have improved. Mrs. Sharpe was with her husband on the trip across the Atlantic.

Born in Ontario County.

Col. Samuel Simpson Sharpe was born at Zephyr, Ontario County, on March 13, 1873. He attended Toronto University, going from there to Osgoode. On being called to the bar he practised in Uxbridge and became town solicitor. He was a major in the 34th Militia, and went overseas in July, 1916, in command of the 116th Ontario Battalion, which he recruited about two and a half years ago. The 116th was absorbed on reaching England. He was awarded the D.S.O. on January 1, 1918.

Col. Sharpe took a keen interest in politics — the Conservative side, and represented North Ontario in the House of Commons. He was elected in 1908, and re-elected in 1911 and 1917.

Col. Sharpe married Miss Mabel Crosby, the granddaughter of Joseph Gould, ex-M.P. for North Ontario, and Mrs. Sharpe survives her husband. Col. Sharpe was a member of the Methodist church.

VISCOUNT FRENCH IS AN IRISHMAN WHO KEEPS COOL

New Ruler of Ireland Has Had Adventurous Career $1,000,000 a Year

As Lord Lieutenant, Viscount French will be Ireland's chief executive. The holding of this office, which originated in the reign of Henry VIII., is assisted by a privy council, while the actual conducting of the business of government is actually done by a chief secretary for Ireland. The chief secretary, appointed by Lloyd George at the same time that he surprised his constituents by appointing Viscount French, is Edward Short, member of Parliament for Newcastle. Viscount French succeeds Baron Wimborne, who was appointed in 1918.

The new Lord Lieutenant, like all who hold that office, is to act as a vice-regent, being the personal representative of the Crown. He will receive an allowance of $100,000 a year. Edward Short, as chief secretary, will be president of the Irish Local Government Board, a member of the House of Commons and of the Cabinet, and will be responsible to Parliament for the administration of the government of the island.

Field Marshal French has been one of the most interesting figures in British military affairs since he came to the fore in the Boer war. He was Commander-in-Chief of the British expeditionary forces at the beginning of the present war in 1914, and is credited with having conducted the retreat from Mons. In January, 1916, he became Commander-in-Chief of the Home Forces. At one time Colonel of the Irish Guards and Colonel-in-Chief of the Royal Irish regiment, he ought to have great influence with his fellow-countrymen. He is also a knight of the Most Illustrious Order of St. Patrick.

His career, too, has been of the sort that one would expect, that of an Irish fighter to be.

He is the son of Captain French, of Ripple Vale, Kent. His mother wanted him to enter the ministry, but at the age of 14 his father put him aboard the Britannia, where he served at a cadet for four years, seeing a great deal of service. At the age of 22 he secured a commission in the 19th Hussars.

His nature, training and habit of mind are those of the cavalryman. Though a serious student of the technical side of warfare, he has always been an audacious soldier, quick to take a long chance, never afraid to break away from established military customs, never at all hesitant about allowing himself to be guided by his intuitions, never loath to use his imagination and cut loose from hackneyed methods of procedure.

Viscount French has been described as "an Irishman who keeps cool."

Environmental Influence.

To understand fully the effect of environmental influence requires a pretty good understanding of the native qualities of the material upon which the environment acts. The reaction of differently formed human beings is never exactly the same even when the environmental action on them is nearly identical. "You can't," as David Starr Jordan is wont to say, to explain some failures of college endeavor, "put a thousand-dollar education into a fifty-dollar boy."—Vernon Kellogg, in the Atlantic.

Remedies for Warts.

Those who are fortunate enough to be able to look back into the past and recall boyhood days on the farm will remember the old formula for the removal of warts. It ran like this: "Steal a piece of pork and rub the wart with it. If this does not prove effective, rub with a kernel of corn, bore a hole in a tree (one in a graveyard was preferable), put the corn in the hole and fill it up, and your wart will soon leave you."

Avoid the Discourager.

Sometimes people grow discouraged because their work does not seem to count for much. A taper lay in a drawer, whence its owner took it out and carried it away. "Where are you taking me?" asked the taper. "To show big ships their way across the sea," was the reply. "But no ship could see by means of my tiny light." "Leave that to me," said the owner, as he lighted the big lantern and blew the taper out.

I remember when working in a flower garden was looked upon as a belittling way for a man to earn money. The Woman Who Changed

By JANE PHELPS

HELEN'S REWARD

CHAPTER LXXVI.

"So I was a good girl, was I?" I did not pretend to misunderstand.

"You are a wonderful girl," he said, with a note in his voice that thrilled me. "If you aren't too tired, or too—upset," again his eyes held that twinkle, "we will work a little longer, then Robert will give us some luncheon. That is, if you will honor me?"

"Had it not been for Mrs. Collins calling my husband "George," and her absolute ignoring of me or my feelings, I should have hesitated to lunch alone with Merton Gray, with only a maid chaperon. But I was hurt, humiliated, in spite of my brave talk, that Merton should see me so snubbed. That was just what Julia Collins had tried to do, and it hadn't been the first time she had tried to snub me before George and others. I gave her the credit, however, of doing it only to impress George with my lack of savoir faire.

"That will be lovely! I'm sure we'll have a better time than they!" I accepted unconsciously giving Merton a chance to see my hurt.

"I am sure we will," he responded, then, "Excuse me a minute. I'll tell Robert to do his best."

AN HOUR WHICH BROUGHT GOOD RESULTS

He was gone but a moment, then, without saying anything more, he again posed me and resumed working. For over an hour, with an occasional rest, he worked steadily, saying nothing save to remind me to keep quiet, or to ask if I were able to hold the position a little longer.

I was busily thinking, while he worked. I remembered that peculiar flash that I had seen before, on my husband's face, when I had been able to hold my own with his women friends. Was it really true that even occasionally he was proud of me? Already, I had forgotten that I was ordered like a child—that I had been hurt and angry because of it. The tilt with Julia Collins in which I had NOT come off second best had raised my spirits, and with the resiliency of youth I made a silent vow to make him proud of me, in every way, before I finished.

"Why that determined look?" Merton asked, as he threw down his brushes. "You have decided something."

"Yes."

"Something important?"

"Very."

"I shan't ask you what. I have a notion you would not tell me, and I don't like to be snubbed."

"Neither do I! Hence the decision."

We both laughed merrily. I had not meant to take him even so much into my confidence, but the words had slipped out. The heavy laugh that we enjoyed robbed them, however, of all sting, and of all embarrassment. I knew that he was aware of my meaning; and he knew that I realized his understanding. But neither of us referred to the subject again.

"Luncheon is served," Robert announced.

ALWAYS AT A CRUCIAL TIME.

Why is it, I wonder, that butlers and maids always interrupt a conversation at a crucial time? Robert's simple announcement brought us back to our own affairs without embarrassment, and we gaily followed him to the breakfast room where the table was daintily set for two.

I felt so deliciously wicked. It was just like the things of which I read. This luncheon a deux, in the studio of a popular artist! But there all similarity ended. Merton was the dignified and solicitious host—nothing more. And in all the stories I had read, the artist made love to the lady before the luncheon was finished.

We had a delightful lunch. Robert had really outdone himself. And we lingered over it, lauhing and talking, for over an huor. Then, as Celeste had also finished her meal (served in the daintily clean kitchen), we started home.

Would George be angry, when I told him I had luncheon with Merton Gray? I had no slightest intention of hiding it from him. He had taken Julia Collins with him; surely I had a right to remain with Merton. So I reasoned, never even thinking that since the beginning of time there had been one code for a man, another for a woman.

I heard Celeste bragging to Mary about Robert's wonderful cooking. And Mary's sarcastic reply, followed by the remark:

"I suppose you'll be after settin' your cap for him, now that you are eatin' his cookin'?"

"Perhaps!" Celeste replied with all the airiness of the French maid when the other sex is in question.

"Well, I opes that the misis gets some comfort, going to have her picter painted. She don't git much here!"

So, even Mary knew that I was not really happy. I must learn to be a better actress. It was not good breeding to allow the servants to see anything they could discuss. So Mrs. Sexton had told me, often.

To-morrow—A Joyful Surprise

"I SUFFERED SEVEN YEARS"

Was Eventually Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I suffered for seven long years with a lame back, irregularities and pain. I had one physician after another but they did me no good. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and gave it a trial and in a short time I felt benefited and am now feeling fine, and without weakness or pain. Many of my friends have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and been helped by it."—Mrs. MARGARET NESS, 1846 E. Hazzard St., Philadelphia., Pa.

Women who suffer from displacements, irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, backache, sideache, headaches or "the blues" should not rest until they have given this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. MARY AND MARTHA.

Canadian Patriots at Home and Abroad.

All Canadians are divided into two camps; those who go to the Front, and those who stay at home. There are no other Canadians. All Loyal Canadians are in one or other of these two camps. All patriotic Canadians are doing their duty either in uniform or out of it.

The man who stays at home, under the pitiless publicity of the revitalized Military Service Act, is doing his war-time duty by his country if he eats potatoes three times a day, cuts out wheat, does essential work though menial, and puts his money into war bonds. By his mouth, his hands and his pocket, he shall be known.

No brass band parade preceded the trudging of the man-who-stays-at-home to his work. He has no uniform to perk him up. No esprit de corps binds him to his fellows, except psychically as all are bound by the prayer unuttered or expressed to win the war. He must hunt out his duty, and in the light of conscience do it even if it is distasteful. He is lonely and his heart is heavy, for his spirit is in the trenches. Yet he must follow his solitary furrow to the end, and the incentive is not tincturad with glory, but merely with duty.

Prosaic though it may be to talk of potatoes and Johnny Cake, yet these are the humble weapons that must be used to enable the man-who-stays-at-home to walk the chalk line of duty. Potatoes or beans take the place of wheat bread in the wholesome diet. Fish is a perfect substitute for beef and pork products. Buying war bonds, no matter how small a number, helps Canada to finance the food purchases for the allies. Digging in the soil has merit, not only in producing more food, but also in discipline. It is duty.

These are the tasks the war has set for the man who can't go to the front. How trivial they appear in contrast with the heroic things the man in the trenches has a chance to do! Yet every man to his task, for it is not the task but the spirit with which it is done that counts, when every man has found his place in the scheme of efficiency that will win this war.

Martha was no less helpful than Mary, though they were not called to do the same thing.

A Nice Little Hint.

First Lieutenant—How do you like the horse you bought from me last week? Second Lieutenant—Very much. He might hold his head a little higher, though. First Lieutenant—Oh, that will come all right when he is paid for.—London Tit-Bits.

Then She Said No.

"But you are old enough to be my father."

"I wish I were your father. Then I'd have his fortune without having to marry you."—Houston Post.

Marriages In Burma.

A curious idea among the Burmese is that people born on the same day of the week must not marry and that if they defy the fates their union will be marked by much ill luck. To prevent these disastrous marriages every girl carries a record of her birthday in her name, each day of the week having a letter belonging to it, and all children are called by a name which begins with that letter.

Still Worried.

"It used to worry me when the barber informed me that my hair was getting a little thin on top."

"But you get used to it, eh?"

"No. Now it worries me because he doesn't mention it. I must be getting old."—Philadelphia Press.

Just the Contrary.

"People in very cold climates need a heavy diet."

"No, they don't; they have to have light diet. Don't the Eskimos eat candles?"—Baltimore American.

The Safest Guide.

The much-praised optimist, although to be admired, is not a safe guide. He tells us all is well, when it is not. He fails to see the pitfalls and urges us forward and we fall into them. Likewise the pessimist, although shunned and berated, leads us to be over cautious. Under his influence we hopelessly sit down for fear we will fall into the pit, when there is none. The cautious leader who watches, waits, and withal is patient expecting the world to move forward, is always most trustworthy.

Solutions and Air.

Many of the solutions used by photographers are affected by the air, and so have to be kept in well-closed bottles. Every time a bottle is opened, fresh air gets into it, and the change in its contents is facilitated. To guard against this it is usual to recommend photographers to keep such solutions in several small bottles rather than in one big one, so that when once a bottle has been opened its contents are soon used up.

FATHER McHUGH LEAVING LINDSAY.

LINDSAY, May 25.—Rev. Father McHugh, who for the past seven months has been curate at St. Mary's Church, Lindsay, leaves this week for the Archdiocese of Kingston. Since his coming to Lindsay the Rev. gentleman has won many friends, who will regret his departure.

It is stated that his successor will be selected from one of the four priests ordained in Peterborough recently.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color which is quite sensible as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the nuisance mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Mounted Police In Boer War.

The units to which the R.N.W.M.P. directly contributed during the South African War were notably the Second Battalion, Canadian Mounted Rifles; Lord Strathcona's Corps, which embarked by S. S. "Monterey" at Halifax on March 16, 1900; the Canadian contingent of the South African Constabulary, which sailed during the subsequent spring, and the Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Regiments of the Canadian Mounted Rifles (generally known as the Third Contingent), which sailed from Canada in May of 1902.

The R.N.W.M.P. gave directly to H. M.'s forces for the Boer War no fewer than eighteen officers and one hundred and sixteen non-commissioned officers and men, with four officers and thirty-eight rank and file also to the South African Constabulary, or a total contribution to the South African War in man-power of 245 of all ranks.

Sergt. A. H. Richardson (trooper in the scarlet of the force) at Wolvesprint on July 5, 1900, won the Victoria Cross by riding back under an exceptionally heavy fire to within three hundred yards of the enemy's position, in order to rescue a twice-wounded comrade whose horse had been shot from under him. During that campaign the Companionship of the Order of the Bath also was conferred upon Supt. S. B. Steele (then risen to a lieutenant-colonelcy and commanding Strathcona's Horse, but since become a general of the line); two of the erstwhile troopers of the northern wilds were decorated as Companions of the Distinguished Service Order; one won distinction as a Fourth Class member of the Victorian Order, and four gained by their gallantry the Distinguished Conduct Medal.

Good Alibi.

"I don't understand why my watch will not go," said Slaylate. "I'm sure it's wound up!"

"Dear me," yawned his hostess, looking toward the clock, "what a remarkable coincidence!"—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Colds Settled In The Kidneys

Lumbago, Backache and Rheumatism Was the Result—Now Enthusiastic Over Cure Obtained.

CHATTERTON, Ont., March 27.—The kidneys are extremely sensitive to sudden changes of temperature, and much pain and suffering is a frequent result, as all who have had attacks of lumbago and rheumatism know.

The writer of this letter was a great sufferer until she found that by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills she could regulate the action of the kidneys, and thereby remove the cause of lumbago and rheumatism.

Mrs. John Lancaster, farmer's wife, Chatterton, Ont., writes: "We would not want to do without Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house, for we have proven their merits in so many cases. I have weak kidneys and whenever I catch cold it settles in the back and develops into lumbago. I used to suffer terribly from lumbago and rheumatism, but find that by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and applying Dr. Chase's Backache Plaster that I obtain the greatest relief, and am soon all right again. My daughter has also used the pills with splendid results, as has also a neighbour woman who suffered greatly from constipation."

HOMELY CHILDREN.

Often Develop Into Beauties When the Face Is Fully Grown.

Let no parent despair of a plain child. Beauty so far from being "skin deep" largely depends upon the proportion between the different parts of the face, and this depends upon their rate of growth. Before a boy's voice breaks he may have a very defective chin, a serious blemish for our ideal of manly beauty. But that chin may be destined to grow just when the boy's beard begins to grow and may transform him.

I saw the other day an old school fellow whom I could scarcely recognize, so vastly improved was he since his young boyhood by the acquisition of that chin which anatomists tell us is a peculiarity and therefore a beauty of our species. Robert Southey was described by his nurse as a "great ugly boy" when he was born, but he grew to be so handsome that Byron said he would be almost content to indite Southey's poetry if he might have its author's head and shoulders.

I cannot say what proportion of ugly children turn out handsome men or life, but certainly many do partly because in earlier life the various parts of the face have developed at somewhat unequal rates and partly because of the influence of another factor in beauty, in which Southey was rich, its old fashioned but familiar name is the soul.—Dr. C. W. Saleeby in Strand Magazine.

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES

ASHAMED TO GO OUT

Many an otherwise beautiful and attractive face is sadly marred by unsightly pimples, blotches, flesh worms and various other blood diseases.

Their presence is a source of embarrassment to those afflicted as well as pain and regret to their friends.

Many a cheek and brow cast in the mould of beauty have been sadly defaced, their attractiveness lost and their possessor rendered unhappy for years.

Why, then, consent to rest under this cloud of embarrassment?

There is an effectual remedy for all these defects.

It is Burdock Blood Bitters. This remedy will drive out all the impurities from the blood and leave the complexion healthy and clear.

Mrs. Katherine Henry, Port Sydney, Ont., writes: "Two years ago my face was so covered with pimples I was ashamed to go out at all. I tried several remedies, but they were of no use. At last a friend advised me to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I got a bottle, and by the time it was used I could see a difference. I then got two more, and when I had used them the pimples were completely gone. I can highly recommend B.B.B."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The World's Nosegay

By ALVAH JORDAN GARTH

"Have I made a life mistake?"

In his heart Cyril Deane answered "Yes." He stood watching a winsome girl of eighteen garlanding half a dozen little ones with woodland wreaths. He had consented to see Winnie Morse and her group of favorites to and from the picnic ground. He had romped with the children, he had seen that they were liberally provided with ice cream and lemonade, he had won from Winnie the smiles and gratitude of an appreciative friend. He had forgotten the city, society and business. He winced as he further realized that he had also forgotten the woman to whom he was engaged.

She was Winnie's sister, Honoria, but just the opposite of the sweet, child-faced girl. Honoria was of the queenly type—cold, aristocratic and autocratic. He had been proud of her beauty and stateliness and had mistaken it for love.

He remembered now the congratulation the ingenuous Winnie had expressed when she learned of the engagement: "I hope Honoria will be kind to you." Analyzing the strange words now, Deane traced regret. Had some prescience imparted to Winnie the conviction that the mating would not be a happy one?

Regal loveliness on the one hand, gentle, heartsome sympathy on the other. Yes, he had made a mistake, but he was a man of honor. He tried to feel brotherly towards Winnie, but when they had seen the little coterie home and she bade him good-night he felt as though blank darkness had blotted out the sunshine.

"Yes, I am going out for two months in the wilderness," spoke Deane to his close friend, Walter Briggs, the next day. "I shall be back by June."

"Then the wedding, I suppose?" questioned the visitor.

"That is the arrangement. I want to get Pillar Cliff ready for a summer sojourn. I intend to give Honoria a surprise. There isn't a spot in the whole Rockies that equals the Cliff. My father left it to me—the most delightful summering place in the world."

"Pillar Cliff? Queer name," observed Briggs casually.

"Well named, though. Nature has surrounded the lovely forty acres with a dozen perfectly perpendicular blocks of rocks, each a towering pillar. I have some great plans as to utilizing them to produce a bewildering effect. It will please Honoria, I am sure."

"Poor fellow!" soliloquized Briggs. "Solitude and absence from admiring throngs will little suit my Lady Honoria."

Honoria presented a cold, unsensitive cheek to her fiance when he went away. Winnie put her arms around his neck in a sorrowful way and sobbed out her hope he would have a pleasant time, as if feeling that he needed love and comforting.

Cyril Deane, in his far away woodland paradise, was stunned to receive a letter, the envelope in the handwriting of Briggs, a month later. His friend had not the heart to write. He simply inclosed a newspaper paragraph reciting the elopement of Miss Honoria Morse and Wilbur Dunn, a man he had never liked. For a day Deane wandered about trying to recover his mental balance.

"It's a way out," he finally decided. "When a year goes by I am going back to see Winnie."

It was months after that one morning, when Deane heard the clang-clang of an automobile and finally the echo of human voices. Glancing along the trail he saw a machine stalled, two men working over it and three ladies walking about. One of them strolled past a ledge of rock; seemingly the beauty surrounding the bungalow held her enchanted. Could he believe his eyes?—it was Winnie Morse!

Held in a trance of wonderment, the girl saw him not. She had eyes only for the glorious riot of color that glowed from the rock pillars before her. Here, of a verity, was the world's nosegay! The tops of the pillars were surmounted with one great mass of flower bloom. They appeared like mammoth vases holding the choicest treasures.

"Winnie!" spoke Cyril. She looked dazed—unreal the floral presentment, so his presence. Then her little, trembling hands went out to meet his own.

"Oh, I know now!" she breathed—"the place you were getting ready for—"

She could not speak her sister's name, for regret, for shame, but Cyril courageously faced the issue. He asked for news from home. Honoria had separated from her husband. Winnie had been compelled to shift for herself. She was hired companion to the daughter of the owner of the touring automobile. So badly broken down were they, with the nearest town twenty miles distant, that they were glad to become the guests of Cyril over night.

Cyril was up betimes the next morning, but one was earlier than he. Seated on a rock beyond the house was Winnie, drinking in the lovely view.

"Oh!" she cried, with glowing eyes, as Cyril approached, "and Honoria forfeited all this for glare and glitter and misery! I could revel in this wild, dazzling glory of nature all my life!"

He fixed her glance with his own. She clung to his strong arm as he spoke. "Winnie," he said, "I have always loved you. I was coming back to tell you so. Spare me the journey and stay here—my true and loving wife."

Chinese Alarm Clock Effective.

The first type of alarm clock invented is still in use by the Chinese. It consists of a piece of slow-burning joss stick, cut to the proper length, lighted and put between the sleeper's toes. It is probably the most effective device of the kind known, for when the appointed hour arrives the sleeper does not roll over and wait for the clock to give a second alarm; he gets right up.

Remarkable "Apology."

An attorney addressed the court as "gentlemen," instead of "your honors," after he had concluded a brother of the bar reminded him of his error. He immediately rose and apologized thus: "May it please the court, in the hate of debate I called yer honors gentlemen. I made a mistake, yer honors, and humbly apologize."

Electric Oranges.

Prof. J. A Fleming, in a lecture at the Royal Institution, London, to a juvenile audience, said that not many boys and girls knew that when they cut an orange with a steel knife and a silver fork a current of electricity passed through their hands. The acid in the orange acted on the steel, and the orange acted as a voltaic cell.

White Robed Blacksmiths.

Extraordinary precautions are taken by the Korean blacksmith before he attempts to shoe any Korean horse which is noted for its bad temper and likely to flourish its heels if not securely tied up first. Sight of one of the small ponies trussed up to the heavy timber framework is ludicrous, however, and in a way may be termed "horseshoeing on the safety plan." White costumes would look out of place for a blacksmith's use almost anywhere else, but in Korea all men wear white garments. Young men also wear their hair screwed up in hard knots on the top of their heads as a sign they are married.

Sunlight Soap

WOMEN who want to be economical should use SUNLIGHT SOAP freely in the house. First, because it is all pure soap—there are no cheap "fillers" so it goes farther and you get more real soap for the money. Second, because clothes last longer when washed with SUNLIGHT. Isn't this important? There are no injurious chemicals to harm the finest cloths—$5,000 guarantee of this.

Three Permissible Lies.

"A. Boswell of Bagdad," who is a philosopher and a prophet in E. V. Lucas' book, gives utterance to this bit of information: "Every lie shall be written down as a lie by the recording angels, with the exception of three: a lie told in order to reconcile two men; a lying promise made by a man to his wife, and a lie in which a man, when engaged in war, makes a promise or a threat."

BLINDING HEADACHES FROM CATARRHAL IRRITATION NOW QUICKLY CURED

The New Inhaler Breathing Treatment Does Away With all This Sort of Thing.

"A stuffy cold in the head, or an old-fashioned attack of Catarrh are simply ancient history to me nowadays," writes S. Nathan Smith, from Cornwall, Ont. "I used to have the worst kind of blinding headaches. They were torture to me on damp days when my catarrh was bad. I would still perhaps be suffering but for the fact that I saw a friend inhaling Catarrhozone with apparent pleasure, and I got the dollar outfit in the Windsor Hotel Pharmacy in Montreal. I could scarcely believe the way Catarrhozone cleared out my head. It let me breathe easier than I had breathed for five years. Catarrhozone has cleared away every vestige of Catarrh from my system. My breath used to be rank—now it is sweet. My digestion was constantly disordered, but since the catarrh is cured I have no stomach trouble. I am a perfectly well man, and Catarrhozone did it all."

For speakers and singers and persons troubled with an irritable throat, bronchitis, asthma, catarrh or la grippe, Catarrhozone is of inestimable value.

The inhaler can be carried in your pocket and may be used at any time or in any place.

Large size, guaranteed, and sufficient for 2 months' use, costs $1; smaller size, 50c.; sample size 25c.; all storekeepers and druggists or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

MEXICAN BRIGANDS.

Pleasant Sort of People That Merely Robbed Travelers.

"I was once for some weeks at a sugar plantation, near a small provincial town in Mexico," wrote the late Mr. Labouchere in 1879. "In the town lived a brigand. He was highly esteemed by his neighbors, and I passed many a pleasant evening with him and his family. His daughter was a 'beauty,' and this estimable parent was amassing a little fortune for her.

"His habit was to ride at night to the road between Mexico and Vera Cruz with two or three associates and to levy contributions on the diligence. When I left the town I wanted to strike this road, and I went with him and his friends. We reached it at about 6 in the morning. Having partaken of chocolate, the brigands posted themselves behind some rocks, and I looked on. Soon the diligence was seen approaching. The brigands emerged, the coachman stopped, the passengers were requested to descend and were politely eased of their money.

"The passengers then took their places again in the coach, and it drove off, while the brigands courteously bowed to them. So honest were they in their peculiar way that they wished me to take my share in the spoil, but this, of course, my standard of morality being different from theirs, I declined, and I wished them goodby.

"Riding on to Peucla I dined at a table d'hote that evening with the despoiled travelers and was greatly amused to hear them recount the valorous manner in which they had defended themselves and how they at last had to succumb to numbers."

REVEALS CARNAGE OF WAR

Scenes Witnessed at French Seaport Base Show Losses That Humanity Has Sustained.

To linger about a seaport base in France is to have more vividly brought home to one the awful carnage of this struggle. Shipload after shipload of men and material are ever discharging, and trainloads of wreckage are ever returning. As a boy in the pink of health swings down the gangplank at one end of the pier, the stretcher bearers are carrying another boy now limp and broken up the gangplank to a hospital ship at the other end of the pier.

One steamer is discharging new guns and limbers, and shining equipment, while another is loading all kinds of wreckage which the salvage corps has gathered from the field of battle; broken gun carriages, torn uniforms caked with mud and gore, rusty rifles, worn boots, bayonets, filthy blankets, helra knapsacks, shattered shell cases, and a thousand other mute reminders of the tragedy of war.

From the seaport base the newly-arrived troops march to the rest camp, situated several miles outside of the town. A rest camp is the strangest form of hostelry imaginable. A great camp of tents and huts, affording momentary hospitality to the troops en route to the front, a mammoth hotel where 10,000 may arrive in the night and move off in the morning.

The commandant of the rest camp at Havre said to me once, "I'm the biggest hotel keeper in the world. Last night I was the host to nine regiments, all of whom were registered for a period of less than twenty-four hours. One night my hotel may be almost empty and the next I may count my guests by the thousands."

At the rest camp the troops are issued trench supplies and equipment. If it is winter they get goatskin body jackets, and, parading in this rig, they resemble a mass of Arctic explorers.

QUEER BURIAL SERVICE.

How Adaman Islanders Protect Their Dead From Evil Spirits.

Strange is the burial service among the Adaman islanders. It is the custom of the islanders to drop the bodies of their parents into the sea at the end of ropes and leave them there until nothing remains but the bones, which they then gather and hang from the roofs of their huts.

It is a common custom for a relative to sit by the hour and watch the bones of some relative. This is the way they have of showing their love and respect.

The bodies are treated in this fashion so that the evil spirits cannot tease and pinch them. All that is left are the dried bones, and these are placed high so that if the evil spirits wander into the huts they will have a hard time to find them. If a bone is carried away it means some bad spirit has seized it, and this means that some terrible calamity will befall the family.

In the Katanga district of central Africa when a chief and his wife dies there is great feasting and celebrating. Some of these festivals last three or four days. After the bodies are laid to rest with dancing and rejoicing because they are going to rule over a higher sphere their relatives and friends do not depart until they leave one or more chairs and a supply of clothes. This is done because the souls are expected to come out and wander about their graves.—Chicago Tribune.

Whale Sharks.

While whales are the largest of marine animals, yet certain fish grow to almost as gigantic size. The largest of true fishes are found among the sharks and the largest of these formidable fishes are the whale sharks. These huge fish occur in the waters of India, Japan, South America, Panama, California and the West Indies. The nose is very broad and blunt and the mouth, although very wide, is armed only with minute teeth. It is a dark colored creature, marked with small, whitish spots and is perfectly harmless to man, feeding exclusively on small fish. Its huge bulk makes it dangerous when wounded. This great fish reaches a maximum length of seventy feet.

Make the Most of Everything.

If we are not doing as well as we think we ought to we may not have far to go for the trouble. Most of us have more time than we profitably employ, more money than we actually need, more talents than we make use of, and more friends than we keep in friendly touch with. If we would make the most of everything we would do better than we thought it possible.

A NECESSITY IN THE HOUSE.

Most of the common ills of life arise from a torpid, sluggish condition of the Liver, Kidneys or Bowels, and because they act on each of these organs in a direct and specific way Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills overcome serious and painful diseases over which ordinary medicines have no control.

Maple Sugar.

Reports reaching the Canada Food Board indicate that the maple sugar season this year will be a very busy one. Trees were tapped in southwestern Ontario during the first week in March and a good run of sap resulted. From all districts come reports of unusual activity. Farmers who have received circular letters from the Canada Food Board have, in many cases, in reply told of their plans and of their special efforts to increase production this season. At Oka, on Lake of the Two Mountains, the Trappist Monks will tap 5,000 trees, according to a letter received from Rev. Father Tremblay. "We have tapped every maple tree that we can find," he writes, "and are making a specialty of sugar and syrup of the best quality." Mr. J. H. Grimm, of the Grimm Manufacturing Co., says that he has been positively overwhelmed with orders from farmers for sugar-making equipment.

Hoe Your Own Row.

If you are indifferent, if you think hard work beneath you, then you are a hopeless proposition. Influential friends may indeed answer your call and do their utmost to keep you retained in the position you longed to secure, but if you have not developed or tried to develop the "talent" you were so sure you possessed, your time is short in the "big" place, and the quicker you awaken to this fact the better it will be for you and all concerned.

Where Men Wear Combs.

In Ceylon, the Singhalese men wear long hair, twisted into a coil at the back of the head, and a horseshoe-shaped tortoise-shell comb at the top, while the women wear no such ornament. The men vie with one another in the quality and finish of the comb. This custom supports a large number of comb-makers, who get the raw material from the hawk's-bill turtle.

Human Skull as Talisman.

The human skull is a gruesome talisman. Down to half a century ago a belief existed in the north of Scotland that the skull of a murderer possessed supernatural properties. Epilepsy was said to be cured by drinking blood out of it, and even water from this hideous drinking vessel was alleged to have medicinal qualities.

Bishop at the Front.

Lt.-Col. A. U. de Pencier, Bishop of New Westminster, B.C., has just returned after three years of strenuous work with the Canadian corps in France. Bishop de Pencier is the only Canadian bishop of the Anglican Church who has been overseas with the chaplain service. He speaks highly of the co-operation of the various religious representatives connected with the Canadian army under Col. the Rev. Canon Almond, of Montreal. Bishop de Pencier has two sons in the army and a third son intends to join the Royal Flying Corps.

A Complete Job.

SUFFERED WITH NERVES
COULD NOT KEEP QUIET

Diseases of the nervous system are very common.

All the organs of the body may be sound while the nerve centres may be affected.

Many women become run down and worn out by household duties never ending, and sooner or later find themselves with their nerves shattered, and the heart action weakened.

On the first sign of any weakness of either the heart or nerves, flagging energy, or physical breakdown, do not wait until your case becomes hopeless.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will at once quicken the shaking nerves, strengthen the weak heart and build up the entire system.

Mrs. F. Bailey, 231 Earl St., Kingston, Ont., writes: "I was suffering very much with my nerves, so much so that I could not keep myself quiet at all. I was recommended to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills so I bought three boxes, and I must say I have derived much benefit from them, so much so that my friends have all noticed the change in me."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. per box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Men Who Have Been Overseas Before 20th April Not Under M.S.A.

Men who were overseas prior to April 20 do not come under the Military Service Act when they come back home and are discharged, according to the announcement made by C. Lesslie Wilson, Ontario Registrar. Service overseas before April 20 meant beyond the threetnile limit, but after April 20 service overseas does not include the high seas, Great Britain and Ireland. This ruling means that men that have been overseas cannot properly claim that the Act applys to them or be classed as an overseas man unless they have been in France or on any other fighting front. This ruling also covers men who served in Bermuda before April 20.

WORK WITH DEATH

Perilous Callings Where Life Is Always In Danger.

HOW MEN LOSE THEIR NERVE

Sudden Peril Often Causes Them to "Drop Their Goats," and Then Their Courage Never Returns—A Loss of Heart and a Race For Life.

Human nature becomes callous to the daily association with peril. But now and then something tears away the callous spot and leaves the raw, naked nerve exposed.

Structural steelworkers run many chances of losing their nerve—"dropping their goats," they call it. Only the other day one of them who had never known fear was standing on the outer edge of a lofty steel framework and chanced to look down into the street. He saw a trolley car run over a newsboy. Instantly his mind was swamped with thoughts of death. He stretched himself flat on the beam and crawled to an island of planking. When a man once does that on top of a skyscraper he has finished his high work.

"They never come back," said an old foreman. "It's a pity, too, for they can never get a quarter the pay at another job that they did at this before they looked down and saw death."

Much of the world's work is done by men who have to keep their nerve in the face of peril. Sometimes a man will not go to pieces until after a long run of danger. Primarily the cause may be fatigue or bad liver or bad nerves, but when it is all over he decides he has had enough and seeks another vocation.

In the places where high explosives are manufactured the men are subjected to a constant nervous strain. They get used to it, like everything else, but when an accident comes there is sure to be some one among the survivors who drops out of the ranks of the workers.

In a plant where more dynamite, nitroglycerin, guncotton and other pentup destruction are made than anywhere else in the world nearly a thousand lives depend more or less on a thermometer.

In one step in the manufacture of nitroglycerin it is a quivering, sullen fluid in a big caldron brilliantly lighted by electricity. Glycerin is continually seizes the available nitrogen from the acids, and the mass becomes nitroglycerin. Round the caldron a man moves swiftly, noiselessly, dividing his attention between the contents and a thermometer that extends down into the hot acids. The temperature of the mass must not rise above 80 degrees.

Glycerin has many vagaries that have never been explained. If, through one of them, the temperature rises toward the danger point the first thing the man on watch does is to send more cool solution through the pipes that coil suckewise round the giant caldron. If the mercury in the tube continues to rise he shuts off the inflow of glycerin. If this does not have the desired effect he turns on compressed air, so as to throw the mass into violent agitation. If this fails he has only one more card to play. He opens a valve and empties the charge into the "drowning tank." Then he makes a dash for safety.

Only a few men who have ever been immediately exposed to explosions have lived to tell about them afterward. Those who have escaped and have continued in their hazardous employment are thereafter known only by their first names. There are only a few of these. The other survivors have sought other work where the risks are less. Said one of them:

"You can't trust the stuff any more than you could a sleeping cobra. I was at work one day around the mixing tank and things were going as usual when I suddenly noticed that the mercury in the thermometer was creeping up toward 80. Quick as a flash I saw that something had gone wrong and, one after another, I turned on the cold, shut off the glycerin and turned on the air. No one ever watched anything more anxiously than I did that thermometer. But the mercury kept on climbing. Then I made a grab for the quick opening valve so as to drown the stuff. One of the officers of the company was in the room. I had yelled at him to run. But he stood there as cool as a cucumber, saying that he didn't think there was much danger. As soon as I opened the valve to let the stuff off I made a jump through the window. There were plenty of emergency doors, but I didn't want to take an extra step. The boss went out by a door. The fraction of a second that I saved by taking the window probably added a good many years to my life. I landed on the ground and was running with all my might when I was lifted off my feet and hurled at least 300 yards. I escaped with a broken leg. The boss, who had run in the opposite direction, was picked up dead. There was hardly a mark on him.

"The explosion started in the drowning tank. The stuff settled at the bottom, where agitation was impossible. What sort of a noise did it make? Like the roar of a dozen tornadoes and a score of crashes of thunder all combined. I've lived on a farm ever since and when the Fourth of July comes around I jump every time a cannon firecracker goes off, no matter how far away it is."—Thaddeus S. Dayton in Chicago Record-Herald.

THE TROOPER'S PORTRAIT.

And the Conditions Under Which It Was Painted by Detaille.

M. Jules Claretie, who was a friend of Edouard Detaille, tells a charming anecdote of the famous painter in the Paris Temps. One day a young trooper rang at his studio door and asked if M. Detaille would mind taking his likeness.

"Who sent you to me?" asked Detaille.

"My good comrades of the regiment, who say that you are jolly good at catching a likeness, and as I wanted to send a Christmas present to my people I thought I would have my portrait done by you. How much will you charge me?"

"How much have you in your pocket?" asked Detaille.

"Twenty-six francs." And the trooper pulled out the money, tied up in his handkerchief, adding: "Perhaps that won't be enough?"

"Oh, yes, lots," said Detaille. "Sit down." And he had soon painted the soldier's portrait on a small wood panel. "There you are. I hope your people will like it."

"I think they will," said the trooper. "It isn't bad at all." And he untied the four corners of the handkerchief to pay Detaille his 26 francs.

But Detaille stopped him. "No. Keep your money. But you must do two things—first, of all, spend it all in drinks to my health, and secondly get your four comrades to have their portraits done. I should be overworked."

Big Trees of Oregon.

"In the forest reserve between the headwaters of the west fork of Hood river and the Bull Run lake are some larger trees, bigger than any I have ever seen anywhere else in the northwest," says George T. Prather, a pioneer of the Hood river valley.

"The trees are said to be several hundred feet high and to stand on the flat of a hidden canyon. Steep bluffs on either hand shut in the gorge in which they rear themselves, and this reason is given for failure of those who fish in the Lost lake district to have found the trees. There are two species of the great trees.

"One has a yellowish and not very rough bark and is straight and as round as a candle. It has no limbs to a great height and has a beautiful crown. The second species is cedar."—Portland Journal.

The Modern Child.

Father had decided that he must administer a stern lecture to his six-year-old son. The boy had been naughty, but did not seem to appreciate the fact, and it was with some reluctance, therefore, that the parent undertook a scolding. He spoke judiciously, but severely; he recounted the lad's misdeeds, and explained the whys and wherefores of his solemn rebuke, his wife the while sitting by duly impressed. Finally, when the father ceased for breath, and, incidentally, to hear the culprit's acknowledgment of error, the lad, his face beaming with admiration, turned to his mother and said: "Mother, isn't father interesting?"

Eaton Co. Employe Says Tanlac Did Him More Good Than Everything Else

"Well, sir, ever since I started on Tanlac my improvement has been so wonderful that I don't feel like the same person I was before," recently said Charles Spradbrow, an employe of the T. Eaton Company, who has resided at 742 Huron street, corner of Davenport Road, Toronto, for thirty years, and is known to everybody in that neighbourhood.

"I had been going down hill for the past two or three years," continued Mr. Spradbrow, "and I suffered all the time from a severe case of indigestion and stomach trouble. After eating anything my food would sour and rise up in my throat, I suffered from heartburn and would bloat up so with gas till I could hardly get my breath. Any kind of vegetables or fried food would upset me every time, and I got so I was afraid to eat a good square meal, for I knew I'd have to pay dearly for it afterwards. I had a tightness across my chest and a bad cough that worried me, so at night I could hardly sleep and I felt terribly fagged out when I would get up in the mornings.

"Nothing I took seemed to do me a bit of good, and finally I decided to try Tanlac a while. I have taken but two bottles of this medicine so far and it has certainly done me more good than everything else I have ever taken. I am not troubled with gas or indigestion near like I was before, the tightness in my chest is gone, I don't suffer any more from sour stomach or heart burn and I rest better at night. I am just delighted with the way Tanlac is straightening me out."

RARE BEN JONSON.

He Was Fat and Coarse and a Worse Bully Than Dr. Johnson.

"Rare Ben Jonson," who is admired by everybody and read by nobody, was a distinctly unpleasant individual who had few real friends during his life time. A good many people pretended to like him and enjoy his society because they were afraid of him. He was not only vindictive with his pen, but he was quick to imagine insults or slights and was prone to resent them with his fists.

Originally a bricklayer, he was big and burly and strong as a government mule until so weighed down by fat that he could scarcely navigate. After recovering from a sickness once he said he had been at death's door, whereupon some forgotten humorist remarked that death didn't have a door big enough to admit him.

Jonson had a powerful frame and huge, hairy hands; his face was heavy and florid, the lower part covered with reddish whiskers, and he was extremely slovenly in his dress. He was a worse bully than Samuel Johnson. The latter, with all his faults, never raised a rough house.

Jonson fought two duels and killed his man on both occasions. His first was with a soldier during wartime, and he was not brought to account for that. Later he killed an actor with whom he had some trifling quarrel and for this was sentenced to death. The sentence was commuted, but he was branded upon the hand before being given his liberty.

His life was stormy, and when he departed there was no overwhelming grief. The fact that his name remains a household word is strange, for not one man in a million has ever read his works.—Chicago News.

FEAT OF A FOX.

Its Remarkable Display of Cunning in Securing a Meal.

In a field of feeding hares foxes have been observed to approach with a slow, limping motion and holding down their heads, as if eating clover, until they were near enough to secure their prey.

The following is an extraordinary instance of fox cunning: One week when the ground was frozen, but bare of snow, a farmer placed a hen under a strong, heavy chicken coop. The coop was boarded on one side and lathed on the other, the lower lath within an inch of the ground, which was smooth, but sloping, with a furrow-like depression a few inches in depth about two feet up the slope.

In the morning the hen was gone. The coop stood immediately over the depression, the laths bearing numerous impressions of an animal's teeth, and the small one at the apex was scratched by its claws.

The fox had wasted no strength on the board trying to push the coop over in an uphill direction, but he tried his best on the other side. Failing in this, he bit and tore at the laths to break them and finally drew the coop up the hill over the hollow, dragged out the hen and made off, leaving no blood, very few feathers and only three of his hairs on the laths.—Harper's Weekly.

Washington Named It.

The question, "Who named the Empire State?" is often asked, but seldom properly answered. General Washington is the man to whom that and many other honors belong. In his reply to the "address of the common council of New York city" the great general said: "I pray that heaven bestow its choicest blessings on your city; that a well regulated and beneficial commerce may enrich your citizens, and that your state, at present the seat of empire, may set such examples of wisdom and liberality as shall have a tendency to strengthen and give a permanency to the Union at home and credit and respectability abroad."

This is, of course, an inferential allusion, but was the origin of New York's popular name nevertheless.

A Sign of Weakened Morale.

Strong Hun Attacks Developed This Morning

Germany Has Resumed Her Drive On Western Front

The British And French Forces Are Co-operating

GERMANS RESUME OFFENSIVE ON A NEW FRONT FOLLOWING INTENSE BOMBARDMENT

The Enemy Struck on a Wide Front Along a 35 Mile Sector---British Troops Are Now Operating With the French---Official Statements Indicate That New Disposition of Troops Has Been Made Along the Front of the Present Offensive.

ATTACK IS DEVELOPING AT TWO POINTS

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, May 27.—The Germans attacked suddenly early this morning on an entirely new front south of the Picardy region, at the same time thrusting north towards Ypres. Following a bombardment of great intensity, the enemy struck on a wide front along the thirty-five mile sector between Rheims and Soissons, extending eastwards and south of the Picardy front. Simultaneously were directed attacks against the positions held by the French between Locre and Voormezele.

The British troops are now operating with the French in the line south of the present Picardy front, Field Marshal Haig's official report showed to-day.

This is the first intimation that the British forces were operating south of the Avre, and is accepted as further indication of General Foch's policy of the co-ordination of all the Allied forces.

THE BRITISH WAR OFFICE REPORT.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, May 27.—Strong German attacks developed early this morning against the British and French positions between Rheims and Soissons, the War Office announces. The attacks were preceded by a heavy bombardment.

The Germans also attacked this morning in Flanders between Locre and Voormezele, on the northern side of the salient.

The text of the statement reads:

Strong hostile attacks, preceded by a bombardment of great intensity, developed early this morning on a wide front against the British and French troops on the line between Rheims and Soissons, and against the French troops between Locre and Voormezele. There was considerable hostile artillery activity yesterday and last night on the British front.

THE ALLIES ARE PREPARED FOR ATTACK.

The front of the German attack is along the sector which usually is referred to as the Aisne front, owing to the fact that for a long time the line of battle followed the Aisne River. The present battle line runs along the Ailette River, north of Aisne, over a larger part of this sector, the French having advanced their line. The front of attack is about forty miles, which is about fifteen miles shorter than the line of the original German attack this spring on March 22nd. If the Germans counted on the element of surprise to assist them in the new attack they probably have miscalculated. It is evident from the official British statement that new dispositions of troops have been made along the Aisne front.

FRENCH WAR OFFICE REPORT.

PARIS, May 27.—Over a front between the Forest of Pinon and Rheims, the German launched an attack this morning, the War Office announced. The French and British troops are resisting with their habitual valiance.

In the Champagne region, on the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front), in Apremont Forest and in the Woevre there was active artillery fighting. During the night the Germans delivered several local attacks in the Apremont Forest, but were repulsed after spirited fighting, in which the Germans sustained losses. Two other efforts in the region of Limey, north-west of Badonviller, also were repulsed. The French took prisoners.

NEW OBJECTIVES OF VON HINDENBURG.

(By J. W. T. Mason—United Press Service),

NEW YORK, May 27.—Paris and the Marne are the objectives of Von Hindenburg, if the strong German attacks between Rheims and Soissons, reported by Fiel Marshal Haig, are forerunners of a new offensive against the Allies.

The Marne is from twenty to thirty miles south of and parallel to the Soissons-Rheims front, and Paris itself is sixty miles away.

Slight gains by Hindenburg can be best offset by the Allies here. The loss of the railway connecting Soissons and Rheims would be disagreeable to the Allies, as there are no communication lines to the south.

If the Germans were to reach the Marne still further inconvenience to communication would be suffered by the Allies, but no critically serious damage would be made.

Attack May Result in Heavy Losses to Enemy.

Moderate gains by the Germans along the southern front would bring far less inconveniences than a new advance by Hindenburg in the Amiens or Hazebroucke-Ypres sectors. The Allies can well afford to relinquish territory between Soissons and Rheims if, in return, there is another great slaughter of German man power. It may be the movement there will turn out to be only an attempt to divert General Foch's attention while the offensive is developed elsewhere. Marshal

GEN. FOCH HAS NOT BEEN CAUGHT NAPPING

NEW YORK, May 27.—The Associated Press war summary says to-day:

Germany has resumed her drive for a decision on the western front, after a lapse of nearly four weeks, striking in the south between Rheims and Soissons in Flanders on the northerly side of the Lys salient. While it is too early for the true German intention to be disclosed, the effort apparently is simultaneously to push through to the Channel Ports in the north, and thus break up the British front and to strike for Paris in the south in an effort aimed mainly at the French.

The southerly blow which covers a front of some forty miles, and apparently is by far the more important of the two, has come at a point which had not been considered the most probable field for a renewal of the German attempt. The fact that both the British and French troops are found holding this front, however gives indication that General Foch, the Allied Commander-in-Chief, has hardly been caught napping and has large forces massed there.

The Weather Has Improved

The Big Guns Are Warming Up on the Western Front—Ready For the Big Show

CONFIDENCE PREVAILS

(By William Philip Simms.)
(United Press Service.)

10 o'clock despatch:—

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, May 27.—The rumble of artillery continues to growl louder, particularly around the valleys of the Somme and Scarpe, and in the Ypres region, where the Bucquoy, Strazeele Fletre and Borre areas are particularly involved. Villers-Bretonneux and vicinity also is under increasingly heavy shelling.

The weather has improved and fighting conditions are better. Prisoners without exception, are speaking of Mackensen being on the west front, and insisting that he will have charge of the coming operations. It is also rumoured that German troops have been withdrawn from the Balkans for use on the west front during the past twenty-four hours. I just returned from an extensive trip among British, French and American troops in the back areas. The fighting spirit everywhere is perfect. Everybody's head is up, and they are all thoroughly confident that the Germans will have little success in the coming show.

TO DEPORT THE ALIENS

Huns Planned to Supply Arms to Enemy Aliens Interned in Ireland

THE IRISH SITUATION

(By Webb Miller.)
(United Press Service.)

DUBLIN, May 27. — Discovery of that part of the Sinn Fein-German plot provide for the releasing of hundreds of Austrian and German civilians now interned in Ireland and for arming them against the British has been made by the British according to statements of officials to-day.

As a result the deportation of these men began to-day. It is held that conspirators planned to arm these alien civilians with weapons delivered by German submarines.

Sinn Feiners Drilled.

Despite the arrest of their leaders, Sinn Fein adherents were active Sunday. Companies of them drilled at many points around Dublin. No secret was made of this fact at Sinn Fein headquarters where it was stated that Sunday was observed in drilling "and continuing preparations to fight against conscription."

"Probably several thousand persons drilled at various places and no arrests have been reported yet," the Sinn Feiners added.

Special Conference.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, May 27.—When Parliament reconvenes probably to-morrow, fireworks are liable to start over the Irish situation at any moment, although Nationalist members are not expected to return before the latter part of the week. A special conference of Nationalists in Dublin next Thursday is responsible for this.

Herbert Asquith, Leader of the Opposition, is likely to start the ball rolling, however. No date has been set for the re-introduction of the Home Rule Bill.

BALLILIEBOROUGH, Ireland, May 27:—John Dillon, Chairman of the Irish Nationalists, speaking here yesterday, declared war to the death on the Sinn Fein. The occasion for the speech was a meeting of the delegates of East Cavan to decide whether the Nationalist party ought to withdraw its candidate and permit Arthur Griffith to be elected unopposed.

Mr. Dillon's speech bristled with references to America and appeals to Irishmen not to neglect American public opinion. He emphasized his denunciation of the Sinn Fein by quoting several phrases from his statement recently made to the Associated Press, and added:

"Some English newspapers have quoted the interview I gave to the Associated Press of America as evidence that I have 'broken off' my alliance with the Sinn Fein. You cannot break off what has never existed."

Ministers Met This Morning

Interesting Address by the Rev. W. H. Rowand.

At the meeting of the Ministerial Association this morning Rev. W. H. Rowand gave a most able address on "The Advisability of Cooperation Between the Churches and Sunday School Work," after which a discussion on the subject and on the religious relation of the Association to the Noramiltes took place. In this connection a course of lectures have been given by the Association to the Normal schools, which lectures have not been altogether satisfactory.

A committee of Rev. Mr. Pogue and Rev. Dougald Brown was appointed to arrange for better means of giving a course of connected lectures at the school.

Changed Evening Service.

A diversion of opinion arose over a discussion on changing of the hours of evening service for Sunday from 7 to 8 o'clock. This matter will probably be settled on Wednesday at 2 o'clock when another meeting is called for at he Y.M.C.A.

"Faces In The Crowd"

You should make every endeavour to hear Ada Ward in her now famous lecture entitled "Faces in the Crowd," in St. Paul's church on Monday evening, May 27th, under the auspices of 37th Chapter, I.O.D.E. This is one of the most interesting and entertaining lectures before the public. 20-22-25-27

LACK OF CONFIDENCE

War Veterans Criticize the Work of the Y. M. C. A. in France—Little Free Coffee

THE DISCUSSION

HAMILTON, May 27.—Severe criticism of the methods of the Y.M.C.A. in France furnished a sensational wind-up of the three-day convention of the Provincial Branch of the G.W.V.A. of Canada here on Saturday afternoon. "Hypocrisy," "four-flushing" and "commercialism" were terms used during the discussion and there was more than one charge that articles donated by people at home for the boys at the front were sold from the Red Triangle huts.

Unanimously the meeting adopted the following resolution, moved by Comrade S. Murrell, of Toronto, and seconded by Comrade T. L. Carmichael of Toronto: "Resolved, that the delegates of this convention, representing 12,000 members of the G.W.V.A. in Ontario, regard the Y.M.C.A. as being no different to any other commercial concern, and in view of hypocrisy that permeates every phase of the organization in relation to the soldiers, we place ourselves on record as stating that we have no confidence in the Y.M.C.A."

J. R. Bell, of Toronto, the vice-president, who was in the chair at the time, said that the only criticism which could be offered of the resolution was that it was too mild.

Decision to throw the meeting open to discussion of the Y. M. C. A. was made on motion of Sergt.-Major Creswell.

Comrade Hudson, of Brantford, who had referred to the matter at the morning session opened with a severe general criticism of the Y.M.C.A. overseas. The Y.M.C.A. people, he declared, were the biggest four-flushers in the world, and added that the association had had a mill added to the taxes in Peterborough county to cover its grant, while the soldiers could not get a cent.

Grievances Removed.

Provincial Secretary Turley said he wished to see no injustice done. He had interviewed Mr. Warburton, the general secretary, who informed him that the grievances of the boys had been eliminated. However, he admitted that for every one of the returning veterans who had a good word to say for the association 25 were against it, and that percentage had not been reduced. The vote of censure, he thought, would compel the Y.M.C.A. to spend the money it had obtained on the boys.

"Many men would give a large sum of money for the contract that the Y. M.C.A. is filling at the front," declared Comrade Carmichael, of Toronto. He claimed the Y.M.C.A. got its stuff into France duty free, and the men were compelled to carry it up the line leaving a hospital in France without a cent of money. He said that when he went to a Y.M.C.A. hut to get the loan of a book he was told he would have to deposit half a franc. Before returning the book he looked at the fly leaf and saw written there, "Donated by Mrs. McMillan to Home Soldiers in France."

"The transportation cost nothing, and yet that book which belonged to either you or me, was being loaned out at half a franc," said the veteran.

Little Free Coffee.

Carmichael said he had not heard of three men who received hot coffee free in France from the "Y," although this was one of its big claims.

President Tresham of the Hamilton Branch, said he regretted that the "Y" had not measured up to its professions, and if for no other reason than to compel the association to do its duty he supported the motion.

Comrade Creswell, who opened fire on the "Y" early in the proceedings, said he came out of the line badly in need of a pair of socks. At a "Y" hut he purchased a pair, and inside found this note: "Will the good Canadian soldier who receives these socks kindly acknowledge to Mrs. Alexander, 57 Bleakley Street, Belleville?" He considered it an insult for these husky men in charge of the huts in bomb-proof jobs having to be saluted by fighting men.

Comrade Brown, of Niagara Falls, said he got biscuits far cheaper at the Salvation Army huts run in opposition to the "Y" huts. The Salvation Army was heartily applauded.

Comrade Murrell charged that the "Y" charged exorbitant exchange rates on British money at Halifax.

Returned Soldiers Agree To Keep the Shipyards Working

Men Held a Meeting Last Night —No Aliens or Men Eligible For Military Service to Be Employed

I. W. W's BANNED

Canadian Press:

VICTORIA, May 27.—Work in Victoria ship yards will be carried on by returned soldiers. A meeting of more than four hundred men last night agreed to keep the plant working until the end of th war. The men asked til the end of the war. The men asked year with a minimum wage of four dollars and they proposed a ten per cent rise to skilled workmen as an offset. The strikers urged the necessity of dropping every other occupation to make assurance that the vessels would be rushed to sea to carry aid to the men in the trenches. The men stiplate that no friendly or aliens of military age, I.W.W.'s or men who come under the Military Service Act, be employed.

Delegates Back From Convention At Hamilton

Messrs. H. J. Staunton, S. Whatley and R. H. Muir, three of the local delegates to the G. W. V. A., provincial convention, at Hamilton, returned on Saturday night, while Captain Burnham, M. P., the fourth member of the Peterboro delegation, remained over. The local delegates are delighted with the convention, and with the evidence of the progress made by the G. W. V. A., as shown at Hamilton. Two resolutions fathered by the Peterboro branch ,one in regard to pensions and the other in connection with the advisability of the Dominion government taking over the coal supply, were endorsed by the convention. The Union government was condemned for not dealing with the alien question and the Y.M.C.A. war work also came in for censure.

PRESIDENT WILSON HAS TAKEN CHARGE

The Daily Expenditure Has Now Reached the Enormous Sum of Sixty Million Dollars a Day.

(By Robt. J. Bender.)
(United Press Service.)

WASHINGTON, May 27.—President Wilson has decided to inform the nation what it must do to help meet the increasing expenditure. With daily expenditures now mounting to the enormous sum of $65,000,000, the President will show that new taxes are necessary of the money market is to be stabilized and the way cleared for future issue of Liberty Loans.

Took Charge To-day.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WASHINGTON, May 27.—President Wilson personally took charge of the war tax legislation tangle today and appearing unexpectedly before a joint session of Congress, declared it was necessary to proceed immediately with a new war tax law. Plans which might have delayed work but involved an agreement between both parties, have fallen through, the President told the Legislature and there was no way to get at the problem but to have Congress remain in session and go ahead at once.

The New Drive.

Linking his appeal with the resumption of the German drive on the west front President Wilson to-day demanded that Congress cast off political thought and turn immediately to the work of enacting a tax measure this session. Turning from his manuscript in concluding a forceful address to Congress in joint session, the President spoke 'extemporaneously—"Just as I was leaving the White House," he said, "I was brought the news that Germany had apparently resumed her long expected drive on the west front. Surely can realize how that solemnizes the feeling as I came to you and strengthens the purpose that I have tried to express in these lines."

CLOSING ENTERTAINMENT.

The Junior Auxiliary of St Luke's church, East City, will hold their closing entertainment to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock.

THE GERMAN LONG RANGE BOMBARDMENT OF PARIS RESUMED

Big Guns Open Up on French Capital Early This Morning.

(Special to Examiner.)

PARIS, May 27.—The German long range bombardment of Paris, was resumed at 6.25 this morning.

Three of the long range guns, stationed near St. Gobain, were reported to have been destroyed by French artillery and bombs and there had been a cessation in the shelling for several days.

Shells have been falling at intervals of fifteen minutes since the bombardment began.

To Be Decided To-morrow Night

Proposal to Place the Dominion Police Under Control of Militia Department DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, May 27.—The proposal to place the Dominion police force which at present is in charge of enforcing the Military Service Act, under the control of the Militia Department, has caused a considerable amount of controversy. The Cabinet will decide the matter to-morrow night, it is understood. At the present time the Dominion police branch, which has been in charge of this work, amounts to a force of 800 men, of whom about 75 per cent. are returned soldiers. They have conducted over 140,000 investigations and have made more than 8,000 arrests.

Change of Sentiment.

The greatest satisfaction has been expressed in official quarters with the way this work has been done during the past few months, and this is particularly true of the province of Quebec, where the feeling with regard to recruiting has been so materially improved. It is felt that a change at this time would be disastrous to this change of sentiment. Opponents of the proposed change declare that it would go far towards raising an anti-military feeling in this country if an attempt were made to militarize the nation more than at present. For this reason they say that as affairs are being conducted satisfactorily under the present arrangements it would be folly to re-organize now. A number of officers of the police are said to contemplate resignation if they are placed under the Militia Department.

Those in favour of the change are of a very opposite opinion and say that the military forces should have the whole matter of getting men under their charge. They do not see any reason why a purely civilian police body should be responsible for the enforcement of what they considered a military law.

Curate Appointed To Sacred Heard Church

Rev. Leo Gorman, of Belleville parish, has been appointed curate at the Church of the Sacred Heart. Father O'Gorman was educated in the Belleville schools, at St. Michael's College, the Grand Seminary, Montreal, and St. Augstine's Seminary, Toronoto. He celebrated High mass yesterday morning and was welcomed on behalf of the congregation by Rev. J. J. O'Brien.

Father O'Brien reminded the congregations at both masses of the approaching registration. Mr. Guy Popham has been appointed a deputy-registrar at the Sacred Heart school, and with assistants who were invited to volunteer, would file registrations every Saturday during June until the 22nd, from 7 a.m. until 10 p.m.

Frank Jenne Says:

The latest trend of fashions for summer is mirrored in the clothing and furnishings I have selected for you. Fashions that range from the novel to the most conservative. Whether your need be for a palm beach suit, silk shirt, sox, panama or sailor hat, neckwear or underwear. "Come to me."

THE PENSION SYSTEM.

The Ontario Great War Veterans, like returned soldiers everywhere, are of the opinion that the pensions granted disabled men are not commensurate with the cost of living, and the Dominion body of Veterans will be asked to appoint a committee to interview the Prime Minister at the earliest possible moment.

The Veterans' grievance is a sound one and is aggravated by the fact that no opportunity was given to discuss the matter in the House during the past session. Although it was found possible to spend two days in discussing titles, to waste half a day arguing as whether the tomato is a fruit or a vegetable, to spend hours talking about the average weight of a dozen eggs and other trivial matters, the only attention that was paid to the matter of pensions was to refer the question to a special committee, whose recommendations were far from meeting the views of the Veterans, and whose report was not presented until the last few days when there was no opportunity for it to be discussed by the members of the House. In the wild rush to prorogue Parliament on Thursday the wrongs of the returned soldiers were lost sight of. However, the Veterans need not feel that their affairs were the only ones to be slighted. The government seemed so anxious to wind up the business of the session that the proceedings developed into a scramble, during which proposals involving the expenditure of many millions of dollars were rushed through with scarcely no consideration. No wonder Hon. W. S. Fielding should feel constrained to protest "This is no way to conduct the affairs of the country."

NO LONGER A PERIL.

The best war news for some time is the announcement by Lloyd George in his Edinburgh speech that the submarine, "while still a menace, is no longer a peril," and that "while as a means of inflicting danger it is still formidable as a danger which can cause the winning or the losing of the war, we can rule it out." The figures for April show the reason for the British Prime Minister's optimism. Not only was there a record destruction of enemy submarines and the biggest increase yet shown in shipbuilding, but the losses showed a portenous decline, the total for April consisting of 220,709 tons of British and 84,393 tons of allied and neutral shipping. When it is remembered that on the eve of the unrestricted submarine warfare at the beginning of 1917 the German admiralty loudly boasted that their under sea pirates would destroy 1,000,000 tons a month, and had calculated the date of the end of the British mercantile marine and the collapse of England, the figures for April give every ground for satisfaction, especially as the output of new shipping exceeded the losses. Never have the Germans attained anywhere near the monthly average they aimed at, and Lloyd George's speech, coupled with the publication of the losses for April should convince even the Germans, that they can never hope to win the war with their U-boats.

"We have reached the position," to again quote the British premier, "that we are sinking German submarines faster than they can build them. We are building merchant ships—that is the allies as a whole—faster than they can sink them."

Hon. Dr. Cody, new Ontario Minister of Education, should be popular with the school children. He is not much in love with examinations.

AN EXPLANATION NEEDED.

The resolution unanimously passed by the Provincial convention of the Great War Veterans' Association expressing lack of confidence in the Y. M.C.A. and condemning the military work of the Red Triangle on account of its being conducted on a mercenary basis, will be a shock to the people of Ontario who has just got through contributing nearly a million and a half dollars for this work. There seems no doubt as to the opinion of the returned men, as represented by the delegates to the convention who came from all parts of the province, and the statement of Provincial Secretary W. E. Turley, of Toronto that for every soldier back from France who praised the Y.M.C.A. he could find twenty-five to condemn it, is one that will prove astonishing to the public. The people of Canada have shown their faith in the Y.M.C.A. military work by donating $3,000,000 to assist in its operations during the next year; this confidence will be sadly shaken by the resolution of the Ontario veterans unless there is an explanation forthcoming.

Canadian citizens have been under the impression that the Y.M.C.A. has been doing remarkable work on behalf of Canadian soldiers at the front and it is disconcerting to find an Association composed of returned soldiers unanimously condemning the efforts that people thought had proved such a blessing to them and to their comrades. There is a misunderstanding somewhere that should be explained, and the Y. M. C. A authorities should get into touch with the returned soldiers and have the matter cleared up.

The chief complaint with men back from the front in connection with the Red Triangle seems to be that the soldiers consider that the work should be self supporting. They claim that the Y.M.C.A. gave them very little for nothing. "A few sheets of writing paper is about all you can get," is a common expression—and that when the prices charged the soldiers are taken into consideration, along with the fact that the officers in charge are paid military pay and much of the work is done by the soldiers themselves, detailed as fatigue men, there should be no necessity of a huge canvass for funds in Canada. This belief on the part of the returned soldier is a common one and much of the dissatisfaction expressed by the men who come back from France would be done away with if the public were given a clear balance sheet showing exactly how much the work overseas has cost and how the money has been expended. It is possible that some of these figures have been given, but they have not been generally circulated and very few returned soldiers seem to know about them. The air would be cleared if the Y.M.C.A. authorities would give this information wide publicity.

As events stand now the action of the Ontario Veterans, if explanations are not made and a better understanding arrived at between the two bodies, will shake public confidence in the work of the Red Triangle. Such a resolution passed prior to the recent canvass would undoubtedly have had an effect on the collection, and the Y.M.C.A. cannot afford to let the Veterans' action go unchallenged.

GERMAN MURDERERS.

The latest German atrocity, the deliberate bombing of British and Canadian hospitals in France, has been brought directly home to the people of Peterborough by the tragic death of Pte. Edgar Smyth a Peterborough member of the C.A.M.C., who was among the victims of this murderous raid As further details of the outrage are revealed, this last exhibition of German kultur is seen to rank with the murder of Edith Cavell and the sinking of the Lusitania. All the circumstances point to the deliberate nature of the crime. The German airmen flew at a very low height "under a brilliant moonlight," one correspondent writes, and could hardly have been unaware of the nature of the position they were attacking. At all events, the first bombs caused a fire, and this revealed the whole area so that there was no opportunity for a mistake. The attack was deliberate, callous, murderous. The hospital centre was entirely unprotected—it has been in use since early in the war and its location was as well known to the Germans as to the Allies. There has never been any thought of an attack, so that there were no bomb proof shelters anywhere. Two Canadian hospitals were situated there with a large number of others ,and the first bomb dropped made a direct hit on the sleeping quarters of the Canadian orderlies. From then on the description of the cowardly assault, as given by correspondents, makes one of the most pitiful tragedies of the war. It is sickening to think that British and Canadian angels of mercy were caught in the murderous shower of bombs and to read that badly wounded men, whose every movement was a torture, were among the patients in the hospitals.

Many of the victims were Ontario people, and so this last evidence of German brutality has made an impression even greater than the earlier atrocities of the Kaiser's assassins. It is to be hoped that after the exhibition of callous murder on the part of the German airmen that there will be fewer honours paid to the Prussian aviators who happen to be brought down within the British lines. There should be no military funerals for the assassins who rain death from the sky on nurses and doctors and on wounded men.

WASTING FLOUR BY ORDER.

The following editorial from the Toronto Mail and Empire applies with equal force to conditions in Peterborough:

The attention of Mr. Thomson, as chairman of the Food Board, ought to be directed to the working of the order prohibiting the putting up of flour in less than 24-pound bags. This order is leading to an excessive consumption of flour; to waste, and annoyance to consumers who want to save flour in answer to the Food Board's call. One regulation of the Food Board prohibits the keeping of more than 15 days' supply of flour on hand by any family. The other which forces families to buy a minimum of 24 pounds—because grocers refuse to split bags—sets it at naught.

Having bought a 24-pound bag, the smallest package, two or three months ago, a family of two in Toronto found the last ten pounds had gone bad. It became webby. Consumption had been the very lightest in response to the food call. The flour was fed to the neighbour's chickens. On Saturday an order by the lady concerned was sent in to her grocer for ten pounds—plenty to last three weeks. The grocer refused to split the 24-bag. The lady would have been forced to buy the 24-pound bag, though she wanted less, and feared spoiling of the excess, bu she appealed to her husband who knew something of the food regulations. On Saturday night he went to a grocer and was also told the smallest flour package was 24 pounds. When he pointed out that the 15-day supply order was in effect, the grocer replied airily, "Oh, that applies only to people who want 100-pound lots or more." Then he told the grocer of the order requiring dealers to take back flour in good condition at the regular price, if the quantity was in excess of the family's 15-day needs. The grocer suddenly saw the light, and announced he would sell ten pounds.

How many housewives in Toronto really know what the orders of the Food Board are, and, being certain of what they are can deal firmly with grocers who insist upon selling 24 pounds, when five or ten pounds are wanted—and no more? Not one in twenty. What the grocer says goes. What about the thousands of small families, and of girls who live, three or four together in flats, doing their own housekeeping? Are they all compelled to buy 24-pound bags, when five or ten pounds would be plenty for perhaps three or four or six weeks? Of the 75,000 families in Toronto, at least half would find 24 pounds of flour far more than they need for the 15 days prescribed by the food regulations as the time limit for supplies. Yet most of them are compelled, by grocers' refusal to split bags, to violate that order against their will.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

President H. J. Staunton and the members of the Peterborough branch of the Great War Veterans' Association are to be congratulated upon the former's election as a member of the Provincial G.W.V.A. The local branch is one of the largest in Ontario outside of Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa, and it is fitting that it should be represented on the Provincial body.

The speed at which the American forces are being transported to France must be galling to the German leaders and awe-inspiring to the people of Germany, if the latter are allowed to know the facts.

The news of the sudden death at Montreal on his way home of Col. Sam Sharpe, D.S.O., M.P., and former O.C. of the 116th Battalion, will be greatly regretted. Colonel Sharpe raised his battalion in quick order, and after taking the Ontario County unit to France, led it with distinction at the front. It is the irony of fate that after escaping the perils of the firing line he should be overtaken by death just after reaching his native land.

As another proof of the German claim that the British attack on Zeebrugge was a failure thirteen German soldiers have been executed for their share in the operations.

Peterborough County Would Have More Money To Spend Under County Roads System

Burden to the County Would Not Be Greater Than Present Outlay—What the County is Now Paying For Roads—Interesting Article Dealing With the Subject.

THE VOLUME OF TRAFFIC

This is the second article that has been prepared by Mr. W. A. McLean, Deputy Minister of Public Highways in the Provincial Government. The article, which was prepared for the edification of the Peterborough Board of Trade, deals with the road situation in Peterborough County.

In a previous article with respect to county roads, it was briefly shown: (1) That long experience has proven the advantage of a system of county roads; (2) That a relatively small mileage of good roads will serve a large proportion of farm traffic; (3) That the proportion of Provincial aid is substantial; (4) That a county road system is successful in proportion to the determination of a county council to make it a success.

Build According to Traffic.

It is a first principle of the road problem that "roads must be built according to traffic." It follows that the cost of building and of maintaining roads is very largely in proportion to traffic. This is a matter which should be kept in view in all comparsons of cost, methods of finance, etc.

The volume of traffic on roads radiating from a local centre or shipping point is very similar to the trunk of a tree and its branches. Near the root, the trunk is large, but higher up, the trunk gives place to a net-work of branches. Similarly, on a main road for one, two or three miles from a town or shipping point, traffic is massed; but as distance increases the traffic is diffused over a network of minor roads.

Statute Labour.

Because statute labour may keep a certain road in fair condition, it is argued by some that statute labour should do the same for all roads. Under favourable conditions, statute labour may keep up roads carrying ten or twenty vehicles a day; but statute labour will not keep up roads carrying two hundred vehicles, one hundred vehicles, or even fifty vehicles a day. Roads which carry forty or fifty vehicles a day and upwards, (or roads which will creat such a traffic when improved) belong to a class of road upon which, as a rule, county and provincial expenditure will be made.

Traffic conditions in Peterborough County as affecting the cost of road construction and maintenance are therefore not to be compared with conditions in York or Peel Counties, where some roads carry an average of 600 to 800 vehicles daily.

Road Material.

Peterborough County is, I understand, blessed with plentiful deposits of good gravel for road making. Gravel is excellent for roads carrying such traffic as Peterborough County should anticipate, unless for a limited mileage close to the City of Peterborough. The best stone used in any part of Southern Ontario is the trap rock obtained from quarries at Havelock in Peterborough County. Field stone is also available for use in foundations, or to be smashed for the road surface.

These advantages with respect to road material in Peterborough, can only be understood by comparison with some parts of York, Peel, Halton Welland and other counties of Western Ontario, where there are few or no supplies of road material; and all road material must be imported by rail from commercial quarries.

A plentiful supply of local material, and comparatively light traffic, are conditions possessed by Peterborough County favourable to the low cost of roads, such as belong to few counties of the province. The work already done on many of Peterborough roads is also an excellent basis for further improvement at moderate cost.

Cost Per Mile.

This Department is necessarily in receipt of full statements of county expenditure on road construction under the Highway Improvement Act. Exclusive of bridge construction here are some of the average costs per mile by the annual report of this Department for 1916:

Wentworth, 140 miles at $2,315 per mile.

Lennox and Addington, 87 miles at $1,092 per mile.

Leeds and Grenville, 120 miles, at $1,998 per mile.

Present Expenditure.

What is Peterborough County now paying for roads through township councils? War conditions have considerably reduced the cash expenditure on roads in Peterborough County. Official returns show the townships alone to have spent in 1912, $23,099; in 1913, $28,366; in 1914, $23,015; in 1915, $19,924; in 1916 $16,520. This is all in addition to 16,00 days of statute labour, and does not include present county expenditure.

County System.

A county system does not creat any new roads. The county merely relieves the townships of roads which already exist. As previously pointed out, the cost of maintaining roads is largely in proportion to traffic. The roads taken into a county system are expected be those which are now most heavily travelled, and which absorb the greater part of present township expenditure for road surface, bridges and culverts. They are also the roads on which settlement is most complete. Under ordinary conditions in other parts of Ontario statute labour could be estimated at 50 days a mile. Along a system of 140 miles, under normal conditions, it is a moderate estimate that the townships are now spending one-half their annual outlay or $10,000. If conditions in Peterborough are similar to other parts of the Province, statute labour at 40 days per mile at $1.00 per day could be added, amounting to $5,600; making a present expenditure on the proposed system of $15,600 annually.

Why not at least comply with the conditions which would entitle the county to an annual Provincial grant of $10,400 to add to the present outlay? Giving a total county expenditure of $26,000, instead of the $15,600 now spent by the townships.

An Annual System of Finance.

When establishing a system of county roads, it is not necessary to have the total estimated expenditure available at the bank the first year. It is not to be supposed that a county system of 140 miles will be constructed and paid for by debenture issue in one year, and that an annual payment would at once be created of a debenture debt. No county at its best has succeeded in building more than 30 miles in any one year; and few expect to complete a system in less than ten years. A system of 140 miles has been suggested, and were Peterborough to build 14 miles a year for ten years, the county would be doing very well. This resolves itself into a matter of annual finance.

Some counties do not issue debentures. Few counties issue debentures for all their work. Wellington county, for example, has been financing their construction and maintenance on an annual county appropriation of $80 per mile. This is not enough, and it would be in the interest of the county to spend more—but the county council fixed the annual appropriation. The best method is to combine a reasonable annual levy with a small annual debenture issue to meet the cost of permanent bridges and culverts.

Road Levy.

An annual county road levy of 1 1-4 mills on the equalized assessment of Peterborough County would produce $13,500; the county might add an annual debenture issue of $6,500; the Provincial subsidy would be $13,333, making a total outlay available for construction of over $33,000. The total debenture debt accumulated in ten years would be only $65,000 (partly paid off at that time) and on which the annual payment at its maximum would be about $5,200; or a little over one-half mill on the assessment of Peterborough County.

A repair cost of $100 per mile is a large estimate for maintenance of gravel roads, such as Peterborough would build and is more than most counties are spending to-day. Few counties are spending $100 per mile, and this average would not be reached until the entire system of 140 miles had been completed. Present township expenditure on the designated roads (estimated above at $15,600 annually) would certainly take care of maintenance in a most generous manner, and would leave a balance for construction.

With an annual levy of one or two mills, together with the present township expenditure, a marked improvement could undoubtedly be made in the condition of the roads of Peterborough County—and this money, together with the Provincial subsidy, would remain in the county.

Other details of the subject will be considered in a further article.

SUCCESSIONAL CROPS

Many amateur gardeners are puzzled to know just how to handle a succession of crops. To get the most out of a small area it is necessary to plant seeds from week to week and, in some cases, to sow two crops in one row at one time. For instance, lettuce and raddish may be sown in the same row, parsnips and lettuce, corn and pumpkins, corn and spinach, lettuce and early cabbage, etc.

Some examples of successional plantings may serve to explain what is meant by following one crop with another:

Early beets followed with celery.

Early beans followed with turnips.

Lettuce or onion sets followed with tomatoes.

Radishes followed with tomatoes.

Spinach, lettuce or raddishes followed with cabbage.

Early crops may be taken off and consumed and immediately afterwards their place may be taken by some other crop. The soil should be dug over and more manure added if possible. This should be followed by a careful raking down before the plants are set out of the seeds planted.

SAVED BY AMERICA.

English Writer Wants His Fellow Countrymen to Realize It.

LONDON, May 27.— "Is it realized by the people of this country that America has already saved us from capitulating to the enemy?" asks a special writer for one of London's big dailies.

"Either," the writer continues, "We should have been forced into this surrender without armies unbroken and our munitions of war unexhausted, or we should at this moment be struggling to live and work and fight on one-third of our present rations."

The food supplies being sent by the United States to its allies represent, it is pointed out, "the kindly, difficult, and entirely willing sacrifice of a whole nation, the vast majority * * * working people."

America, the article, concludes, has answered England's appeal "in a manner which marks her out as one of the greatest moral forces in the world. It should be known out there, in the farm houses and cottages of the American Continent that the people of this country, tightening their belts and confronting the future with an indestructible confidence, are mindful of America's self-sacrifice—self-sacrifice which will save the world."

The Quality Goes Clear Through

For Average Roads

The boulevard is the motor car-manufacturer's paradise. But the average road too often is his undoing.

We cannot always ride on boulevards, but we can build to the grim exactions of the average road, and be sure the boulevard will not find us wanting. Gray-Dort has done just that—built this car to the average road.

The Gray-Dort motor is amply powerful for the load it carries. It is quiet, smooth, simple. It does not get out of order. It gives long service. The Gray-Dort chassis is extra strong, extra safe. Every part is co-ordinated to the highest degree. Each does its work quietly; unnoticed, but efficient and reliable. Gray-Dort design and Gray-Dort coach-building have added great comfort to the performance of this car. All this you get in a thrifty car, a car of low upkeep and of low first cost.

And the result of it all is the Gray-Dort as you can buy it today—a better car, built to the average road and able to serve well there; a light car of unusual quality and brimming with value.

The new Gray-Dort embodies all the good features that won instant success for former models. The 4-cylinder motor is a triumph of smooth, economical speed and power. The chassis is sturdy and quiet. The springs are long. The upholstery is deep. The equipment is absolutely complete from electric starting and lighting to the tools. New lines of beauty have been given this model.

The five-passenger touring car is $1,125; the three-passenger fleur-de-lys roadster is $995; the Gray-Dort special, beautifully finished and with extra details of equipment, is $125 above the list. All prices are f.o.b. Chatham.

NEW MINISTERS IN THE ONTARIO GOVERNMENT ASSUME THEIR DUTIES

Hon. Dr. Cody, Minister of Education Makes His Debut in a Dark Grey Suit and a Clerical Collar

REGULATION 17

(Special to The Examiner.)

Toronto, May 27—The two new Ministers of the Ontario Government, Hon. Dr Cody, Minister of Education, and Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Agriculture, assumed their new duties at the Parliament Buildings this morning. Dr. Cody was one of the first to enter the buildings, wearing a dark grey suit and a clerical collar. The new Minister made his way to his office in the department, and was at his desk before nine o'clock. He spent the morning in conferences with Dr. Colquhoun, Deputy Minister of Education, and the Department heads. "I shall familiarize myself first with the work of the Department and shall not be over hasty in coming to any decision," stated Dr. Cody.

"From time to time it will be my policy to make trips through the province and familiarize myself with the conditions as they exist in the schools. I shall endeavour to keep myself in sympathy with the proceedings of the public and the teachers, because I believe that the teachers are the real key to the educational system of the province. As I have said before, educational machinery is not an end in itself, but a means to an end."

"It has been stated that a Minister should give up his active work in connection with the church, when he accepts a position under the Crown," stated the reporter.

"Theoretically, that is correct. All I can say is that you have to depend on the man in each case. In any decision that I make I shall endeavor to be absolutely impartial."

REGULATION 17.

Dr. Cody said he did not care to discuss regulation 17. He thought there was a better feeling between the English and the French speaking people at the present time because they were coming to have a better understanding of one another."

Hon. George Henry said he did not have any definite plan of work in mind. He had been a member of the Agricultural Section of the Organization of Resources Committee, and had been closely in touch with the efforts that have been made to speed up production. Referring to the Soldiers of the Soil, he said he thought the boys could be used to advantage on farms where there was already some experienced help.

Farmer Charged With Sedition

The Case Was Adjourned Until Next Thursday

Edward Youmans, a farmer of Methuen township, has been arrested on a charge of sedition. It is alleged that he used seditious language in the post office at Lasswade and has also been heard to utter charges against the government and Military Service Act prior to this time. He appeared before Justice of the Peace Andrews at the Post school house, Chandos, where a preliminary investigation was held. The Crown was not represented and Mr. F. D. Kerr, of Peck, Kerr & McElderry, appeared for the defence. The evidence showed that the man is 70 years of age and the remarks complained of were said to be used in a political argument. The case was adjourned until Thursday, May 30. The defendant is well and favourably known in the community and his only son is overseas.

Profits Made By Milling Companies

Steps Will Be Taken to Levy Additional Taxes.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

OTTAWA, May 27.—The story of big war-time profits made by Canadian miling companies on flour for home and foreign consumption, and recommendations for a heavier taxation of these profits, for the benefit of the country, are given in a report issued to-day by the Minister of Labour.

The report shows that in 1917 the large milling companies largely increased their profits even after deducting the heavy war tax. It intimates that the limitation of profits to twenty-five cents per barrel does not effect the purpose for which it was intended, as profit of fifteen cents per barrel would pay ample dividends and permit a reserve to be set aside. The report concludes with the assertion that the only way to reach the profits of the milling companies is to increase the taxes on the net profits on the total investment for a year.

SISTER OF PARNELL DIES IN WORKHOUSE

Mrs. Ricketts Had Means and Is Said to Have Been Deranged —Wrote of Brother.

DUBLIN—A sensation was caused in Dublin by the death in the workhouse hospital known as the "South Dublin Union" of Mrs. Emily Ricketts, sister of the late Charles Stewart Parnell, the famous Irish patriot.

Mrs. Ricketts, who was formerly Mrs. Emily Dickinson, was admitted to the hospital early last week. The authorities say that she then gave her name as Mrs. Roberts. She was nearly 80 years of age. She died in the hospital Sunday and it was some time later when the authorities learned of her identity.

The authorities communicated with Mrs. Rickett's brother, John Parnell, who said that he was at a loss to understand the reasons which prompted her to take refuge in a charitable institution, as she possessed ample means to enable her to live comfortably. One of the newspapers says:

"It is supposed that her mind was deranged and that she was not responsible for her actions at the time."

Mrs. Rocketts was a writer of considerable ability. In a recent article containing reminiscences of her famous brother, she wrote:

"It has been said that ours is the most tragic family in Ireland. This, I think, is true."

CUT AN ARTERY IN HIS RIGHT ARM.

Eddie Dodd, a pipe fitter employed at the Quaker Oats plant, cut an artery in his right arm this morning at 10 o'clock. The gash which was made with a piece of tin, bled freely. Dr. McNulty was called and after attending to the wound, sent the man to St. Joseph's Hospital. Other than sustaining a considerable loss of blood his condition is not serious.

TO-DAY'S WAR NEWS CONTINUED

Haig's mention of simultaneous attacks to-day between Locre and Voormezele, in the Ypres area, suggests this might be the sector chosen for the major blow. In such an event the Germans would be able to work on interior lines of communication. To connect there the two advances, however, at such widely separated points, they would have to use up an extraordinarily large number of men. If a decisive victory were not won by these attacks, the result in loss of man power would be appalling. There is every reason to believe General Foch has foreseen all possibilities in this. The fact that Hindenburg is making two attacks 150 miles apart, in itself shows much uncertainty where to develop his advance.

GERMANS HAVE PROGRESSED IN SPOTS.

(By William Philip Simms—United Press Service).

Two O'clock Despatch:

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, May 27.—The German blow in Flanders, which got under way early to-day, is reported to have progressed in spots, but it is too early to know the actual results. The attack was a powerful blow by General Von Armin's army against Scherpenberg (a mile north-east of Locre), where the French wrested considerable ground from the Germans a week ago.

The Allied troops are fighting brilliantly. The battle for Scherpenberg began with a heavy bombardment from the Ypres-Comines Canal (half a mile east of Voormezele) to the French frontier, a mile west of Locre. The artillery opened up at dawn, and in the midst of a haze covering the Flemish lowlands the German infantry swept forward in successive waves.

ENEMY ACTIVITY IN MANY SECTORS.

Canadian Press:

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, May 27.—Latest reports show that the Germans have made some small progress in places. The attack of the Germans in the sector north-west of Kemmell appeared to be directed against the ground captured by the French on May 20. The German attack against the Entente positions north-west of Kemmell was launched at 4.30 o'clock this morning, after a heavy bombardment. There was great activity on the part of the enemy in several sectors between Arras and Albert early this morning, but no infantry movements up to ten o'clock. Belgium troops have recorded fresh victories over the Germans. On Saturday night they repulsed Teuton attacks in a big raid in the sectors of their front.

Biggest Rate Increase In The History Of American Railways

Freight Rates Will Advance 25 Per Cent. and Passenger Rates Half a Cent a Mile.

ALL CLASSES COVERED

Canadian Press:

WASHINGTON, May 27.—To meet the wage increase just announced and the higher costs of coal and other supplies this year, Director General McAdoo to-day ordered railroad freights in the United States raised 25 per cent and passenger fares increased to three cents a mile from the present basis o fabout 2 1-2 cents. It is estimated that the programme will bring between eight hundred millions and nine hundred millions more revenues to railroads within the next year. It represents by far the biggest rate increase in the history of railroads. The new freight charges, which cover both class and commodity rates become effective June 25 and passenger increase will go into effect June 10.

AN INJUSTICE TO MR. GUISE-BAGLEY

Letter Writer's Reference Was Not Fair to Local Lawyer

A letter which appeared in The Examiner on Thursday in regard to Captain J. H. Burnham, M.P., contained a reference to Mr. J. Guise-Bagley, that, whether such was the writer's intention or not, has done a grave injustice to the latter gentleman. The letter might be construed as insinuating that Captain Burnham and Mr. Guise-Bagley had conspired to inveigle farmers into the latter's office. If such an impression has been caused by this communication, it is a reflection upon Mr. Guise-Bagley which is not fair to him, and the publication of which is regretted by The Examiner. As a matter of fact Mr. Guise-Bagley has done a vast amount of work in endeavouring to secure exemption for farmers' sons and farm help, and at slight remuneration for, as he states, the time he spent in handling this business at the rate charged did not yield him fifteen cents an hour. Mr. Guise-Bagley never solicited any of this business, and any charge he made was quite legitimate and only what other lawyers in the city charged for similar work. The writer of Thursday's letter in striking at Captain Burnham apparently overlooked the effect of the communication upon Mr. Guise-Bagley, and it is hoped that this statement of the simple facts of the cases will show the injustice of the reference made to the latter.

SIR WILLIAM IS NOT SATISFIED WITH THE AWARD

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, May 27.—"I'm not satisfied with the award, who said I was?" asked Sir William Mackenzie at the sight of a reporter in his office to-day, referring to the finding of the government arbitration commission which fixed the value of 600,000 shares of common stock at $10,800,000.

"You mean there is no sentimental satisfaction?"

"None whatever," Sir William offered the opinion that the award was very much lacking in detail and disappointing in that it was impossible to see how the figures were arrived at.

The judgment shows no statement of assets and liability. "If it did," declared Sir William, "the award would have been many millions more close to fifty million instead of ten."

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES HELD AT MURRAY STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

Able and Eloquent Addresses Were Delivered at Both Services by Rev. A. N. Marshall, D.D.

SPECIAL MUSIC

Yesterday, anniversary services were held in Murray Street Baptist Church. The speaker for the occasion was the Rev. A. N. Marshall, D.D., one of the foremost workers in the Baptist ministry who for some months has been occupying the pulpit of Walmer Road Baptist church, Toronto in the absence of the Rev. John MacNeil. Special music was supplied by a large and capable choir and by the Misses Hartshorn, under the direction of Miss Ida Sanderson, organist and choirleader. A member of the Toronto Dovercourt, Salvation Army band was also a contributor at the evening service.

"Good Cheer"

"A message of good cheer" constituted the subject of Dr. Marshall's address at the evening service. In his opening remarks the speaker congratulated Rev. J. R. Webb, pastor of Murray Street Church for the success that has attended his efforts in connection with the administration of the various duties of the church. Mr. Webb has occupied the pulpit of Murray Street for the past ten years and during his ministry, gratifying progress has been made.

Turning to his subject, Dr. Marshall referred to Christ's repeated use of the injunction—"Be of good cheer". They were first spoken to the man who was afflicted with palsy and in turn, uttered in the presence of the frightened fishermen who were overtaken by the storm on the sea of Galilee. "Good fortune is rather an uncertain base for good cheer" said the speaker in discussing the various reasons that might be given for being in a cheerful mood.

"Permanent and soul satisfying good cheer, he said, was based on the principles enunciated by Christ. 'In the world ye shall have tribulation, but in me ye shall have peace' said the Lord Jesus."

The speaker commented upon the various forms of good cheer and its application to the christian life. Speaking of victory in a christian sense, Dr. Marshall said, 'God never intended man to be defeated. Men are intended for victory. When you go with that conviction to a conflict temptation will never get a start. Some men do not know how to be defeatedd. They are charging on to victory. 'Be of good cheer it is the only thing worth while. God will take you in His keeping in spite of your sins if you will only call on Him to save you."

VICTIMS WERE BELOW DECKS

CLAIM AMERICANS DISOBEYED RULES

This is Given as Reason for Death of Fifty-seven Men, When Transport Was Torpedoed.

(Special to Examiner.)

LONDON, May 27.—The death of fifty - seven American soldiers when the British steamer Moldavia was torpedoed in the English Channel Thursday morning, was the fact that they disobeyed the rules which require all passengers to be on deck while a ship is passing through the danger zone according to a dispatch to the Express from a Channel port, today.

Fifty-eight men were below decks when the explosion occurred, according to the Express despatch. Of these 56 were killed instantly; one died later, and the other drowned. Five minutes before we were struck the fog was so thick "you could not see your hand before your face," an officer is quoted as saying. "We narrowly averted one collision in an effort to avoid another vessel which came through the fog. We switched on our lights and at the same moment the moon came out from behind the clouds. An instant later the torpedo struck amidships on the port side. Despite the noise of the explosion, and crashing of timbers, the men were orderly. Fortunately, the moonlight lasted for an hour, permitting the transfer of men to the destroyers. Destroyers dropped several depth bombs over the place where the periscope was seen for an instant, but apparently with no effect."

Scene From "The Heart of Wetona" at The Grand Next Wednesday Evening.

Speaking of the play, the Toronto World says:

"The Heart of Wetona," by George Scarborough, the attraction at the Grand Opera House this week, was seen at the same theatre over two years ago, under the name of "Oklahoma" just after its first production and before it went into New York for a run. This melo-drama was the first play that the late Charles Frohmann decided to stage before his tragic death, and David Belasco carried out the plans for the presentation. It was in this play that Miss Leonore Ulrich now one of the most popular actresses on Broadway, got her first opportunity in New York. Miss Ulrich was already well liked here in Toronto, where she had become known as the best of the many Lenas who appeared here in "The Bird of Paradise," and in "The Heart of Wetona," she established herself firmly among the younger stars. All these facts give special interest to the drama. The story of the play concerns the love of an Indian girl for a young lieutenant in the American army. A great many unspeakable young men have worn Uncle Sam's uniform on the stage, ranging from Lieut. Pinkerton, who betrayed Madame Butterfly, downward and the officer in "The Heart of Wetona" is one of the worst. The old Indian chief is determined to defend his daughter's honour, but he does not know the man who has been making love to Wetona. He forces the girl to marry a manly fellow who really cares for her, and who is willing to protect her, though he is quite innocent of the acts of which the old Indian suspects him. The climax of the story comes when Wetona discovers the difference between the caddish youth who made love to her and her splendid, honourable husband. The plot of the drama is interesting and well told.

NEW PLANTS TO HANDLE THE SHELL CONTRACTS

The rumour in the street has it that price-fixing has been considered by the War Trade Board at Ottawa, and that many obstacles have been found in the way. The chiefest of these would no doubt be the fact that the measure would in effect amount to fixing the price on something that is not produced in this country. Dealers are not worried over the possibility, and contend that the business is almost entirely under Government control now, regarding the avenues in which trade shall be directed, etc.

Signs continue to increase that the machine tool trade recognize the war business as being on a more permanent basis now than for some time past. One Toronto manufacturer is going ahead turning out a batch of 25 heavy special tools that are applicable for war work only. He has not made a sale yet, nor does he want to until his machines are all on the floor ready for delivery. It can readily be surmized though that this firm does not consider it likely that the war work will wind up quickly.

The demand for machine tools and for suppliesc, for carbon and high speed material is brisk. New plants that will not machine a sheil for two months yet are in the course of building to handle new contracts on a scale that has not been known in the past.

Scrap Metal.

Scrap metal dealers find themselves in the position of being able to secure large supplies of the non-ferrous metals, for which there is not the keenest demand at the moment. The result is that their yards are being well stocked, but they lack the materials that are called far now in the munitions plants where they are turning out the makings of shell blanks.

Drawings of the new 155-mm. shell are being studied by the firms here. There is a tendency now to make the walls of the shells being turned out now thinner than those previously made. The idea of the ordnance experts apparently is that the thinner wall will break into many more pieces than the thicker one of the older type shells. Pieces returned from the battle front frequently show a base with a large piece of the wall attached to it, whereas it is claimed shells with thinner walls would have broken into many pieces, and added to their destructive force many fold. — "Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News."

TO TRAIN CANADA'S BOYS.

Efforts to Be Made to Produce High Standard in Public Schools.

Steps to improve the character training at the Public schools are being contemplated by the educational authorities, and Prof. W. F. Osborne, chairman of the Faculties of the University of Manitoba, is now in Toronto for the purpose of visiting a number of Ontario towns with his object in view. The movement originated in the west and has powerful supporters. Having noted the disastrous results of the "Kultur" taught in Germany's schools, the object of these men is to train the young people of Canada in such a manner as to produce the best citizens. The Maritime Provinces have already been visited.

LARGE REPRESENTATION

The annual church parade of the Sons of England was held last night to Park street Baptist church. Sharp at 6.30 o'clock the members assembled at the Hall on Hunter street, ninety strong, including the juvenile and senior divisions. The older members were taken in cars to the church. Brother R. Tivoly marshalled the members at the Hall, but on account of his age, Brother J. Runnett marshalled the parade to the church.

Rev. D. Brown, the minister, took as his subject, "Who is my neighbour." As an illustration, the parable of the Good Samaritan was used, showing how the lodge played the part of the Good Samaritan and of the good neighbour. During the last two years $1400 has been paid out in funeral benefits and over $5,500 in sick benefits. The names of those members who were killed in action were then read:

Sergt. F. Thomas.
Pte. R. Gifford.
Pte. J. Chandler
Pte. G. Sadler.

At the Hall, after the service, a vote of thanks was unanimously passed, thanking the Rev. Mr. Brown for his very helpful and instructive sermon.

Poor tea that can be sold at a low price is most extravagant in use. A little good tea, like Salada, makes many more cups; hence its real economy.

PRESENTATION TO FRED FOWLER

The members of Lakevale Church and Sunday School presented Fred Fowler with a very handsome military watch and the following address:

Dear Fred,—Knowing that you are leaving us in the near future, we your friends of Lakevale wish to intimate to you our sincere regret at your departure from our midst. No words can express our appreciation of the assistance you have always so willingly rendered in every department of our church work. We know that you will serve your King and country as efficiently in the new sphere as you have in the past. We well know that it was through no lack of patriotism on your part that you have not been with our Canadian brothers in France and Flanders, but because you felt you were doing your duty at home by helping in the production of food for our Allies.

Please accept this slight token of our regard, and may it remind you of the sincere friends who are standing behind you at home, and who will always be anticipating the day of your return. Until then Au Revoir.

Signed on behalf of Lakevale Sunday School and Church.

R. J. TULLY,
Church Secretary.

"It's a Davis cigar!"

27,000,000 will be enjoyed this year.

A man of commerce set out upon a long journey, and his friends at the Club said "Take along enough cigars to last: but the man said, "No, for I always smoke Noblemen cigars, which, like the law of the Medes and Persians, changeth not". And, as he tarried by the wayside he bought Noblemen in Halifax; others from a summer hotel in the Laurentians. Anon, he bought more Noblemen in Winnipeg, in Redeye, at the Banff Hotel, and where the apple blossom blows in B. C. And lo, the last Noblemen were as good as the first. His friends marvelled, for they had not known that Noblemen cigars are as much alike as peas in a pod, which is true of each of the Davis' brands.

Picture to yourself five stories of sunny rooms, spotlessly clean; cheerfulness and contentment radiating everywhere. The air is fresh from the nearby mountain. It is washed until it is just moist enough to be healthful and pleasant.

This is the Davis factory where carefully selected tobacco leaf is prepared, stemmed, matured and converted into famous blends of fine cigars.

Take any one process as an indication of the infinite care and skill that surrounds the making of the cigars, and you will understand why the dealer thinks he has offered all the recommendation that is necessary, when he says "It's a Davis Cigar".

In this airy room, each and every leaf is being treated to remove every particle of the bitter centre stem.

The bundles of leaf, are now most carefully sorted for colours, grades, etc. and will mature for six, nine, or twelve months—just as long as is necessary thoroughly to season, cure and prepare the tobacco and bring out the rich flavour.

In time, the leaf will reach the cigar makers, long rows of cheerful workers skilled to the last degree. To them, cigar-making is an art, not a task—a chance to display their skill and deftness. Yet no chances are taken, every cigar must pass inspection after inspection, 8 in all, until the boxes are sealed in their wax paper wrappers.

Made of matured leaf, in wide-windowed rooms by skilled fingers under watchful eyes, blended to accord with unvarying standards, mellowed in the wood. Such is the history of any Davis Cigar you may buy, regardless of the price you pay. All you need to know is—"IT'S A DAVIS CIGAR"!

ENTERTAINMENT AT CAMPS WILL NOT BE NEGLECTED

Elaborate Programme For Summer Months is Being Mapped Out by the Y. M. C. A. Authorities---Former Peterborough Man Will Have Charge

Plans for the Y.M.C.A. work to be conducted at both Camp Niagara and Petewawa are now rapidly nearing completion and no effort will be spared to give the boys in khaki all the comforts possible, the chief aim being to cary on the Y.M.C.A. idea of linking the home and military duties.

At Niagara on the Lake the "Y" will keep two huts going, one for the Polish Regiment now in camp, and the other for the Canadians. The Canadian "Y" will be supervised by Mr. J. J. Thompson, Chief of Staff, who has been in charge of the work at the Exhibition Grounds all winter. He is known better as "Chief" Thompson, and his favourite pastime is leading the khaki-clads in a rousing chorus. He was formerly secretary of the Y.M.C.A., Peterborough. Mr. Thompson will be assisted at Camp Niagara by Mr. B. S. Dobson, of Montreal in charge of the religious work, and Mr. E. Elliott, of Toronto, in charge of the entertainments.

Good "Movies" Lined Up.

Mr. Elliott has promised the boys all the latest "releases" in the moving picture world, and already has booked a number of special features for their entertainment. Several Toronto concert companies and other musical talent have also already volunteered their services to visit the camp during the summer months. The auditorium where the movies and amusements will be staked will be 50 by 140 feet.

One of the special features greatly appreciated by the boys at Camp Borden last summer will again be carried out this year, women workers having again volunteered to give their time serving at the refreshment booth. These women workers, representing Toronto's leading families, will go to Camp Niagara in teams, and remain there a week at a time. This work is one of the main features at the "Y" as the women in charge make it a point to meet the boys and to try and cheer them up with a word of welcome and a cheerful smile.

Under Mr. Thompson the "Y" was a big factor in the life of the soldiers stationed at the Exhibition Camp this past winter. Over 130,000 men attended the movies, concerts and meetings held there and more than 30,000 attended the religious meetings. The classes in French were also well patronized.

Already on the Ground.

At Petewawa, where the artillery will be stationed, a record season for the "Y" is expected. Already a number of the "Y" representatives are on the ground preparing for the reception of the men. One of the main factors of the work at Petewawa will be the opening of the new hut, which measures 150 feet in length and is 129 feet wide. This hut is built in a "U" shape and is similar to the huts being used overseas and in the large cantonements in the United States.

Dr. Sheldon, of Edmonton, will be the Chief of Staff at Petewawa, Toronto being represented on the "Y" working staff there by Mr. Tom Stafford, of the West End "Y," who is physical director, and Mr. W. Noble, who has been chosen as business manager.

CLOSING CONCERT ON FRIDAY EVENING

The closing concert of the Conservatory of Music will be held in the Grand Opera House on Friday evening May 31st. A most attractive programme will be presented by artist pupils and members of the Faculty, which will demonstrate the calibre of the instruction afforded at this popular institution. The programme will consist of vocal, violin and piano solos, duos, selections by the junior and senior orchestra chorus of children.

The whole programme will be a fitting climax to the large number of recitals which have been given at the Conservatory throughout the season, and mark another mile post in the development of the musical life of our fair city.

Austrian Fined $50 For Failure To Report Arrival

Mayk Kosyles, an Austrian, will spend three more months in jail unless he can negotiate a fine of $50 which Magistrate Rush handed him this morning for failing to report to Chief Thompson when he arrived here two weeks ago.

"I just had eighteen de month. W.Wha for, I don' know." The Austrian had spent a term in an internment camp. Some one stole his suit case with all his possessions, he told the Chief, who replied that the theft had no connection with his reporting his arrival in Peterborough. "This station is open day and night."

Mrs. W. P. Edwards thought that she didn't need a dog tag until June 1st and her neglect to make sure of the prescribed date cost her $4.00.

Chief Thompson remarked that he had published the notice in the papers warning the citizens to get their dog tags before May 1st.

"I don't read the papers," Mrs. Edwards admitted.

WILL VISIT YOUNG SOLDIERS OF THE SOIL

P. F. Bockel, of Belleville, is touring the six counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Northumberland, Durham, Peterborough and Victoria, in the interests of the Soldiers of the Soil Movement. Mr. Bockel is the supervisor for this territory.

He, like other supervisors, has been provided with a Ford car to cover the territory. He will visit every boy engaged in the Soldiers of the Soil movement and see that the best relations exist between the boys and their employers. He will also arrange meetings for the presentation of S.O.S. buttons.

This work is under the direction of the Ontario Trades and Labour Bureau, Dr. W. A. Riddell, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, being the provincial supervisor. The Y.M.C.A. in Ontario has nine superintendents, of whom Mr. Bockel is one. Mr. W. R. Cook, Boys' Work Secretary for Ontario and Quebec under the National Council for Canada, is provincial director of the S.O.S. movement in Ontario and Quebec. Mr. Taylor Stratten is director of the S.O.S. work for the Dominion. The whole movement is really under the direction of the Canadian Food Board.

Every school boy or girl who passed a satisfactory examination in April will be given standing in his or her studies on presentation of credentials showing that three months' service has been rendered by the student on a farm or in a cheese or butter factory.

Burnfoot Champion Will Leave His Ennismore Home

Mr. F. Scollard Is Developing a High-grade Line of Dual Purpose Shorthorns

Mr. F. Scollard, proprietor of Lakeview Stock Farm, completed an important sale a few days ago when he disposed of "Burnfoot Champion" to Mr. J. W. Carter, of Elderton, Ont. "Burnfoot Champion" is one of the best bulls in this part of the country, and after June 15th he will leave his present home to head the fine herd of Mr. Carter, who like Mr. Scollard is specializing in dual purpose Shorthorns.

Mr. Carter's herd includes the champion three-year-old "Buttercup," whose record in the R.O.P. test it not equalled in Canada in her class.

Burnfoot Shorthorns.

The "Farmers' Advocate" has the following to say regarding Burnfoot Shorthorns:

"Few breeders have risen to fame as quickly as has S. A. Moore, of Caledonia, Ont., owner of the noted Burnfoot herd of dual-purpose Shorthorns. Although but a few years engaged in the breeding of Shorthorns the sensational records for milk production made by the cow, Dairymaid 86,066 which in one year gave 13,535 lbs. and the two-year-old heifer, Jean Lassie, in the year gave 8,939 lbs. milk and 371 lbs. of butter-fat, have made a name for Mr. Moore second to none in the Dominion as a breeder of heavy milking Shorthorns. But these do not represent all the sensational producers found in this herd. Another mature cow, Burnfoot Lady has an official record of 10,689 lbs. milk and 415 of butter-fat. Bonnie Jean in 218 days gave 8,149 lbs. Her grandam was a 60-lb. cow and she is the dam of the great two-year-old mentioned above, Jean Lassie, all going to prove that the big production of this family is not a mere chance but an inherited character. It may be of interest to some to know that this family are descendants of Jenny Lind, imp., as is also Burnfoot Lady, while the cow Dairymaid goes back to Lavinia Imp. 299. Beauty Joy, traces to Lily 302 Imp. At her first calving she gave, in one year, 7,000 lbs. In service on the herd is a son of Dairymaid, Burnfoot Chieftain, whose sire's dam traces to Beauty 80 Imp., thus he combines from both sides the strongest producing blood of the breed in this country and with it is an exceptional degree of type and quality."

VISITING OBSERVATION POSTS

(By CAPT. A. F. OZANNE)

When a British battery comes into the line, or whenever a battery goes into a new area, one of the many questions which arises is the selection of observation posts. Some of these have been already chosen for it, others are left to one's own selection, and on these occasions the battery commander resembles an anxious housewife with a busy day's rent-hunting before her.

So far as artillery at any rate is concerned, this was it quite unlike any other war. There was a time when the guns thundered into battle behind galloping teams, when the gunners unlimbered and got to work in full view of the enemy, and when their officers controlled the fire from the line of guns itself. But with the march of science everything is changed. Most of the guns are brought up behind motor lorries or caterpillar tractors, and, instead of opening fire in full view of the enemy, they are kept most carefully out of sight. In order to control the fire, therefore, it is necessary for an officer to go right away from the gun line to a point in the country from which he can see the target.

In the battle area are numerous remains of buildings, and many of these within 1,200 yards or so of No Man's Land have been turned into an Observation Post. To all external appearance the ruin remains the same, but on entering you will find that one of the rooms has thick concrete for its inside walls, and a concrete roof.

One Observation Post is very like another, the only difference is the view obtained. The battery commander, having studied his maps, knows by this time the targets in his sector by heart. His object now is to go out and see things for himself, so he gets into his car, takes lunch with him, and drives as near to the firing line as he can. Under the most favourable conditions he usually walks about a mile and a half after leaving the car.

And such a walk? The farther east you go the more desolate does the scenery become, until you get to the canal bank with its row of split, and withered stumps that once were trees. You cross the bridge and dive into a communication trench which, if you go far enough, will take you by a zig-zag course to the fire trenches. Soon the major and his staff come in sight of a ruin which marks the site of the first Observation Post, they leave the trench and make their way to it on their hands and knees. Once inside, the telephonist connects his field telephone to a wire which seems to grow out of the wall, and asks the Exchange to put him through to the battery. Meanwhile the battery commander is picking out landmarks and asking questions of a subaltern who knows all about the place.

The same procedure is observed at the other posts. Some are in the communication trench itself, and are practically dug-outs with so small an entrance that one has to crawl into them.

Finally, when ten posts or so have been visited, the battery commander telephones for the car to meet him at the E—— cross roads, the party turn their faces towards the west, and make for "home."

Increases In Taxes For United States

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, May 27.—A twenty-five per cent. rate increase on class and commodity freight rates will go into effect June 25th. Railway fares will be raised to three cents a mile on June 1. Some heavy commodities, largely handled, will undergo raises of more than 25 p.c.

The increases were designated as necessary because of the need to meet higher operation expenses, estimated at from $830,000,000 to $860,000,000 more than last year.

The traffic in heavy commodities, which form a large per cent. of railway business, will have increases not based strictly on 25 p.c. increase.

THE WORLD OF SPORT

FIRST WOMAN HIKER WALKED 1,000 MILES IN 1,000 HOURS

There have recently been a few attempts to revive interest in walking as a sport, and this recalls an era when hiking contests were immensely popular on both sides of the Atlantic. The walking "fever" as it was called at the time, began about 40 years ago. The first feminine "hiker" to engage in a match against time was an Englishwoman, Miss Richards. It was just 45 years ago, on May 18, 1874, that she set out to walk a thousand miles in as many consecutive hours. Her feat aroused a spirit of emulation among women on both sides of the Atlantic, but her record held good until 1876, when Bella St. Clair, also English, covered a thousand miles in 950 hours. So far as known, this record still stands, at least as regards women pedestrians.

The first man to walk a thousand miles, in as many hours was capt. Barcley, an English soldier, who did it in 1809, winning wagers of several thousand pounds. A couple of years later Thomas Standen, who had passed the three score mark in years, walked 1100 miles in 1100 hours. The "hiking" spirit then died outt for a time, but was revived by Edward Payson Weston. Weston's first notable feat was to cover 500 miles in five days, 23 hours and 34 minutes, at Newark, NJ., in 1874. Weston then went to Enland, where he refeated William Perkins the champion walker of Great Britain, but a few years later was defeated by O'Leary, an Irishman in, a six-day walking contest for $5000. O'Leary covered 520 miles, ten miles more than Weston. Six-day walkig mnatches became immensely popular. The Astley belt was hung up as a trophy and was first won by O'Leary, who walked 503½ miles in London in 1878. The next match of this kind was staged at New York, and was won by Rowell, who walked 500 miles. In 1879 Weston went to London and captured the belt by covering 550 miles. The following year, in a match for the pedestrian championship of England, Brown was the victor with 553 miles to his credit. Hart beat this record in New York the same year, doing 565 miles for the O'Leary belt, and in 1882 Hazael set a new mark 600 miles.

McCoy-Creedon Battle.

Kid McCoy stopped Dan Creedon in six rounds in New York on May 18, 1900, eighteen years ago today. Creedon had been middleweight champion of Australia and of the Pacific coast, adn in 1897 had fought McCoy displayed his superiority throughout the contest, and in the 15th round the Australian's seconds tossed in the sponge. Creedon still believed he could whip the Hoosier, and in 1900 McCoy consented to another match. The Australian showed a little of his old-time form, and for five rounds McCoy played with him as a cat does with a mouse. The Kid could hove stopped Creedon any time after the first round, but he waited until the sixth inning, when he landed his famous corkscrew blow Creedon tried gamely to get up, but his seconds threw in the sponge and put an end to the unequal battle.

UN-BAKED COURSES OF CALIFORNIA MAKE 500 YARD DRIVE EASY MATTER

Golfers accustomed to the dry, sun-baked, flint-like courses in Southtrn California, where a coyote has nothing on a golf ball in the matter of legs, smile at the eastern accounts of long drives. The difference between these acotions in tee distances show the difficulty of establishing world's records in driving.

Mike Brady, the Massachusetts open champion ,after a winter at Brentwood, near Los Angeles, laughs when they talk of record drives down in Boston, where he now is. Drives in Southern California are not measured by 300 or 400 yards but by the 500. Edward Martin, the California professional, drove last winter to the edge of the green on a hole measuring 560 yards.

Brady had a putt for two on the eleventh hole at Brentwood, the hole measuring 470 yards. He overdrove the first green, 426 yards, as did his assistant. Few professionals can outdrive Brady when he is meeting the ball right, but in the early days of his stay in California he was outdistanced frequently.

He was driving a high ball, with a long carry, so that the ball often landed yards and yards ahead of an opponent. But a half-topped drive would run interminably on the hard ground and finish ahead of his much better played tee shot.

These experiences remind the writer of a remark made last May on the tee of the home hole at the Presidio links at San Francisco, the army officers' course. The hole is over 500 yards, with a slight slope from tee to green.

To a military looking golfer on the tee, it was said: "You have a nice long hole there." "Looks so now," was the reply, "but wait till July. Then it will be only a drive and a putt."

Kansas Accepts Challenge From Fighting Zunner

Rocky Kansas has accepted the challenge of Fighting unner. The pair have been matched to box ten rounds for the members of the Queensberry Athletic club next Monday night in Buffalo.

Following his point victory over Harry Boyle the other night the fighting Black Rocher renewed the challenge he made on the occasion of the Jummy Duffy-Kansas bout, when he offered to make 142 puonds for Duffy and 138 for Kansas. The Buffalo lightweight champion called the challenge yesterday and the pair were signed up, the weight to be be 138 pounds ringside.

Zunner Expresses Confidence.

"I can do the weight all right and 138 pounds ringside afternoon." "I have time off from my tug work which will permit me to give my training the next few days all attention. I did 141½ for Harry Boyle the other night and can get the 3½ off without any trouble. I have always thought I could beat Kansas and if I can turn the trick the heavy catchweights, of which there is so much complaint, will have no trouble in getting on with me at catch."

Zunner showed surprising form in the Boyle bout the other night. Previously he had won at the six-round route, showing much flasr of brilliancy. The Boyle bout, however, was his first at ten rounds recently and many believed he could not hold the pace. He did, and, finishing strong, scored over his Philadelphia rival who weakened himself in the closing rounds. The match set the seal of merit on Zunner's comeback and he must be given a great chance with Kansas. It will be the first meeting of the pair, although Hank won from Joe (Kid) Kansas, Rock's brother, some years ago in Buffalo. Zunner proposes, too, if he wins the Kansas match to go right after Duffy at 142 pounds, for there is much rivalry between them. Zunner will train at the Allie Smith gymnasium and do a lot of real work.

Kansas is in splendid form to taper off for the match, for he has been doing light training. General comment when Rocky boxed for the Fort Porter soldiers the other night was that the little Hercules looked better than for a long time. His friends are confident that he will stop Zunner inside the limit and then they propose to have him go after Duffy again on the on the 142 pound proposition and have him polish off the duke of Lockport.

SPORTING COMMENT

It is expected that by the middle of next week that the fate of professional baseball, now in the hands of the United States Government, will be known.

President Ban Johnson, of the American League, is of the opinion that every baseball park in America should be closed up.

Outfielder Mervin Kopp, the former St. Thomas and Buffalo baseball player, now with Connie Mack's Athletics, has been ordered to report to his home draft board at Toledo, Ohio.

A baseball was auctioned at Washington, and $3,500 was realized It was autographed by President Wilson, who attended the game. A collection for the Red Cross realized about $10,000.

In a boxing carnical at Madison Square Garden for the benefit of the Red Cross many well known boxers took part. The auctioning of cartoons and the Kaiser's cup totalled $19,000, and this with the box office receipts, brought the total up to $32,225.

J. B. Fischer, the Harvard second baseman who broke his leg in the Princeton game, incurred the injury in an unusual manner. He was not sliding to base, as are nine-tenths of the players who break a leg on the field, but was tagging a Princeton runner. Cases of players breaking bones while on the defence are rare. Both Maisel and Gilhooley suffered severe injuries while playing the outfield, but we recall no case of a baseman breaking a bone while tagging an opponent.

There is little sympathy for Willard in the lukewarm attitude of the public toward a Willard-Fulton bout. If interest in pugilism had had Willard to depend on since he won the championship it would have been stone dead by now. The sport itself has not lost in interest, but that the public should become apathetic toward one who showed such indifference toward the game as Willard was no more than to be expected. Fulton, however, has done his share toward keeping the pugilistic pot boiling. He has been a willing ringster, is fully entitled to first chance at Willard and it is rough on him that his chances of winning the championship have, through the diminishing likelihood of the fight, become so slim. If he still wants to fight, he can increase his fame by beating Miske or Dempsey. There is game worthy of him.

Win Noyes, a pitcher by profession, but at present now in Uncle Sam's employ at Camp Funston, is a much travelled youngster. San Francisco dug him up from the Texas League. He was drafted by the Braves, but after a short spell with the Boston club he was sent to Spokane. Connie Mack drafted him and brought him to the Athletics, and after that jump across the continent he was grabbed for military service and took the rattler half way back again.

Mike Hogan, the pitcher who was with the Giants in Marlin this spring, pitched for Joplin the other day, and walked four, hit two and inserted two wild pitches before he vacated the box. No wonder McGraw turned him back for more seasoning.

The Cincinnati club may win a pennant yet if the New York club stays in business long enough. Groh, Roush, Mathewson and now George Smith went from the Giants to the Reds, and they are a commanding array. And last year the Reds had Thorpe. It is too bad from a metropolitan point of view that McGraw couldn't have turned Smith over to Huggins. Huggins needs pitchers the worst way, and yet McGraw, his fellow-townsman, who has a surplus, cannot provide him with any.

The question of Mathewson going to France to direct baseball behind the American lines is in abeyance, yet it would seem that if the soldiers want Matty the only thing for him to do is to go.

Tom Clark, a Missouri golf pro., just out from an attack of ptomaine poisoning, did a 72 for eighteen holes. Here's a hint for doctors. The golf bug is more powerful than the ptomaine bug.

About those ten sheep that Comiskey has turned loose in his ball field to clip the grass. We hope they'll eat up Red Faber and Hap Felsch before the next world's series with the Giants.

Pitcher Robert McGraw, of the New York Yankees, has been ordered to report of the New York pitchers to be taken.

The American Walkers' Association, of Cincinnati, have formed a special club, called the George Goulding Assembly in honour of the world's champion walker.

There is some talk of playing the world's series this season behind the trenches in France.

A team from the Government House at Ottawa were badly beaten by the Ottawa Cricket Club, only scoring 41 against 156.

BAN JOHNSON

Ex-Big Leaguer Back From France Trying to Get Stars to Play Game "Over-There"

Apparently there will be no more scandal regarding baseball players joining shipyard teams to avoid the draft. It is said that Kopp and Geary of the Athletics, who left their team intending to report to a shipbuilding company of Wilmington, Del., changed their minds after a talk with Connie Mack, manager of the team.

Ban Johnson, president of the American league declared that he had taken up the question with C. M. Schwab, who is in charge of the government's shipbuilding program, and that the latter assured him that no overtures would be made to players in army class A1 to engage in shipbuilding work.

"The American league does not desire, to impugn the motives of the players who have gone into this work." Mr. Johnson said. "Some of them are patriotic. But if there are any of them who are in class A1, I hope Provost Marshall - General Crowder yanks them from the shipyards and steel works by the collar and places them in cantonments to prepare for future events on the western front."

MONTREAL ATHLETES HAVE JOINED R.A.F.

Jack G. Kent and E. S. Kelly, two Montreal athletes, joined the camp of the Royal Air Force at Long Branch here. Jack Kent is one of Montreal's most promising golfers and an all-round athlete. He held the office of secretary of the Whitelock Golf Club for two years and resigned a short time ago to join the Royal Air Force.

E. S. Kelly became prominent at skiing last winter when he won the event in Class B at the championships given by the Montreal Ski Club at their jumps on Cote des Neiges Road. Kelly is also an aquatic polo player, having played with the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association for some time.

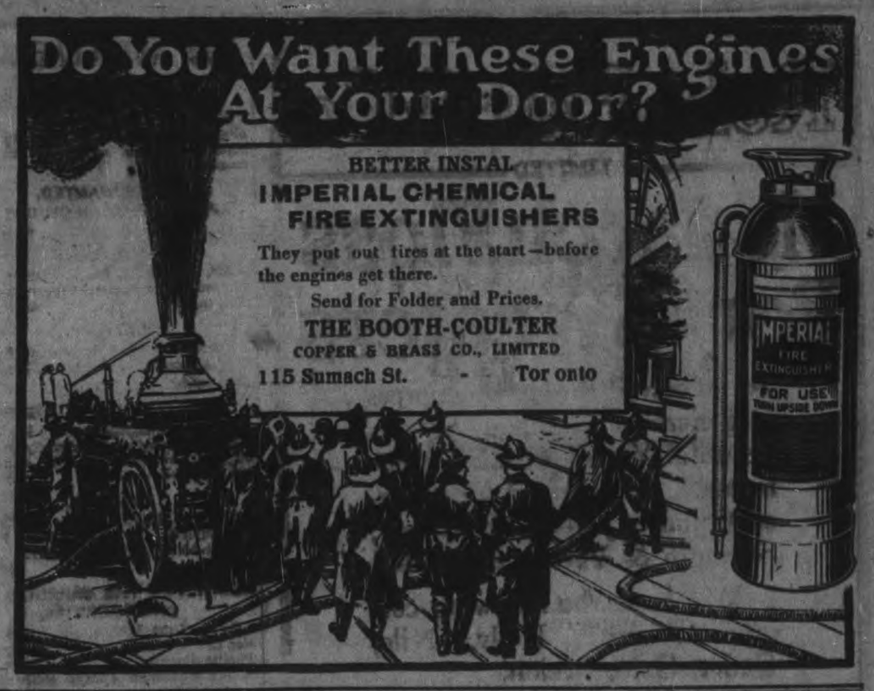
CANADA'S ATHLETES

Track Men, Boxers and Baseball Team Competitions.

Athletes in the Canadian army continue to distinguish themselves in England. At Stamford Bridge oval Sergt. Harrowing of the Canadian won the hundred yards and two hundred and twenty yards dashes.

At Woolwich the Canadians beat the United States team by 18 to 1, Boyle being the most prominent performer of the winners.

At Seaford Camp boxing competitions Sergt. Attwood of the Canadians caused Jim Watts of Charlton to retire in the thirteenth round. Corporal Maycock beat Sapper Goodson. Pte. Tommy Moore outpointed Sergt. Harry Smith and Pte. Knoxs defeatedd Pte. Skillings.



BOWLING On Water St. Alleys

At the Water street alleys on Saturday, J. Dolan made a record score in five pins, when for three games he rolled 724, and for a single game 358. This is a record all through Canada to date and speaks well for the condition of the Water street alleys.

This week's bowling:

Monday: Printers vs. C. G. E.

Tuesday: Left overs vs. De Laval.

Thursday: High Rollers vs. West Ends.

Friday: Maple Leafs vs. Grocers.

JACKSON HAS MANAGED TO ESCAPE THE DRAFT

GREENVILLE, S.C., May 23.—Joe Jackson, former star outfielder of the Chicago Americans, has been certified to the local Draft Exemption Board, which had ordered him to report for military duty, as being in the employ of the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

This certificate stays the order of the local board calling Jackson and places him in the classification of necessary employees. As he is employed in chipbuilding on the Delaware, he probably will not be subject to the draft.

Voice of The People

COUNTY ROAD SYSTEM

To the Editor, Examiner.

It has been stated that 80 per cent. of the traffic would be done over the proposed County Road System, if as suggested the 140 miles were to be adopted by the County Council. Perhaps 80 per cent of all Auto traffic would be done on such main roads, but 75 per cent of Auto traffic comes from the city htat passes over such main roads and the wear and tear is largely due to Auto traffic. Heavy wagon traffic is mainly short hauls to the city with cement gravel for city purposes.

Hauling by farmers is different to 30 years ago. Farmers deliver products in a manufactured state to the nearest loading station from three to six miles and there would be very few stations on county roads.

It is not possible for, but a small percentage of the farmers to use those county roads, then why place a heavy tax on citizens who would not benefit by it. It is also advanced by way of argument that such roads would attract tourists yet out side of a few farmers living adjacent to summer resorts, no other farmers would benefit save having a rope of dust hurled at you when passing.

It has been stated that one and half mill on the $ or 13,000 dollars raised would start such system, but why raise from the farmers such money when auto traffic is responsible.

Those owning autos pay license and the same license money should be expended on the roads used by the people who pay the licenses. It is generally conceded that 20,000 to 30,000 dollars will be collected from the city and county of Peterboro this year, then why is such money not available to be expended on the main roads in the county for the benefit of the citizens of the city and county.

Coming back to the proportion of traffic 12 per cent of farmers would use such roads and 75 per cent of the auto owners of the city would use such roads.

It appears unreasonable that farmers should raise abnormal sums of money in order to get back part of their own good license money paid by them and residents of their own county town.

We all want good roads, but we cannot see why the money paid for the privilege of tearing up roads cannot be expended on thise roads.

Why so much hurry when labor is far short in the rural parts at present. -Yours truly,

Ed. W. ELLIOTT

Arranging For The Annual T.A.S. Picnic

Arrangements for the annual excursion of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society will be discussed at a meeting of the committees on Wednesday night. HOLY NAME SOCIETY SUGGESTED.

It is understood that a Holy Name Society may be formed in the Catholic parishes of Peterboro, to be launched either in June or September. The Holy Name Society has for its object the promotion of reverence for the name of Jesus. It is known that Bishop O'Brien has expressed the wish that this Society be established in Peterboro, and he may be expected to give its organization his fullest support. Under his inspiration, St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society grew and flourished in this city and diocese but its work has been obviated by the Ontario Temperance Act and prohibition law. As yet there has been no announcement of plans to form a Holy Name Society, but it is expected that the movement will be under way either before or immediately after summer.

PAID $12.60 FOR DRIVE.

Youth Drove Horse 19 Miles—Charge Withdrawn.

Harold Butler hired the only horse in a local livery stable on the strength of his statement that he was going to drive only two miles. The horse was the only one available at the time, and had already been used that day. Butler drove the animal nineteen miles, and, according to the police, it was laid up for two days. The liveryman brought an action in the police court, but withdrew the charge upon Butler's payment of $10. He also had $2.60 costs for the police.

A MITE OF A REPUBLIC.

Moresnet Is Only One and a Quarter Square Miles In Extent.

The smallest state in Europe, the autonomous republic of Moresnet, is on the boundary between Germany and Belgium.

Moresnet has an area of barely one and a quarter square miles and a population of 3,500. It owes its existence to a boundary controversy for the control of a once important zinc mine. A boundary commission settling the frontiers of Holland and Prussia after the fall of Napoleon in 1814 was unable to agree upon the ownership of this tiny piece of land, with its valuable mining rights, and finally left the question for future settlement. Neither power was to occupy it, and it was administered jointly by the two states.

In practice the joint administration soon resulted in an administration by neither state, and the community became autonomous under the protection and tutelage of Prussia and Holland and later of Prussia and Belgium. In 1841 the two guaranteeing countries regularized this and formally gave the district its own independent administration. It has no courts, but litigants can choose between the Belgium and Prussian tribunals in beginning litigation, which is subject to the laws neither of Germany nor of Belgium, but of the ancient Code Napoleon.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

GRAIN MARKET

Warm growing weather was a very strong bear factor in the grain markets yesterday. Prices gave way sharply in corn, the break steadying a little when a few shorts got into the market. The closing was weak. Oats went back a little. The cash demand is very quiet for either corn or oats. Barley continues weak and it quited 8c to 9c lower nominally, but very little doing. Rye is also quoted another 5c lower.

Manitoba wheat.—No. 1, northern, $2.23 1-2; No. 2, $2.20 1-2; No. 3, $2.17 1-2; No. 4, $2.10 1-2, including 2 1-2c. tax, in store, Fort William.

American corn—Not quoted.

Ontario oats—No. 2 white, 80c. to 81c., nominal; No. 3 white, 79c. to 80c.

Peas, No. 2, nominal.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receipts yesterday, 156 cars, with 2703 cattle, 505 calves, 931 hogs and 238 sheep and lambs.

There was a halt in cattle prices yesterday. Although the run was not a heavy one for a Monday's market, the leading buyers made a determined stand to lower prices from the high levels to which they have recently been raised. The result up to the noon hour was that the market was practically at a standstill, with only a few scattered transactions to break the monotony of a long wait. Just how much the market was really off no one could for certain say, but the general feeling was that the end of the day would see prices a good 50c lower.

Among one or two good sales recorded was a fancy Holstein springer, said to be the best ever seen on the market, sold by R. Brunt of Hanover, to Fred Armstrong, for $215. Another special sale was a load of sixteen steers and heifers, fancy quality sold by McDonald & Halligan, at $16.

Signature of Registrant.

Above is printed a facsimilie of the registration card for females. These cards will be used on registration day, and every young and old woman, over the age of 16 years will be required to register. Pay no attention to the report that has been circulated that all over 60 years of age need not register. Registration for all over 16 years is compulsory. The same regulation applies in the case of male persons.

It would be well for all who read this to clip from the paper this copy and give general consideration to the answers to the questions. On the clearness of the answer will depend the value to the government of the registration. To get at the man and woman power of the country, it is necessary to find out what the men and women can do. And from the answer given the facts can be deduced.

At the registration places, (to be announced) the registrant, who is the person registering, will give answers to the questions as they appear on the card. The Asst.-Dep. Registrar, who will do the writing, will write on the card what is stated When completed the person who is registering will have opportunity, if desired, to read over the card, or in the case of a person who cannot read writing, have it read to him or her. Satisfied that the replies to the questions have been corectly inscribed, the person registering will sign the card, (at the right lower corner) as a certificate that he or she is satisfied with the record.

It is expected that the people will assist in the work by affording the desired information quickly and freely. Ones position in life will not be prejudiced by the answers. Where a person is asked if they can do other work than that in which he is now engaged, it will be only on the basis that consent is given to make change of occupation. For instance. A man might be a perfectly good miller, used to flour production, and at present he might be working in a greenhouse. It might be advisable in the interest of greater production to get him to make a change and go back to his first occupation.

The card, for men, is not quite ready. So soon as it is made up in plate form, it will be printed. In the meantime the card for women, as above, can be consulted in advance of the days of registration.

The formal proclamation, lists of registration places, general instructions, etc., will presently appear. These matters are in the hands of the Central Board at Ottawa, which will give due publicity to the week.

Peterborough Branch Of The Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association Meet

Members Will Prepare An Exhibit For the Peterborough Fall Fair —Local Branch in the Market For Two Hundred Pounds of Paris Green

Owing to the inclement weather the attendance last night of the Peterborough branch of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association was down to nine members, including three officers, President Fred Wilson, Second Vice-President Holden and Secretary Kitney.

Literature had been received by the secretary from the central organization, relating to the garden competition conducted by the Association. Forms were distributed by which members could enter this competition. All members who enter this competition are governed by a set of seven rules, namely:

The Regulations.

Rules and regulations for garden competition conducted by the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association, 1918:

1. Each garden must contain not less than 3 acres, but if the plot contains a greater acreage than the above, the whole will be judged.
2. Gardens will be judged twice during the season. The first judging will be done not later than July 10 and the second judging not later than August 10th.
3. An entry fee of $1.00 will be charged.
4. The Province will be divided into four districts as follows:
1. Ottawa, Kingston, Belleville.
2. Toronto, Welland, Clinton and Louth.
3. London, St. Thomas, Stratford, Brantford.
4. Blackwell, Sarnia, Tecumseh, Sarnia Independent.
5. The following prizes will be offered: 1st, $30; 2nd, $20; 3rd $10; 4th, $7; 5th, $5.
6. Entries to be made to the Secretary of the Branch, who will forward same to the Secretary of the Central Association.
7. Judges will be supplied free of charge by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

J. Lockie Wilson,
Secretary, O.V.G.A.

Fall Fair Exhibit.

It was also decided to enter an exhibit of "legumes" at Peterborough Fall Fair. Any member wishing to add to the collection should inform the secretary. A letter was submitted by the secretary from a fruit grower who wished to enter the association and call it the Peterborough Branch of the Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association, but it was argued that it would not be recognized by the central executive. However, all fruit growers will be allowed to enter under the old name.

Paris Green Supply.

The question of Paris green was brought up, and as the Association would need at least two hundred pounds it was decided to buy it wholesale. President Fred Wilson was delegated to see the local dealers for a supply of Paris green.

It was thought that the members not present should be informed of the proceedings of the meeting, and accordingly the secretary was asked to write to each member, informing him of the business conducted at the meeting.

PRIMITIVE ARAB LIFE.

Desert People Still Have the Custom of Abraham's Time.

In the wild deserts Arab life is a primitive as in Abraham's time. Sheep are still slain to seal a vow. The salt or bread covenant is observed, and when a man dies his tent is torn down and destroyed.

Old names such as Joseph, Moses and Alexander are still in common use among Arabs, though pronounced "Yusuf," "Musa" and "Sekunder."

To divorce his wife a man has to repeat the formula But Arab life is free. Usually saying it once makes the woman behave, and its repetition is unnecessary.

The "evil eye" superstition is common, and the first injunction given a visiting foreigner by experienced Arabian travelers is that he must not point at animals or persons in Arab settlements.

Arabs say a man gifted with the malign power can look at a bird flying in the air and that it will drop dead, that if he chooses to cast his wicked spell on a camel it may go lame or a child so selected will be struck blind.

None of the lower class can read or write, but the Arab is noted for his ready wit and his habit of speaking in allegory.—Christian Herald.

A Lesson in Pronunciation.

"How do you pronounce that word divorcee,' professor?" asked Mr. Slabsides. "Is it 'diverseay' or 'divorsee?'"

"That all depends, my young friend," smiled the professor. "When Mrs. Jones-Smythe-Wiggles got her first divorce I should have called it 'Divorce A,' but now that she has come through with a third I should say that 'Divorce C' is a justifiable form."—Harper's.

The Woman Who Changed

By JANE PHELPS

A JOYFUL SURPRISE

CHAPTER LXXVII.

I told George of my luncheon with Merton Gray and he scarcely seemed to notice what I said. I was piqued. I didn't want to anger him, of course, but I did want him to notice that Merton thought me attractive.

"You had Celeste?" he had asked, rather he had stated.

"Of course!"

"Then, if you enjoyed it, I see no reason you shouldn't have remained," he said, when I rather insisted upon his saying something. Just then there was an unwonted commotion in the hall, and I thought I heard a familiar voice. I jumped from the table without excusing myself, and in a moment was in David's arms.

I was delighted. There had always been an esprit de corps between me and this young brother, lacking in the other boys.

"Here's David!" I called.

"Well, bring him in and give him some dinner," George answered pleasantly enough, as I dragged the protesting David into the dining room.

"Let me go wash up, sis," he begged, rather overawed by the magnificence of the house, and by James.

"You come straight along with me! James, Mr. Milner will have some dinner," I said, my arm around David.

George Leaves David and His Sister Alone.

"How do you do, David?" George shook hands; then, "I'll have my coffee Helen. I have an engagement. You and David can visit to your heart's content."

For the first time, I felt no resentment because I was to be left. Too well, I knew that neither David or I would feel free to discuss home folks, home affairs, before George. He drank his coffee, asked David a few questions about his trip then, with a careless: "Have a pleasant evening," he left us.

"Gee! but you're swell, sis!" David said as soon as James left the room. A little different from the old home. That flunky would drive me mad. How can you stand so much guff, a country girl like you?"

"I was a little worried, at first," I admitted, "but James is really a treasure.' Not even to David would I now admit the fear and trembling which had seized me when George had planned our domestic arrangements.

"This is some house!" my brother looked admiringly around.

"Wait until you have finished. I'll show you all through. It is really lovely."

"George must have wads of dough."

"I guess he has although he never talks business with me. But he is very generous and denies me nothing." I might have added, "Save his society."

"You always were lucky," David said, as we rose from the table.

I took him all over the house. He was awfully enthusiastic.

"Some house!" he declared in his boyish way, when we finally returned to the library and settled down for a long evening together. "But I say, sis, aren't you lonely when you are out all alone? Or doesn't George go out unless you have company?"

Helen Makes Light of Things to David.

"Oh, yes he often goes out. He is a very busy man and has many business engagements in the evenings. Sometimes I feel a bit lonely, but I get a book or magazine and forget all about it." My brother was a keen sort of a youngster, and I didn't care to have him know too much.

"Now tell me how you happened to come without sending word?" I asked.

"Well, I didn't decide to come until yesterday. Then I thought it would be fun to give you a surprise party. I told mother I was going to butt in on you and see if you were as happy as you made out when you were home. And if you weren't, I was going to do things to that husband of youre. He's awfully dignified, isn't he?"

"Oh, I don't know. Not when you know him well." My family really were almost strangers to George. When he courted me, his visits were few and far between, and very short ones. Then, he naturally spent most of his time with me.

"Honest, sis, this is great. But someway I think I like the old home best, even if the chairs are shiney, and the carpets patched in spots. I guess a fellow likes the place where he was raised. I know no place seems quite so good to me as the old ranch."

"It is a dear place, David,' I responded. Then we talked of dad and mother and the boys; of the church, and of the boy and girl friends who, he said, often talked of me and wished me back. Finally, about eleven o'clock, I proposed that we retire. I knew George would be cross if he found me up, even to talk with David. And I didn't want him cross. I so wanted David to carry home a good report of my husband. So I kissed him good-night and left him staring around the guest room and pretending he wouldn't dare sleep in so elegant a place.

To-morrow—Plans For David's Entertainment.

SOME GERMAN LIES.

Spaniards Are Told Strange Story of Mutiny Near Halifax.

The German papers are full of stories, possible and impossible, about what is happening in the United States, and every effort is made to persuade the German people that America's adhesion to the allied cause is but a half-hearted affair. It is, however, to the German-controlled press in neutral countries that we must turn for stories whose stupidity passes the comprehension of man. For example, the good people of Valencia, in Spain, are told by the local pro-German paper, El Dia, that America is on the point of revolution against the war-like clique which dominates the situation in Washington, and that the army and navy themselves are riddled with disaffection. The sublimest piece of imbecility, however, was the astounding discovery by the Germans that the American navy mutinied last October, and the guileless Spaniard is treated with this exquisitely authentic account of what happened. El Dia starts out with a glaring headline which runs: "Sensational News! Important Rebellion in the North American Navy!" It then proceeds to treat its readers to this entrancing piece of imaginative writing:

"Sensational news has reached us of a serious revolt which occurred about the middle of October in the North American navy on board several warships which arrived damaged at the port of Halifax after they had escorted a large number of transports going with American troops to France. The rebellion started on three Yankee battleships which came into Halifax flying the signal 'rebellion on board.'

"One of the ships raised the flag of a vice-admiral as a sign that the commander of the rebels, Commodore Dorsewell, was inviting the naval authorities at Halifax to come on board, which they did quite unsuspectingly.

"The battleships were awaiting with steam up. When the authorities arrived they were made prisoners by the mutineers who then proceeded to threaten the garrison of the forts unless they came over to their side. The forts were powerless to fire upon the rebellious ships, which were behind a rocky salient of the coast, so a group of officers were sent for a parley, but they too joined the rebels."

It is interesting to note that the writer of this ingenuous piece of fiction seems to imagine that Halifax is an American town garrisoned by American troops. Having proceeded to capture all the representatives of the Navy Department in a place where none exist, the mutineers started a pitched battle with the ships that remained loyal. El Dia goes chiefly on:

"In the meantime the battleships Minnesota, Kansas and South Carolina, and the cruisers Albany, Raleigh, Des Moines, Tacoma and Chattanooga—all of them boats of little military importance and slow speed with the exception of the first battleship mentioned — surrendered with loud cheers. When the battleships tried to line up for battle, the Kansas was hit by a 30.5 centimeter shell fired by the North Dakota, the flagship of the mutineers, whose commander had already been convicted in 1916 of insubordination and grave neglect of duty in connection with the first submarine campaign. When the crews of the other ships saw that the Kansas was out of commission, they joined the mutineers."

Apparently after this comic-opera battle the sailors became as mad as this story, for, we are told—

"The sailors began to commit all kinds of depredations, and they continued for about four hours. They cut the steel cables which held sixteen partially-constructed merchant vessels, sliding them into the water and sinking them at the entrance to the dikes, which were thus closed for several months. Thirty-eight other hulls, all of them well advanced in the process of construction, were sunk in the channel leading to the arsenals.

"The Government, though powerless to resist the mutineers, still controlled the censor, but despite all their efforts they could not prevent the news from reaching Europe although, as will be seen, it arrived somewhat late."

Had Bronchitis FOR THREE YEARS COULD GET NO RELIEF

Bronchitis is generally the result of a cold caused by exposure to wet and inclement weather. It begins with a tightness across the chest, difficulty in breathing, and a wheezing sound comes from the lungs. There is also a raising of phlegm from the lungs, especially in the morning. This is at first white, but later becomes of a greenish or yellowish color, and is occasionally streaked with blood.

On the first sign of bronchitis you should check it immediately by using Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and thereby prevent it becoming chronic and perhaps turning into some more serious lung trouble.

Mr. Theodore P. Beers, Upper Main River, N.B., writes: "I was troubled with bronchitis for three years, and could get no relief. I was always worse when I got wet. I tried lots of different medicines, but none did me any good until a friend told me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I got three bottles and before I had them half used I was better.

"My mother is now using it for asthma. It is a great medicine and we never want to be without it."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c.; manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Winter.

I have never doubted the fact that winter was really at heart a jolly good fellow, brusque, but sincere. His bark is worse than his bite. If you expect smooth phrases or flatteries from his lips you will be disappointed. His language is vigorous, direct and effective. His reign as "ruler of the inverted year" is absolute. His qualities are distinctly masculine. We think of spring as a shy maiden coquetting with the breezes, summer as the perfect flower of gracious womanhood. Autumn reminds us of a widow, to whom bereavement has brought a chastened melancholy. But winter is the vigorous gentleman with the wisdom and judgment of age, strong and unyielding where great issues are at stake, yet withal revealing at times a winning beneficence in both looks and actions.—Suburban Life.

The Vatican's Precious Manuscripts.

The Vatican library is probably the most sumptuously housed in the world. This, of course, is only as it should be, for the collection contains some of the most precious manuscripts in existence, including the Biblical "Codex Vaticanus" of the fourth century, the fifth century Vergil and the palimpsest "De Republica" of Cicero. The printed books include over 2,500 fifteenth century editions, many of them vellum copies. The total library has been estimated to comprise over 220,000 volumes and 30,000 manuscripts, but it has never been adequately catalogued.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Extra Touches.

Smith—I see you're paying the expenses of that pitcher who fell off the roof. Brown—Sure; he's too good a man to lose. As he went down he touched up three or four places which would have been extremely difficult to reach in the ordinary way.—London P. I. P.

DEATH WARNINGS.

Soldiers Who Foresaw Their Fate on the Eve of Battle.

KNEW THEIR TIME HAD COME.

It Was Not Mere Fancy, but Grim Premonition, That Moved Those Men to Read Their Own Death Warrants—A Case of Red Tape and a Bullet.

Premonitions get little attention, and those who have them little sympathy in these days. During the war, however, a premonition came to be looked upon as a most unwelcome guest. In the company I went out with there were two Garfield brothers. The younger, a quiet, modest fellow who spent his leisure time writing letters and reading, never joined in camp amusements, told a few of his more intimate friends while the regiment was in camp opposite Fredericksburg, Va., in 1862, that he would be wounded in the first battle he went into and die from the effects of it. The boys laughed at him and tried to cheer him up, but it was of no use, he never changed his mind. Aug. 28, 1862, was the first battle of the regiment. Young Garfield was as brave as the bravest at Gainesville.

"This is my first and last fight, boys, and I shall do my duty," is what he said when the regiment plunged into that battle, to which the Iron Brigade of four regiments and two regiments of Doubleday's brigade, the Fifty-sixth Pennsylvania and the Seventy-sixth New York, met "Stonewall" Jackson's sixteen regiments and held them in check for four hours, our brigade alone losing 800 of its 2,500 men.

"I'll hit, goodby, boys," said Garfield, as he fell out and went to the rear.

"Yours is a flesh wound in the calf of the leg and in a few days will be all right," said the surgeon to Garfield.

"Tell my parents I did not shirk my duty," pleaded the young boy.

And he lay there without a word of complaint and died.

Near him was "Bisket" Dan of the same company with a shattered knee, a much worse wound than Garfield's. Flesh demanded attention. He loved the nurses to keep his wound bathed in cold water, and if they were at all neglectful he swore at them. Flesh lived to kick about rear bunkhack and salt junk on many hard hikes, but Garfield is sleeping in the Bull Run cemetery.

Frank King was a rollicking young fellow in the same company, generous, brave and popular, a singer who always drew an audience. Like a hero he fought at Gainesville, Second Bull Run, South Mountain, Antietam, Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville.

"I love this business of fighting," was what Frank King said to Lieut. White a comrade, just as the brigade was swung into the line to charge the Rebel day at Gettysburg.

"Killed in battle" is what the orderly entered after Frank's name that night.

"Have all the fun with me you desire, gentlemen, it is your last chance," was what Major Phil Plummer of the Sixth Wis. said to a committee of officers who were chaffing him about being left very sober the day before Grant moved into the Wilderness in 1864. Forty-eight hours later they rolled his blanket about him and buried him where he fell. Nothing could convince him that he would not be killed in that battle, though he had escaped in a dozen other great battles.

Captain Rollin P. Converse, who had won his way from the ranks and gone through a score of great battles, went into the first day's fight of the Wilderness, May 5, 1864, confident that he would do his last fighting that day. He never fought more bravely. They hit him on the field with a high velocity form and death looking him squarely in the eye.

A Confederate surgeon told Converse that his leg would have to come off.

"That would not save my life, so let it alone," was his quiet reply. But the surgeon began to arrange for an amputation.

"Let that leg alone," said Converse. The surgeon paid no attention to the wounded captain until Converse had taken out his revolver and pointed it at him. There was no amputation, and the next day they buried Converse with both legs.

Lieutenant John Timmons of Company C was entitled to muster out July 16, 1864, his three years having ended, but red tape intervened and delayed the order. Days and weeks passed without the word which would take him out of the service. On the night of Aug. 16, 1864, an order came for the regiment to march. A march then, in front of Petersburg, meant a battle.

"This is tough," said Timmons. "I ought to have been mustered out and gone home a month ago. In a day or two we shall have a fight, and I shall go to my long home—be killed."

The first of the Weldon railroad battles, Aug. 18, John Timmons was killed—died of red tape and a bullet.—Chicago Record-Herald.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

The Human Brain.

In estimating the size of the human brain in comparison with the brain of other animals we must figure on not only the positive size, but the relative. Were this not the case man would stand below the elephant and whale, as the brains of those creatures far exceed man's in positive size, while as regards relative size they stand so far below him that, while the brain of the elephant amounts to about the five-hundredth and that of the whale to three-thousandth part of the bodily weight of these animals respectively, the brain of man varies from one-thirty-fifth to one-thirty-seventh of his entire weight. This shows the immense superiority of the human brain as compared with the brains of the lower animals.—New York American.

Dogs That Hunt Crabs.

A collector for the London zoo has succeeded in capturing several crab hunting and crab eating dogs in Brazil. The dogs are half fox, but they do not seem to care very much for poultry. They have been known to turn up their noses at mice, rat puppies and go fishing for crabs instead. The dogs hunt in packs along the banks of the rivers in the Amazon valley, and the crawfish and land crabs of that region are their especial prey. The crabs often put up a vigorous fight, but the dogs have a way of turning them over and biting them in a vital spot just as the thoroughbred terrier polishes off a rat.—New York Herald.

Unfair Advantage.

A school inspector, examining a class in Bible history, asked, "Can any boy tell me what bird Noah let out of the ark?" There was a long silence, and then the smallest boy in the class put up his hand and answered, "Please, sir, a dove!" The inspector expressed his surprise that only the smallest boy in the class knew the answer to the question. "But, please, sir," replied one of the boys, evidently touched by this reproach, "his father keeps a bird shop!"—London Tit-Bits.

Badly Needed.

Permit us to suggest that the department of militia hire some newspaper man who can write clear English to put the recent military orders in such shape that ordinary people can know what they mean. Revision and condensation of the multitudinous food orders would also be helpful.

TAKE BITRO-PHOSPHATE TO INCREASE STRENGTH, VIGOR AND NERVE FORCE

Says Editor of "Physicians' Who's Who"

Women Need it to Bring Back Pink Glow of Health to Pale Cheeks and Forestall Tell-Tale Lines of Age. Men Need It to Make Strong, Vigorous Bodies and Steady Nerves.

People who are irritable restless, nervous; those who tire easily or lack vim and energy; men and women who have faulty memory, sleepless nights, fits of depression or the "blues" should take Bitro-Phosphate three times daily after meals.

Frederick Kolle, M. D., Editor-in-Chief of "Physicians' Who's Who," New York, says: "Bitro-Phosphate should be prescribed by every doctor and used in every hospital to increase strength and nerve force and to enrich the blood."

Good, sound advice this; moreover the genuine, standard Bitro-Phosphate is inexpensive and is sold by McDermid & Jury and most all good druggists under a binding guarantee of satisfaction or money back. Test your strength by seeing how far you can walk without tiring before beginning to take it and then after two weeks or so see for yourself how your strength has increased. Note, too, if you do not feel more buoyant, have better colour, a better appetite, stronger nerves and increased vigour and energy.

LADY'S FOUR GORED SKIRT.

Simple, straight lines characterize the season's new skirts, but many of them are made with yokes. As an illustration of a good model No. 8755 is shown. The panels at front and back are practically straight and they are stitched the full length of the skirt. The side yokes fitted to the figure, and the lower side sections are gathered to the yokes. Many rows of machine stitching set close together on the yoke make a very effective trimming. The skirt is stitched to an inside belt in slightly raised waistline.

The lady's four gored skirt pattern No. 8755 is cut in six sizes—16 and 18 years and from 26 to 32 inches waist measure. Width at lower edge is 2 yards. The 26 inch size requires 3 yards 36 inch or 2¼ yards 44 or 54 inch material.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Three Brothers

By ALAN HINSDALE

Before the recent German attack in Italy the Italians and the Austrians were fighting in the mountains, the former slowly working their way down toward Trieste. It was slow work. The Italians after pulling guns up a declivity would spend months in reducing the works of the Austrians on a height where they had established themselves on the other side of a depression in the mountains. Then they would take up the position the Austrians had left, the Austrians would establish themselves on another defensible height, and the work of reduction would begin again.

In the Italian artillery forces there was a gunner named Luigi Marini, though he was known only to his fellow soldiers as Luigi. He was a remarkable artillerist. Eschewing the modern contrivances for range finding, he would aim his pieces and it required but two or three shots from him to strike an object across a valley several miles broad. He did such good work that his officers did not attempt to impress their instructions upon him, but left him to demolish breast works and dismantle guns any way he saw fit.

When Luigi's gun was once in position, it was always placed behind a rock—it was left him to serve, the rest of the squad going to other duties. Only one person remained, a stripling boy, named Arturio with no beard on his face, who helped him while loading the gun. When Arturio was not thus engaged he would be picking off the Austrians with his rifle. He seemed devoted to Luigi and both were attached to the gun. They were known among the troops as the three brothers, Luigi, Arturio, and the gun.

At one time the three brothers were operating across a valley so narrow that they could use both the gun and the rifle.

But the enemy soon saw the necessity of stopping this effective work. An officer with a pair of glasses kept watch of the Italian lines and after awhile located the spot whence came the shots that were doing so much damage. He called to one of his own gunners, pointed out the rock behind which Luigi's gun was stationed and told him to put it out of commission. The gunner began to send shots to the location indicated and at the fifth shot two of the three brothers were knocked out. One was Luigi, the other was the gun. Luigi was killed and the gun was dismantled and rolled down the mountain side.

Arturio was not injured, but he was thrown into great grief by the loss of his brothers. He was found weeping and wringing his hands. This was not considered very soldierly but Arturio had done such good work that his comrades were disposed to excuse him.

"Which are you weeping for, Arturio," asked a comrade, "Luigi or the gun?"

"Both," was the reply.

"Well, cheer up; there are more guns just as good as the one you have lost."

"Yes, but there are no more Luigis."

Arturio grieved all that day. His captain ordered him to another gun. He obeyed the order, but did not stick to the gun. His captain found him behind the rock which had protected Luigi's gun.

"What is the matter with you?" asked the captain. "Has the loss of your gun taken the courage out of you? Go back to the gun to which I ordered you."

Arturio said nothing but went back to the station to which he had been ordered. But he was useless there and those serving the gun told him that they had no work for such a weakling, and he soon returned to his original position. The captain having no time to attend to his case he was left there until the enemy were driven from their line across the valley, and took up a stand further on. While the Italians were getting their guns across the valley lowering them with ropes, and raising them on the other side by the same means Arturio went to headquarters. The general happened to be standing there smoking a cigarette.

"General," said Arturio, "I would like a discharge."

"On what grounds, my boy?"

"I am the wife of Luigi Marini."

"The man who dismounted so many of the enemy's guns?"

"Yes, general."

"I have heard of the three brothers. So you are the last, and a woman."

"Yes, general," she replied holding her rifle toward him. "I have avenged the others. There are twenty-seven notches on the stock, one for each Austrian I have brought down with my rifle since they killed my husband."

The general examined the rifle and the notches admiringly. Then the woman held her hat to the light. It was perforated with holes.

"What does this mean?" asked the general.

"I held my hat above the rock behind which my husband's gun had been placed, to draw the enemy's fire, so that I could see who shot. I killed as many as fired at it."

"In other words you continued your husband's work. You are a brave woman. You shall go back to Italy, and with a decoration."

Open Winters.

When snow covers the ground it preserves vegetable life without developing it. Snow is three times less powerful as a conductor of heat than rain; it screens the ground and prevents nocturnal radiation.

Vegetables, cereals in particular, can endure a considerable lowering of temperature if the fall of snow precedes the frost. Ground planted to wheat can pass through a period when the temperature falls far below zero if the snow covers it well. While rain brings to the ground azote in the form of ammonia or nitric acid, snow enriches the soil in much greater proportion. A liter of rainwater contains much less fertilizing material than the same amount of hoarfrost or melted snow, and when the winter has been "open" or mild, when there has been rain instead of snow, the farmer is forced to spend more money for fertilizers than when the winter has given the earth snow in abundance.—Harper's.

A Worthy Man.

When William E. Chandler was in the United States senate he was visited by a delegation from his home town, Concord, N. H. The object was to have Mr. Chandler assist in selecting a candidate for mayor of Concord. Name after name was offered to the senator only to be rejected. Finally a delegate who was not especially pleasing to Mr. Chandler asked: "Well, who in thunder do you want, anyway? How are we going to know when a man does possess the qualities that will entitle him to your approval?"

"When you find a man who isn't ashamed to show respect for women, love for children and animals and who will walk to the edge of the sidewalk at midnight when no one is watching to do his expectorating into the street you may be sure that he possesses all the civic virtues and is fully worthy of any office you may be able to give him," was the quiet response.

Lieut. Stanley Rosevear, belonging to Port Arthur, has been awarded a bar to his Distinguished Service Cross for attacking, on March 15th, eight aircraft, destroying two. The official statement reads: "This officer is very skillful and a dashing fighting pilot." Rosevear was awarded the cross in November, mention being made of his attacking at a height of only a hundred feet. Writing home, he said he could not tell what an awful hell the barrage is. "I cannot at times hear my own engine of machine gun."

Flight-Lieut. Cecil Darley, formerly a pupil at the Curtiss School, Toronto, from Lachine, Que., also receives a bar to the cross for night bombing raids of docks and aerodromes. He received the cross in August for gallantry in bringing home his machine under difficulties after bombing Bruges.

This Letter From Newcastle

IS A MESSAGE OF GOOD CHEER TO PEOPLE SUFFERING FROM NERVOUS AND KIDNEY TROUBLES.

Newcastle, Ont., March 25.—Mr. Wilmot had been treated in hospital and at medical springs but found that cure only came when he used Dr. Chase's medicines.

His kidneys were deranged, circulation was bad, so that he suffered from cramps and the nerves were upset. By the combined use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills he was enabled to entirely restore the system to health, and thereby get rid of the many annoying symptoms.

Mr. B. W. Wilmot, Newcastle, Ont. writes:

"For the last eighteen months I have suffered from nerve and kidney troubles My hand would cramp up and also my side, and at times my hands were utterly useless. My kidneys pained and my liver was also deranged. I took doctor's medicine, was in a hospital, and even went to medical springs, but I must say that nothing has done me so much good in so short a time as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney Liver Pills. Since using this combined treatment my cramps have completely stopped and I feel a great deal better. I may also say that the word constipation need never be mentioned since the goodness of Dr. Chase's medicines has been found out by the public. You may use my letter and my name if it will aid others to profit by my experience."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c a box, a full treatment of six boxes for $2.75, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co. Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

THE COUNTRY LAWYER.

A Legal View of Him as the Slave of His Clients.

"A professional baseball player in part bases his claim for a large compensation upon the theory that in accepting service he surrenders in a great measure his liberty and becomes the property of his employer," writes Almond G. Shepard in "Case and Comment."

"If this was the basis of compensation for the lawyer in the rural districts he would speedily become a millionaire. For he is the property not only of one individual, but frequently of a whole community, and the greater his success, the wider his reputation, the more abject is his slavery. His clients are tyrannical. They know and recognize no office hours. The month hand on a farm has at least a few hours between late dusk and early dawn for repose, but even these are frequently denied the country lawyer.

"Some of his clients are prone to consult him at his residence late at night, when none of the curious minded villagers can see them, and speculate and gossip on the question and of the nature and purpose of the call. Another class, believing in the adage that the early bird catches the worm, at early sunrise interrupts his slumbers to make sure that they retained the 'best' lawyer in the county to represent them in some present or expected trouble."

Never Learned It.

We asked the young lady across the way if she ever used the thesaurus when she had anything to write and she said she'd never learned to operate it and still used her fountain pen.

Proper Care of Dairy Products In the Summer Time—Threshing Gangs Will Help to Relieve Farm Labor Shortage—Work Is to Be Initiated This Year.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

THE pen is mightier than the sword — especially when it has a pig in it. Then multiply that pig by 40,000. Multiply this again by 200 lbs., and an imposing total of 8,000,000 lbs. is reached—more pounds of pork, indeed, than were exported by Canada shortly before the war. Yet Ontario could produce that huge quantity by utilizing a valuable food commodity that at present is almost entirely wasted — the garbage of our towns and cities.

This is the evidence given by a commission appointed by the Agricultural Section of the Ontario Organization of Resources Committee, to investigate the feeding of garbage to swine. The commission consisted of J. E. Brethour, Burford; F. W. Johnson, Walkerville, and Justus Miller, Toronto. These gentlemen have lately returned from a tour of American cities where garbage is fed to hogs and are of the opinion that Ontario ought not to delay longer in the matter.

The salient points of the report which has been prepared regarding their findings are briefly: (1) That garbage has a food value of between $8 and $9 a ton; (2) that it should be fed entirely untreated, i.e., that it should not be heated, washed or sorted; (3) that residents of towns and cities where garbage is to be fed, must separate their garbage, placing table refuse only in a separate container; (4) that for every 100,000 of population a minimum of 6,000 tons of garbage is produced each year, which will feed 3,000 hogs; (5) that the double treatment (serum and virus) for hog cholera must be given to make the plan feasible.

A small percentage of our garbage has been fed to hogs already but the regulations of the Federal Veterinary Director-General compelled feeders to sterilize garbage by the boiling or steaming process and prohibited the immunizing of hogs by the double treatment against cholera. Since returning to Canada the investigating committee has taken the matter up with Dr. Torrance, however, and has secured his permission to allow untreated garbage to be fed and hogs so be given the double treatment, subject to very reasonable conditions.

Supplying Milk for City Trade.

"Safety first" is a good slogan in the milk business. To make milk safe it must be drawn from healthy cows — preferably those which have passed the tuberculin test; the stable, pasture and all surroundings must be clean; the utensils which come in contact with the milk must be clean; the persons handling the milk should be a living advertisement of exemplified cleanliness; the delivery waggons, cans, measures, etc., should be clean. In order that assurance of safety may be doubly sure, it is advisable to pasteurize the milk,—that is, heat it to 140 degrees to 150 degrees F., hold at this temperature for twenty to thirty minutes, then cool to 50 degrees F. or below and hold at this temperature until delivered to the consumer. Pasteurized milk is the safest kind of milk for humans to drink.

The person buying milk has certain duties in order to ensure a safe product, especially for children. Among these may be mentioned: Placing the milk at once on delivery in a refrigerator or cool cellar protected from dust and odors, and by keeping it in a tightly-closed vessel—preferably in the milk bottle covered with an inverted glass tumbler, or special cover; the top of the milk-cap should be wiped to remove dust before taking it from the milk bottle; no more milk should be taken from the supply bottle than is required for a meal; any "left over" milk, should not be put into the supply vessel after the meal, as this will likely spoil the whole of the milk on hand; milk taken to a sick-room should not be used for any other purpose, except it be boiled and then only for cooking; milk bottles should be washed as soon as empty and be promptly returned to the milkman—in no case should milk bottles be used for any other purpose in the house than for holding milk.—Prof. H. H. Dean, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, Ont.

Threshing Gangs for Ontario.

Farmers are shorter of labor this year than they have ever been before. In many cases there may be but one man on a farm, assisted, perhaps, by a boy. It will be necessary, therefore, to economize labor in every way possible in order that this year's harvest may be taken off and the fall work completed in preparation for the 1919 crop.

While there are objections to the threshing gang in Ontario it is hoped to initiate the work on a reasonably large scale this year. The Ontario Department of Agriculture is making a study of the proposition as it affects the farmer, while the Ontario Labor Bureau has agreed to provide 5,000 men for threshing gangs if there is a demand for these. With suitable co-operation between the farm public of the province and the Provincial Department of Agriculture there should be no difficulty in organizing a large number of gangs this fall.

Petroleum in Biblical Times.

Natural petroleum has been used certainly since the time of Cyrus. It was known in ancient Biblical history, where it is described as "the salt of the earth." When such salt loses its savor it is only fit to be trodden under the foot of man, because on losing its volatile essence it becomes asphalt, which was used for pavements both in Nineveh and Babylon.

Best Material for Splints.

Galvanized wire netting is claimed to be much superior to wood as a material for surgical splints. It is strong, light in weight, non-absorbent and easily sterilized, and, unlike wood and plaster, gives free ventilation. The new splints are woven from wire so tempered that it can easily be pressed into shape to be bound closely upon the injured limb.

All in the Family.

In China every member of a family is responsible for order in that family and every inhabitant of a city is jointly responsible with every other citizen for its tranquility. If a younger son in a family should commit a crime, the older son is likely to be taken into custody for the offense, and, perhaps, punished.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

Doubtless, if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble — in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little bisurated magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk, but the pure bisurated magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn, and the bloated or heavy lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little bisurated magnesia immediately after a meal you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover, the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.

In the Nature of Apology.

An unintentionally irreverent prayer was made in a missionary meeting called for the benefit of Chinese converts. "Oh, Lord," prayed a fervent helper in the work, "we have shunned these, thy children, because of their pigtails and crooked eyes, but O Lord, we are sorry, for we have this day learned that they, too, are made in thy image."—Harper's Magazine.

Strong as an Ostrich.

The strength of an ostrich is prodigious; he can disembowel a horse or kick through a sheet of corrugated iron. To an unprotected man in the open an infuriated ostrich is as dangerous as the lion. Many have lost their lives through ignorance of his strength, his speed, and his implacable ferocity.—William C. Scully, in the Atlantic.

What You Expect.

If you are looking for a chance to feel aggrieved, you will be sure to find it. No one can be on the lookout for slights and snubs, without discovering them in plenty. The happy, wholesome girl, who takes it for granted that she is always welcome, and that everyone has the kindest intentions, is pretty sure to get what she expects.

Truly Euphemistic.

"Just what is meant by a euphemism?" "I'll explain," said the erudite person. "When a widow who has been married three or four times ropes in another man it is announced that she was 'led to the altar.'" "Exactly." "That phrase, 'led to the altar,' is a euphemism."

FATE OF THE RESOLUTE.

British Economy and the End of Franklin's Exploring Ship.

The story of how the brave little exploring ship the Resolute was found by an American vessel in Davis strait after a thousand mile cruise from Melville island without a soul on board is easily the most captivating in the history of arctic exploration. The Resolute, locked in the ice, was abandoned on May 15, 1854, sorely against the will of her captain by advice of the leader of the Belcher-Franklin expedition. The reappearance of the vessel on Sept. 17 caused a great sensation, and the United States brought the vessel with great ceremony to Cowes in order to present it to the queen of England.

The queen, the prince consort and others of the royal family then at Osborne House inspected the vessel, which had been carefully repaired and all the original furniture retained in position down to the smallest trinkets. The American skipper traced before her majesty the thousand mile course of the vessel and expressed his belief that Sir John Franklin was still alive, living among the Eskimos.

After many banquets the actual transfer of the vessel took place on Dec. 30, 1856, when the American flag was replaced by the British. And now comes the tragedy. The admiralty had no sooner come into the possession of the vessel than it proceeded to break it up on the good old principle of public economy!—London Chronicle.

LIVER TROUBLE and HEARTBURN

CURED BY

MILLBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS

When the liver is torpid and inflamed it cannot furnish bile to the bowels, causing them to become bound and costive. The symptoms are a feeling of fullness or weight in the right side, and shooting pains in the same region, pains between the shoulders, yellowness of the skin and eyes, floating specks before the eyes, coated tongue, bad taste in the morning, heartburn, water brash, etc.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills gently unlock the secretions, clear away all effete and waste matter from the system, and give tone and vitality to the whole intestinal track, and are by far the safest and quickest remedy for all diseases or disorders of the liver.

Mrs. A. Cummings, Manchester, Ont., writes: "I have used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills some time, and can faithfully recommend them to anyone suffering from heartburn and liver trouble. I tried a great many other remedies but they only relieved me for a time. I believe Laxa-Liver Pills to be a valuable remedy for all sufferers from liver troubles."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

High Heels Put Corns on Toes

Who cares? Corns or calluses lift off without any pain.

Because style decrees that women crowd and buckle up their tender toes in high heeled footwear, they suffer from corns, then they cut and trim these painful pests which merely makes the corn grow hard. This suicidal habit may cause lockjaw and women are warned to stop it.

A few drops of freezone applied directly upon a sore corn or tender callus gives quick relief and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, lifts off without pain. Ask the drug store man for a tiny bottle of freezone, which costs but a few cents, but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet.

Freezone dries in a moment and simply shrivels up the corn or callus without even irritating the surrounding skin.

Women! Keep a bottle of freezone handy on the dresser and never let a corn ache twice.

GERMAN RED TAPE

A Most Irritating Brand Is Used In the Postoffices.

SENDING A PARCEL BY MAIL.

Experience of an English Tourist Who, With Joyous Confidence, Undertook to Perform What Was Supposed to Be a Perfectly Simple Operation.

In all innocence and lightness of heart I set out one morning to send a small parcel to England from the town in Germany where I was staying. At the postoffice I was confronted by three booking office windows, each having a weird and formidable inscription over it. These inscriptions were not to be comprehended at a glance; so, not wishing to gaze up at them too long, I selected the least crowded window and handed over my parcel. It was promptly returned to me with a curt "Go to the next window!" It was just that window I specially wished to avoid, being the most crowded, but I waited my turn and then made another attempt. The official looked at me sternly.

"Have you the circulars?" he asked.

"No," I replied faintly.

He handed me three circulars, for which I had to pay a small sum and which I was requested to fill up. Picking up my parcel, I sat down to study those circulars. They were covered with instructions, the language used was magnificent, and the effect was so overwhelming that I found it difficult to grasp what I was instructed to do. If my papers were not filled up accurately it was not from untruthfulness, but owing to my limited German vocabulary.

By the time I had described the parcel, the gross weight thereof in grams and kilograms, the gross value thereof in marks and pfennigs and given a detailed description of each article contained therein, with its separate weight and value, I felt like an old inhabitant of that postoffice. I had seen, as it were, generation after generation of stamp purchasers come and go, and still I remained. As to the weights, my idea of kilograms was about on a par with my knowledge of definite integrals. However, I did my best. I guessed at the probable weight of the parcel and divided the articles into it.

At length I came to the end, and, feeling like a candidate at an examination, I gathered up my papers and the parcel and went over to the window. After waiting my turn I handed over the papers. The official glanced at them, then at the parcel, and frowned.

"Did you weigh the articles?" he asked sternly.

"Ya-a-a!" I stammered.

"Then go home and weigh them again. You have put them down at half a ton!"

There was no help for it. With a sigh I gathered up my papers and went back to a secluded corner. After patiently reducing all the weights I again presented the papers. This time they were passed, and I was sent on to the next department, where I had to purchase and fill up another document. I was now getting into form, and this paper was soon dealt with.

Then, with my heart beating fast, I handed over the parcel. It was once more returned to me. The official said he could not take it in that condition—it was insecurely made up.

Now, if there is one thing upon which I pride myself it is upon the neat way in which I turn out a parcel. So, smothering my indignation as well as I could, I assured him that it would be all right, that it was perfectly safe and that there was nothing in it which was breakable. He repeated firmly that it was insecure and that he could not take it. So I sadly collected my papers and the parcel and went home to dinner.

I spent all the afternoon trying to purchase a cardboard box of exactly the right proportions and some waterproof cloth to wrap round it. I next procured a stick of sealing wax and a German seal, and by the time I had finished that parcel looked as if it were prepared to travel to the north pole.

It was now getting toward evening, and I was feeling wearied after my day's work, so I besought my brother—a willing, guileless youth—to take it to the postoffice. He took it so innocently that my conscience reproached me for not having given him a word of warning. He was a long time gone, but that was to be expected. When I saw him come in my heart sank in despair.

"They won't take it like this," he said cheerfully.

I groaned and asked:

"Why not?"

"There's not enough sealing wax on it."

"Not enough sealing wax!" I cried incredulously.

"No. You must put a blob wherever the string crosses and wherever there's a knot."

In desperation I seized the sealing wax and worked away until I had used it to the last speck and the parcel was one intricate mass of string and wax. Then I conveyed it once more to the postoffice. It was now almost closing time, and the officials were in a hurry to get away. I handed over the papers and the parcel without a word.

Two minutes later I walked out of the postoffice with joy in my heart and a smile of satisfaction on my face. I had sent the parcel off.—London Family Herald.

Population In United States.

The United States at present is in no danger of overpopulation. The Japanese empire has about 50,000,000 people, and the Japanese empire is of the same area as the single state of California. ROSY CHEEKED GIRLS

Every girl —every woman—wants rosy cheeks. They mean not only good looks, but more important still, good health. Rosy cheeks is merely rich, red blood, healthy blood, shining through the translucent skin. You can't have rosy cheeks unless your blood is rich, red and pure.

When a girl's colour fades, when her cheeks are pale and her lips bloodless she is in a condition of health that should not be neglected. It is then that her heart palpitates after the slightest exertion. She is breathless on going upstairs. She is troubled with headaches and backaches, and finds little or no enjoyment in life. This is a condition that comes on gradually, but its first sure sign is the disappearance of colour from the cheeks, just as the sign of returning health under proper treatment is the return of a pinkish glow to the face. To every weak, pale-faced girl or woman Dr. Williams' Pink Pills offer a sure way to new health and rosy cheeks. These pills actually make new, rich, red blood, bring brightness to the eyes, and colour to the cheeks and lips, and in doing this they bring new strength and energy to every part of the body. When using these pills take plenty of fresh air, exercise moderately, and take a nourishing diet. Under this treatment the weakest anaemic will soon be restored to health.

Remember, delays only add to the seriousness of your conditions. If you are at all unwell begin to cure yourself to-day with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are sold by all medicine dealers, or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ORIENTAL CARPETS.

Some of Those Made of Kashmir Wool Strongly Resemble Silk.

Generally speaking, the carpets of India can never excel those of Persia, as the materials used in the former are not of the same superior quality as those employed in the latter country. The wool of which many of the best carpets are manufactured is obtained from Kashmir. Sometimes carpets which are mistaken for silk are really of an extremely fine quality of wool known as "pushm." This is obtained from the goats of Kashmir and grows close to the skin, being protected by the long and coarser wool. It is as smooth and lustrous as silk and is used for the beautiful soft shawls for which Kashmir is famous.

Peculiar methods are employed by the Indian weaver in converting his original design into a textile. Instead of working from a colored drawing or diagram, the weaver has the pattern translated on paper into rows of symbols, each of which expresses the number of stitches and the color. With this written "key" in his hand the head weaver sits behind his subordinates and dictates the pattern to them, one row at a time, all through the breadth of the carpet.

These weavers—generally small boys—sit in front of the warp strings and tie in the requisite number of stitches of each color as called out to them by the reader from his ciphered scrip. These boys, who perform the actual process of weaving the pile, follow day by day the dictations of the head man, knowing nothing of the pattern they are preparing, but gradually building up in a mechanical way the carpet on the strings before them.—Argonaut.

HEAVY FIGHTING CONTINUES ON WEST FRONT

GERMAN FORCES CROSS THE AISNE RIVER

ENEMY REPULSED AT SEVERAL POINTS

Germans Cross The Aisne River West Of British Sector Compelling Line To Fall Back

Severe Fighting Continues To-day —Attack Is Developing on a Wide Front—Prisoners Taken

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

Canadian Press:

LONDON, May 28.— The Germans yesterday forced a passage of the Aisne River, west of the British sector compelling the left of the British line to fall back, the War Office announces. The enemy maintained pressure all day yesterday against the British on the Aisne front. Severe fighting continues to-day. The Germans are developing attacks of great strength along the Aisne front. In Flanders, along the River Lys, heavy fighting was resumed to-day.

The Announcement Follows:

Continuous pressure was maintained by the enemy all day yesterday against the British troops engaged on the Aisne front, and severe fighting is still taking place on the whole front of the British sector. Towards the end of the day the weight of the enemy's attacks carried his troops across the River Aisne to the west of the British sector and compelled the left of our line to fall back. The enemy is developing his attacks in great strength along the whole of the Aisne battle front. On the Lys front local fighting was recommenced this morning in the area east of Dickebusch Lake. On the remainder of the British a number of prisoners have been taken by our troops in successful raids carried out at different points during the night, and the artillery has been active on both sides.

Heavy Fighting On Both Fronts

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, May 28. —The Germans are pushing their offensive on both the Aisne and the Flanders front, Field Marshal Haig reported to-day. Along the Aisne, which was crossed to the left of the British sector last night, Haig said, that enemy attacks of great strength are developing on the whole front of forty miles, between Soissons and Rheims. The fighting in Flanders, he said, is centred east of Dickebush Lake, where the Germans made temporary gains against the French troops in the resumption of their drive yesterday morning.

Gains Have Been Balanced.

NEW YORK, May 28. — Early reports to-day indicate no further gains by the Germans in their big, long expected smash. Apparently most of the gains by the armies of the Crown Prince near the Aisne have been balanced in part by the sanguinary repulses of the Germans' attempt to push forward southwest of Ypres.

Allies' Reserves Still Available.

He has thrown the full weight of the major offensive into the Aisne drive. It may be his crafty purpose to try to entice Gen. Foch into moving the flower of the Allied reserves to the Aisne and then suddenly shift the attack to Amiens or the Hazebrouck-Ypres sector. Gen. Foch, however, proved by his cool judgment during Hindenburg's recent Ypres offensive that he is not easily enticed into using up his reserves. It will probably require far greater pressure than Hindenburg has yet exerted along the Aisne for the Allies reserves to be called into action.

Four Divisions.

In yesterday's attack in Flanders, between Locre and Voormezeele, the Germans are believed to have employed four divisions on one part of this front, measuring 6,000 yards. The enemy troops were punished so severely that the French, on the right flank, did not even get to close quarters with them.

The Allies Were Ready For Drive.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, May 28.—(Via Reuter's.)—The resumption of the long overdue offensive found the Allies everywhere ready. Observers in London are confident that the German attempt to smash the Allied armies will fail as before. The fact that the British troops are so far south is regarded as indicating that General Foch was quite prepared for the offensive in this region, while the brilliant Italian stroke is further proof of the advantages of unity of command. It is still uncertain whether the southern onslaught is the main German effort.

The concensus of expert opinion is that it is merely a preparatory blow. Even with Chemin Des Dames in their hands, the Germans must still advance across difficult country to the Aisne line, behind which there are no great strategic objectives. It is not surprising if General Foch yields ground in order to husband reserves for another great blow in the direction of Amiens, which is still regarded by experts as the point of greatest menace.

CANADIAN FORCES HAVE BEEN LOCATED

TORONTO, May 28.—Definite information as to where the Canadians in Flanders are at present holding the line and the position of the Dominion troops in relation to the present heavy fighting is given today in a letter received from W. A. Willison, Staff Correspondent of the Canadian Press in France. Willison's letter describes graphically the moving of the Canadian line, since the German offensive commenced in March. He says: "From north of Hill 70 to the Souchez, Canada has moved its forces until some of the corps hold part of the line, between Souchez and Scarpe. The move was made in less than twenty four hours The movement took place in good order according to the letter although the roads were jammed with refugees at the time.

The Commanders Have Situation Well In Hand

French and British Troops Are Fighting With the Greatest Energy and Bravery

Canadian Press:

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, May 28.—Whether the demonstration north of the Aisne is merely a demonstration in force with the objection of drawing out the Allied reserves cannot be gathered from the opening stages of the fighting. The length of the front between the flank of the attacking lines seems to imply a great effort on the part of the enemy to capture territory in order to claim victorious progress immediately after starting and thus improve the morale of the German public. Both the French and British troops are fighting with the greatest energy and bravery, officers and men working together in absolute harmony. The Allied commanders have the situation well in hand and had prepared to meet an attack in this region. The Allies hold a series of commanding hills and the western flank is very hilly with deep valleys.

PARLIAMENT IN SESSION

Questions Concerning the Irish Situation May Be Brought Up in the House This Week

MEETING IN DUBLIN

LONDON, May 28.—Parliament reassembled to-day after a short Whitsuntide vacation, although the business formally set for discussion was not exciting. Members met in keen anticipation of some official utterance regarding the alleged German Irish plot and the arrests of the Sinn Feiners.

Nationalists Absent.

Irish Nationalist members have not returned to London and it is understood they will not appear at Westminster until after an important party meeting at Dublin on Thursday. In their absence certain Liberal members have decided to question the government whether the government proposes to bring the prisoners to trial and whether any evidence the of plot would be divulged. Interest also is manifested in the question of initiating negotiations for an exchange of British and German prisoners of war.

FRANK JENNE SAYS:

POSITIONS IMPROVED

Enemy Has Made No Gain Which Threatens Serious Consequences to the Allied Armies

PAY THE PRICE

(By J. W. T. Mason—United Press Service)

NEW YORK, May 28th.—By crossing the Aisne river, along the southern battle front, the Germans have improved their defensive positions against a possible offensive in that area, but they have made no gain which treatens serious consequences to the Allied armies.

There are long stretches of territory in the sector now under Von Hindenburg's attack which can be relinquished with perfect safety by General Foch for heavy German losses in exchange. The allies can better afford to lose ground than Hindenburg can afford to lose the men. It was in this same region that Gen. Nivelle lost his post as Commander in Chief of French armies in spring of 1917. Nivelle at that time made a greater advance than Hindenburg had succeeded in doing, but the French Government did not consider the heavy casualties were worth the ground gained. If, therefore Hindenburg wishes to pay the cost in slaughtered German man power for a recovery of territory, if it be like the French last year, Gen. Foch will undoubtedly be content.

Opposed Schools

Two opposed schools of strategy are represented in the encounter. The French removed their Commander in Chief from doing Hindenburg expects to be worth while. The crossing of the Aisne near Berry-Au-Bec, puts the Germans on south bank to stream at a point where the least damage can be done to Allies positions in rear. Immediately to the south of Berry-Au-Bec are ranges of hill that form splendid positions for the English-French forces. At no place could it have suited Foch's plans better than that the Germans made headway in exchange for the maximum number of casualties.

Lecture By Miss Ada Ward At St. Paul's Church

Meeting Was Well Attended—A Plea For the Red Cross

"Faces in the Crowd," the lecture given last night by Miss Ada Ward, in St. Paul's church, under the auspices of the 57th Chapter, I.O.D.E., was well attended. Lieut.-Colonel Walker occupied the chair.

PLEA FOR THE RED CROSS.

In her address Miss Ward made a stirring plea for the Red Cross workers. She herself had, while in France, come in daily touch with the glorious work, and said too much effort could not be made by those who stay behind to do all that lies in our power to help. She spoke very feelingly of the work done in the Base Hospital in France, where a man with practically no face and feeling he is doomed to be a life long object of loathing, has his features built up into a semblance of what he once was. This transformation done by the Red Cross is made by grafting skin and substituting a piece of the man's into what feature has been blown away.

The object of Miss Ward's lecture, to stimulate and keep up interest in Red Cross work, cannot fail to have been accomplished with all who heard her pathetic appeal last night.

Allies Launch A Counter Attack On Flanders Front

The Attack Began Well—Success Would Make Enemy's Assault of of Yesterday a Costly Failure.

AMERICANS ACTIVE

WITH BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, May 28. — British and French troops this morning launched a counter attack in Flanders, east of Dickebusch Lake. The attack began well. Success would make the enemy's assault of yesterday a complete and costly failure.

(By William Philip Simms.)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, May 28.—(3 p.m.)—British and French troops are counter-attacking south-west of Ypres. The fighting was still under way at the time of cabling. At that time they had already retaken practically all of the ground which the enemy won yesterday.

There is a stupendous amount of gas shelling. The Germans are putting in a perfect storm of these shells at various points, thus creating pockets of the heavy vapour which require only occasional and methodic "feeding."

SMOTHERED IN GAS.

A considerable area has been smothered in gas by this method, but a proof of its failure is the fact that the French have retaken practically all the territory ceded in the first German rush yesterday, which drove a wedge on each side of the Dickebusch Lake, past two woods.

A counter attack captured both of the woods, together with a ridge which the Germans overran. A group of machine gunners who were cut off on this ridge, refused to surrender, and fought like devils all day until the French retook the position in the evening. Heavy gas shelling is also under way in the Amiens region and along the Aisne, where the British and French are engaged in heavy fighting.

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, May 28.—In a simultaneous attack of three German raiding parties against the American positions in Picardy today, the enemy penetrated the first line to the depth of two hundred yards. A brilliant counter attack threw the Germans out and the Americans kept on until they had entered the enemy first line where they remained until ordered back. The Germans suffered heavily in the fighting which was of a hand to hand nature at times. Several prisoners were taken by the Americans.

FIRST DAY'S RESULTS.

(Canadian Press.)

Paris, May 28. — The results of the first day of the long expected German offensive are considered in competent French quarters as satisfactory. By paying the price, it is contended, it was inevitable that the enemy could gain ground. After a terrific struggle throughout yesterday, the Germans at a ruinous cost advanced at the farthest point three and a half miles. The military officials say that the enemy has won enough ground to bury his dead—and that is all. At no point has the entente allied line been pierced. In close contact with the foe it has moved back step by step, according to schedule, giving General Foch all the time he needs to place his reserves—those reserves whose whereabouts is an anxious mystery to the Germans—just where he wants them.

AERIAL ARMY.

With the American Army in Lorrain, May 28. — Three American aviators defeated four German airmen in a spectacular battle over the lines today, destroying one enemy plane, and driving others back behind their lines. The fight raged for a quarter of an hour during which the machines constantly were engaged in thrilling manoeuvres. Just before the Germans fled one of their machines was entirely shot away, so that it fell like a plummet.

FRENCH REPORT.

Paris, May 28.—"The Germans aided by the arrival of new forces, have crossed the Aisne between Vautilly and Berry-au-bac," the French war office announced.

AIR RAID ON PARIS.

Paris, May 28. — Another attempted air raid over Paris apparently was blocked by the defensive fire late last night. An alarm was sounded at 10.45 and "all clear" at 11.45, but no air planes passed over the city.

ANNA HELD WANTS TO LIVE TO SEE FRANCE RESTORED

(Special to Examiner)

NEW YORK, May 28—"I will not die until France is again altogether France and the Huns are driven back across the Rhine", Anna Held declared today. Her physician says the famous actress can live only a short time longer as she is suffering from an incurable disease.

Real Attack May Take Place Farther North

Present Offensive Has Not Developed Sufficiently to Establish the Point of the Major Operation

(United Press Service.)

(By Henry Wood.)

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES IN THE FIELD, May 28.—The resumption of the German offensive had not developed sufficiently last night to establish whether the attack between Soissons and Rheims constitutes the principal assault or is a covering operation for the real attack farther north. American troops, which occupied positions in the Chemin Des Dames sector earlier in the year, had been replaced by British, against whom the Germans launched a portion of their attack.

Four Armies.

The attack involves the German Crown Prince's group of armies, which were not engaged in the March offensive, and which a few days ago consisted of four armies—one commanded by Von Hutier, between Ailly-Sur-Noye and Noyon; Von Boehm's army, between Noyon and Craonne; Von Below's between Craonne and Auberive; and Von Einem's, between Auberive and Avocourt.

Came From Toledo, Had No Canadian Papers, Arrested Here

Alonzo Berlingettte, was picked off the 1.15 a.m. C. P. R. train this morning by P. C. Wigg and arrested as a deserter. He told the Constable that he had come from Toledo and had tried to enlist in Toronto, but was advised to go to Ottawa. He showed a United States registration card, but as he admitted his Canadian birth and was unable to show Canadian registration papers he was immediately taken from the train to the police station. Berlingette said he was twenty-seven years old, and P. C. Wigg evidently concluded that the surest and quickest way to military service was via Kingston. Berlingette was held today awaiting a military escort.

THE WEATHER

The electrical storm last evening was a severe one while it lasted. The rainfall ambunted to about three-fourths of an inch (.76). The nights are commencing to show a much higher temperature, the figures for the last two nights being 61 degrees. Snow and sleet have prevailed for several days in the west, but warmer conditions are now setting in.—W.P.

A MESSAGE FROM THE FRONT

The Rev. Dr. John Neil, Moderator of the General Assembly, will speak in St. Paul's Church this evening at eight o'clock. He is here at the invitation of the Presbyterians of the city, but the public is cordially invited to be present. He has recently paid a visit to the Old Land and to the front, and his message will be specially on what he saw and learned while there. An offering will be received for the work of the Red Cross of three Presbyterian Churches of the city.

THE CASE OF RESTAURANTS.

Our contemporary which a few nights ago laid down the dictum that "he who hungers after 7 o'clock on Sunday night let him eat at home," forgetting that there are many people who have no homes in which to eat, has now swung around and is condemning the new restaurant regulations as "blue laws." Whatever may be the reason for the different attitude, the change of view on the part of the Review is welcome and it is hoped that the united effort of the local press will convince the aldermen that the proposed drastic measures are not in the public interest. There is no popular demand that restaurants should be closed on Sunday, and unless Peterborough wants to drop back to the village stage, there seems no logical reason why they should be interfered with. They are an accommodation to many people on Sunday as well as on any other day of the week, and as long as there is no abuse of the privilege the Council would be well advised to reconsider the recommendation that has been made to restrict the hours. To compel the proprietors of restaurants to remove the stalls and to make it illegal to use noisy pianos or brassy phonographs on their premises on Sunday or late at night are steps that will be commended, but there is no reason why anything so drastic as has been announced should be included in the city by-laws. The matter will come up on Monday night, and it is the hope of many citizens that the aldermanic board will administer a quietus to the restricted hours recommendation.

MILLERS' PROFITS.

The long awaited report of the inquiry into the operations of Canadian milling companies, has at last been made public by the Minister of Labour, and shows, as has been expected, that the large companies have made enormous war-time profits. A feature of the report made by Mrs. George Hambleton, is the portion dealing with the 25c per barrel limitation on profits, showing that this has entirely failed to effect the purposes for which it was intended, in the case of the bigger companies, which, the investigator states, could with even a fifteen cent limit on the profits on each barrel, pay ample dividends, and set aside reserves. While this is the case with large concerns, the smaller companies, producing less than 100,000 barrels a year, would have difficulty in existing on a 25c limit. The report, therefore recommends a tax on the net profits on the total investment for the year, as the only equitable way of reaching all classes engaged in the business. The inquiry has been an extensive one, and the report makes interesting reading. It may be surprising to the general public to know the profit per barrel on flour is comparatively small. On this point Mrs. Hambleton says: "Eighteen to twenty cents per barrel seems an extremely small amount for milling companies to make, considering the high price of flour at the present time. Nevertheless, the net revenue from such profits per barrel has been sufficient to pile up immense surplus profits accounts, redeem bonds and pay dividends, either larger than had hitherto been paid or on stock which received no dividends previous to the last few years."

THE DRIVE RESUMED.

The long awaited resumption of the German drive on the western front has commenced at last, and once more the strength of the position held by the Canadians in the Vimy Ridge sector has been recognized by the enemy, who has chosen to strike elsewhere on the line rather than risk a frontal attack on the section held by General Currie's men. The new drive is principally directed on a front of forty miles, north of the Aisne, where the French and British troops are co-operating. The loss of such a strong position as the Chemin Des Dames, whose capture by the French last year was only achieved at heavy cost of life, and the crossing of the Aisne, are to be regretted, but all despatches from the front seem to indicate that General Foch has the situation well in hand, and the yielding of ground on the Aisne front is counter-balanced by the bloody repulse sustained by the enemy in Flanders, his smash near Loere being a total failure.

Information from W. A. Willison, correspondent of the Canadian Press, shows that the Canadian front has been shifted. General Currie's main forces have been holding the line from Hill 70, north of Lens to Souhez ever since they returned from the battle of Passchendeale at the beginning of last winter, but the latest news from the front reveals the fact that the Canadians have shifted to the south, and now are in line from Souchez to the Scarpe, in front of Arras. As one Canadian division is in position south of Arras, the defence of this vitally important railway centre has been practically entrusted to the Canadians, a splendid compliment to the record they have achieved as fighting men.

COL. SAM SHARPE.

The following tribute paid by the Toronto Globe, to Col. Sam Sharpe, will be endorsed by the many Peterboro friends of the gallant officer, whose sudden death at Montreal, has proved a shock to the Canadian people generally:

"Col. Sam Sharpe, M.P., D.S.O., formerly Commanding Officer of the 116th Battalion, is dead, the victim of a nervous break-down brought on by his service at the front. When Col. Sharpe insisted on proceeding overseas with the battalion that he had been largely instrumental in raising, there were men who shrugged their shoulders and sneered at him. 'Another political Colonel,' they said,' he will be home again soon.'

"But Col. Sharpe did not choose the path of cheap and easy glory. He took the battalion to France, and while it was being tempered and tried as a fighting weapon, worked prodigiously to make his men fit. Before the battle of Vimy there was no smarter body of men behind the Canadian front than the Hundred and Sixteenth, and when its band played at the guard mounts in the little town of Houdain, the French folk were obviously impressed with the smart appearance of the 'soldats Canadien.'

"The battalion went into the front line shortly after Vimy and made a fine record in the Avion sector. One of the biggest and most successful trench raids of the season's campaigning was carried out by Col. Sharpe's men under difficult circumstances. So anxious was the Colonel that there there should be no failure in this first important action of the Hundred and Sixteenth, that on the night before the raid he went out himself into No Man's Land in the dark with some subalterns, and laid strips of white tape to mark the practicable breaches in the enemy's wire. It was by these narrow tape-marked paths, winding among the deep wire barriers, that the men of Sam Sharpe's command reached the enemy positions with comparatively few casualties.

"Soldiers who know that their Commanding Officer had risked his life to make their risks less, do not forget. There will be heartfelt regrets in the quarters of the Ontario county lads he commanded when they learn that their first Colonel is dead. He gave up his life as truly 'on the field of honour' as if he had fallen in action."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Y.M.C.A. authorities are wise in deciding to issue a statement to the public in regard to military operations overseas. The resolution of the Provincial Great War Veterans concerning the Red Triangle work is too serious to be ignored, and those who have faith in the work done by the Y.M.C.A. believe there is an explanation of the apparent difficulties that have arisen.

Peterborough is getting to be too big a city to close its eating places on Sunday. What about the hundreds of people who depend on these places for their meals?

"The educational opportunities for Canadian boys and girls should be the finest in the world," says Hon. Dr. Cody. If the new Minister of Education lives up to that standard there will be no doubt as to his success in the position.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

Another Tag Day.

(Hamilton Herald.)

Nicholas Romanoff may not be court-martialled after all, the latest information being that he is to be allowed to live in exile, probably in Switzerland. It may soon be in order to have a tag-day for the relief of Nicholas and his family.

Looks Like Sarcasm.

(New York World.)

Maximilian Harden uttered a great truth when he said that the trouble with other races was that they could not think like Germans. It is true. They cannot. It is the evil fortune of the race that alone holds aloft the light of gentleness and piety and culture that it is surrounded by an unreasonable world.

And Not Often At That.

(New York Sun.)

It is peculiar that since the war began the German aviators are the only German soldiers whose decency in combat has provoked from the enemies of German the kind of praise which in most wars between civilized peoples has been mutually and frequently bestowed. So far as we have been able to observe German chivalry comes to life only in the upper air.

Not Hot Stuff.

(Winnipeg Telegram.)

It transpires from a discussion in parliament that the propaganda issued from the office of the director of public information is being sent to clergymen. It is not disclosed whether it is suggested that the information thus sent to take the place of sermons; but if so, conservative church-goers may rest assured that sensationalism, for the time being, will be banished from the pulpit.

Concerning Titles.

(London Free Press.)

With a relatively few exceptions, titles are not so unpopular in Canada as some of the political folk would have us believe.

Titles neither make nor unmake the man. Titles where granted for indifferent or no service defeat themselves. They stamp the holder as merely a political wire-puller and a snob.

The Coming Storm.

(Buffalo Courier.)

The allies are facing the attack of desperation. No weight of forces, no cost of life or wastage of supplies will be spared or avoided by the enemy to win a success in this effort. The thrust which will be made will be as staggering and overwhelming as it lies in the power of the Germans to deliver. They are making no reservations for another attempt.

Bringing Out Father.

(London Chronicle).

"Well, good-bvice, Old Bean. Take care of yourself, and when they rope you in under the new scheme, and you come out here, as you probably will, because you are always in the pink, I will try and get you a cushy job as my batman." This is the concluding passage of a letter just received by a father from his son, aged 20, second-lieutenant of the line in France. Father, aged 45, in the City. It is just one aspect of the topsy-turvy world that will present itself to the men called up under the new man-power proposals. This has been called a young man's war, as in fact every war is, and when the old stagers come into line with their juniors it will be as pupils to masters.

Independent of Germany Now.

(Buffalo Express.)

The real problem of after-war trade is faced by Germany and not by the allied countries. The latter can get along without Germany, just as they have been doing, for the last four years. At first it was a strain on domestic resourcefulness, but the strain long ago let down. In the United States we have done wonders towards making ourselves independent of German production. Americans never had an idea of the extent of their dependence upon Germany until war cut off supplies from that country. There was much trouble at first. To-day there is not an American who feels in the slighest degree the loss of German goods of any kind. Furthermore, there is not an American who wishes to go back to the old dependence.

German Burglaries.

(New York Times.)

How the Germans, making war for their pockets, used to jeer at England with the stale Napoleonic jeer, "A nation of shopkeepers!" Here is the kaiser talking about "a strong peace, which will open new roads to German commerce and give us complete freedom for the development of our industries." "Our sacrifices of blood and treasure shall not be made in vain." That is, we shall have stolen enough of other people's property and territory and raw material to pay us for a few million dead or disabled Germans.

MOUNT SHASTA.

Snow Banners of the World's Most Impressive Mountain.

Travelers declare that Mount Shasta is the most impressive mountain in the world, for it stands solitary and alone. Unlike Pikes peak and many other of the world's great mountains, it is not surrounded by a number of lesser ones, and its tremendous height—14,140 feet—is appreciated by the eye.

It is sublimely grand and yet gracefully beautiful. Against the blue of a California sky its curved outlines seem to sweep in the perfect segments of a circle from the apex of the cone to the horizon.

Far up on its base the dark green of the timber line is met by the virgin whiteness of Shasta's snow, and then on, up and up, far past the summer clouds, points the alabaster pyramid.

Shasta is an extinct volcano and has two large glaciers. The Whitney glacier is visible from the railroad. It looks like a narrow streak of snow, but it is over a mile in width and is seamed with great fissures and crevasses.

At times a natural banner is unfurled from Shasta's peak. This is called the "snow banner of Shasta." It only occurs when the gale attacks the summit and blows the snow in great gusts "streaming against the sky," as the railroad book has it. The banner is seen most frequently in November.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Black Opals.

Black opals seem almost misnomers, for while some of the stones are actually black and all of them have a dark body or underground they are really wonderful, flashing, changing masses of color. All the colors of the solar spectrum vibrate through them, some in small pinpoint markings, others in harlequin, peacock and formal designs. Some of them show broad flashes of red, blue, green or purple, which change rapidly from one to another on the slightest change of angle or light. Others exhibit cloud effects and sunsets such as Turner painted and only Ruskin could describe.

King's Birthday Honours Will Be Due On Monday

Much Speculation As to How Canadians Will Fare.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, May 28. — There is much speculation at Ottawa as to the King's birthday honours which are due on Monday next and which in the usual course of events would include a number of Canadians. Several hundred titles under the new Imperial order which has been set aside for distribution to Canada have been held up for the past six months because the Premier had other business to attend to.

Military Caste.

The general impression here is that the King's birthday honours to be conferred on Monday next will be practically barren of Canadian names. It is believed by some that so far as Canadians are concerned these will be confined to cases of military measure, though even in that connection it was pointed out in the Commons by the Premier himself that there was grave danger in the establishing of a military caste. In any case it is felt that the debates in the Canadian Commons cannot have failed to influence those in England who in past years were wont to recommend King's honours in Canada. One thing is certain the Monday list will contain no hereditary titles for Canadians.

Hospital Raids Caused Three Hundred Casualties

LONDON, May 28.— Andrew Bonar Law, government leader in the House of Commons to-day, told the Parliament that 300 casualties of hospital cases had been caused by the bombing of British hospitals in France by German aviators.

Council To Attend Y.W.C.A. Pool Opening

"Among other things, it will give us a chance to get our annual bath" said Ald. Dobbin, last night, when the Council decided to attend in a body the lawn social and opening of the swimming pool at the Y. W. C. A. on Thursday night.

"Will they expect us to swim?" Ald. Weir asked.

"You had better bring your suits anyway," said the Mayor who suggested that the Council should all endeavour to attend the opening of the new swimming pool.

MAKING THE FOREST FIRE-PROOF.

Rangers Appeal to Keep Vigilant Outlook for Small Conflagrations.

Several forest fires have already occurred in various parts of Canada this year. In practically every case the cause was traced to human hands—a tossed away cigarette, a neglected camp-fire, or similar act, that at the moment appeared trifling. Settlers anxious to burn their 'slash' in the hottest weather without obeying government regulations, are a prolific cause of forest fire every year.

CO-OPERATION WANTED.

The rangers of the province are asking the cooperation of every man, woman and child this year so as to keep the forest losses down to a minimum as a matter of decent patronage.

Special efforts are being made to provide fire equipment but the main task is to prevent fires from starting. This is a comparatively simple matter if every camper puts out his campfire, every smoker extinguishes his cigarette and match before tossing away, every settler guards his clearing fire. When a bush fire is seen, instant word should be sent to the nearest fire ranger, railroad agen or municipal officer.

INTERESTING LETTER RECEIVED BY THE PETERBORO' PROGRESSIVE CLUB

Jan. 20, 1918.

M. T. Depot, Kelendini,
B. E. Africa.

Dear Miss Thompson: Received your letter dated October 7, for which I now take great pleasure in answering. I have to thank you and your many lady friends for your goodness to all our Canadian boys in East Africa.

You sure have done your little "bit." I guess we have completed ours out here. I would not be the least bit surprised if we were all out of it in six months time, and I don't think many of us will regret leaving East Africa.

I heard about this "fund" being raised (through our our ladies) from Matron Paul; now it is my turn to give you some idea how the money will be spent. We here have not received any of it yet and as we are only five nights here, Miss Paul is going to put up a supper for us.

The boys at Dav-es Salam were asked what they wanted; so most of them voted for pyjamas. A very good idea too for out here one sweats so much at night time. I myself have only slept under the blankets about twenty times, and that's when I have been in hospital.

You will be surprised to hear that we only number seventy-three (73), out here now; that will give you an idea how many have gone to South Africa and England sick.

The boys that go south have a real good time. The ladies of South Africa look after them well, but even then there is something wanting—for there is none like our own ladies at home, and they know just what pleases.

SAND STORMS.

We are all feeling fed up at present for we are having some rotten sand storms; we can't even find shelter in our tents. The sand seems to work in everywhere; of course we will get over that in about a month's time. Then I suppose it will be our fly season.

I have often heard it said, one has to eat a peck of dirt before dying. I guess I have swallowed a good hundred weight since coming here. We hear now that after we have served two years out here we are entitled to a month's leave. Well we have only two months to go.

We have started to move M.T.'s home, so that looks good to us. We all hope our turn is next. I forgot to tell you that the boys at Dav-es-salam have had quite a lot of comforts—a gramophone, baseball outfits, etc.

I have not received your parcel yet; thanks all the same; Miss Paul sends lots of the good things up the line to the boys.

I have had another spell in hospital but feel good again; back to work on the old job. The boys out here had a very nice holiday on Christmas. The canteen funds furnished a very nice dinner for them; lots of turkey and such like; but we all want to be home for the next.

I hope they are nestling in all the slackers at home. I hope that you ladies make them feel their position; gee! but we old boys would like the job of putting them through their paces; wouldn't they fall for something!

Will you be so kind as to thank all the lady friends in your district for the kindness and good things showered on us. The boys would all like to write, but this is no country to write from; one never has peace; I have to stop every few minutes to scratch either mosquitoes, sand flies or fleas; I don't know which, but whatever they are they are sure to raise a lump.

Well I suppose that you will be getting into spring by the time that you receive this. I hope that you survived the cold all right. I am like yourself; I love the sunshine, but we get just a little too much. I guess I will miss the heat once I strike home.

Well, I will have to draw to a close, hoping I have not bored you with my rattle. The boys wish you all a happy New Year. Thanking you again for your kindness, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
Pte. W. C. Malcolm,

Since the above letter arrived, we have heard that the $28.00 forwarded through the Peterborough Progressive Club for the Canadians in East Africa, has been received by Miss Paul.

Crop Outlook Is Very Good In Ontario

Last Night's Rain Will Do a Lot of Good

Special to The Examiner.

OTTAWA, May 28.—The crop outlook in Ontario, according to reports to hand so far, is on the whole favourable. Professor J. H. Grisdale, Director of the Experimental Farm, stated yesterday that seeding operations are probably further advanced in Eastern Canada than it has been for some years at this time, and the crops are progressing very satisfactorily. In the immediate neighborhood of Ottawa they have suffered recently from lack of moisture, and rain which came last night to the depth of about half an inch, will do a great deal of good. Further to the east in Quebec and in the Maritime Provinces, there has been an abundance of moisture.

CAREFUL OF THEIR COWS.

Isle of Jersey Sees to It That the Breed Is Kept Absolutely Pure.

Undoubtedly the little island of Jersey has been enriched by the profit of its cows. In modern days potato raising and fruit culture have helped, but it is the solid, continual profit of the cattle that has made the island rich.

So carefully do they tend them there and so frugal are they of waste in trodden pastures, says Our Dumb Animals, that they actually tether their animals, and the children or indoor servants shift them at morn, noon and night.

Gentleness is their cue in handling the calf, which, after a dose of mother's milk, has to be content with skimmilk, or skillegalee. She is haltered and led by hand and becomes docile and gentle and when two years old yields indoors or out her bountiful bucketful of frothy, rich milk to the quiet women folk who milk her.

The Jersey breed is kept pure by stringent laws against the importation of foreign stock. The summer pasturage is very rich, and cattle remain out from May till October, but during the winter they are always comfortably housed.

The milk is used almost exclusively in making butter. A good Jersey will make an average of a pound of butter every day in the year. The Jersey is beautiful in form, and her abounding dairy products make her a favorite with the household, an ornament to any farm or estate and a source of great profit to her owner.

CURIOUS CUSTOMS IN INDIA.

Dancing Girls Are Married to Idols Representing Gods.

Parrots are taught in India to spend a large portion of their time in repeating the names of gods, and such a spokesman brings a great price, especially among business men, who imagine that by owning such a parrot their spiritual treasures are accumulating while they attend to their usual occupations.

Many of the dancing girls in India belonging to the temples are called the wives of the gods. At an early age they are united in wedlock to the images worshiped in the temples. This strange matrimonial connection is formed in compliance with the wishes of the parents, who believe it to be a highly meritorious act to present a beautiful daughter in marriage to a senseless idol.

The only foreigner who ever saw the inside of the great Temple of Juggernaut was an English officer, who succeeded in gaining admission by painting and dressing himself like a native.

When the Brahmins discovered that their holy place had been thus defiled they became so enraged that all the English residing at the station were obliged to flee for their lives.

Suspecting their pursuers to be more desirous of gratifying their avarice than their revenge, they strewed silver money by the way, and while the natives stopped to pick it up they gained time and succeeded in reaching a place of safety.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

His Conscience.

"Oh, yes, he's a very fine alderman."

"Why, I'm told he can be bribed."

"Of course. But he has some conscience about it."

"How is that?"

"Why, you can buy him to support a measure, but he won't stay bought."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Lightning Ripped Off Shingles And Dazed A Family

Maitland Avenue Home Hit, and Charlie Clark Was a Victim in Ashburnham of Last Night's Storm.

About 10:15 last evening the house of Mr. George Biggs, 320 Maitland avenue, was struck by lightning. Two holes were made in the roof on the north side of the house, and shingles were scattered in all directions. Mr. Biggs with his family was in the kitchen at the time. He states that it looked just as if a ball of fire struck the house. They were all partly dazed at the time and did not know what to do.

Mr. Frank Jobbit, conductor on the G.T.R., who lives opposite Mr. Bigg's house was sitting on the front veranda with his daughter. Both of them were dazed by the lightning and at first Mr. Jobbit thought his daughter was struck. He then noticed the shingles on Mr. Bigg's lawn.

Mr. Chas. Clark a Victim.

Struck by lightning during last night's storm, Mr. Charlie Clark was unconscious until about four o'clock this morning, and both legs were paralyzed, according to information from his friends. His home is at the corner of Mark and Maria streets, down near the Ashburnham wharf, in the old Peck home. According to the report of his experience, Clark was giving his daughter a drink of water when in a flash of light he was struck down. Both legs were paralyzed or benumbed, but apparently not a permanent condition, for by morning one limb was functioning as usual. Mr. Clark could walk on it and the nerves carry the sensation of touch; but the other limb seemed to be lifeless.

Mr. Clark was standing at a window, from which a pane was broken, watching the storm approach. The first loud clap of thunder and flash of lightning struck him and knocked him flat on the floor. A friend named Bowen, who lives with Clark, carried him into another room and applied first aid. It was sometime before Mr. Clark showed signs of reviving, and to-day his right arm is weak, and his left leg drags heavily as if useless. Clark was unconscious for hours and was ill and unable to eat until noon to-day.

Barn Struck in Otonabee.

A barn on Mr. John Shaughnessy's farm in Otonabee, south of the city, was pierced in both gables by a charge of lightning, which seemed to run along the roof, smash through each end and in one place shot downward into the stable killing a cow. There was no other evidence of damage and luckily fire did not break out.

A Persistent Storm.

The thunder cellars were crowded last night, by the timorous citizens who must have been prenatally storm shocked. At that the demonstration of noise and electrical effects, apart from the wash of the rain, was quite an impressive display. Lightning played over the city in long flashing forks that were awe-inspiring if not terrorizing. They seemed to lick the roofs with a reckless indifference to where it hit, and the comparatively few reports of damage suggest that the pyrotechnical experts that work with old J. Pluve in his spring drives take the Hunnish delight in frightening people by threatening their lives and property. Summer nights are ordinarily nights of gladness, but they seem more like nights of madness when the elements loose their war-dogs to snap and snarl, even to "draw blood," as they did last night.

A BUILDING TRADES COUNCIL UNDER WAY

Five locals were represented at a meeting last night, called for the purpose of forming a Building Trades Council. They were the bricklayers, carpenters, painters, plumbers and electrical workers. A committee of one representative from each local was appointed to consider details of the proposed Council, which, it is expected, will bring the building trades together in a close and compact union.

FARMERS WILL BE RELIEVED OF JURY SERVICE

Judges Will Be Asked to Make Arrangements to Hold Trials Without Juries.

TORONTO, May 28.—In order to relieve as far as possible the farmers from jury duty on account of the present scarcity of farm help, the Attorney-General, Hon. I. B. Lucas, has issued instructions that, as far as possible trials will be held without juries and that the judges should make arrangements at the coming sessions to hold as many trials as possible without the juries.

A Child Hates Oil, Calomel, Pills For Liver And Bowels

Give "California Syrup of Figs" if cross, sick, feverish, constipated.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

BROKE INTO DEFENCES.

GOT RID OF BRONCHITIS

Mr. W. H. Walker, Calmar, Alta., writes: "I am pleased to say that Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has done much good to myself, wife and children. My eldest girl, seven years old, had bronchitis and the doctor who attended her did not seem to do much good. We got Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for her and she soon got well. We always keep this medicine in the house now ready for use and find that it soon cures coughs and colds."

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

15 Per Cent. War Bonus Granted Firemen, Chief Gets $100 Raise

Salary Schedule For the Men is Unchanged and Increase is Given to Cover the Higher Cost of Living—Department Has Already Piled Up a Substantial Overdraft

COMPARISON OF SALARIES

A fifteen per cent. war time bonus to the firemen, and an increase of $100 in Chief Grange's salary, was the Committee of the Whole Council's response last night to the firemen's petition for an advance of $182.60 a year to each man in the brigade, excepting the Chief.

Ald. Dobbin stated with emphasis that this increment is purely a bonus, as requested by the men, to cover the advanced cost of living. The schedule of salaries, excepting the Chief's, remains unchanged, and future increases or recessions will depend on the existing circumstances. Last night's grant takes effect on June 1st, and will be continued until conditions warrant its cancellation or further advances. Future action will depend upon the trend of that stormy war baby, the high cost of living.

The following is a summary of the present salary schedule, and the fifteen per cent. bonus recommended by the committee:

	At present,	Granted.
2nd grade men	$900	$1035.00
1st grade men	1000	1150.00
Lieutenant	1050	1207.50
Captain	1075	1236.25
Assistant Chief	1150	1322.50
Chief	1500	1600.00

NO OPPOSITION.

There was no opposition to the increases, which, it is believed, will meet with the satisfaction of the men. Ald. Edgar proposed that their request be granted to the last cent, but Mayor Duncan pointed out that the council had not only to deal fairly and sympathetically with the brigade, but had also a duty to the citizens.

"The appropriation for the Fire, Water and Light Committee is already overdrawn between $3000 and $4000," said Ald. Worth, "and this fifteen per cent. increase is going to boost it further. The men should also consider that we are spending about $75 on each of them for new suits and overcoats this year. I believe that they will look at our proposal reasonably and will accept it."

Ald. Langford admitted the justice of the firemen's claims, but, he said, some effort should be made to keep the aggregate of the firemen's salaries at the present sum.

"Our expenses are away up," he observed, "and we should try any alternative to keep them where they are."

He moved, seconded by Ald. A. A. McIntyre, that Ald. Dobbin investigate the feasibility of dismissing some of the men, and replacing them by increasing the number of call men.

The motion carried.

EVERYBODY'S GETTING IT.

Referring to the petition from the firemen, Ald. M. McIntyre enquired: "Does it mean that they can't live on their present salaries?"

"It seems to be just this," replied the Mayor; "everybody else is getting it, and they want it."

"A bonus of fifteen per cent. should be sufficient until January," Ald. Dobbin suggested.

"January, 1920?" some one asked.

"No; next January. That ends our term," said Ald. Dobbin.

"Some of us won't be here!" Ald. Weir mused.

"It's my opinion that I won't," Ald. Dobbin predicted without any evidence of regret. "I need some time for rest."

ALD. DOBBIN'S MOTION.

In the discussion of the firemen's appeal, Ald. Dobbin lead the way, and with obvious evidence of having surveyed the salary question and weighed it against the cost of living, he broached the fifteen per cent. increase.

Mayor Duncan advised that for the purpose of recognizing his work and position, and as an aid to discipline, Chief Grange should be granted an increase.

Ald. Edgar replied that the former Chief had served a long time at $1600 a year, and when he left was getting only $1600.

Ald. A. A. McIntyre—"It would be giving him a slap in the face if we excluded him from the proposed increase."

Ald. Dobbin—"It was my intention to give the Chief a straight advance in salary and not a bonus."

Ald Taylor seconded Ald. Dobbin's motion.

Ald. Edgar followed with an amendment that the firemen get $182.60 a year increase each, and that the Chief's salary be raised to $1600. Ald. M. McIntyre seconded it.

"Ald. Jones was the sole supporter of the amendment with its sponsors, and the motion carried.

THE PLATOON SYSTEM.

"I think that ought to be satisfactory," commented Chief Grange, who arrived in the rain when called by Mayor Duncan.

There are 14 first grade men and 2 second grade men on the force, he added.

"The Department's annual total salaries are now between $6000 and $7000 more than last year," ald. Dobbin remarked.

Speaking of the suggestion to replace some of the firemen by more call men, Chief Grange said he deemed it inadvisable.

"The platoon system is better," he explained. If we could put on four more regular men we could work in two shifts of twelve hours each. The men have no time at home now; they cannot plant gardens, and are only home for meals. The platoon system will be the big topic at the Chiefs' convention in Toronto from August 26 to 28. We would have 12 men at the hall all the time and the other hall all the time, and the others a fire broke out."

"Would the salaries remain the same," Ald Weir asked.

"Yes; although not at present," was the Chief's reply.

The platoon system and its discussion were deferred for another occasion. For the present the council was content to pay its latest tribute to the "H.C.L.," as it affects the firemen, with perhaps a silent prayer that the intervals between notes from the firehall will stretch out into at least a year.

ELLIOT'S ACCOUNT FOR MITTS PASSED AFTER EXAMINATION

Not Handed Out Promiscuously But Regularly Ordered by Persons Responsible

The account of the Elliot Store for mits used in connection with the Neill fire, which was passed at a recent meeting of the Council, was paid after an investigation into the matter by Mr. Armstrong, City Clerk, and it was found that the mits were only given out at the request of a policeman, fireman or some one in authority at a fire, to make such a purchase.

The fact is that they were not promiscuously handed out, but only where required, and properly ordered.

WAR GARDEN BULLETIN

BEANS AND CORN

It's time to think about beans and corn and the first planting should not be delayed any longer. They are among the foremost of the successional crops and should receive three plantings with a period of a week between each. In this way there will be a continuous supply for the table.

In planting corn make a hole about two or three inches deep with a hoe Scatter in this about five or six kernels of corn. Then throw in the earth and tramp on the hill. When the shoots appear sturdy pull out all but the three strongest. Care must be taken not to plant corn as long as there is any danger of frost.

Beans are a very important war garden crop for they are not only palatable but are a highly nutritious substitute for wheat and meat. For planting make a shallow furrow about two inches deep with the hoe. In this put the bean seeds two inches apart, or make holes two inches deep and 12 inches apart. In each hole drop three or four seeds. Cover with soil and tramp lightly over the row. The seed may be sprouted before planting by soaking in water.

Serge suits have collars and cuffs of linen.

GERMANS EXECUTED OVER OSTEND RAID

AMSTERDAM, May 27.—Fifteen German sailors were tried at Ostend, in connection with the British naval operations, which resulted in the blocking of Ostend and Zeebrugge harbours, according to reports from Bruges, brought here by fishermen. Thirteen of the sailors were executed. The other two were sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment.

FOR BABY'S TENDER SKIN.

A child's skin is tender as well as beautiful and eczema may be caused by chafing of clothing, the use of poor soap, exposure to cold or sudden change of temperature. Probably no treatment for eczema has ever proven so successful as Dr. Chase's Ointment, and this applied particularly to baby eczema. This ointment is delightfully soothing, stops the itching and consequently prevents scratching. Gradually the sores are healed up and the skin is left soft and velvety.

Y.M.C.A. OFFICIALS REPLY TO THE GREAT WAR VETERANS

Latter's Criticism Largely Result of Ignorance of the Facts — Aim to Keep Prices Low.

DR. BROWN'S STATEMENT

MONTREAL, May 28. — Dr. John Brown, jun., Associate General Secretary of the National Council of the Y.M.C.A. and General Supervisor of the Y.M.C.A. military work, stationed in Toronto, and visiting Montreal, has been authorized by the Y.M.C.A. to reply officially to the allegations of overcharges by the Y.M.C.A. embodied in a resolution at a convention of the Great War Veterans' Association held recently in Hamilton. The official statement of the Y.M.C.A. points out that much of the criticism consists of general statements and insinuations that are the results of ignorance of the facts. The allegation that the Y.M.C.A. charges high prices is denied, and the statement is made that its purpose is to keep them as low as possible. A sum of over $80,000 was expended in free hot drinks given away to the soldiers in France during 1917.

The official statement follows:

"The report of criticism of the Y. M. C. A. made at the convention of the G. W. V. A. in Hamilton on Saturday, was brought to the attention of a meeting of Y. M. C. A. officers, and the General Secretary of the National Council, who was present, was asked to make the following statement in reply:

Specific Charges Found Baseless.

"Criticisms of the same nature as those given in this report were made in some places during the recent Y. M. C. A. campaign throughout the country by members of the G. W. V. A. Much of this was ignored because it consisted of general statements and insinuations that were quite patently the result of ignorance of the facts. Some were more specific charges, and pains were taken to trace them to their source, and they were found to be without foundation or based on conditions in the early days, when the Y. M. C. A. service was on a comparatively small scale, and some features, such as free distribution of hot drinks, etc. had not been started. A Y. M. C. A. officer recently returned undertook to follow up every case of criticism from returned soldiers that came to his attention, with the result that he found in every case the statements were made through ignorance of the facts, or were inspired by pure prejudice; in most cases ignorance was admitted, and in some the statements were retracted.

Regret Veterans' Resolution.

"We regret that the G. W. V. A. have allowed this sort of criticism to be given an expression in a resolution of their organization, for it sets them over against an association that has existed for no other purpose than to serve them as soldiers, and which desires their success in the worthy objects of their organization.

"In the absence of the wording of the resolution we cannot reply to the statements made in it, but the criticisms that are indicated in the press reports, can be simply and briefly answered. The Y. M. C. A. does not charge high prices; its purpose is to keep them as low as possible; and the fact that some of them are not lower than they are is because the Y. M. C. A. is not allowed to under sell the Expeditionary Force canteen, which is the official military organization.

"The suggestion that the distribution of free, hot drinks is a small thing is answered by the fact that the audited statement for the work in France for year 1917, shows that the sum of 424,035 francs, or more than $80,000, has been spent on this in one year; this represents the actual cost of the material tea, coffee, cocoa, sugar, milk, etc., thus given away. A brief computation will show that several millions of cups have been given away, and indicates whether this part of the service consists of only 'an occasional cup.'

"When the National Executive Committee of the Y. M. C. A. receives a copy of the resolution passed by the G. W. V. A. a further reply will be issued if called for."

FRANCE HAS RIVAL TO ARMOURED PLANE

Heavily Armoured Plans, Aerial League Official Says, Can Carry the French "75's."

NEW YORK, May 27.—Speaking before the Society of Municipal Engineers at the Engineering Societies' Building, 29 Thirty-ninth Street, Augustus Post, Secretary of the Aerial League of America, who has returned from the western front, where he studied air fighting methods, said that France soon would place in service a large type of machine which would be a match for the German "flying tank." He siad that the French machine was heavily armoured and that the plane had performed so well in trials back of the lines that he had been much surprised to learn that the Germah, rather than the French fling tank, had been the first to get into actual service. He said that one machine he had seen was capable of bearing the famous French "75" guns.

JUDGE PREDICTS THE CREATION OF KU KLUX KLANS TO CURB TREASON IN THE UNITED STATES

Minnesota Judge Declares People Will Rise and Punish Disloyalists—Firing Squads Need to Work Overtime to Make Up For Lost Time.

ALIENS WANDER ALL OVER

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 28.—"Ku Klux Klans, multiplied a thousand times, will spring up all over the country to root out the treason unless Congress provides firing squads to work overtime to make up for lost time."

That statement was made by Judge John F. McGee, chairman of the Minnesota Public Safety Commission, testifying before the Senate Military Affairs Committee in favour of the Chamberlain bill declaring the entire United States a part of the military zone and subjecting spies and disloyalists to trial by court martial.

He declared the Department of Justice has been "a ghastly failure in Minnesota."

Norman H. White of the Military Intelligence section, with headquarters in New York, told the committee there were 20,000 enemy aliens at large in that city. He predicted more lynchings throughout the country unless the military authorities were empowered to administer summary justice to disloyalists.

Charles Warren Resigns.

Colonel R. H. Van Deman, head of the Military Intelligence section of the General Staff, and Captain McCauley, assistant chief of Naval Intelligence, both indorsed the principle of the bill.

While the hearing was in progress, the resignation of Charles Warren, Assistant Attorney General, was announced, to take effect immediately. Mr. Warren had charge of important duties in connection with prosecutions under the Espionage act. On Wednesday, in testimony before the Military Committee, Mr. Warren was quoted as saying, "The war cannot be run in the criminal courts" and "the effect of one trial by court martial was worth a hundred trials in the courts."

Despite the favourable testimony given by the bill, indications to-night were that the measure would meet with much opposition in Congress. The committee took no action and probably will not vote on the measure until next week. Senator Borah of Idaho declared his opposition to the bill, characterizing it as unconstitutional and unnecessary.

Declares Action is Vital.

Judge McGee declared Congress did not realize the seriousness of the situation in Minnesota. Without mentioning any names the Judge referred to "a certain Senator" who was to have made a pacifist speech in Minneapolis.

"We were prepared for him," said the Judge. "If he had made the speech he delivered on the floor of the United States Senate we would have hustled him off to jail.

"We must have courts-martial or we will have anarchy. Wait till the casualty lists begin to come in large numbers. The woods won't be dense enough to hide the traitors."

Mr. White said the Department of Justice was overloaded with work.

"If I were permitted to disclose some of the things I know about spies and propaganda every man in this room would be aghast," he said. "If you don't pass this bill now you'll have to come to it later. You must act or you are going to have more tarring and feathering and lynching. German propagandists are beginning to laugh at the military authorities because they know they are powerless. You can't pussy-foot on this."

Assails New York Conditions.

"Steps thus far taken to regulate the activities of enemy aliens are hardly worthy of notice. An enemy alien can go anywhere in New York city except within a few hundred feet of the water front or arsenals and military reservations. There are 20,000 enemy aliens at large in New York city to-day and nothing is being done even to take their fingerprints. This is not because there isn't patriotism in the department having charge of that work, but because it hasn't force enough to do it."

Mr. White also charged that German agents were selling heroin to American soldiers and sailors all along Broadway in New York since the sale of liquor to men in uniform had been forbidden. This was part of their scheme to injure the health and morale of the American fighting men, he said.

The government is unable to get "the quick and summary action in the courts necessary to meet the present emergency," Colonel Van Deman declared. Captain McCauley expressed the opinion that the mere existence of the Chamberlain bill as a law would have a deterrent effect on disloyal activity.

CRUDE THOUGHTS FROM THE EDITORIAL PEN

THE MANLY MAN.

The world has room for the manly man with the spirit of manly cheer;
The world delights in the man who smiles when his eyes keep back the tear;
It loves the man who, when things go wrong, can take his place and stand
With his face to the fight and his eyes to the light, and toil with a willing hand.

The manly man is the country's need, and the moment's need, forsooth,
With a heart that beats to the pulsing tread of the allied leagues of truth.
The world is his, and it waits for him and it leaps to heart the ring
Of the blow he strikes and the wheels he turns and the hammers he dares to swing;
It likes the forward look in his face, the poise of his noble head,
And the onward lunge of his tireless will and the sweep of his dauntless tread.

Hurrah for the manly man who comes with sunlight on his face,
And the strength to do and the will to dare and the courage to find his place!
The world delights in the manly man, and the weak and evil flee
When the manly man goes forth to hold his own on land or sea!

—American Israelite.

If you wish to cultivate a gossiping, meddling, censorious spirit in your children, be sure, when they come home from church, a visit or any place to which you do not accompany them, to ply them with questions concerning what everybody wore, how everybody looked, and what everybody said or did; and if you find anything in all this to censure always do it in their hearing. You may rest assured if you pursue a course of this kind, they will not return to you unladen with intelligence; and, rather than it should be uninteresting, they will by degrees learn to embellish in such a manner as shall not fail to call forth remarks and expressions of wonder from you. You will by this course render a spirit of curiosity—which is early visible in children and which, if rightly directed, may be made the instrument of enriching and enlarging their minds—a vehicle of mischief which shall serve only to narrow them.

Why not be polite at home? Why not use freely the golden coin of courtesy? How sweet they sound, those little words, "thank you," or trebly sweet, from the lips we love, when heart-smiles makes the eye sparkle with the clear light of affection.

It is more pleasant to be invited to take a higher seat than to be deprived of it. It is more pleasant to be king of a cottage than a servant of a palace. It is better to be a good five cent piece than a bogus quarter; in other words, it is better to hold ourselves at what we are, honestly worth. The world is full of people who never know or learn anything, because they think they know enough to begin with.

People who don't mind their own business bring more misery into families, societies and churches, than everything else. They turn the pleasant, peaceful stream of good will into a loathsome pool, they intrude on ground where angels would even fear to tread. Now, minding ones own business is the very best remedy for the itching ears that are never satisfied with hearing and the busy tongue that hurries to speak cruel words. Minding your own business will turn your attention to self, and you will forget to watch so closely the shortcomings of others; it will make peaceful homes, happy neighbours, and quiet consciences; and you will be able to realize and more fully comprehend the truth spoken in holy writ, "Blessed are the peacemakers."

Let our homes be places of love, joy and brightest sunshine, places of enduring love that out lasts the wedding day, and which produces a life of one long unbroken honeymoon, the molding place of character, a place where the child breathes an atmosphere perfumed by the choicest flowers of heaven, where it finds the greatest earthly security in mother's loving, fostering care.

The ethics of home correspond in large measure, with ethics of society. All these virtues which are crowned jewels of the highest civilization have their inception in the home. The glory and nobler issues of life must revert hood, the nicest of character which gives distinctiveness and beauty to childhood and youth, the adjustments of personal and domestic relations within the home, the education of the impulses, budding susceptibilities and growing powers of children, all fall within the powers of home ethics. Nowhere else can the abstract virtues of practical duties be more forcibly disclosed. Honesty, fidelity to trusts, truthfulness, courage, true dignity, the lesser virtues as well as the finer and nobler issues of life, must revert to home training for their proper and lasting inculcation.

We need to remember that success in life is not success in material life alone but in the social and religious as well. That a man is not a practical man who is merchant, a farmer, a teacher merely; he must also be a citizen, a neighbour, a friend, a son, perhaps a brother, a husband, a father—and most important of all a little child in the garden of a Heavenly King.

CLAIMS 3,575,000 CAPTIVES

Germany Boasts of Value of "Our Growing Labor Army.

AMSTERDAM, May 27. — "Our growing labor army" is the description applied by the German newspapers to their prisoners of war. In an official statement the German people is notified that Germany and her allied States now hold 3,575,000 prisoners.

The statement lays stress on the "supreme value" of these prisoners as manpower for industry and agriculture. They will go far, it is said, to compensate Germany for the men she has had to withdraw from peaceful pursuits for active military service.

"The longer the war lasts the more adaptable and useful these prisoners become," says the official statement.

...RMANS SUCCEED IN MOVING VINDICTIVE

...sage Effected, But Harbor Is Not Being Used—Zeebrugge 'Still Blocked.

LONDON, May 27.—The Germans have succeeded in shifting the concrete-laden cruiser Vindictive, sunk in the harbor of Ostend on May 10 by British raiding forces. The Vindictive, according to the Times, is now lying close alongside the eastern pier, leaving a passage about 30 feet wide. This is enough to allow destroyers to go in and out, but, nevertheless, the Germans are not using the harbor.

Unsuccessful attempts have been made by the Germans to dredge a passage between the two old cruisers sunk in the harbor of Zeebrugge. A German destroyer, sunk this week by bombs dropped by British naval airmen, lies close to the cruisers.

The basin at Bruges, which is connected with both Ostend and Zeebrugge, is full of German shipping, but the canal is not being used.

"B" Men Are Not To Be Exempted

All Exemptions in These Ages Have Been Cancelled

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, May 28. — Instead of Class B men of 20, 21 and 22 years of age being granted a general exemption as stated in reports in the newspapers yesterday, the fact is that all exemptions in these ages have been cancelled. The matter was made very clear by a letter which has been sent to Mr. C. Leslie Wilson, Ontario Registrar, and to the judges now sitting as appeal tribunals.

GIRLS VICTIMS OF POMP.

Made Ill by Singing in Cold for Bavarian Royalty.

AMSTERDAM, May 27.—Bavarian high school girls, forced by an official order issued, "at his Majesty's personal request," have paid tragic tribute to German court pomp, according to the Munich Post.

The occasion was the royal golden wedding celebration, and the school girls were made to assemble, attired in thin white dresses and dilapidated shoes, despite bitter cold and an icy pavement, in front of the royal palace and sing patriotic songs for an hour.

"Two of the girls," the Munich paper relates, "salf-starved as they were, have succumbed to consumption. Four others were taken seriously ill, and one is undergoing treatment in the municipal hospital.

"We have no hesitation in declaring that the whole affair is a disgrace at a time like the present, when old and young alike are in an enfeebled condition owing to the lack of sufficient food."

PRANKS OF A POET.

De Musset Had a Mania For Destroying Women's Clothes.

"I was once at the Comedie Francaise, but as a spectator, not as an actress. I had on a white hat, which I had been told suited me quite well. From the box in which I sat I noticed Alfred de Musset, and he caught sight of me, too, so he came to see me between the acts.

"He planted himself in front of me and said rudely: 'You've got a hideous hat on, mademoiselle. I can't imagine how pretty women can dress badly. It's sheer stupidity for any one who has a white skin like yours to go and spoil the effect of her complexion by wearing a white hat.' As he spoke he gave me a bang on the head which quite crushed my hat, turned on his heel and took himself off.

"When I told my friend, Roger de Beauvoir, who knew De Musset well, of the incident he said: 'He is rather addicted to such pleasantries. The other day he was at Tortoni's with La Mogador, who was wearing a light green dress, when suddenly, without the slightest warning, he seized a bottle of raspberry sirup and poured its contents over his companion's clothes, completely ruining her toilet. He seems to be afflicted with a mania for spoiling women's clothes.'"—"My Autobiography," by Mme. Judith.

HE WAS A GROUCH.

And He Furnished a Good Text For a Good Sermon.

"I had a little lesson several weeks ago," remarked the man with the gray mustache, "and it called me in good shape."

"Go ahead," said the stout man.

"I was in the garage where I keep my car and happened to overhear a conversation among the boys. A certain man had been injured while traveling abroad—very badly injured, it was reported—and one of the boys was telling the others about it. 'The story in the paper says he can't get well,' the youngster went on. 'Did you know him, Pete?' And the boy addressed promptly replied, 'Sure, I knew th' old grouch.'

"Say, that hit me pretty hard. Here was a leading citizen dying, and all the boy could remember about him was that he was a grouch. Yes, sir, it made me sit up and think hard. And I got in my mind that when I passed out I'd like to be remembered for something different."

He paused.

"That's worth considering," said the other man.

"Good text," said the first man.

"Good sermon," said the other.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Regular Old Sherlock.

"Poor girl!" said the general manager as the young woman who had just applied for a position as stenographer walked out of his office.

"What's her trouble?" asked his secretary.

"It's too bad that a girl who is so pretty—one who might be living in luxury—is compelled to go out looking for work because she refused to listen to her parents. You heard her say she was married, didn't you?"

"Yes, but I didn't hear her mention her parents."

"Evidently you have not developed much ability in the way of making deductions. Why would a girl with such eyes, such hair, such a complexion, such teeth, such a beautiful face and such a figure as hers have to go out looking for work if she hadn't married against her parents' wishes?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Vital Questions

Mrs. Ellen Sholl, of Toronto, made a very startling statement at the Social Hygiene Conference recently when she said that "it would be much better for the people to study social evils than to study about the blood of a Saviour who died 2,000 years ago."

"I certainly believe in a living Saviour, but I am fighting the priesthood. There is too much formalism, too much worshipping of images," she declared later when her speech was being severely criticised. "If our girls were taught in school about their physical make-up and the dangers they are sure to meet on the street, they would be much better prepared to fight the battles of life. I was born and brought up a Quakeress."

Mrs. Sholl was born in Toronto, and has done a great deal of speaking on prohibition and woman suffrage questions. She has a son at the front, and has late given her cottage at Bala, Muskoka, for the use of soldiers.

A Candid Editor.

A Canadian acknowledgment of exceeding frankness is this in the Morse News: We made an awful muddle in our last issue in announcing the arrival in town of Mrs. C. L. Whitby and her sister, Miss Robb, getting Mrs. Whitby's name in as Mrs. Miles and Miss Robb's as Miss Ross. We apologize for the error and leave our readers to form their own conclusions as to what was wrong with us.

Soldiers of the Soil.

Farmers of Canada are assured of the help of 35,000 active, willing boys on farms this summer, who have enlisted as Soldiers of the Soil. They will be supervised by the S. O. S. organization of the Canada Food Board.

TEACHER'S TRAINING RESULTS.

CLASS OF KING EDWARD SCHOOL VERY HIGHLY COMMENDED.

The results of the examination in Teacher's training work on "The Pupil," are to hand.

Mr. M. N. Clarke, principal of the King Edward School, who conducted the class, received a letter from the examiner, ev. Mr. Langford, of Toronto, and among other things he says: "Your class has done a fine piece of work and it reflects a great deal of credit on themselves and their teacher."

There were eight candidates who wrote, five taking over eighty-five per cent., and all were successful in taking the required number of marks.

PESENTATION TO JACK McNAB.

A farewell dinner was given by the Wide-Awake Club at the home of Miss Edythe Stevens, 364 Mark Street, in honor of Mr. Jack McNab, who is leaving the city for Kingston. The members presented Mr. McNab with a beautiful wrist watch, the presentation being made by Mr. Bergoine. Mr. McNab was taken completely by surprise but made a suitable reply. A most enjoyable evening was spent, after which a dainty lunch was served. The party broke up at 2.30, singing Shall Old Acquaintance be Forgot.

CALLS IT RANK FATALISM

St. Catharines Pastor Doesn't Believe All Soldiers Killed Will Go to Heaven.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., May 28.—Characterizing it as simply rank fatalism, Rev. Dr. George H. Smith, pastor of Knox Presbyterian Church, in a sermon Sunday took strong issue with those who maintain that a soldier who is killed in battle, will go to Heaven in spite of the kind of a life he has led.

"The carefree religion of the trenches, which tells the man to do his duty and not bother God too much, and he will get through all right, is a mistaken idea altogether," said Dr. Smith, "and to my mind is only grasped at like a straw by a drowning person, by the men, who have lived wickedly or indifferently all their lives. It is not believed in by the great mass of our soldiers. Christ himself said a man's only salvation is to be born again. Paul taught us that, too."

WATERING.

There is always the danger of watering vegetable crops over abundantly. Ontario has been fortunate this spring in the amount of natural watering that the gardens have received, but this does not necessarily apply all over Canada. A city garden should never be watered in the heat of the sun. In any event, the water should be applied in as fine a spray as it is possible to obtain. Force will wash out the seeds, flatten the soil, expose the roots to the sun's rays and thus cause the wilting of the plant. As the seeds are first breaking through, the ground should be gently watered in the evening with a watering can. The hose is destructive if used too soon after planting. It is necessary to stir the soil after each rain or watering in order to conserve the moisture.

Particular care must be taken in the watering of transplanted vegetables. It is a good plan to put a little water in the holes before the plants are put in them. Or, on the other hand, the watering may be done immediately after planting while the soil is still loose. This will prevent the plants from wilting.

NO CHANCE FOR THE GERMS

Disease germs cannot live in rich, red blood. It is people in low vitality that fall victims to germ diseases. By using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you enrich the blood, increase vitality and prevent disease germs from finding lodgment in your body. There's wisdom in prevention. It's easier to keep well than to get well.

"Bob" and "Cob" in Money.

Most people would know what was meant by the term "bob" when speaking of money. But would they be able to say offhand what a "cob" is or was in a similar connection? It was used in polite circles in the seventeenth century, for it occurs in a letter from the Earl of Essex—"So my wife gave her a cob, for which she seemed very thankful"—printed in the new volume of the "Camden" series, the editor of which gives the information that the cob was "a piece of money the value of which varied from 4 shillings to as much as 6 shillings in 1675."—London Chronicle.

Girls Suffer Acutely From Pangs Of Hunger

Girl Students at Berlin Faint From Weakness at Lectures —Spy Ring Prevents Free Expression of Opinion in Germany.

PATRIOTIC FIREWORKS

BERNE, May 28.—"The perfect spy system now in force throughout Germany prevents a free expression of sentiments among the people," a girl student recently from Berlin said to the Mail and Empire correspondent. "They know the Berlin prisons are crowded with men and women who have been overheard to speak against the Kaiser's Government, Hindenburg and pan-Germans.

"Working-class women in Berlin feel great bitterness about the prolongation of the war. I once heard a woman say: 'Every time I put my children to bed I pray God they may never awake.'

"I spent some considerable time in Munich, and was surprised to note the growing hostility toward Prussians. All sorts of rumours circulate, and, owing to the nervousness of the people, find ready credence.

"Is is true they've deposed the Kaiser?" a peasant woman asked me. Circumstantial reports about attempts upon the life of the Emperor or of the Crown Prince crop up from time to time.

"A large proportion of the 4,000 students registered at Berlin University are women and maimed men. Lecture halls sometimes present an extraordinary spectacle. I've seen a one-armed professor lecturing before blind students with artificial noses and wooden legs, and students who were deaf in one ear.

Patriotic Fireworks.

"Some of the professors indulge in patriotic fireworks. On the day on which the great offensive began a professor of philosophy, whose lectures I attended, dashed his hand down upon his desk and shouted, 'Now they'll see what furor Teutonics is.'

"The students, like the general body of the population, suffer acutely from hunger. I frequently saw girls faint from sheer weakness during lectures. Food conditions in Berlin and other cities have certainly reached an intollerable point, whereas in Bavaria country districts food is comparatively abundant.

"After food the lack of soap causes great discomfort. Soap in Germany at this moment would probably fetch its weight in gold."

MR. J. H. BURNHAM, M.P., FINDS FAULT WITH THE OPERATION OF THE CANADIAN PATRIOTIC FUND

Member For West Peterboro' Addressed a Meeting in Hamilton on Sunday Evening—What the Hamilton Herald Has to Say of Captain Burnham's Latest Oratorical Outburst.

On Sunday last, Mr. J. H. Burnham M.P., attended a sacred concert held in Hamilton and alarmed the natives by an attack on the Patriotic Fund. The Hamilton "Herald" of the following day has the following to say regarding the latest exploit of the member for West Peterboro:—

(Hamilton "Herald")

After paying its respects to the Y. M. C. A., the Canadian government, the council and board of control, the Great War Veterans' Association has added another to the list. Speaking at the request of the G. W. V. A. at a largely attended sacred concert in Loew's theatre last evening, Capt. J. H. Burnham, member of parliament for West Peterboro, made an attack on the Canadian Patriotic fund. The soldiers' dependents got very little from the Patriotic fund, he declared. These soldiers families were having hard times to live, and relief for the most part on their government separation allowance and "the little they get from the Patriotic fund—and they get very little, let me tell you," he said. He went on to say that, when the regular remittdepended went astray, as they often did, the soldiers' wives did not know, very often, where to write about them or whom to see. There were delays which meant much to the soldiers' families, many of whom were just eking out an existence, at times. If it went on, he continued, their lives here in Canada would gradually become a veritable hell, just as their soldier husbands' are in France.

Pleading for the rights of the returned men, Capt. Burnham said that there had spread in this country "a certain spirit of prejudice against the returned soldiers." He pointed out that, contrary to the existing belief, these men were not trying to dictate to anyone but were only endeavouring to get their due. He stated that the soldier was the most poorly paid servant of the country. Machinists, munition workers, farmers and others were receiving big wages, while the soldier received only $1.10 a day, which with his maintenance, amounting to about $2, also a separation allowance, which was paid to wives, and the little that the wives and families got from the Patriotic fund. Workmen were also insured under the workmen's compensation act. The speaker stated that if the people really understood what the soldiers had done they would organize a committee of prominent citizens, with Col. Wm. Hendrie at its head, to hear the veterans' side of the story.

Referring to the recent statement of the ev. J. W. Ten Eyck, that he had never given his church for Sunday recruiting meetings, and that such public meetings on Sundays did much to undermine the Burnham said: "You know what they do 'over there' with such people, don't you? They have a little interview with a little party."

He also complained of the inefficient system of the government. He tried some time ago, he said, to obtain permission from the government for the returned ment of Peterboro to cultivate the land occupied by some rifle ranges there. The ranges hadn't been used for some time, as nearly all the men were at the front. He went from the premier to the minister of militia, who sent him to the minister of agriculture, who told him that he had nothing to do with the matter and referred him back to the premier. It wasn't the government, personally, that was to blame, he said; it was the abominable system.

(Hamilton "Herald" May 27.)

From remarks made by representatives of the local patriotic fund reflections concerning its administration in a general way made by Captain J. H. Burnham, M.P. for Peterborough, at a public meeting in Loew's theatre last night, are not going to go unchallenged.

When asked this morning concerning the matter W. H. Lovering, chairman of the relief committee of the Hamilton and Wentworth branch of the patriotic fund, made the following statement:

W. H. Lovering's Statement.

"Payments to soldiers wives average from $45 to $85 per month. This, however, is by no means all that we do. We are adjusting personal matters in the interests of soldiers' dependents every day. The statement credited to Captain Burnham, that when a soldier's wife desired information concerning payments, etc., she did not know to whom or where to apply, is rather far fetched. Surely every person in Hamilton knows that we had an office here, and those who have had occasion to solicit information also know that it has always been easy to get. We are sending out from thirty to forty letters every day in reply to letters received from soldiers' wives and dependents, who write to us for information on various subjects."

Want Information.

J. P. Bell treasurer of the local patriotic club, said he had not read the report, and expressed great surprise when informed concerning the statements made by Captain Burnham.

"If Captain Burnham or any other person or persons will give us any specific cases in which soldiers' wives have not received a square deal from the patriotic association, they will be given careful investigation," said Mr. Bell. "In this respect it does not matter whether the complaints are regarding money matters or any other cause. No complaint will pass without being carefully and fully investigated. We cannot, however, attempt to meet statements of a general nature such as those credited to Captain Burnham. If he will give us specific cases he has my assurance of speedy investigation in every instance."

Regulated at Ottawa.

"Patriotic allowances are regulated at Ottawa," said Robert Hobson. "I want to say, however, that down at Ottawa, Hamilton has always been held up as a model in connection with the work of the patriotic fund. The men in charge of the local branch, especially Mr. Lovering and Mr. Birge, have given service in the interests of the soldiers dependents which has been worth thousands of dollars to them. This service has been given without charge, and at great personal inconvenience.

The Marching Song.

No one knows the inspiration of a cramping song further than the soldier, and most regiments have their favorite airs, which they love to yell when on march. The men of the Manchester regiment have a fine reputation for singing on the march. And two of their favorite songs are "Killaloe" and "Brian Boru," both of which give opportunity for some hearty shouts at intervals. Similarly the Yorkshires, when route marching, enliven the way with "Dan Tucker," a song in which the words are of no account and the tune a series of diabolical yells.—London Chronicle.

The Woman Who Changed

By JANE PHELPS

Plans For David's Entertainment

CHAPTER LXXVIII.

As I had planned to do, I pretended to be asleep when George came in. It was after one o'clock and I could not help wondering where he had been, and who with. I have often speculated, since, upon whether other women were content to know as little of their husbands' plans and actions as I did of my husband's.

In the morning, before we went down to breakfast, I said:

"We must do something to entertain David, George. What shall we do?"

"Take the car and drive him around; go to the movies or the theatre with him. Do anything you like, only on no account allow his being here to interfere with my plans for your portrait, or to make you neglect your preparations to get away. I cannot have my plans upset by anyone."

It shounded awfully selfish; yet I do not think George meant it so. I could do anything I wished within reason. I should not have felt that stir of resentment, as I followed him slowly down stairs. There, before us, buried to the morning paper, sat David.

FUSSY ABOUT HIS PAPER

The moment I saw the newspaper I trembled. If there was one thing more than another over which George was impatient, it was his paper. He always knew if it had been touched, no matter how carefully it might be folded, and he never failed to find fault because of it.

"Not much news that I can see," David said carelessly, laying the paper down as he kissed me good morning.

"No?" George said, coldly.

"No! won't pay you to read it," David returned, oblivious.

"I will read it, just the same."

Just then James appeared with the breakfast, I poured the coffee and commenced to chat with David. But George's face wore a forbidding scowl until he had nearly finished. I made up my mind that I would have to tell David that George was peculiarly sensitive about opening his morning paper himself.

But I forgot all about it in my pleasure, as George remarked,

"They tell me the play at the Academy is excellent. Shall I send you tickets for the matinee?"

"Oh, please do! I heard Evelyn say she had heard it was good."

"Why not ask her to go with you. Call her while I am upstairs, so that I can know how many tickets to get."

Evelyn was delighted, and promised to come right over and meet David. She knew he was my favorite brother, and was very anxious to see him.

So, once more, George had upset my theory that he was carelessly indifferent. It was puzzling, to say the least. Just as I had made up my mind that he was cruel, unbearable, he would do something nice and I would be all at sea again.

But I was glad he had shown himself so gracious before David. My brother would have a good impression at the start. I never thought of the finish.

Evelyn and David made friends with each other at once. We ordered the car and took an hour's spin out into the country, then we went home with Evelyn to luncheon, and then to the matinee.

DAVID IS PUZZLED

The play was delightful. We decided to walk home. It was just getting dusk as we left Evelyn at her door. The afternoon had been cloudy, and darkness had set in very early.

"Isn't that George?" David asked in a stage whisper, as we turned the corner.

"Yes, come on," I said taking his arm and hurrying him along. George was standing in front of Julia Collin's house, he and she engaged in an animated conversation. They hadn't seen us, and I piloted David across the street.

"What's the game?" David asked.

"Why don't you want George to see us? He told you to go? Or—I have it. You didn't want him to know we saw him! That's it, isn't it, sis?"

"It might embarrass him. He was very busy," I answered as calmly as I could. I Would have avoided it had it been in any way possible. But David had seen. Now I must quiet any suspicions he might have.

"Is he that kind?" David asked, real concern in his voice.

"What kind?" I sparred for time.

"The kind of man who isn't satisfied with his wife, but wants to make love to other women, too?"

In spite of my anxiety and my hurt, I laughed. There was such real tragedy in David's voice.

"No indeed, dear. He isn't at all that kind. It is vulgar to do such things, and George never is common."

"Well, I don't like the looks of it. Honest, don't you care, sis? If you do, and he makes you unhappy, I'll —well, I'll do something."

Masked Women.

Upper class Swahili women wear curious masks, which are made of leather and beads on a wooden frame. The mask is derived from the traditional usage of Moslem women, who must keep their faces covered in the presence of men. For several centuries Arab traders have frequented this vast African coast, and to their influence are due most of the civilized customs found today among the natives of the district. The clothing worn by these prosperous dames is of silk, their shoes are partly of silver, and they wear much silver jewelry. The Moslems in Zanzibar, by the way, are less fanatically strict about religious usages than their brethren in Morocco and Turkey.—Wide World Magazine.

TO SUFFER FROM HEADACHES

Makes Life Miserable

Headaches seems to be habitual with many people. Some are seldom, if ever, free from it, suffering continually with the dull throbbings, the intense pain, sometimes in one part, sometimes in another, and then over the whole head, varying in its severity by the cause which brings it on.

The varieties of headache most common are sick or bilious headache, nervous headache, headache from constipation, debility or indigestion and periodical and spasmodic headache, and undoubtedly the cause must be removed before permanent relief can be had.

Burdock Blood Bitters, that has been on the market for over 40 years, removes the cause of the headaches, and not only does this but also restores the entire system to healthy action and buoyant vigour.

Miss Emily Smith, 204 Bellwoods Ave., Toronto, Ont., writes: "I cannot speak too highly of Burdock Blood Bitters. For two years I was greatly troubled with violent headaches, particularly in the morning. I tried everything to cure me until a friend recommended B.B.B. I tried it, and now I am completely cured."

QUAINT WILLS.

A Parrot and a Russet Cob That Were Well Provided For.

The making of queer wills is a subject prolific of good stories, and some remarkable examples are given by Virgil M. Harris in "Ancient, Curious and Famous Wills." One Caroline Hunter, an elderly spinster, left £1,000 in trust for her parrot. The money was to provide it with a home and to guarantee it attention at the hands of a custodian, who had to be of the female sex and had to undertake not to leave England. The will included this clause:

"I will and desire that whoever tries to frustrate these my intentions shall forfeit whatever I have left him, her or them. I owe nothing to any one. Many owe me gratitude and money, but none have paid me either."

A rustic of Toulouse about 1781 wrote a brief will in these terms:

"I declare that I appoint my russet cob my universal heir, and I desire that he may belong to my nephew, George."

This was contested, but was confirmed, as it was clear that the said George in owning the horse would have control of the money; also he would not be able to transfer or dissipate the cash for the simple reason that he would require the horse's consent, which would be difficult to obtain.

Burma Pagodas Are Reminders.

Eight or nine miles below Mandalay, in Burma, the right bank of the Irawadi is hilly, and in the neighborhood of the old Burmese town of Sagaing the hills are dotted all over with pagodas. These are not temples, but are built by pious people as offerings to the supreme power, it being generally believed that such acts of devotion count to the builders' credit in the next world. The pagodas are of all kinds, according to the means of the builders, from primitive whitewashed structures to ornate erections with grotesque gilded lions. The lions have various meanings, but stand chiefly as a reminder of unselfish devotion. An ancient Burmese legend, taught to all Burmese children, is that of a lioness who nursed and guarded the baby son of a king and who died of a broken heart when the prince grew up and went away.—Wide World Magazine.

Cured My Cough In One Night

Relieved Me of a Throat Weakness That Resisted Every Treatment.

"SUFFERERS, FOLLOW MY PLAN"

"After being loaded down with a chronic hacking cough for months, you can imagine my joy at finding even a relief from it," writes Mrs. O. A. Tooker, of Monson, Mass., U.S.A. "I was troubled with an irritable throat weakness and asthma that simply defied every medicine I ever used. I was discouraged until a friend recommended Catarrhozone so strongly that I bought a dollar outfit from my dugout. I breathed in the healing fumes of Catarrhozone very deeply—used the inhaler five minutes every hour. After the first day I was better, and next morning my cough was gone. My asthma is cured, my throat weakness is gone, and I am well. For two years indeed, with the aid of Catarrhozone, have kept perfectly well. I have also used Dr. Hamilton's Pills for constipation with grand results, and consider your remedies have done wonders for me."

Thousands of wonderful cures are reported every year. Catarrhozone does all that is claimed for it, and is certainly most efficient for colds, bronchitis, throat trouble, asthma and catarrh. The two months' treatment (large size), price $1.00, is guaranteed, smaller size 50c, sample size 25c, at all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

ON GUARD

At this time of the year people feel weak, tired, listless, their blood is thin, they have lived indoors and perhaps expended all their mental and bodily energy and they want to know how to renew their energy and stamina, overcome headaches and backaches, have clear eyes, a smooth, ruddy skin, and feel the exhilaration of real good health tingling thru their body. Good, pure, rich, red blood is the best insurance against ills of all kinds. Almost all diseases come from impure and impoverished blood. It is to be noticed in the pale or pimply face, the tired, haggard appearance or the listless manner.

Drink hot water a half hour before meals, and for a vegetable tonic there's nothing better than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the old-fashioned herbal remedy, which has had such a fine reputation for fifty years. It contains no alcohol or narcotics. It is made from Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Oregon grape root, Queen's root, Black Cherry bark, extracted with glycerine and made into tablets and liquid. Tablets fifty cents, at most drug stores.

Gallant Unto Death.

When Sir Ralph Abercromby was mortally wounded in the battle of Aboukir he was carried on a litter on board the Foudroyant. To ease his pain a soldier's blanket was placed under his head. He asked what it was.

"It is only a soldier's blanket," he was told.

"Whose blanket is it?" he persisted, lifting himself up.

"Only one of the men's."

"I want to know the name of the man whose blanket this is," the dying commander insisted.

"It is Duncan Roy's of the Forty-second, Sir Ralph," said his attendant at last.

"Then see that Duncan Roy gets his blanket this very night," commanded the brave man, who did not forget even in his last agonies the comfort and welfare of his men. Of such unselfish stuff are true soldiers made.—Youth's Companion.

Test For Hydrochloric Acid.

A curious mishap gave us a very delicate test for hydrochloric acid in the atmosphere. In a north of England locality many houses have curtains of the cream color produced by metanil yellow, popularly known as "dolly" cream dye and to science as "the sodium salt of meta-amido-benzine sulphonic acid-azo-diphenyl-amine." Some of these cream colored curtains suddenly changed to bellotrone. Investigation showed that an accidental escape of hydrochloric acid from a neighboring alkali plant had discolored the curtains, and the dye became a most useful test.—London Globe.

"What do you understand by the term political influence?"

"Political influence," replied Senator Sorghum, "is usually something that a lot of people come around and tell you they brought to bear after you have succeeded in landing a job."—Washington Star.

TRIALS OF A PARSON.

Efforts of Some of His Flock to Keep Him Meek and Humble.

Do not be a parson unless you are blessed with a strong sense of humor and a thick hide, advises an English clergyman in Pearson's Weekly.

I was asked by a friend who had been offered a living near me to go and see the vicarage and church and report. I did so, and the clerk showed me round. As we neared the end he turned to me and said:

"Be you our new parson, sir, if I may make so bold?" I assured him that I was not. "I be main glad to hear that, sir," he said, with relief. "We've always had good 'uns so far!"

In a scattered parish I called upon an old couple about tea time. "Would you like a cup of tea?" the housewife asked. I confessed that I should like it very much. The dear old soul prepared one and kept apologizing because she had no jam or cake. Assured her that it did not matter in the least. "Well, sir," she said, brightening, "after all, 'tisn't as if you was one of them that feed high. Any one can see that."

One more. A friend of mine had got a job for a man who had been for long time out of work. I guessed he was getting pretty shabby, so I bought up a suit—we were much of a size—and took it round. The man's wife took it, and I waited in the hall ready to be overwhelmed with thanks. She came back and said:

"My husband thanks you kindly, sir, but he don't hold with parsons' clothes. But if you've got anything as it suit a man he'll have a look at it."

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Have YOU any idea what that decision is costing you—even if you live? Of course if you die the cost is much GREATER.

Read the following facts and then decide for yourself:

The premium you would pay for $1,000 of insurance at age 60 WOULD BUY YOU nearly $4,000 of insurance at age 21.

The premium you pay for $1,000 of insurance at age 50 WOULD BUY YOU nearly $2,500 at age 21.

The premium you pay for $1,000 of insurance at age 35 WOULD BUY YOU $1,440 at age 21.

Besides while you may be insurable at age 21 you may not be insurable, AT ANY PRICE, at the other ages mentioned.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

My Brother Tom

By ELINOR MARSH

When my brother Tom was sixteen he went to a distant city to seek his fortune. I was then a little girl of ten. When the world's war broke out Tom enlisted in an ambulance corps and went to France without my seeing him. I had not seen him since he had left home eight years before. Then news came that he had been grievously wounded, and was to be discharged from military service, and sent home.

Meanwhile, father had died, mother was very feeble, and there was no one to meet Tom when he should arrive at the port of New York but myself. The news that he had of Tom was that he pined to get home and the surgeons had decided to send him without waiting for him to fully recover.

I could not get definite news as to when Tom would arrive, so I went to New York and waited. One morning I learned that a ship was of quarantin and would be at the dock in a few hours. I immediately went to the landing place, and in due time the ship was docked. I went aboard, and on deck, on a stretcher, lay a soldier, waiting to be carried ashore.

"Are you Tom?" I asked, kneeling beside the stretcher.

"Yes," he said, looking at me inquiringly.

I gave him a kiss and plied him with questions as to his condition, but did not give him time to answer any of them. As soon as I came to a pause he said:

"When do you suppose I'm to be taken ashore?"

"Don't trouble yourself about anything; I'm here to look after you," I said, and, seeing an officer of the ship not far from me, I ran to him and begged him to send some men to carry my brother ashore. The officer at once ordered four men to take up the stretcher and carry it to the dock. I walked beside Tom, and on reaching the shore, asked him if I should get an ambulance for him.

"Not on your life," he replied. "I've seen all of the ambulances I care to see. I got knocked out driving one of them. I'm strong enough to sit up in an auto."

There were taxicabs about, and I called one of them, and the men who had carried Tom ashore helped him into it. I told the chauffeur where to drive us, and he moved away.

"Where are you going to take me?" asked Tom.

"I'm stopping with Aunt Mary; we'll go there."

"She won't take me in, will she?" said Tom doubtfully.

"Certainly; she'll be only too glad to do so. You can lean on me." And I drew him toward me and his head sank on my shoulder.

I could not get much information from him about himself, he was so weak. He left everything to me, asking no questions and manifesting no interest in anything till I said: "We'll be at Aunt Mary's in a few minutes, and you will soon be comfortable in bed." Then he said that he must go to a hospital. His wound was healed, but it would be safer for him to go where he could have a doctor's attention at a moment's notice.

I was disappointed at this, for I had hoped to take him home with me the same day.

I drove him to a hospital and engaged a room for him. After seeing him comfortably in bed I gave him a kiss and, promising to come back in a few hours, took my departure for my aunt's. At parting he looked up at me with an expression of deep appreciation and gratitude, saying:

"I don't know what I should have done if you hadn't met me and taken all this trouble in my behalf." I kissed him again and told him that my service had only just begun.

Having telegraphed mother that Tom had arrived and was doing well, that the doctor said it would be safe for him to go home in about a week, I returned to him. I nursed him affectionately, spending every day with him. At the end of three days the doctor said that it would be perfectly safe for him to travel, but Tom said he was too weak to stand the journey. Three more days passed. One afternoon when I was sitting by his bed, holding his hand in mine, the door opened and a young man entered. He looked at us with an amused expression and said:

"Well, I'll be jinged!"

Tom withdrew his hand from mine instantly.

The stranger took me in his arms and kissed me, then said to Tom:

"What the dickens does this mean, you old humbug. You have evidently been passing yourself off for me."

"I haven't, Tom, honor bright; your sister met me, and took pity on me. I hadn't the resolution to disabuse her of her mistake. You know I haven't a near relative in the world. Your sister took me in charge, and it was well, for I was not able to take care of myself."

"Well, well, old man, I'm glad she's been of service to you. I don't blame you a bit. I wish some fellow's sister had met me; I would have played the same game."

I'm not going to say how I felt. I covered my face with my hands and my brother—my real brother pulled them away. I suppose I should banish the other one. They are both Tom and were friends before they went to war, but I can't. I am still nursing him.

A TRAP FOR MARINERS.

Salmadina Bank, Off Colombia's Coast, Is a Perilous Shoal.

One of the most dangerous places for navigation is the Salmadina bank, which lies just outside the harbor of Cartagena, Colombia. Many vessels have come to grief on the treacherous sands of Salmadina in the past, and because of the impossibility of keeping buoys on it the shoal is a constant menace to ships plying those waters.

This dangerous bank is about four miles long and two miles wide. There is scarcely more than twelve feet of water over it at any time. The sea is usually smooth in that part of the Caribbean, and unless there is ground swell enough to cause waves to break on the reef there is nothing to warn the navigator that he is approaching this shallow spot. He may have his lead going and get plenty of water one minute and be bang up on the shoal the next.

The lighthouse people will probably never be able to put buoys on Salmadina that will stay there. They are invariably carried away in the terrific hurricanes that periodically sweep these waters. So it seems as if Salmadina was a bad spot put there for the permanent worriment of shipmasters. —New York Sun.

Penalties For Sabbath Breaking.

Sabbath breaking in Dundee was an expensive business in former times, to judge by the table of fines, etc., drawn up by the local Guild of Bonnetmakers in 1665. For traveling or drinking in a tavern on Sunday the fine was fixed at 40 shillings for each offense. For "hanging out bonnets, clothing or fish to dry—penalty for bonnets, 6s. 8d.; for clothes, 4 shillings; for fish, 3 shillings. Carrying water from the well or washing meat thereat in time of sermon, penalty, 8 shillings; gathering kail in time of sermon, penalty, 5 shillings; going to neighbors' houses in time of sermon without lawful excuse, such as sickness, penalty for first fault, 12 shillings, and for second twice as much, with rebuke before the craft, and for the third, summons before the kirk session."—London Chronicle.

China's Millions.

Any figures for the population of China must necessarily be more or less unreliable, inasmuch as the census man is not much in evidence in the land of the Celestials. The estimate, which is probably somewhere near correct, is 402,700,000. As to whether the millions of China will ever become thoroughly modernized in the sense that the Japanese are remains to be seen. The Chinaman possesses plenty of good sense and there seems to be no valid reason why he should not some time "catch on" to things and forge ahead with the rest of the folks.—New York Journal.

WINNING HAPPINESS.

Get on Good Terms With Yourself and Everything About You.

Happiness can never come from the outside to the inside unless happiness already exists in the inside. We become happy because there are certain elements within us that respond immediately to the things that make up happiness.

To be thoroughly happy you must be on good terms with yourself.

Also it means that you have fathomed the mystery of happiness in every growing thing about you. A man that is not on good terms with the trees and flowers and birds and houses and the scores of other gifts of nature can never be upon good terms with himself. For nature, though silent in its expression, speaks truths more wondrous than the expressed truths of men.

To be thoroughly happy you must be on good terms with everything about you.

Did you ever look up into the sky and ask yourself whether or not you were on good terms with the stars, with the planets—with the moon? And during the day, with the clouds and the marvelous sun that so greatly affect your disposition, as these things do affect the dispositions of every one?

To be thoroughly happy you must make the wonderful truths and expressions of nature your mental companions.

It is impossible for you to be upon good terms with all people unless you fall in alignment with their sympathies and with their viewpoints. It is impossible for you to bring out the best that is within unless you use as a basic standing a perfect equality of terms.—Toledo Times.

Likes to Be Remembered.

Think well about great things; and know that thought is the only reality in this world. Lift up nature to thine own stature; and let the whole universe be for thee no more than the reflection of thine own heroic soul. Combat for honor's sake; that alone is worthy of a man. And if it should fall to thee to receive wounds, shed thy blood as a beneficent dew, and smile.—Cervantes.

Heart Beat So Fast

Could Not Sleep

HAD TO SIT UP IN BED

Heart trouble has of late years become very prevalent. Sometimes a pain catches you in the region of the heart, now and then your heart skips beats, palpitates, throbs, or beats with such rapidity and violence you think it will burst. You have weak and dizzy spells, are nervous, irritable and depressed, and if you attempt to walk upstairs or any distance you get all out of breath.

There is no other remedy will do you so much good, restore your heart to a natural condition, build up your strength and give you back vigor and vitality as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. A. Russell, Niagara Falls, Ont., writes: "At nights I could not sleep, and had to sit up in bed, my heart would beat so fast.

"When I went to walk very far I would get all out of breath, and would have to sit down and rest before I could go any further. I was advised to get Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and before I had used two boxes I could sleep and walk as far as I liked without any trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c per box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ANCIENT MEDICAL HUMOR.

Specimens From the Rome of Nearly Twenty Centuries Ago.

That there was no lack of medical humor in the classic days of Rome is made sure by the ancient epigrams of Martial of nearly 2,000 years ago. The London Lancet shows that the poet bore a grudge against the specialists of his day, for it seems they had this variety of practitioners then and pokes fun at the oculists and at the surgeons who indulged in clinical teaching. Of the latter he has a patient complain in good Latin, and this complaint has been made over into current English:

I lay ill, but soon Symmachus sought me
With a class of a hundred young men.
Whose hundred cold paws have brought me
The fever I lacked till then.

The journal of the American Medical association calling attention to the medical ways of the ancient city notes that diseases due to luxurious habits had multiplied greatly in Rome. What was called gout—that is, pains and aches in joints and muscles and the vague conditions that we now call rheumatism—had also greatly increased. Pliny, who was an older contemporary of Martial, says, "Gout used to be an extremely rare disease, not in the times of our fathers and grandfathers only, but even within my own memory." Although the gouty were usually rich and of luxurious habits, some of them evidently were not good pay. An evidence of this is thus given:

Diodorus, while he sues in court,
On gouty feet can stand,
But when the lawyer's bill is brought
The gout sets fast his hand.

In Trust for Canadian Industry

Some twenty thousand firms, from small power laundries and small print shops, up to plants like those of the large terminal grain elevators at the head of the lakes, Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines at Timmins, and the Quaker Oats Company at Peterboro'—

All, to a greater or lesser extent, depend for their operation upon the efficiency of their Power Transmission Machinery. What has this to do with us? The answer is "everything."

Think what it would mean to them if Dodge Equipment fell down. If such a thing happened simultaneously in a thousand plants it would paralyze industry.

This thought may not have occurred to laymen or even to some engineers or power plant superintendents.

But it is ever present with us. It has shaped and guided the policy of this firm for thirty-two years.

Our business is not one that appeals to the public imagination, but we know that in the final reckoning a great share of the public welfare depends upon the efficiency with which Dodge Power Transmission Machinery performs its functions.

If Dodge Equipment were to fail, many a plant would be idle, and unemployment would ensue. Household purse strings would be tightened, and the whole fabric of retail business affected. This then, is why we regard our business as a trust, for it is fundamental to the industrial life of Canada.

No matter at what cost to ourselves, every unit that leaves our plant must reach the standards we have set to mark "perfection."

We admit this policy has paid us, for we are proud to be among the largest manufacturers of Transmission Machinery in the world.

The output of hundreds of big munitions plants in Canada and the Allied countries pays silent tribute every day to the efficiency of Dodge Power Transmission Machinery.

Dean Welldon on Titles.

Dean Welldon, of Manchester, formerly head master of Harrow, writes to the Manchester Ghardian: "It is slightly surprising that the protest against hereditary titles should come in the first instance from Canada because Australia and New Zealand are probably still more democratic in sentiment. My general experience is that there is a widespread feeling beyond the seas that hereditary titles and still more hereditary legislative powers are incompatable with democracy. The feeling is intensified by the suspicion to which evidence at home has recently afforded color, that titles may tend to become a scarcely less effective means of corrupt political influence than bribes openly given in the time of Walpole."

DEFENDING A BREWERY

A HANDFUL OF MEN FIGHT A SMALL BATTLE.

One of War's Eerie Horrors, Illuminated by Irish Humor, Described By a Fighting Literary Man Who Has Been Through Many of the Most Thrilling Episodes of the Big War.

"GLORY me!" this isn't much iv a brewery!" said Gahey, the Irish soldier, in a whisper as he dragged a dead German out of the shell hole and made room for himself. "I've seen breweries, but never a thing like this. There was a sorr iv brewery in Ballyrudden and all the drink that came from that was duty free——"

"Hold yer tongue, ye big bloomin' red-headed Irish bounder," said a man in khaki, who lay beside Gahey in the crater. "Maybe there's a boche listenin' to ye. Wot's that, anyway?"

A shadowy form showed in the darkness in front and came toward the two men. Gahey, longer in reach than his mate, was the first to touch the newcomer with a bayonet. "Who are ye?" he whispered. "That you, Gahey?" was the reply. "Is Spudhole with you?"

"Come and sit down, Bowdy," said Gahey. "We though that ye were lost. Spudhole, the limb, is here. In a bad temper, he is, too." "No wonder," said Spudhole as the soldier, Bowdy, sat down beside him. "This damned Gahey is talkin' about a brewery when there's not a drink within ten miles of us."

"Well, that's a brewery, anyway," said Bowdy, pointing his finger at a ruined building, a mere shell, which stood in front, hardly a score of yards away. "Poelcapelle brewery or all that remains of it."

The hour was midnight, dark and heavy, with a sullen rain falling on Poelcapelle, its ruined streets, shattered houses and gutted cemetery. Away on the left hidden in the night was the forest of Houthulst, in front was the ridge of Passchendaele and to rear was the town of Ypres with buildings afire, the flames reddening the night. All day long the men had been fighting around the brewery at Poelchapelle, which had been twice captured and twice lost. It was in the British hands now, however, but a German counter-attack was expected and the men were waiting road for the foe.

"It's down the road that they will be comin', if they're comin' at all," said Gahey, pointing to a streak of dull white that lost itself in the distance. "That's the road leadin' to their lines."

The other two men, comrades who had shared many dangers with him did not answer. Probably they were falling asleep, for the day had been a very trying one and the fight, not yet at an end, had commenced with dawn. It was very dark and it was impossible to distinguish objects quite near at hand. At one side of the road Gahey noticed something standing and it seemed to be coming toward him. A German probably.

"Who are ye?" he called in a whisper, but received no answer. He got to his feet, lunged at it with his bayonet and the steel stuck in something hard, a tree trunk, peeled almost white with shrapnel. He pulled the bayonet out with difficulty and returned to the crater. None of his mates moved. They were asleep.

He listened. There was nothing to be heard, save the hiss of star shells rising and the rumble of artillery. When the surrounding country was lit up, nothing could be seen save the pitted levels and ruined houses, and the limp lifeless figures in field grey and khaki which lay on the roadside. The brewery showed its wall broken and its tortured girders twisted of a queer shape, a biting shudder of the weary night. Not a soul was to be seen. The whole stricken village looked deserted and forsaken. "Who are ye, now?"

Gahey's bayonet shot out toward the shadow form which rushed up to the shell-hole and Gahey's finger fumbled at the trigger of the rifle.

"I'm your officer," said the shadow. "The German are coming down the road. Get ready!"

Gahey shot to his feet and kicked at his two mates. The officer rushed off to the next shell-hole. Spudhole and Bowdy got to their feet and gripped their rifles.

"Wot's wrong now?" Spudhole inquired.

"Thank Gawd!" said Spudhole. "It bores me stiff when there's nuffin' doin'."

Bowdy, a Devon man, drew the pin from the shoulders of a bomb and stood waiting, his thumb on the lever. An officer came over to where Gahey stood. He was not the man who had been there before. "Do you hear anything?" he inquired.

"No, sir," Gahey replied, but even as he spoke a concentrated fire broke out from ahead. Flashes of light dabbed at the darkness, rifle bolts clicked. The Germans were close at hand.

"Ready!" called the officer. "Two rounds! Fire!"

Even as he gave the order a mass of men approached, shouting madly, "Hurrah! Vorwarts!" they yelled. They could be seen coming down the road, their heavy boots rattling on the cobbles.

"Vorwarts be damned!" Gahey called and flung his bomb into the press of surging figures. Spudhole was lying in the shell-hole, his rifle over the lip, barking spitefully.

"You swine!" Bowdy shouted, as a dark shadow tried to jump past him. He caught it on his bayonet and it fell, mortally stricken. Half a dozen figures rushed up, and were met by a bomb which burst right in the middle of them. With long strangled cries they dropped to the ground.

A machine gun opened fire on the left where bombs were dropping and exploding with a vehement clatter. Star shells rose in the air and the brewery stood out, clearly defined.

"No bloomin' beer when this comes to an end, though," said Gahey, who was now giving a good account of himself with cold steel. Lunging and hacking at the enemy, he stood out a splendid figure on the lip of the shell-hole, Bowdy and Spudhole at his side.

"Blimey, they're givin' way!" shouted Spudhole, following a man who was retreating from the attack. "Out o' it, ye swine, out o' it!"

The Germans backed away and presently they disappeared. The three men dropped to earth and fired into the darkness. Shrieks, groans and curses could be heard.

"We've chased them back," said the young officer, who gave the first fire order. "They'll not face us again to-night, I'll bet."

"The worst of it is that we can't have a smoke," said Spudhole, in a morose voice, as he squatted on the ground and buttoned the collar of his overcoat.

"Or a drink iv beer," said Gahey. "We've defended this damned brewery and we can't have a wet when the job is finished."

"This war is no bong," he added, philosophically. "I'm sick iv it."—Patrick McGill.

Girls! Girls! Try It! Stop Dandruff And Beautify Your Hair

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderline and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderline dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderline from any druggist of toilet counter for a few cents.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

The Old Time Custom of "Plowing at the Horse's Tail."

Animals seem to have no idea of exercising to keep warm. They just turn their backs to the wind and crouch, but perhaps if one had only a limited amount of fuel it would be better just to keep a spark alive till the snap was over than to burn it all out in a few hours.

The first legislation against cruelty to animals is said to have been an enactment passed in the days of Queen Elizabeth prohibiting "plowing at the horse's tail," as then practiced in Ireland.

This custom consisted in lashing the plow beam to the horse's tail with a bit of rope and then, while one man held the plow, another walked backward before the animal, guiding it with blows of a stick. It seems as though this plan must have cocked the plow so high into the air that the point would take no hold on the soil. It seems also as if only the most spiritless of equines would have submitted to the treatment, but that it was frequently done the act against it proves. The cruelty of the practice needs no demonstration; it could not have been profitable, but was perhaps preferable to starvation. Whether the English legislators were moved solely by pity of the miserable beast or whether they desired to make a market for English plows and harness does not appear.—From "A Farmer's Notebook," by C. B. D. Phelps.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards: Receipts yesterday were 26 cars, with 409 cattle, 271 calves, 303 hogs and 15 sheep and lambs.

A light run of fresh cattle, a good few left over from Monday and more left over for to-day's market, is a pretty good indication of the slowness of the trade so far this week. Packers got the cattle prices down 50c to 75c on Monday and succeeded in holding them at that decline yesterday. Outside of one or two special sales of extra quality cattle, the general run of butcher prices was from $11.25 for medium to $14 and $14.50 for good, and $15 for anything extra choice.

KIDNEY DISEASE OVERCOME.

Mr. James Prouse, cattle dealer, Shebs, Sask., writes: "For about ten years I suffered from kidney disease; at times I was bad with backache, and derangements of the digestive organs. During that time I was treated by four different doctors. One day I read in Dr. Chase's Almanac about the Kidney-Liver Pills and began to use them. Altogether I used six boxes. All I need say is that I feel well now and attribute this condition to the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

JOHN LEGG'S PLAIN TALK.

Made In an Advertisement He Put In the Paper In 1837.

Advertising in the Sun three-quarters of a century ago was worded more picturesquely than it is now in some respects. No big type was used, but the advertisements hit the mark without its aid. It is to be doubted if some of the advertisements which appeared then could get into print now, for they were outspoken to a degree which would offend modern susceptibilities. For example, here is an advertisement which appeared in the Sun of May 26, 1837:

To Shoemakers—10 Kackmen Wanted.—The subscriber gives the highest city wages for good work and begs those worthies who would filch him of his stuffs not to visit him. It would be an agreeable surprise to him if John Kemp, Thomas Pringle, Isaac Morgan and a few others would bring in the work they have so long "forgotten" to return.

JOHN LEGG, 164 8th avenue.

The trade supplied cheap and good.

"Kackmen" seems to have gone out of use completely. It is not given in any of the modern dictionaries, but one of them has "cack, a baby's shoe," which it calls shoemakers' cant.

In the same number of the Sun T. Baxter of 8 Fulton street advertised that he wanted broken bottles, but he did not state his use for them. There are several advertisements for men to go on whaling voyages.—New York Sun.

Aching Head, Pains In Back

Heart Action Was Weak and Nerves Greatly Exhausted—Now in Extra Good Health.

TWEED, Ont., March 28.—This is a cheering letter from Mrs. Wagar, because it describes the condition in which many women find themselves and tells how cure was effected.

Once the food cure was resorted to the system was gradually and certainly built up and reconstructed. The old symptoms disappeared, because the reason for their existence had been overcome. It is well worth while to give Dr. Chase's Nerve Food a trial when such results are obtained.

Mrs. H. E. Wagar, Tweed, Ont., writes: "My system was in a run-down condition, I could not sleep well, and was very nervous. I had frequent headaches and pains through my back, and my nerves used to twitch. I took weak spells, was short of breath and my heart action seemed weak. I was in very poor health generally. I went to a doctor and he advised me to take a rest, anod gave me medicine, but it did not help me. My husband got me some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food one day, and this treatment gave me such relief that I took many boxes—I cannot tell just how many, but enough to build up my system and rid me of the old symptoms. I gradually began to get stronger, until I could get around and do my own house work. I am not bothered now with sick headaches and am enjoying extra good health. I would recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to all suffering from nervousness of any kind."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c. a box, a full treatment of six boxes for $2.75, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

Twenty Men Seek To Evade Military Service Act

Canadian Press:

WAKEFIELD, Quebec May 29. — High up the Laurentian mountains, well provisioned, well clothed and armed to the teeth, twenty young men of the Gatineau district, are setting at defiance the Military Service law. The men are mostly shantymen, all familiar with the rough, mountainous district and they are said to be encamped in the most remote and roadless region of the entire country. They openly state that they are heavily armed and prepared to cope with any force the government might send to apprehend them. They visit the neighbourhood villages to obtain food.

Another Forty-Eight Hours May See The Present German Offensive Definitely Stopped

High Praise is Given the French Reserves For the Perfect Order in Which They Are Coming Into the Fighting Line--Both Flanks Are Holding.

VERY HEAVY FIGHTING

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, May 29.—General Foch now has the situation well in hand and the French troops are beginning to gain on the German advanced forces in a contest of speed. No important line of communication is yet threatened by the advance of the German Crown Prince. Those on the scene declare it is not too much to say that another forty-eight hours will see the German drive definitely stopped. High praise is given the French reserves for the perfect order in which they are coming into the fighting line.

Slight Progress.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, May 29.—By the Associated Press. — The German offensive made only slight progress to-day. Seeing heavy masses opposed to them, the Allies gave way in the centre and in some places the enemy crossed both the Aisne and the Vesle.

The Allied command perceived when the German offensive began that resistance on the lines then held would be impracticable and effected a withdrawal towards stronger positions in order to give reserves time to come up. The enemy found both flanks were holding however. The Germans pushed forward as quickly as possible with all troops at their disposal. The Allies gave way, fighting hard. Both French and British troops on the flanks fought with extraordinary courage and succeeded in holding on, notwithstanding the great odds against them. The enemy now has the Aisne River at his back and may find himself in an awkward position when the Allied reserve come into action.

Situation Has Been Restored

Successful Franco-British Counter Attack Southwest of Ypres

GERMANS IN RESERVE

(By William Phillips Simms—United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WITH BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, May 29.—(10 a.m.)—Every Britain from the King and Haig down to the soldiers is enthusiastic over the way the Americans licked the Germans at the Montdidier region yesterday morning.

When I entered a room filled with British officers yesterday afternoon, they spoke enthusiastically over victory and spontaneously broke in a stream of handclaps. They had just heard that the Americans had taken Cantigny and it was their way of showing their pleasure.

"It is not the size of the show that counts, but the spirit back of it," said one "it is both a threat and a promise."

He meant it was a threat against Germany and a promise to the Allies of the future. They have known Cantigny was a village with a Boche chateau situated on a spur about one hundred and thirty feet above the valley of the Avre below Montdidier. With Grievesnes and Mosnil St. George it is one of the most important points in this part of line.

Watching Progress.

The British army is eagerly watching progress in the battle along the Aisne river, where already four divisions—eight twenty first, twenty fifth and fiftieth—have measured steel with the German stormers against the combined rush of Hindenburg's fourth and sixth armies. The British are ready to respond to any call.

A Franco-British counter attack southwest of Ypres has practically restored the situation. Shelling continues along a wide stretch of the British front. An enormous number of gas shells were thrown into Villiers-Bretonneaux.

Huge force of German reserves apparently remained to hide the Mondidier bulge within equal striking distance of the Ameins front or the Soissons-Rheims sector. There is reason to believe these are backed by tremendous quantities of materials of all sorts and guns of all calibres, held in places where they can easily be sent to the westwards or southwestwards.

The freshness of the selected leaf is the secret of the delicious Salada flavor and its wonderful economy in use.

Press Comment On The Offensive

"Daily Chronicle" Fears That the Advance Has Involved a Big Loss in Guns

MAY BE CHECKED

LONDON, May 29.— Several morning newspapers withhold comment on the battle on the Aisne sector. Others, while admitting the Germans have gained a substantial initial success, deprecate any idea of treating the enemy's advance too seriously. It is recalled that similar thrusts have not been followed by continuous success.

Daily Chronicle.

The Daily Chronicle fears that the advance has involved a big loss in guns, but thinks that in other respects it need not cause undue alarm.

Daily Graphic.

"If the German successes had been won two months ago," says the Daily Graphic, "they would have created a widespread feeling of alarm. Experience has shown that initial successes frequently are followed by long pauses. Consequently we are able without making light of the new German advance to regard it calmly.

The Times.

The Times sees indications that the whole line which the Germans assaulted was manned rather lightly and thinks it clear that the retirement was the deliberate outcome of a definite resolution made swiftly in view of the formidable character of the onslaught.

From the fact that the French still hold Vregny Plateau, and presumably Sermoise Spur, while the British on the other wing are holding their ground, the Times infers there is prospect that the enemy's main rush in the centre may be checked.

"THE DAILY NEWS."

The Daily News remarks on the absence from Field Marshal Haig's report of Tuesday night any reference to the Aisne front, and thinks it can hardly be an oversight. It deduces from Field Marshal Haig's afternoon communique that, the British right sustained the German shock unmoved but that the weight of the attack on he left forced the French back, leaving the British left in the air, with the result that a general retirement across the Aisne was necessary.

Paying A Big Price

The Present Enemy Drive is Regarded as a Major Operation —Heavy Losses Inflicted

THE CHANNEL PORTS

(United Press Service.)
(By J. W. T. Mason.)

NEW YORK, May 29.—Von Hindenburg's persistent sacrifice of his man power along the subordinate Aisne front is the best evidence the Germans have given that they consider an advance to the channel ports too difficult an enterprise to be undertaken at this time.

The Aisne operations have gone too far to be considered solely as a feint. The death toll that has had to be paid for gains in the territory has been too heavy to justify the theory that Hindenburg has desired simply to create a diversion. The Aisne drive must be regarded as a major operation; undertaken in obedience to the clamour of the German people for more victories. The real victory, entailing the capture of Boulogne, Calais and Dunkirk apparently has been judged by the Kaiser's advisers too difficult to try, with success.

Showy Success.

So the German General Staff seemingly was ordered to win a showy success that might be displayed to quiet for the moment the threatening murmurs of the people. The Aisne has been weakly held. General Foch was perfectly sound in his judgment in weakening it. He has had to do this in order to ensure the safety of the channel ports which is the paramount thing. The Germans chose the Aisne for their camouflage undoubtedly because it was least strongly held, part of the front within range of the Teutonic reserves in western front.

A Big Price.

The success of the Germans along the Aisne must be regarded as the price the Allies are paying for the security of the channel ports. It is also an acknowledgment by Hindenburg that he cannot disregard the clamorous cries of the German people to be fed with more talks of victories, although sound military policy is against the sacrifices such futile successes require. The strategic situation in fact, seems to be getting out of Hindenburg's reach and becoming political in its purpose. This is always a bad sign and not infrequently is a forerunner of disintegration. The Germans have succeeded by the present operations in cutting the railway between Soissons and Rheims. This is an important line of communication serving the southern front of the allies in France. It has been cut, however, only at one point, at Fismes. The sectors to the east and west are still well within the safety zone. The capture of the environs of Fismes is far from representing a major success. It may set Berlin crowns soaring, but the reaction will be all the more dangerous when Berlin has had time to realiez in sober mind what sacrifices have been made of German man power.

WAR OFFICE REPORTS INCREASED ARTILLERY ACTION EAST OF ARRAS AND SOUTH OF LENS

EMPEROR BILL IS BUSY SENDING HOME NEWS OF THE LATEST GERMAN VICTORIES

(Special to The Examiner.)

AMSTERDAM, May 29.—The Kaiser is on the Aisne battle front at a point south of Laon, according to a despatch from Berlin to-day.

(Loan is fourteen miles north and east of Soissons and about nine miles behind the original battle line.)

Telegraphing from this position the Kaiser sent the following message to the Kaiserine:

"Wilhelm, the Crown Prince, attacked the British and French line along the Chemin Des Dames and completely surprised them. We have crossed the Aisne and are approximately at the Vosle.

"Fritz (Prince Eitel Freiderich) was with the First Guards in Flanders, and was one of the first to reach the Aisne."

AMERICANS ADVANCED FOLLOWING VIOLENT ARTILLERY PREPARATION

French Tanks Advanced Simultaneously With Uncle Sam's Infantry—Entire Operation Consumed Exactly 45 Minutes.

THE PRESENT OFFENSIVE

(By Henry Wood—United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WITH FRENCH ARMIES IN THE FIELD, May 29.—An American regiment, attacking the German positions west of Montdidier yesterday morning, captured the village of Cantigny penetrated to the enemy's second line and occupied the Boche positions on a front of two kilometres (1,242 yards) all in 45 minutes. An American regiment constitutes 3652 men and 125 officers. The attack followed a violent artillery preparation. The Americans charged across 6 metres (nearly half a mile) of no man's land in ten minutes capturing German machine gun positions with use of hand grenades.

French Tanks Used.

French tanks, advanced simultaneously with the American infantry destroyed gun nests along the Grivesnes road northwest of Cantigny. The American captured houses in village and finally stormed the Chateau. They then penetrated the enemy second positions along the northeastern extremity of the village. The entire operation consumed exactly 45 minutes.

The Present offensive.

The German attack in Soissons-Rheims sector extended offensive front from Rheims to Flanders mountains, until now it constitues a battle area of two hundred Kilometres (186-3 miles) across. There is every indication that present attack is an integral part of the original German plan. It is positively known that during the winter Ludendorff prepared two Great attacks — one against Amiens and the other against Rheims, and concentrated necessary reserves a hundred kilometres behind the lines at a central point from where they could be sent at a moment's notice to either point.

Choice of Attack

Ludendorff left choice of which sector he would attack first until the last moment for the purpose of confusing the allies. The final choice fell on Amiens this being checked, he still had the Rheims attack to fall back on. This is now being carried out in precisely the same manner as the drive against Amiens. The enemy troops apparently hvae been trained for either attack. The reserves concentrating a hundred kilometres north of Rheims, were rushed to the front the second night in a forced march following a Brief but unusually intense bombardment on a Monday morning including gas, picket and specialized assaulting troops—including the four thousand picked divisions of Prussians which

If the present attack is merely sesault.

The British and French retired in perfect order; without permitting a single break in their lines and inflicting heavy losses on the enemy.

In the present attack is merely secondary, the principal objective is to line up French reserves to intervene in the final great offensive to the northwards.

The German press recently charged that the German high command made a mistake in not tying up French reserves before the Amiens attack.

Drive A Wedge

The development of the German offensive up to the hour of cabling appears to indicate that Ludendorff intends to drive a wedge through the French-British lines midway between Soissons and Rheims.

The Germans apparently have engaged a minimum of twenty-five divisions before which the French and British in front lines are putting up a dogged resistance in order to permit the reserves to intervene and turn the tide.

Russia Wants Economic Aid

"PRACTICAL HELP"

Canadian Press.

MOSCOW, May 29.—(By the Associated Press)—Russia is fully aware of the dangers threatening her from German Imperialism, says the Bolshevik organ Isvestia in an article in which it asserts that no allied help is desired of a nature which would result in Russia re-entering the European conflict. It adds however: "Let some power honestly help us combat successfully the threatening danger. Russia would appreciate in the highest degree any assistance, towards the improvement of transportation and communication facilities and the cleansing of her economic life. If the allies really wish rather than to drag Russia into the war for purely strategic reasons, to give her practical help in her tragic situation, let them discuss to the exclusion of every other subject, her urgent of economic aid."

THE DRIVE FOR PARIS.

The new German drive on the Aisne front is now accepted as a genuine attack of the first magnitude, rather than as a feint designed to draw into action General Foch's reserves. While the rapid progress made by the enemy—at certain points on the front the advance has reached a depth of fifteen and a half miles—is on the face of it disconcerting, yet all reports from allied headquarters show that the British and French have the situation well in hand. There is no doubt that in order to block the way to the Channel ports, the Aisne line has been left only weakly held, and while the German gains in this sector are not pleasant to read about, yet the results secured by Von Hindenburg here are far from being as important as similar progress on the Flanders or Amiens front, and the fact that the Germans have chosen to attack on the Aisne front may be regarded as a confession that for the present at least the attempts at breaking the allied line in the north, and the capture of the Channel ports, must be abandoned.

The presence of the Kaiser on the new battle front, and his characteristic telegram to the Kaiserin, are evidence that the attack is a major operation.

German guns are active on the Canadian front, Field Marshal Haig reporting increased activity on the part of hostile artillery south of Lens and east of Arras.

AN EXTRA SLICE FOR THE C.N.R.

The people of Canada cried "Stop Thief!" when it was proposed that the Government should give Mackenzie and Mann practically everything that was asked for their C.N.R. common stock, says the London Advertiser.

An election was near and the clamor became so insistent that a limit of $10,000,000 was set upon the value of the stock. A special commission was named by the Government to consider the stock valuation.

The commission has now brought down an award of $10,800,000, exceeding the limit set by the Government by $800,000. Will this award be passed without further consideration, or will the people see to it that the Government makes good on its election pledge?

Those who clamoured against the awarding of $30,000,000 to Mackenzie and Mann saved this country millions of dollars. The Government's Drayton-Ackworth commission said the stock was not worth a dollar, and so did experts at the recent hearing.

But with the information now at hand the need for further vigilance is apparent. Can the company get away with that extra $800,000? Up to the present time the C. N. R. will have stood the Canadian people to the tune of more than $400,000,000.

OVER THE TOP AGAIN

Capt. J. H. Burnham, M.P., has been over the top again. The second stage of his so called "red triangle campaign of truth" which was inaugurated at the opening of the G. W. V. A. rooms, took place at Hamilton on Sunday night, when at a sacred concert held by the Veterans in Loew's theatre, the member for West Peterboro sailed into the patriotic fund its administration. The Y. M. C. A. was the first objective of Capt. Burnham, and the Patriotic Fund the second; it is not yet known what will be the object of the third assault.

At all events Capt. Burnham's attack on the Patriotic Fund has aroused the ire of the Hamilton officials and has also drawn from the Hamilton Herald this neat little rap for West Peterboro's representative.

In adopting by unanimous vote a resolution of thanks to Capt. J. H. Burnham, M.P., for West Peterboro, who addressed them last evening, the Great War Veterans practically endorsed the sentiments and statements in his address. The most important part of his address was an attack upon the Patriotic fund and the citizens who administer it. He spoke bitterly of the amount of relief received by soldiers' dependents from the fund—"they get very little, let me tell you." What they get is money subscribed by the Canadian people If it is too little, the citizens who devote to the task of administering the fund much time and labor, without pay, are not to blame. However, what Mr. Burnham says carries little weight. In parliament he is generally regarded as a voluble nuisance. He is essentially a demagogue, and last night he handed out the line of talk which he thought would be popular. The regrettable fact is that the unanimous adoption of a vote of thanks to the Peterboro man makes it appear that the Great War Veterans endorse his denunciation of the Patriotic Fund.

CONFUSING REGULATIONS.

Due probably to the vaguely worded official notices and the large number of these that have been issued in the past few weeks there seems to be a great confusion among citizens generally as to what is required of them.

In the first place people should understand that the National Registration which is to take place throughout Canada on June 22 has nothing whatever to do with the Military Service Act or with any of the calls that have been made under that measure. The registration of June 22 is for national service, and one of its objects is to gain an accurate census of the man power and woman power of Canada. With that end in view it is provided that every male and female resident of Canada, from sixteen years upward must register. It does not matter whether you are a British subject or not, whether you have seen service in the war or if you are twenty-six or eighty-six, the law requires that you shall register in the manner prescribed. The measure applies to women as well as men, and as the penalties for failure to comply with the regulations are very severe, no resident of Canada can afford to neglect carrying out this duty. And as a final reminder don't confuse this regulation with the administration of the Military Service Act.

In regard to the latter a new regulation comes into force on June 1st, compelling all men who might reasonably be supposed to come within the first class under the Act to carry papers to show why they are not in khaki. The first class of course, means unmarried men and widowers without children who had not reached the age of thirty-five years on October 13th, 1917. It is necessary therefore, for any man whose appearance is such as to make it seem that he belongs within this class to carry papers to show that he does not come within the class because of age or marriage, or that while he is in the first class he is not liable to military service, or has been exempted therefrom. It will be necessary, therefore, for all such men to carry either birth certificates, marriage certificates, exemption papers, a certificate from the Vice Consul if claiming exemption because of alien nationality, discharge papers if the man has already seen service, or whatever documents are necessary to show their status. It is important that this rule, which comes into force on June 1st, be not disregarded, as the regulations provide that the person who does not carry such papers may be regarded as a deserter or defaulter under the Military Service Act and liable also to a fine of $50 and imprisonment for one month or both.

The third call, which is being confused by some people with the two regulations referred to above, is that to the nineteen year old boys, and those who have become twenty since the 15th of last October. They are required to register with the Deputy Registrar under the Military Service Act at Kingston by registered mail before June 1st or within ten days of their nineteenth birthday, whichever date is the latter.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The city aldermen have been invited to attend the opening of the new swimming pool of the Y.W.C.A. Needless to say the invitation is not due to the interest the City Council has shown in providing swimming facilities for the children.

So many different instructions are flying about that B category men hardly now where they stand. On Monday it was announced that all B men between the ages of 20 and 22 were exempt and yesterday it was just as positively stated that all such exemptions are cancelled.

The publication of an audited, detailed financial statement showing the cost of the Y.M.C.A. military operations, and how much of the money collected in Canada is actually spent on Canadian troops in France would clear up the present unpleasant situation.

With the resumption of the German drive the arm chair strategy board has resumed operations.

Von Hindenburg has made a rapid recovery. Reported dead a few weeks ago, he was next heard of as seriously ill from typhoid fever, but with the re-opening of the attack he is once more found in charge of the operations.

THE THRIFT HABIT.

(The Wall Street Journel.)

An important outcome of the world war is the creation of the thrift habit among the majority of the American people. It is real thrift for, although the war has increased the rewards of labour, the cost of living has been increased in proportion. One proof of this thrift habit is seen in the growth of savings in the United States since the war began. Statistics show that in the year 1915, the total American savings amounted to approximately $6,000,000,000, while this year, 1918, the total is something like $15,000,000,000; and one authority estimates the savings at $18,000,000,000, an increase in savings of about $12,000,000,000 in the last three years.

THE REAL TEST.

(Toronto Globe.)

Canadians may differ on political convictions. They may not see eye to eye even in matters of war prosecutions and war policy. But these differences should never lead to thoughtless and cruel comments. The patriotism of public men like Hon. George P. Graham and Hon. Frank Oliver has been proved by the profound test of humanity's greatest sacrifice. They have given their boys—their only boys—in the service of their country.

THE SAINTS.

(Vancouver Province.)

That hardened sinner, Admiral von Tirpitz, will call in vain for the saints to preserve him when he comes in contact with the recruits signed up at the marine barracks, Mare Island, last week. The list reads like the calendar of saints. Among the names are Arthur G. St. James of Denver; Edward St. Luke of Cheyenne, Wyo.; Orville St. John of Seattle, Wash.; Henry F. St. Peter of Kansas City, Mo.; and Arthur T. St. Matthew of Spokane, Wash.

THE SALVATION ARMY IN THE WAR.

(New York Times.)

Salvation Army girls were in the battle of Seicheprey, under fire, going intrepidly about ministering to the needs of the American soldiers resisting the terrific German attack. Up to that time probably many Americans did no even know that the Salvation Army was at the front, though they ought to have known it. The Salvation Army is always at the front, whether the battleline is one of war or peace. It does not fear pain, disease or death. It does not advertise, and there is no reward to be got for helping, except the reward that comes from conscience.

BASEBALL

The Oddfellows held a meeting in the Club rooms last night and formed a baseball club, to be known as the Triple Link Club.

They have every hope of putting a strong team in the field for the summer's amusement, and judging by the number out to practice at Riverside Park last night there will be lots of material available to select one of the strongest teams in the city. It is understood they are to enter the City League when same is formed.

The following officers were elected last evening:

Hon. Pres. — Bro. G. Duncan (Mayor).
Pres.—Bro. W. Patterson.
Vice-Pres.—Bro. J. H. Vallery.
Sec.-Treas.—Bro. R. Reid.
Manager—Bro. A. T. Johnson.
Managing Com.—Bro. B. Miller, R. J. Craig, J. Price, C. Chapman and R. Hillier.

The Club has rented Riverside Park for Tuesday evening for the season. Add Oddfellows are requested to turn out to practice next Tuesday evening at 6.30 sharp.

Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club

The schedule of the summer games will begin next week. All the skips are asked to meet at Mr. Fitzgerald's office on Friday evening to form the rinks.

It will be necessary for all skips to place in the hands of the executive the names of their rinks before Friday afternoon.

The contests for the fob games and the Scotch doubles are listed for next week.

It would be well for prospective members to hand in their names at once.

CHEERING FOR HIS LORDSHIP

Beaverbrook Seems to Possess a Brass Band.

GETS PLENTY OF FLATTERY

Titled Canadian Was Incorrectly Described as the First Native of an Overseas Dominion to Enter the Imperial Cabinet, as "There Are Others."

FLATTERY and "information" do not appear to have been rationed at the recent dinner to Lord Beaverbrook at the Savoy Hotel, London. Some of the British papers have been humorously satirical at the expense of a coterie who met to do him honor. The Daily News and Leader points out that "transcendent talents" having been duly honored, the eulogist, Lieut.-Col. Reid, informed the audience that Lord Beaverbrook was "the first Canadian-born who entered the Imperial Cabinet," and, more, that he was "the first native of an overseas Dominion to attain that position." And the Times duly labeled the thing: "First Canadian in the Cabinet."

LORD BEAVERBROOK.

The sycophants are a bit hard on Mr. Bonar Law. He is not alone a Canadian, but he is a native of the same New Brunswick as the great Beaverbrook himself. They also overlook Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, who was in the Imperial Cabinet before Lord Beaverbrook became Chancellor of the Duchy. As a matter of fact, as the News and Leader points out, Lord Beaverbrook is not in the Imperial Cabinet at all. According to the forgotten Mr. Bonar Law, he is only "a sort of" Cabinet Minister. What Lord Beaverbrook said in reply to all the fulsome and foolish flattery is not mentioned.

Hard Lot of a Chinese Actor.

When one looks upon a group of young Chinese actors he really looks upon a group of slaves or near-slaves. Practically all actors in China were sold at an early age by their poor parents to travelling groups of actors. Most of them are bought in Tientsin. They are treated very cruelly, often being beaten and cuffed without the least provocation. Their masters provide food and clothing for them but they receive no money whatever. When a child becomes the property of an actor he is forced to memorize story after story and song after song. Few, if any, can read or write, and no effort is made to teach them. They must get along the best they can alone. They serve an apprenticeship of six years before they are allowed on the stage, and their lot during these six years must be anything but a happy one. Even if a child shows a marvellous talent for acting and has great ambitions for that profession, he is choosing one against which the Chinese have raised an insurmountable barrier. Actors, as a class, are looked down upon by the Chinese with scorn and contempt. Formerly they were not allowed to compete in the Literary Examination or to purchase literary or official rank, and consequently they were debarred from the only paths that led to honor in the eyes of the people. — Asia Magazine.

Roumanians In Italy.

Who says that Roumania is altogether out of the fray? Eighteen thousand Roumanians, previously under arms in the Austrian forces, and no doubt drawn principally from the Hungarian Province of Transylvania, are reported to have been captured by the Italians in the operations on the Italian frontier. But, instead of becoming prisoners for the term of the war, these men are said to have freely volunteered for the battle front again, not as Austrian soldiers, but as fighters against the common enemy of the Italian and the Roumanian. What with the Tzech and Polish armies on the French allied front, and the thousands of Tzechs who deserted to the Russians from the Austrian army, it is little wonder that the press of the Central Empires is denouncing with bitter rage the Slavs as "enemies of the people and peace, and prolongers of the war!" But, of course, it means a German peace.

Vindication.

"The English sometimes employ the letter 'h' peculiarly in their speech."

"I'm not sure they haven't got it right. We used to say 'unprepared.' Now we say 'Hun prepared'."

Fagoting is always good on white dresses.

Calico is combined with organdy and net.

THIS PLOT SUCCEEDED.

How Prussia Secured Leadership of the Teutonic States.

Austria is now a German vassal, and may shortly become merely a German state. Prussian leaders began the work of crushing Austria half a century ago, and Sir Adolphus Ward has recently traced the success of this scheme. When Austria backed Germany in the attack on Denmark, in which that little nation was despoiled of Schleswig-Holstein, the Austrian Emperor did not dream that he was sealing the doom of the Hapsburgs and playing the Prussian game. The coalition between Austria and Prussia against Denmark had within it the seeds of dissolution which Prussian statesmen were not slow to foster into growth. The position of Austria was not a happy one. She had estranged Russia and her sway in Italy was threatened by the designs of Napoleon III.; she needed the friendship of Prussia to enable her to retain her Italian possessions, but hesitated to purchase it at the cost of Prussian supremacy in the Germanic Confederation. Influences were at work which were inimical to Austrian leadership, notwithstanding the political troubles which faced the Prussian monarchy and seemed to threaten the hopes of Prussian statesmen for German unity under their ægis. When the future seemed dark and uncertain a step of far-reaching consequences, the reorganization of the Prussian army by Von Roon, provided a firm foundation for the assurance of the Prussian hegemony which Bismarck made the cornerstone of his policy.

Bismarck's hour struck when he received Roon's telegram, "Periculum in mora. Depechez-vous" (Delay is dangerous. Hasten"), and hurried from Paris to Potsdam. From that moment to the hour of his dismissal by the hands of the present Kaiser he triumphed over all difficulties; concentrating his genius upon one supreme aim, he, a true son of Prussia, but with saner and wider vision than his successors, achieved for his country an ideal which from time to time had animated its strongest thinkers.

After securing possession of Schleswig-Holstein the Prussian plotters brought about the rupture between Austria and Prussia which was followed by the Austro-Prussian war, the crippling of Austria, and establishment of the North German Confederation. Sir Adolphus Ward unfolds, step by step, the Bismarckian policy which isolated France, led to the war of 1870, and firmly established the claim of Prussia "to lead a united Germany." The success attending German arms had a two-fold effect; one immediate, the other not evident until later. It aroused a national feeling which hitherto had been wanting in order to insure the full achievement of Bismarck's policy. It also enabled Germany to crown that success with what she believed to be her future security, an impregnable frontier in the possession of Alsace-Lorraine, but which proved to hold within it the seed of future war.

Children Murdered.

Because the peasants in the village of Novoselki, in the government of Mohilev, resisted an armed requisition of money by German troops and killed an officer in the resulting scuffle, the Germans burned the village and from machine guns placed around it they fired upon the inhabitants, including women and children, who tried to escape, killing many of them.

A protest against this atrocity has been communicated to the German Government by M. Tchitcherin, Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs. The Minister also mentions the fact that the Germans killed an entire family, even the little children, when they were informed that one member had participated in guerrilla warfare against them.

"The People's Commissariat of Foreign Affairs," the protest concludes, "expresses a feeling of the deepest indignation and most resolutely protests against such acts of violence as being unworthy of a cultured people and contradictory to the elementary principles of German society. It is hoped the German Government will investigate thoroughly and punish the offenders."

Intelligent Animals.

"Dogs and other animals are wonderful mind-readers," says Henry C. Merwin. "I have known three cases in which some discussion about the necessity of killing an old dog, held in his presence, was quickly followed by the sudden unaccountable disappearance of the animal. Horses are inferior only to dogs in this capacity. Men who ride race-horses have told me that a sudden conviction in their own minds, in the course of a race, that they could not win has passed immediately to the horse and caused him to slacken his speed, although they had not ceased to urge him."

Could Kill Pig.

The following incident of food control may amuse your readers, writes a subscriber to the London Spectator. The owner of a pig wished to kill it and share it with his friends, but fearing he might come under the regulations against hoarding, he asked his local food committee to advise him on the point. Here is their answer: "Re killing pig—This is permissible if done in moderation."

Without a Periscope.

A German submarine without a periscope carries on its observations by means of lenses at either side and other lenses and mirrors properly arranged. The submarine thus equipped is obliged to travel nearer the surface than is necessary in the case of the older model.

Shark's Teeth as Weapons.

In Polynesia spears are pointed and elaborately edged with the teeth of sharks. Such a weapon makes a frightful wound, tearing the flesh to tatters. Another instrument of frightfulness in the South Sea archipelagoes is a dagger similarly equipped with shark's teeth.

OAK HALL

Real Thrift In Derbyshire.

An admirable thrift prevails at a certain Sunday school in Derbyshire, and this is effectually demonstrated at the annual tea party. The needless expense of printing new tickets for this festivity is avoided, says the Manchester Guardian, by the simple expedient of using the same year after year. Those at present employed bear the inscription:

Queen Victoria: Diamond Jubilee.
Admit one to tea.

Probably the majority of the young revelers had not been born when the tickets were printed.

Symbolism In Japan.

When a child is born in Japan the parents put up outside the house the sign of a fish or a doll, according as it is a boy or a girl. The fish represents a being who has to swim against the stream and make his way in the world. The doll stands for one who is there to be petted and made much of.

Not Ideal.

"You and your wife never argue?"

"Never," replied Mr. Meekton.

"What an ideal state!"

"Perhaps it isn't so ideal. I sometimes fancy Henrietta hasn't enough respect for my opinions to bother about arguing with me."—Washington Star.

Something Like That.

"Herr Schmidt is so fat that he can't get near enough to his counter to sell goods."

"H'm! Sort of a corporation in restraint of trade."—London Answers.

Pte. Hartley Thinks The War Will Be Over This Year

Peterboro' Member of the 93rd Battalion Expects to Be Out of the Hospital Soon.

BRITISH VICTORY

Mrs. David Hartley, 144 Hunter street, has received the following interesting letter from her son, Pte. Stanley Hartley, a former member of the 93rd Battalion. The letter reads as follows:

France, May 8th, 1918.

Dear Mother,— Glad to have the chance of writing you a few lines in hopes of finding you well and in good health as this leaves me at present. Sorry I have not been able to write you the last month very often. I will try and write to you more from now on. I expect to be out of hospital in three weeks' time or a month anyway. I am feeling all right now. Was just wishing I had some of your home-made cooking; it would be a treat. It is over a month since the German drive started and they have certainly lost some men. I don't think you will see the war last any longer than 1918 Then you will see a British victory, for we are winning. I hope you don't think because you see the Germans make a bit of an advance that we are out of luck. The Huns can't stand it long. He is losing too many men. So cheer up. It may not be long before I am home with you in old Peterborough. How is father? Hope he is keeping well, and little Earl, tell him to be a good boy till I come. I had a letter from Grace a few days ago. We are having nice weather over here now, and I suppose you will be having warm weather in Canada now too. You want to take in some of the trips down the river this summer and enjoy yourself. Take Earl along with you. There isn't much to say, except war news, which is no good in letters. I see Mothers' Day will soon be here. I will not forget to wear a rose for you on that day. So now, I am all right. Will write again soon. Don't let things worry you. I can't get any money in hospital. Please send me some to my battalion, same address; they will forward it on to me, as there is no use of you putting the address of the hospital. I may be out before your letters get back, so it is best to put my old address. I will close for now, hoping to hear from you soon. I will write in a few days again. From your loving son,

STANLEY.

Charged With Stealing $73

Mrs. Edna Sexsmith in Police Court This Morning—Money Was Stolen From Dr. McGrath

STANDARD BANK BILLS UNCOMMON

Magistrate Dumble reserved his decision this morning after hearing the evidence for the prosecution in a charge against Mrs. Edna Sexsmith, Olive avenue, of stealing $73 from Dr. McGrath. Mr. J. A. O'Brien, representing Mrs. Sexsmith, declined to elect or plead.

The money is alleged to have been stolen some time in the month of March, but its loss was not reported to Chief Thompson until May 7th. It comprised three ten dollar Standard Bank bills, one ten dollar Bank of Commerce, two Bank of Montreal tens, a five, two two dollar bills and four ones. Dr. McGrath said he had particularly noticed the yellow backs of the Standard Bank bills, the first he had remembered having ever seen, and for that reason he had looked over the rest of the bills. He could not explain how the money had disappeared. Mrs. Sexsmith had been frequently at the house where she was employed for a time. She had access to the rooms. Dr. McGrath said he had carried the money in his trousers pocket; sometimes he had placed it under his pillow, and might have put it in a drawer in his office. He had not suspected Mrs. Sexsmith, but another employee (whom he had since satisfied himself to be innocent.) He told the defendant of the disappearance of the money and she had replied that it was too bad or something to that effect.

The doctor said he had missed the money on March 31st, when he needed it. He reported the loss to Chief Thompson on May 7th, and on May 11th saw what he believed to be his money at the Chief's office.

To Mr. O'Brien he said he could not swear that any of it was his property.

THE STANDARD BANK BILLS.

Mr. W. J. Hancock said he saw Mrs Sexsmith at the Maitland sale on Chamberlen street on May 9th. She bought an organ for $24.50 and paid for it that night. On Saturday, May 11th he went over part of the proceeds from the sale with Detective Newhall. He picked out a ten dollar Standard Bank bill. The witness said he could not say how he got that bill.

To Mr. O'Brien he added that Standard Bank bills are not so common as those of other banks.

James Middleton, a clerk for Mr. Hancock, handled the proceeds of the sale, which he transferred to Mr. Hancock. He did not recognize Mrs. Sexsmith as one of the purchasers at the sale.

Detective Newhall stated that on Saturday, May 11th, he went to Mrs. Sexsmith's home on Olive avenue; he found there a purse containing $70. In this sum were two tens on the Standard Bank, one ten on the Bank of Commerce, and the rest in fives of several banks.

"Later at Hancock's office, I examined a pile of bills and found one ten dollar Standard Bank bill, and one Bank of Montreal. I went to Robt. Maitland's home. He produced $350. There was not a Standard Bank bill in the pile, nor at Hancock's did we find another bill on that bank.

Chief Thompson corroborated the complainant's evidence relating to the denominations and the banks on which his bills were issued, and from whom he said he had got the money.

"On May 11th Mrs. Sexsmith was in my office shortly after Detective Newhall brought in her purse. She told me that on the previous Saturday she had paid two ten dollar bills to Mr. Hancock. I then sent Detective Newhall to Hancock's and he brought back a Standard Bank ten dollar bill and a Bank of Montreal ten dollar bill. Mrs. Sexsmith also told me her husband had paid her five five-dollar bills on the previous Saturday night. Later, in the cells, she asked me whether a charge would be laid if the money was paid to the complainant. I told her that I could not make any promises. I have seen her coming from his place frequently during the past six months, in the evening, and at different times during the day.

To Mr. O'Brien, the Chief said that Mrs. Sexsmith had never admitted stealing the money.

Mr. O'Brien argued that there was insufficient evidence to warrant sending the case to a jury.

"I can't say off hand; I'll have to think it over," said the Magistrate. "There is the question of how she got it."

"Its more a question of whether she has the money," Mr. Hatton said, and proceeded to review the evidence for the prosecution.

Entertainment At St. Luke's Church

An Interesting Programme Was Provided—Certificates Awarded.

"The Little Pilgrim and the Book Beloved," the charming little playlet presented last night by twenty-two of the Junior Woman's Auxiliary in St. Luke's Sunday school, was well received by a large and appreciative audience. The young people who undertook the entertainment, which realized a very gratifying sum, are to be congratulated on their success. Solos by Mrs. Northcott and Miss Mildred Greene were very much enjoyed. The scenic effects were very simple, the stage only having a weather beaten bench and weather beaten cross beautifully decorated with white lilacs. This was the work of Mr. Greene and Miss Greene.

Received Certificates.

Eleven children, Florence and Bessie Adams, Flossie, Edna and Winnie Pammet, May Grierson, Stella Curtis, Olive Ebbs, Emily Adamson, Mary Lipsett and Clemena Long received their certificates for regular Sunday school attendance and general missionary knowledge, which knowledge they proved by a recent examination set in Toronto.

'Must Strive For Victory"

BISHOP CLARK DESCRIBES THE RECENT PEACE PROPAGANDA AS A DANGEROUS ELEMENT.

(Canadian Press.)

Hamilton, May 29. — Reverend Bishop Clark, in opening the Diocese of Niagara to-day, classed the second peace propaganda as the most dangerous in the hands of Germany. "This is not the time to talk peace, but to strive for victory," said Bishop Clark.

Discussing child life, Bishop Clark warned the nation that there had been developments of late, which if not checked, would lead to national extinction. Things went on he said in spite of the warnings of churches, state and the medical profession.

He regretted the proposal for a divorce court, and called attention to the fact that the Church of England regards marriages as indissoluble.

WAS ON VERGE OF GIVING UP HIS JOB

Health Broken When He Began Taking Tanlac—Now Works Every Day

"My health was so broken down that I was just on the point of giving up my job when I got hold of Tanlac, and it fixed me up all right after everything else had failed to do me any good," said Malcolm W. Yee, of 129 Logan Ave., Toronto, the other day. Mr. Yee formerly lived at Hamilton, where he is well known, but is now employed by the Wm. Davies Company at Toronto.

"About five years ago," he continued, "my stomach got all out of order, and I began to suffer terribly with indigestion. My appetite failed, and I never enjoyed a thing I would eat, what little I forced down soured on my stomach, and filled me up with gas till I could hardly breathe. I suffered from awful griping pains in my stomach, and a sour bitterish water would rise up in my mouth and almost sicken me. Any kind of rich food like pork or pastry, would simply tear me all to pieces and I just had to stop eating anything of the kind. My food gave me no nourishment at all and I fell off in weight, and became so weak and miserable that I could hardly keep up with my work and saw that if I didn't get relief soon I was headed for a breakdown.

"All these years I was trying one thing after another in my efforts to find something that would help me, but without success, for I kept getting worse in spite of everything. When people began talking so much about Tanlac I decided to try it, and positively I never have found anything to do me so much good. I have taken about five bottles now and I can eat most anything I want fresh pork and pastry of all kinds, and nothing gives me a bit of trouble. That awful pain in my stomach is all gone, and I never have sourness or gas trouble any more. My food is nourishing me now, and I am stronger and better in every way than I have been in years. That tired worn out feeling has passed away and I haven't lost a single day from work since I started on Tanlac. Anybody who has suffered like I have knows how to appreciate a medicine that does the work like Tanlac and I am glad to give it my endorsement."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

The Allies Have Been Forced To Give Further Ground To Enemy

French Lines Have Been Withdrawn to the Easterly Outskirts of Soissons---Associated Press War Summary

NEW YORK, May 29.—The Associated Press war summary this afternoon says:

There has been no let up as yet in the German drive south from the Aisne, and both the French and British have been forced to give further ground. Confidence is expressed in Paris, however, that Allied reserves, now rapidly coming up, will shortly turn the scale and stop the enemy advance. Apparently the Germans already being held in the centre of their advance, along the Vesle River, in the vicinity of Fismes, where the point of the German wedge has been thrust. The pressure on both Allied flanks, however, has been such that both have been compelled to fall back. On the west the French lines have ben withdrawn to the easterly outskirts of Soissons, which town is about seven miles south of the nearest point of the battle line as it existed before the new German drive was begun on Monday. This considerably broadens to the west the front on which the enemy is advancing. On the east the Franco-British line has been pulled back from above St. Thierry northwest of Rheims, where it rested yesterday, to the heights south and southeast of that town. This also has the effect of widening out the front of the enemy thrust. The bringing of Soissons into the battle area may indicate that the weight of the German blow has been shifted in this southwesterly direction and is being exerted along the railway that leads to Paris from that town.

Peterborough Soldier Has Been Sent To England On Sick Leave

Pte. H. Dwyer Suffering From Exposure in the Trenches—Good Weather in England.

GERMAN PRISONERS

The following interesting letter is addressed to Mrs. Mary Dwyer, 470 Stewart street. It is from her husband, Pte. Harry Dwyer, late of the 93rd Battalion:

Birmingham, May 8, 1918.

My Dear Wife,—Just a line to let you know I am in England. Now do not regret as I am not wounded. I am only a bit run down; it is through getting wet over in France, and then letting my clothes dry on me; but of course we cannot help that as the boys are having a rough time of it. I have been transferred out of the 1st Battalion into the 1st Canadian Machine Gun Battalion, and of course I could not write before, as I have been sick about a month, and I did not have a fixed address to send you. I am glad that I am in England for a bit because I shall have a good rest now that I am in the hospital, and to tell you the truth I am going to swing it in here as long as I can. Of course I am sick with the same thing as I had before last spring. It is my lungs and kidneys that are troubling me.

We are getting some grand weather over here; I suppose that you are getting some fine weather at home at this time of the year; but the worst of it with me is that I am a bed patient yet, and I cannot get out of bed. Well cheer up, and keep on smiling. For I will stick at this as long as possible, for it is not all honey over in France. It is no use sending me the cigarettes for I would be sure not to get them. * * * * I have received no mail from home for over a month but of course the reason is that I have been on the move all the while, being shifted from one hosptial to another. I think the war will be over this summer as things were pretty warm out there when I left. By the way I had the pleasure of being carried on a stretcher by two German prisoners, who put me on the boat for England. I think I have given you all the news, so good night and good luck.

From your loving and affectionate husband, Harry.

"The Heart Of A Friend"

"The heart of a Friend," presented last night by St. Peter's Dramatic Club in St. Alphonsus Lyceum in aid of St. Peter's Ladies' Patriotic Society was well attended and a considerable sum realized for the society. The young people, if possible, excelled the previous presentations of the play. Mr. Hanrahan's and Miss Garden's duet, "Just a Baby's Prayer at Twilight," was well received and insistent encores brought them back several times.

EVERY WOMAN
EVERY MOTHER
EVERY DAUGHTER
NEEDS IRON
AT THIS SEASON

To help strengthen her nerves and put color in her cheeks

There can be no beautiful, healthy, rosy-cheeked women without iron. The trouble in the past has been that when women needed iron they generally took some ordinary metallic iron which often corroded the stomach and did more harm than good. I always insist that my patients take only organic iron—Nuxated Iron. This particular form of iron is easily assimilated, does not blacken nor injure the teeth nor upset the stomach. It will increase the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, irritable, careworn, haggard-looking women in two weeks' time in many instances. I have used it in my own practice with most surprising results.—Ferdinand King, M. D.

NOTE: NUXATED IRON recommended by Dr. Ferdinand King, can be had from any good druggist who guarantees if it does not show entire satisfaction after using according to directions, you can return the empty package to the druggist and get your money back. It is dispensed to the public by all good druggists.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OF SERVICE RECOGNIZED BY THE W. M. SOCIETY

Mrs. James Kendry is Presented With a Beautifully Illuminated Address by Body Which She Has Led For Quarter of a Century.

INTERESTING OCCASION

A most interesting event took place at a special meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the George street Methodist church, held last night at the parsonage, when Mrs. James Kendry, who is retiring from the office of president after twenty-five years' service in that position, was presented with a beautifully illuminated address, accompanied by a bouquet of twenty-five roses, symbolic of her many years' service.

The presentation was made by Mrs. Frederick, while Mrs. Curtis read the address, which was as follows:

To the retiring President George street Methodist church Women's Missionary Society:

Dear Mrs. Kendry,—Cheerful it is to find where the path of the span of life is marked by individual milestones of personal endeavour in public service. Service given in cheerful whole heartedness, in the confidence that in doing a duty to either state, church or society something is left behind that makes the recollection of that service ever green and pleasant memory.

Inscribed on the annals of the church with which you have been so faithfully connected, there is no entry that covers a period of years longer nor reflects more of efficient, attentive and wholly unpretentious useful work than the service you have given.

Twenty-five years as the incumbent of an office and trust at once responsible and directful willingly conceded and accorded because of ample fitness for the duty, is a testimony in almost unanimous consent that you have displayed the attributes that seemed to be essential for the position. And now at the close of the term of office which you have so long and willingly filled we recognized your expressed wish to be relieved from further responsibility and in thankful recognition present to you this address, trusting that it may convey to you the thoughts that lie in our hearts.

We know that many by your example have been attracted to the objects of the Society and assisted, who otherwise might have remained idle. Others have been made to see understandingly, when but for your words they might have remained unconvinced and stood aside. You have inspired faith and hope and recognition of the claim of the work that otherwise would have lacked the service of so experienced an advocate.

A gift is only a tangible expression of that which might be expressed in words. To you we offer these expressions of appreciation, and would ask that you receive this souvenir in the spirit in which we offer, a spirit of admiration for faithful service in the cause which you have most valiantly upheld for a quarter of a century.

With most sincere regards and testimony of friendship,

Very cordially and sincerely,

Ella Carlisle	Emma J. Curtis
Susan Frederick	Josephine Wood
Mary S. Helson	Jessie P Thomas

Mrs. Kendry made an eloquent reply following the presentation.

An interesting programme was given during the evening, consisting of enjoyable solos by Mrs. (Dr.) Middleton and Mrs. J. H. Renwick, and a splendid paper on the early days of Canada by Miss Lancaster. Mr. J. H. Renwick was accompanist.

Dr. Neil Gave A Stirring Address In St. Paul's Presbyterian Church

Moderator of the General Assembly Brought An Optimistic Message to Peterboro' Audience.

THE Y. M. C. A.

"War is all that Sherman said it was," remarked Rev. John Neil, D.D., Moderator of the General Assembly, who spoke in St. Paul's Church last evening to a large audience. A short time ago Dr. Neil was authorized to visit the overseas forces, and his address last evening consisted chiefly of impressions gained as a result of this trip. The speaker, who was introduced by the Rev. R. Pogue, pastor of St. Paul's Church, gave a glowing account of the work that is being performed by the Canadian forces and the optimism which permeates the men at the front.

Met Captain Rollins.

Dr. Neil's opening remarks was in the form of a traveloque under war conditions. Arriving in England, the speaker was assigned to visit some of the training camps in various parts of England and Scotland, prior to going over to France. The speaker met Captain James Rollins, of Peterborough, who at that time was senior chaplain at one of the large military centres, and they made one or two visits together. Dr. Neil paid a tribute to the work that is being performed by Captain Rollins.

Dr. Neil's Message.

1st—A greeting from home.
2nd—A greeting from the church.
3rd—A greeting from the country.

A brief evangelistic appeal concluded the meetings. "I never found it easier to talk to men in my life," said the speaker. In February, Dr. Neil was instructed to proceed to France. "I wish it was as hard for the Germans to get into France as it is for a civilian like I was," said the speaker. Visits were made to the various camps and to the fighting line, including Vimy Ridge and other battle grounds where the Canadians have immortalized themselves. Dr. Neil was able to see for himself how the cemeteries were cared for by both the British and French governments. The trip home, which was of an uneventful character, included an eleven-day sojourn on the Mersey River at Liverpool, waiting for instructions to proceed.

"Impressions of the Men."

Speaking from his impressions of the men whom he met at the front, Dr. Neil said it was not necessary to say anything regarding their courage. He was very deeply impressed by the initiative and optimism shown by the Canadian forces. The men, he said, never had any doubt as to the outcome of the struggle, and the nearer one got to the front the more optimistic the men were.

"The reason for this," said the speaker, "is that our cause is a just one. A man is doubly armed when he knows his cause is just. The men also display a marked brotherly spirit towards each other, and when they get in the hospital they do not like people to whine over them and pity them. It has been frequently said by those who are in a position to know that no men ever stood up better against the temptations that surround them than the Canadian army. There are temptations and the greatest of these temptations are present when the men are on leave."

The Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Neil gave as the reason for the resisting powers of the men, the many influences for good with which they are surrounded, such as the church and the Y. M. C. A.

"The church and the Y. M. C. A. have done great things," said Dr. Neil. "I know the Y. M. C. A. has been severely criticized and there may be some justification for it. But they have done big work. The Y. M. C. A. has exerted a good influence although they may have made some mistakes. The church is the power house and were it not for the church the Y. M. C. A., or any other organization would not last any time."

The speaker closed with a reference to the excellent work being accomplished by the chaplain service and the nurses, and urged those present to remember the boys at the front, write them lots of letters, and remember the cause for which they are fighting.

VALUABLE FILLY

The speedy young mare, "Esther D," with a mark of 2.15 1-4, owned by Mr. Charlie Tucker, of the Robinson livery barns, Charlotte street, presented her owner with a pretty brown filly on May 24th, sired by "Fern Hall," the property of Mr. F. L. Robinson (Doc). Needless to say, Charlie wears a smile that means a whole lot, as both he and the colt has become the talk of knowing horsemen familiar with the brilliant records of dam and sire.

CRESSMAN WELFARE CLUB MEETING

Company Submit An Attractive Proposal to the Employees

The monthly meeting of the Cressman Welfare Club was held in the Reception Room at the Empress Monday evening, May 27th. The President, J. E. Bates, presided. After the National Anthem a very enjoyable address was given by Mr. W. Hartley of the Auburn Woollen Mills, explaining the different processes through which wool goes from the time it comes into the mills straight from the sheep's back, to the finished product. Mr. Hartley explained in detail the nine processes which are necessary in the manufacture of the cloth. The address was not only enjoyable but also very instructive to those present.

Co-operation Desired.

The next was the following proposal which appealed to those present:

"It is the earnest desire of the Company to co-operate in every way possible during the strenuous times through which we are passing, and to lend their assistance in a financial way to all employees and co-workers in the business. In consideration of this we propose two cash distributions to all employees during the year, as follows:

First—For the six months ending June 30th, the company propose an "employees" Saturday, with special features, with a view to making the day a record sales day, and to distribute 20 per cent. of the gross sales of the day proportionately to all employees.

Second—For the six months ending January 1st, the distribution as bonus, to all helpers, based as follows:

(a) On the increase of gross sales for the six months, as compared with the same six months of 1917.

(b) The net result of departments, based on gross sales and net profits of each department.

We are anxious in both cases to make the amount distributed, as large as possible, and bespeak the hearty assistance of each and every employee, to the accomplishment of this end.

CRESSMAN CO., LTD.

A vote was then taken as to what those present thought of the plan, and hearty applause was the answer.

The following programme was then presented:

Solo—Miss T. Pearson.
Solo—Miss D. Hartshorn.
Reading—Miss Cunningham.

A hearty vote of thanks was then tendered Mr. Hartley for his splendid address, and to Mr. Graham for his generosity in giving the "Club" the use of the Reception Room.

With the singing of "O Canada," the meeting was adjourned.

WILL INSPECT STREET RAILWAY ROAD BED

With a View to Ascertaining Its Support of Freight Traffic to Factories.

Engineers of the Hydro-Electric Commission will inspect the street railway tracks and roadbed in Peterborough for the purpose of ascertaining the possibilities of their use for freight traffic to the factories.

This was Sir Adam Beck's promise yesterday to Mayor Duncan and an aldermanic deputation that hummed around Toronto yesterday. A short time ago, Ald. Worth told the Council of the advantages to local manufacturers of a street car freight hauling service.

Sir Adam Beck doubted the ability of the rail bed to support heavy cars of freight, but this question will be investigated by the Commission's engineers.

The delay in the extension of the Charlotte street line south to Patterson street was brought to the attention of Sir Adam, who expressed some surprise that the work had not been begun. The scarcity of ties is said to be the present obstruction.

NOTICE—All persons, in ordering their food, ought to consider the need of Great Britain and her Allies, and their armies, for wheat, beef, bacon and fats, and that the Canada Food Board desires the public to do everything in their power to make these commodities available for export by eating as little as possible of them and by making use of substitutes and avoiding waste.

It was 9 o'clock in the morning in an English town, and the roads were blocked with snow. The maid, who had been given a week's notice, was facing the last day of her sojourn in the house. GOT WET FEET TOOK AWFUL COLD
COULD NOT SLEEP FOR COUGH

A bad cold accompanied by a distressing cough that keeps you awake at night is most aggravating, and unless it is attended to at once may develop into something very serious.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the remedy you should take. It heals the mucous surfaces, relieves oppression and tightness of the chest, removes the accumulation of phlegm, quiets the most obstinate and distressing coughs, and secures rest and sleep at night, not only to the sufferer, but to others whose rest would be otherwise broken.

Mrs. Ezekiel Acker, Lake Pleasant, N.S., writes: "I got wet feet and took an awful cold; could not sleep at night, and would do nothing but cough. My husband got me a bottle of medicine, but it was not worth bringing home. I was going to call the doctor in when a friend asked me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I told her I had little faith in it, but she urged me to get a bottle. I did, and I must say that of all the medicine I ever took, it is the best, and relieved me the quickest of anything I ever saw."

"Dr. Wood's" is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c and 50c; manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards.—Receipts yesterday, 59 cars, with 409 cattle, 451 calves, 1,718 hogs, and 118 sheep and lambs.

There was a little life to the cattle trade yesterday. The large local buyers were all in the market for cattle, and an outside buyer, who has not been seen in this market for some time, a representative of the Montreal Abattoirs' Company, was also picking up two or three loads of butcher cattle. Under these circumstances there was a steadier tone to the market, and on further declines were recorded. Butcher cattle prices held about steady with Tuesday. A few loads of stale light stuff was a little slow to dispose of, but at the close it was a pretty good clean-up.

Calves were strong to 25c higher.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally if You Eat Meat Regularly

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

Scores of People Telling of Their Experience With This Well-known Medicine.

GANANOQUE, Ont., May 29. — More evidence has come to hand today to prove the great good being accomplished in this town by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mrs. R. W. Henderson, Main St. S., Gananoque, Ont., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as a household remedy for about fifteen years, and for kidney and liver troubles have found them excellent. I have also proved that in a case of tonsilitis or severe cold, if given in time, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will quickly relieve the patient. I have had experience of this in my own family, and think these pills cannot be equalled."

Mrs. T. H. Harper, River St., Gananoque, Ont., writes: "For quite a number of years we have made use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in our home. They are an excellent remedy for kidney and liver troubles, and my husband finds they also relieve him of lumbago, from which he sometimes suffers.

"My husband used Dr. Chase's Ointment for itching piles and in a very short time he was completely cured.

"We have also used Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine when the children suffered from coughs and colds, and think it excellent. We have received such good results from the use of Dr. Chase's Remedies that it is a pleasure to recommend them."

The Woman Who Changed

By JANE PHELPS

David Watches His Brother-in-law

CHAPTER LXXIX.

I was sorry that David had seen George talking with Julia Collins. I gave it no real significance, myself, although I did feel a little touch of resentment. But David was quick; he had evidently jumped to the conclusion that George was "making love," as he called it, to Julia Collins.

At dinner, George was very pleasant to both David and me. He asked about the play, and listened to our replies, making comments upon this and that actor and actress. He seemed to know them all and to understand their fitness for the parts they portrayed.

David had been a bit stiff and unnatural, at first, but that soon wore away and he became his own, bright, natural self. I was very proud of my young brother. He was such a manly chap, so straight-forward and honest in everything he said and did. There was no room for deception of any sort, in his mind. I remember hearing him say, once, that he couldn't understand why people told lies, even though they didn't think it wrong; it was such a lot of trouble to tax your mind with something that must be remembered as an untruth, and be told the same way each time; but if a thing were the truth, why, it just naturally told itself.

When we finished dinner, George as usual, smoked his cigar in the library while he looked at the evening papers. Then, also as usual, he put on his hat and, as he left, said:

"I shall be late, David don't sit up for me," then he gave me a careless kiss.

David Asks Questions.

"Say, Sis, does he go out every night?" aDvid asked as the door closed.

"My no!" I answered, trying to act surprised that he should even think such a thing, and failing miserably.

"Pretty often, though."

"All city men do go out a lot, David. You see, they have their clubs, and they talk business with the men they meet there," I explained lamely.

"Bosh! No man needs to talk his business nights, especially a man who attends to his business in the daytime the way George appears to. Don't let him fool you, Sis. He's not talking business ALL the time he leaves you alone."

"You must have been reading dime novels, David. You sound like Laura Jean Libby. Why I never knew you were so suspicious."

"I hate to see him neglecting you," and a hard look came into his young face a look that boded no good to George if he thought George didn't treat me fairly.

"Now see here, David," I said, laughing, "as long as I don't object, you needn't. Come on, let's play backgammon. I want to learn to play a good game. George plays a wonderful one, and I do so want to beat him occasionally. It is too one sided to keep his interest, when he beats every time."

"Little he cares about keeping you interested in anything!" David grumbled.

The Game is Interrupted.

We had been playing but a short time when James announced Clark Huntington.

"Show him right in, James," I said, then quickly explained who he was to David.

"Don't let me interrupt your game," he said politely, after I had introduced my brother. "Who is the better player? I think very few women care for backgammon —at least I don't know any that do."

"Oh, David is quite a champion," I told him "but Mr. Howard is very fond of the game, and I am trying to learn."

"Yes, I often see Mr. Howard playing at the club."

He did not remain very long, but when he left he asked David and me to take a ride out in the country with him, the next day.

"I have a new car —a dandy," he explained, "we'll christen it."

"Thank you, we shall be delighted to go," I replied.

"Is there anyone else you would care to ask?" Clark queried. "There is plenty of room."

"Wouldn't George go?" David asked.

"He couldn't leave his business," I replied, carelessly. "But it would be awfully nice to have Evelyn."

"She's a good little scout," David broke in.

"Indeed she is!" Clark responded. "Ask her by all means. Or I will call her up in the morning."

"We'll both ask her, then she'll be sure to go," I replied laughingly.

After Clark left us, we resumed our game. I became so engaged that I failed to notice the hour, and was quite startled when the clock in the hall struck eleven.

"Come on David! It's time we went to bed!" I said, hastily getting up, and scattering the men from the board by my action.

"My, Sis, you must be afraid of him, to act like that," said David.

HE CURED CHRONIC COLD WITH VINOL

Mr. Bagley's Letter Printed Here as Proof

Dunn, N. C.—"I suffered with a chronic cold for four months, coughed day and night. Had to keep on working when I was not able to. I saw Vinol advertised and tried it, and I want to tell you it just cured that cold in a short time."—J. C. Bagley, Dunn, N. C.

That's because Vinol is a constitutional cod liver and iron remedy which aids digestion, enriches the blood and creates strength. Then chronic coughs and colds naturally disappear. Your money will be returned if it does not help you.

WHOOPING COUGH.

Mr. Arthur Haines, Ashton Farm, Perley, Sask., writes: "Two years ago whooping cough was very bad in this part of the country; our eight months old boy caught it and had a very severe attack. A neighbor advised the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and we gave it and nothing else with splendid results. When the older brother took the whooping cough we used this medicine promptly and prevented serious trouble, as the cough passed off in two or three days".

Read this remarkable letter:—

BAYONNE, N.J.

Gentlemen:—

For 8 years I was a clerk in a bank on the Pacific Coast, it necessarily being a confining position. During that time, and also before, I was troubled with bilious headaches (one every two months or so) and suffered with chronic constipation. The last three or four years I have had piles in bad shape, trying several doctors with little relief.

Moving to Forsyth about 2 years ago I tried outside work for 9 months but seemed to be as bad as before.

In all I have taken three bottles. After about the third or fourth tablespoonful the benefits were very marked and since using same I have not had one headache and am now as regular as the sun himself and the piles are getting much better.

Nothing I can say or write can anywhere near express the wonderful benefit your remedy has done for me.

Very truly yours,

November 21, 1917. (Name and address on request).

FIGHTING TRENCH FEVER.

New Disease That Has Been Discovered In Present War.

Trench fever and shell shock are the two most difficult problems that this war has presented to medical science, according to a report issued by a British American medical commission.

Cases of trench fever were reported from France as early at 1915, and the disease has been continually studied ever since but the organism which causes it has not been found for its successful treatment. The American army doctors believe that they have definitely established that trench fever is communicated by a body louse, a fact which has been repeatedly suspected by the British investigators also.

The fact that the disease is growing more prevalent and is spreading from the trenches to the back areas is also noted in the report. The original cases were all among troops in the trenches, but the disease is now prevalent on various lines of communication and at the bases. Even hospital orderlies and nurses are occasional victims.

The actual crux of the discussion seems to be whether trench fever is a disease of man transmitted by the louse, or some disease among lice themselves which is transmissible to men. If the latter, the cure would seem to be the eradication of lice, a gigantic and almost hopeless task in war time. If the former, the dissemination of the disease comes down to a control of the human carrier, and probably an easier task. The commission recommends energetic action in the direction of greater personal cleanliness, which will also contribute greatly to the general comfort and health of the troops.

Missionary as a Guide Book.

Some years ago in Tokio I met Carl Crow. I was about to take my first plunge into China, and was then carrying in my grip Crow's guide-book to the country. "What suggestions have you for the trip?" I asked. "Go to the missionaries," replied Crow. Then he modestly added that his guide-book was largely a compilation of information which he had collected from the missionaries. "They are the only people," he explained, "who really know the country." I have had frequent occasion to test this assertion and I feel impelled to record that it is profoundly true. The temples and the bazaars have their value in introducing one to the country but they chiefly give one a glimpse of what the past has been. The people who are the present, and who are determining the future, cannot be found there. If one wishes to see the Orient that is, one will have to make very generous use of the missionary. And yet very few tourists see him at all. The missionary is often the one person available who understands both the language of the tourist and the language of the country; but more important is the fact that often he alone understands why one asks the questions one does. He knows the background of the questioner's mind and is at the same time intimately familiar with the life about which the question is asked. The English-speaking native may understand one's words but unless he belongs to the very limited class of those who have been educated abroad he is practically at a loss to understand why anyone would ask such a fool question anyhow.—Asia.

Loyal Hyphenates.

Those who are familiar with the Pennsylvania Germans will not be surprised that in order to remove any possible doubt of their attitude the consistory of the Reformed Church of Berks county has voted against sermons in German. This movement is likely to spread to the Lutheran denominations in the state, and while this action is a war measure, it is one that has been coming for years, since the exclusion of pure German and the Pennsylvania patois from the elementary schools of the state has been surely building up a body of citizens who knew little and cared less for the historic dialect or the mother tongue that for so long separated them from their English-speaking fellows. For one thing this Pennsylvanian German renunciation fits in easily with the drive which is being made all over the United States as to the use of German in the elementary schools, since, curiously enough, the "Pennsylvania Dutch" never were the object of the solicitude of the von Holleben-Muensterberg-Bernstorff style of propaganda, their efforts being aimed at the more recent German immigrants and at German-Americans in the great cities of the East and in certain sections of the West who did not derive from colonial or revolutionary ancestors.

National Kitchens In England.

England is to have national kitchens. Public baths and park buildings will be turned into kitchens and town halls into dining halls; street cars and omnibuses will carry the finished product to thousands of small distributing stations. Varied meals will be provided for everybody at the lowest possible price and there will be special invalid kitchens.

Rabbit Ranches.

The Australian Government is making every endeavor to have rabbit ranching become one of the big assets of the future. Ranches which formerly raised sheep and cattle, are now being fenced in with close wire netting and used for breeding grounds and runs for rabbits. Canadian boys and girls could help by raising rabbits.

Better Than Politicians.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

"Making a Record"

By CHARLES POWERS BANNIN

Elsie Marsh stood with downcast eyes before her grandfather. Her lover had just left the house with a dejected mien after half an hour's conference with the old tyrant, and Elsie feared the worst.

"I have told the young man that his case was hopeless," announced Robert Marsh with brutal candor. "In the first place, I will have no love-making while you are under eighteen, and no engagement until I discover the merits of the man of your choice."

"Oh, grandpa!" cried Elsie, "Vernon Ross is nothing but merit! He has a good position, does not even smoke, and he loves me—oh, so dearly!"

"Well, I'll watch him and see how he develops. Let him strike out and make a record. Then I may consider him. Originality—that's what I like to see in a young man. Initiative, blazing a new course."

Elsie left the room, crying. She declared to herself that her heart was broken. It seemed all mended up, however, when she met Vernon Marsh at the public library the next day.

"'Originality,' eh?" spoke Vernon, when Elsie had narrated the details of her interview with her uncle. "Don't despair, Elsie. I saw a twinkle in the eyes of that old bear when I was talking with him, and I'm going to do something original."

"Oh, Vernon! Tell me what it is."

"I will, later. You told me that he liked to have half an hour of the phonograph every evening, didn't you?"

"Yes," nodded Elsie.

"All right; I've got my cue. You come up to my sister's tomorrow, and I will reveal my dark and sinuous plot." And Elsie went home, curious and hopeful.

"You see," observed Vernon, when he met Elsie next day, "your grandfather wishes me to make a 'record,' doesn't he?"

"Yes, Vernon."

"Well, I am going to gratify his wish, and you are to help me do it," and although Vernon's statement was enigmatical, he looked very confident.

More than once that week Elsie and Vernon met at his sister's home. Elsie was excited and Vernon animated.

"I hope," he remarked quizzically to Elsie, "that your august grandparent likes my 'record.'"

"Oh, Vernon! how will he take it?"

"As a piece of originality, I hope," observed Vernon.

It was a week later when Elsie and her sister and brother joined Mr. Marsh in the library, to give the usual concert on the talking machine. It always pleased and soothed the old man.

"A new record, grandpa. It is called 'The Woes of Love,'" and she started the phonograph.

The head of the old man came up with a jerk. He viewed the phonograph suspiciously, for there spoke from its depths the voice of Vernon Ross. In eloquent love language he was proposing to Elsie. Then, sorrowfully, she responded to his fervent appeal. She loved him, but her hard-hearted grandfather forbade their being happy! She would never marry any other, but her heart was broken!

Then, in his natural tone, clear and distinct, there followed a mournful response from Vernon. He would go away and find some lonely Crusoe isle, where he could pine and die!

"But I will leave a message for your relative, notwithstanding all his cruelty. He is a member of your family, and as such I suppose I should do good to him. Tell your grandfather that I return good for evil—tell him to sell his stock holdings in the Red Panther Mining company and buy Black Beaver instead. This is the last message of a desperate, downcast, disconsolate man!

"H'm!" was the only comment Mr. Marsh made, as he arose and went into another room, closed the door and then gave way to animated chuckles and suppressed laughter, leaving poor Elsie to wonder what would become of the daring "originality" of Vernon.

"Pretty clever!" soliloquized Mr. Marsh. "Smart, too, in finding out that I held that stock; politic in giving me a hint which, coming from an up-to-date broker like himself, really is worth looking into—original? Say, I've an idea!"

That idea assumed definite form and substance a week later. Elsie was startled when her grandfather directed her one day to have Vernon come to the house the following evening. She could not surmise the motive, but the invitation was a concession. When Vernon appeared the old man was courteous and urbane. He suggested the phonograph, and it was soon in operation. He fed the disks himself, reproducing the concert of the week previous. Even "The Woes of Love" was given; word for word the disk repeated its original screed, and then a brief pause, and it continued, in the tones of Mr. Mash himself:

"When the venerable old tyrant heard all this pathetic rubbish, he saw that the love victims were past redeeming. Then, too, acting on the hint regarding the stock, he saved a loss and made a profit that would generously cover an expensive wedding outfit. So he said, 'Come hither, my children, and accept an old man's blessing!'"

So he had added to the message of the disk, and so he answered the appeal of two loving hearts.

NOTHING LIKE PHOSPHATE TO INCREASE STRENGTH, VIGOR AND NERVE FORCE

ORDINARY BITRO-PHOSPHATE WILL DOUBLE THE STRENGTH OF WEAK DELICATE, NERVOUS PEOPLE IN TWO WEEKS' TIME IN MANY INSTANCES.

Weak nerves quickly reduce the strong and robust to an extremely pitiable condition and rob men and women of all the joys of life. Slowly and stealthily the health is destroyed, the poor sufferer only realizing the magnitude of his ailment when faulty memory, sleeplessness, indecision, lack of energy or other unmistakable symptoms indicate weak nerves. Then it is a serious and dangerous mistake to resort to the use of so-called tonics, alcoholic or drug stimulants.

Weak and exhausted nerves need food and nourishment—not stimulants that lash them into temporary activity. The food and nourishment advised by present day physicians is just one 5-grain tablet of pure bitro-phosphate taken during or immediately after each meal. Simple advice, but its soundness has been proven over and over again.

Moreover the genuine standard bitro-phosphate is inexpensive and is sold by McDermid & Jury and most all good druggists under a binding guarantee of satisfaction or money back.

Botchkarova a Superwoman.

Florence Harper, who had a keen eye for the Russian revolution as it affected women, has this to say of Botchkarova and her Women's Battalion of Death. "The object of the Women's Battalion was to inspire the men to fight. They failed in this. It was a splendid failure, but nevertheless they failed. That these women were brave, goes without saying. They were sincere and patriotic. No doubt many of them enlisted for the adventure of the thing, but they enlisted while knowing that they were playing with death.

"Botchkarova was a maitresse femme. It is impossible to think of her as a woman. She is muscular and strong. She walks and talks like a man, and she has the face of a man. She has as much pride in her physical strength as she has in being the first woman officer of the first women's battalion. It is said that a great many girls left the first battalion because of the discipline. That is partially true, but a great many of these girls left the firs battalion because they could not stand the personal conduct of Botchkarova. This was proved by the fact that eighty per cent. of these girls joined the second battalion and made good soldiers."

BOASTS OF BRUTALITY

At the Same Time He Says That the Teutonic Chemists Must Labor to Keep Them In the Lead Because "No Country Will Agree to Renounce Use of Gas."

THE Prussian Minister of War, Gen. von Stein, informed the main committee of the Reichstag that his gallant chemists are now manufacturing an invisible gas; "the enemy has not caught up to us." He boasted also that it was the Germans who originated the employment of carbonic oxide gas in the war, "and the enemy soon followed." He wished the Reichstag to understand, however, that, thanks to the German masks, the enemy gas attacks in the present battle amounted to but little. He closed his dissertation on gas with a peculiar statement:

"No country will agree to renounce the use of gas. It is therefore necessary for our experts to labor continuously to keep us ahead."

Even the members of the Reichstag must have smiled at the first sentence here quoted. The use of gas was prohibited by The Hague convention of 1899, Germany signing and ratifying the agreement; and it was believed until the spring of 1915 that no civilized nation bound by that agreement would use gas or any other form of poison in warfare. We may even believe that Germany had qualms — the last wriggling of a moribund conscience — about using gas in battle, for it was not until after its bitter rebuffs at the second battle of Ypres that the German generals called for the foul products of the home laboratories. From that hour on, and that was three years and a day before von Stein's remarkable statement, the Prussian has used poison gas and he has never denied that he took the heinous initiative. The allies have used it, and properly so, in reprisal.

What is the significance of the War Minister's statement that "no country will agree to renounce the use of gas." Have there been murmurings inside Germany from the relatives of soldiers with burned lungs? Or has news come to Germany through its acute spy system that some chemist in one of the allied countries has worked out a gas far more deadly than the Germans have been able to make? Is von Stein angling for an invitation from some humane neutral to join in the restoration of the old rules of war, now that Germany has been bitten with her own teeth?

Gen. von Stein is literally right, after all, but not in quite the way he means. No allied country is likely to quit the use of gas for the reason that if the Prussian warriors swore to renounce the barbarity the allies would know that they did not mean to keep their word.

GEN. VON STEIN.

The Fog Peril.

One of the great conquests of science for human safety will be the discovery of some effectual means of disclosing to every ship at sea the approach and position of any other vessel which may come near in a fog. So far the fog peril remains as deadly as it ever was. In some respects the conditions change for the worse. The growth of commerce increases the number of ships which traverse the seas. Every year the water highways are more fully occupied, and the tendency is toward a higher average speed. Nothing can be seen through a dense fog. Nothing can be heard with sufficient distinctness and certainty as to distance and direction to meet the demands of safety. The best fog signals in use repeatedly fail to avert terrible disasters.—Cleveland Leader.

Cut His Visit Short.

The Duke of Wellington once wrote to Dr. Hutton for information as to the scientific acquirements of a young officer who had been under his instruction. The doctor thought he could not do less than answer the question verbally and made an appointment accordingly.

Directly Wellington saw him he said: "I am obliged to you, doctor, for the trouble you are taking. Is — fit for the post?"

Clearing his throat, Dr. Hutton began: "No man more so, my lord. I can"—

"That's quite sufficient," said Wellington. "I know how valuable your time is. Mine just now is equally so. I will not detain you any longer. Good morning."

Allied Guns Mow Down Waves Of Hun Infantry

And Enemy Counter-Attack is Thrown Back, With German Dead Littering Battlefield

LONDON, May 30.—(via Reuter's)—The enemy counter-attack on the new American positions was met by the Allied gunners with a hurricane of fire. Waves of German infantrymen were stopped dead and thrown back, leaving large numbers of killed or wounded on the ground.

Kaiser to Rule Austro Navy.

LONDON, May 30.—(via Reuter's)—In connection with the recent mutiny in the Austrian fleet it is significantly reported that the Austrian Government is opening a nautical school at Trieste for Germans. This is taken to mean that German discipline is to be introduced in the Austrian navy.

Exchanging Prisoners.

Replying to a question, Mr. Bonar Law confirmed the report that the Government had already entered into negotiations with a view to arranging a wide scheme for the exchange of prisoners, broadly following the recent French-German agreement. The negotiations were unlimited and would include civilians, as well as prisoners of war, but he could not say whether the questions of prisoners interned in neutral countries would be raised.

British in Hun Prison Camps.

LONDON, May 30.—(via Reuter's)—In the House of Lords Lord Newton, Under-Secretary of the Foreign Office, asserted there was not the slightest vestige of truth in newspaper allegations that the inactivity of the War Office had resulted in worse treatment of British prisoners of war than others. He said that no Government had been more solicitous of the welfare of its prisoners, and was of the opinion that British soldiers in German camps were treated better than others. Lord Curzon warned against any undue expectation of an immediate rush of exchanged prisoners.

Fifty Cents More Per Ton Is Forecasted For Price Of Coal

Result of Increases in U. S. Railway Rates—Canadian Railroads Also Talk of Similar Increases

MONTREAL, May 29.—Increases in Canadian railroad rates, in the price of American coal and other commodities in Canada, are likely to be forced upon this country as a result of the recent action of Director-General McAdoo, in Washington. High officials at the head offices of the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways refused to be quoted, but the tenor of their remarks was that, in addition to increased cost of American coal, etc., in Canada, Canadian rates would be sent upward. This would not necessarily be through any action of the railroads themselves but from sheer weight of United States' influence.

General Secretary W. N. Neal, of the Canadian Railway War Board, declined to be quoted officially but said:

"Speaking personally, however, the Canadian roads are first affected by the railway wages increase granted by Secretary McAdoo. While conditions in Canada do not parallel American conditions there is an approximate relation which is bound to be observed. Negotiations on wage matters are therefore in progress now between the roads in Canada and their employes.

"Even aside from the question of increased cost due to increased wages, the American changes would still affect Canadian rates. While Canadian rates have always been cheaper, generally speaking, than those in the United States, it would be very embarrassing to the American Government lines if this difference were enlarged. It would tend to draw a greater volume of American inter-State traffic through Canada and would complicate interchange arrangements seriously. It is likely that the American Government would, at an early date, bring pressure to bear on Ottawa to force up Canadian rates and remove this embarrassment."

An increase of 50 cents a ton upon the present retail price of coal is forecasted by leading dealers here as a direct consequence of the decision of the United States railroad administration to raise freight rates 25 per cent.

TROUBLED WITH CONSTIPATION

From 16 to 20

Constipation is one of the commonest ills of mankind, and one too often allowed to go unlooked after until some serious complication sets in.

If the bowels are properly looked after there will be no constipation, jaundice, sick or bilious headaches, heartburn, coated tongue, sour stomach, floating specks before the eyes, etc.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will keep your bowels so regulated that in no time the constipation will disappear entirely.

Miss Emma E. Melenson, Halifax, N.S., writes: "I am now 20 years of age, and since I was 16 I have been greatly troubled with constipation, so much so that at times I would be in bed 3 or 4 days a month. I tried all the old-fashioned remedies, castor oil, cascara, etc., with only temporary relief, until my sister-in-law gave me some of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. From the first they seemed beneficial, and I gave them a fair trial. This was two years ago, and with an occasional dose I have kept entirely free from constipation for the period mentioned."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE CAUSE OF INDIGESTION

Thin blooded people generally have stomach trouble. But they seldom recognize the fact that thin blood is the cause of their indigestion, for it is.

Thin blood is one of the most common causes of stomach trouble; it affects the digestion very quickly. The glands that furnish the digestive fluids are diminished in their activity, the stomach muscles are weakened and there is a loss of nerve force. In this state of health nothing will more quickly restore the appetite, digestion and normal nutrition than good, rich, red blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood, making it rich and red, and this enriched blood strengthens weak nerves, stimulates tired muscles, and awakens to normal activity the glands that supply the digestive fluids. The first sign of returning health is an improved appetite and soon the effect of these blood-making pills is evident throughout the whole system. You find that what you eat does not distress you, and that you are strong and vigorous instead of irritable and listless. You are on the road to sound, good health, and care in your diet is all you need. If your appetite is fickle, if you have any of the distressing pains and symtoms of indigestion you should begin to cure yourself at once by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

These pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ALL CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING IS payable in advance. The amount of each account is so small that it does not pay to "book" it. When advertisements are telephoned, remittance must follow by mail or messenger.

GERMAN DRIVE IS BEGINNING TO SLOW UP

INTERNAL DISORDERS IN AUSTRIA-HUNGARY

Germans Make Repeated Attempts To Break Through Defenses Near Soissons

Enemy is Held Up by the Determined French Resistance--British Carry Out Successful Raids.

OFFICIAL REPORTS

Canadian Press:

LONDON, May 30.—To'day's British Official says: During the night the enemy attacked a strong point known as Route-a-Keep, north-west of Festubert, and was completely repulsed. We carried out successful minor operations in the neighbourhood of Merris and improved our line slightly. We captured prisoners and machine guns in these encounters. A party of our troops raided the enemy's trenches last night near Locon and brought back prisoners. The hostile artillery has been active east of Villers Bretonneux and in Hinges and Robecq sectors.

THE OUTLOOK.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, May 30.— Discussing the outlook as the result of the German offensive on the Champaign battle front, the military critic of the Daily Telegraph writes:

"The present is a critical period for the fate of France and with France is bound up the fate of England. The British and French still have very valuable assets if they know how to use them. Numerical superior forces are at the Allies' disposal and all the world's worth, for the fetching. The Allies possess millions of men, guns and planes. It is unnecessary to repeat the cause which hitherto has nullified these inestimable advantages. It is high time our War Cabinet and war officials found out how to bring this superiority of resources to bear upon the field of action. An administration of the highest order is needed to turn the tide. The military situation also demands strategy to change the fate of affairs in France.

TANKS FREELY USED.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, May 30.—In their initial onslaught on Monday the Germans are believed to have used more tanks than ever before, says Reuter's correspondent with the British army on the French front, writing on Wednesday. The 50th British division near Craonne withstood a gas attack of three hours and held up the Huns on every attempt to reach the Aisne until the men were drowned under the German combers. The same fate overtook the French divisions to the right of the 50th. After falling back the 50th made a gallant attempt to recapture Craonne, but was drowned by machine gun fire from the enemy tanks. In the end the 50th was exhausted and compelled to fall back toward the river. Proceding the reserves were the French cavalry and behind them are the guns. There is no panic among the refugees.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, May 30.—The battle along the fighting front continued all night with the French maintaining the western outlets of Soissons, the War Office announced to-day.

North-west of Rheims, the Franco-British forces broke all German assaults and maintained defensive positions. French reserves are continuing to arrive on the front and the German advance is being resisted with great tenacity.

More Settled Feeling Prevails

Home Rule Bill Will Not Be Ready For a Few Weeks—Conscription in Abeyance

A GOOD IMPRESSION

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, May 30.—(via Repters)—With the recent changes in the government of Ireland, and the arrest of the Sinn Fein leaders, the parliamentary correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says he understands, the British Government considers it desirable to refrain from pressing forward at this time anything calculated to produce a disturbance. A more settled feeling prevails in Ireland, and it is hoped the improvement will grow in every direction. The Irish Home Rule Bill is not expected to be ready for introduction for a few weeks, and until then conscription will remain in abeyance.

Lord French, now Lord Lieutenant, and Edward Shortt, new Chief Secretary have made an excellent impression on both the Nationalists and the Sinn Feiners.

PROUDFOOT IS NOT DISTURBED OVER THE MATTER

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, May 30.—"The meeting was a small one and I consider that the attack upon me was of so little consequence that I do not think that it's worth while making a formal statement in reply," said Mr. William Proudfoot, M.P.P., Leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, when asked to-day to reply to the attack made upon him by the Centre Huron Liberals for his stand in supporting the Union Government.

"The protest against my action was led by Tom McMillan, who was defeated in South Huron at the last election and they were sore because I exercised my own judement and supported the Unionists."

Murder Trial Concluded at Parry Sound

Canadian Press:

PARRY SOUND, May 30. — The thrice postponed trial of Jung Sam, a Chinese laundry man, who murdered his employer, Wong Jew here, in a very brutal fashion about a year ago, was concluded last night, when the jury convicted him and he was sentenced by Justice Rose, to be hanged on August 23rd. The case was somewhat celebrated from the fact that prominent aliest doctors from Toronto differed as to whether the defendant was an imbecile or responsible for his actions. Two separate juries decided that he was.

THE FRONT IS QUIET

Minor Operations on the British Front in the North—British Advanced Two Hundred Yards

ARTILLERY FIRE

(United Press.)

(By Wm. Phillip Simms, Staff Correspondent.)

With the British Armies in France, May 30. — The British troops advanced two hundred yards west of Meteren on the Flanders front, last night, taking two prisoners, and a machine gun.

In yesterday's raid at Neuville-Vitasse (South of Arras) they penetrated 600 yards, and found a considerable number of German dead, victims of gun fire.

The British front on the north is quiet, save in raiding operations and occasional outbursts of artillery fire. All eyes are turned to the Rheims-Soissons sector.

Bombing planes on both sides were active last night, even in the farthest rear. The British "Archies" occasionally shedded up until their aerial antagonists come up, then open like drum fire.

Ever since the act went into effect there has been a remarkable decrease in the number of arrests. Many of the jails in the province have been tenantless for months.

GIRLS WILLING TO AID IN SHIP-BUILDING INDUSTRY

(Special to The Examiner.)

MONTREAL, May 30.—Willingness to raise a corps of girls to replace men for shipbuilding work and allow them to go to the front, is expressed in a letter to the Imperial Order of the Sons of the Empire by Miss Adelaide Clayton of Listowel, a Toronto University honour graduate, who says she can use a hammee or saw, and has a natural inclination for industrial work. She writes that she would like to get useful occupation in the ship-building industry, and adds that she could even recruit a small corps of girls to help.

MINISTER OF RAILWAYS AND CANALS WILL VISIT PETERBORO' FOR OPENING OF TRENT CANAL

The Completion of the Trent Waterway Will Open Up New Possibilities For Peterboro'—Local Manufacturing Concerns Are Vitally Interested—Citizens Are Asked to Co-operate in the Effort to Make the Occasion a Memorable One.

A TRIP FROM PETERBORO' TO THE SEA

The announcement that the Honorable Dr. J. D. Reid, Minister of Railways and Canals, will formally open the Trent Canal next Monday and Tuesday, should arouse the citizens to a realization of the opportunity this event offers the city of Peterboro. The visitof the Minister follows more closely than was perhaps expected upon the Council's request that he recoguize the completion of the canal, and its opening for traffic from Lake Simcoe to Lake Ontario, by an official trip over its long course.

Although only a few days are available to complete the arrangements for the reception of the Minister, this limitation presents all the stronger reason for making the occasion a memorable one. It is true that the people are anxiously absorbed in the progress of the war ,but the Council last night decided that affairs at home should not be entirely abscured by the shadow of war. Peterboro has waited for years, even generations, for the completion of the Trent Canal, and the very magnitude of the work with its neccessarily slow construction has tended to divert the public's attention from the big asset to Peterboro, that is wrapped up in this waterway to Lake Ontario. The northern end, a comparatively short stretch, is the only remaining barrier in the long, cross country reach from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario, in other words from Lake Superior and Lake Michigan to the St. Lawr ence River. It is impossible to visualize the vast significance of this water highway to the future development of this city, which hopes to fix its position as the largest industrial centre on the Trent Canal with easy access by water to the markets of raw materials and finished products.

The Canal is an Accomplished Fact.

Today, the citizens should endeavour to awaken to the prospects the canal promises to them. The manufacturers of the city shwed their concern for its copletion by many deputations to Ottawa, and the Council representing the people has worn a path to the department of Railways and Canals, urging upon the successive Ministers the importance of advancing the work as rapidly as possible. And now, the canal is an accomplished fact, except the narrow stretch above Washago. Hence, since the citizens persisted and persevered in the lean years that often threatened the Trent project, there is infinitely more cause to celebrate the fruitful present, and to impress upon the Minister the appreciation of the citizens and their desire that the entire work be soon finished.

The Council is busily engaged in preparing for the Minister's visit, but they need and must have the wholehearted assistance of the people. The city should go the limit, with the image before them, of a water outlet to the big markets, not only of Eastern Canada, but of the Continent, and this communication, all but independent of the railways. Whatever proceedings are decided, they should not find the citizens aloof, leaving the reception to the Council and the business men. It should be axiomatic that if the canal brings new facilities to Peterboro's industries, it consequqently means new advantages to the general public.

Can Ship Coal, Grain and General Freighter.

The importation of coal by barges has been suggested recently, apart from the water transportation of grain, and general freight. This must reap a benefit to the individual citizens, but the very newness of the canal despite its seeming age, militates against an apprecaition of its resources and the opportunities it will bring to Peterboro and all the Ontario midlands it drains.

The co-operation the Council expects from the citizens will be announced before the week end, with a confidence that there will be a splendid response.

The Council has information of industrial development dependent upon the opening of the canal which would be extremely impressive to the citizens, if it could be published; for the present, however, the city must remain uninformed, but with implicit faith in its Council, which has taken the leadership in an effort to make the formal opening of the canal an event that will be reflected throughouut the country.

Internal Disorders In Austria Ties Up Proposed Austrian Offensive

Serious Riots Have Broken Out at Several Places—Austrian Troops Attacked.

2,000 CASUALTIES

(Special to The Examiner.)

GENEVA, May 30.—Internal disorders in Austria-Hungary have paralyzed the projected Austrian offensive against the Italians, according to a despatch from Innisboruck to-day.

Serious riots have broken out again at Daibach and Grats, where Slavs and Jugeslavs attacked the Austrian troops. The soldiers fired into the crowds killing and wounding several. Recent riots at Prague are said to have been decidedly severe. It is estimated there were 2,000 casualties there.

WASHINGTON, May 30. — To meet the drain that the duel of death imposes on her, Germany is mobilizing youths of 1920—barely 17 years old, said Entente official reports to-day.

BRITISH FIGHTING ON AMERICAN FRONT

Enemy Counter Attacked Four Times at One Point.

(By Fred S. Ferguson—United Press.)

WITH THE AMERICAN IN PICARDY, May 30.—Brisk fighting continues at intervals around Cantigny which the Germans have counter attaced four times since the Americans captured it.

Three attacks took place early Tuesday night and yesterday morning. All were easily beaten off. The number of German prisoners now total 240.

HUNS LOSE HEAVILY

It Is Estimated That the Present Offensive Has Cost the Enemy Nearly Half a Million Men

DIVISIONS USED

(By Henry Wood—United Press.)

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES IN THE FIELD, May 30.—The Germans since the start of the present offensive, have lost a minimum of 520,000 men according to compilations made today that are mathematically correct.

Coupled with the forty divisions (480,000 men) used in the Soissons-Rheims drive now under way, the enemy has employed 200 other divisions (2,400,000 men) since the offensive started leaving but ten divisions (120,000) men(of unused troops at their disposal. Counting the divisions which the enemy has used two or three, it has enagaged a total of 260 divisions (4,120,000 men) in the operations since March 21st.

According to authentic information in the possession of the French military authorities, the Germans have lost a minimum of 2,000 men in each each divisions.

STUBBORN RESISTANCE

The German attack on the Aisne front on Monday, fell upon the British divisions which previously had been engaged and were sent to this "quiet" sector to recuperate. A most stubborn resistance was put up by the British divisions occupying Craonne, who fell back under pressure from four German divisions. The German tanks on the British flank prevented a counter attack. A British division in the Bormicourt wood, cooperating with French territorials, held out to the last man.

The feature of the Aisne battle in this area has been the close co-operation of the French and the British.

SWIMMING POOL WILL BE FORMALLY OPENED THIS EVENING

All arrangements have been made for a big affair at the Y.W.C.A. this evening on the occasion of the opening of the new swimming pool, which is now ready for use.

A garden party will be held on the lawn, where the Salvation Army Band will render several selections and the young ladies of the Girls' Auxiliary will serve refreshments in the marquee, put up for the occasion. Springtime dances will be given by members of the gymnasium classes.

An interesting programme will be given in the swimming pool building. Mr. W. G. Morrow will act as chairman and formally open the swimming pool for the use of the Young Women's Christian Association. There will be several musical selections by well-known artists, and Miss Caroline Littlefield will give an exhibition of swimming. For the benefit of those who will not be able to attend in the early part of the evening, a second exhibition will be given after half past nine.

Much interest is centred around this splendid new building, and it is expected that many will be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity afforded of this evening of seeing the splendidly equipped swimming pool, and watching the swimming exhibition. The Mayor and the City Council will be present in a body.

Information will be given regarding the forming of classes and the use of the pool, and an opportunity will also be given for those who intend to join to register.

"FOOLISH SENTIMENT"

Col. J. H. Cameron Speaking at Hamilton Disapproves of "Molly-coddling" of Returned Soldiers

"EXPECT TOO MUCH"

HAMILTON, May 30.—Speaking before the Medical Congress here last night, Col. J. H. Cameron said that some of the returned men had the idea that the state owed him everything and that he in return owed the state nothing.

"The state never owed him anything and now it only owes him the equality of the law."

Mollycoddling of the returned men was disapproved of by the speaker, who stated that well meaning people who formed organizations to look after the soldiers were responsible for the present conditions. As a solution Col. Cameron advised the cutting out of foolish sentiment, treating the returned men like young brothers, helping them to regain their self-respect, giving them better literature and providing educational films for the comedy ones now exhibited.

"How many returned men are trying to regain their health in order to get back to the front or to take their places in the industrial ranks?" asked the speaker. He stated that the answer was in the 5,000 agriculturists who invaded Ottawa recently to keep the young men on the farms. "I do not know how to account for this lack of moral fibre, but place the blame on the present weak sentimentality," said Col. Cameron.

Battlefield Diseases.

Dr. H. B. Small presented the address of the president of the Canadian Medical Association. Lieut.-Col. Hadley Williams lectured on the surgical treatment of nerve injury overseas and in Canada, and Lieut.-Col. Colin Russell spoke on shell shock.

"The conditions of shell shock is often due to an idea." To deal with such cases in Canada we should have special hospitals in charge of experienced men. One authority on the subject states that ninety per cent. of such cases can be cured," said the speaker.

It was pomted out that soldiers suffering shell shock often had no inducement to throw off the idea, because by doing so they would be put back in the army. On the other hand, they would draw a nice pension by continuing to labour under the idea that they were shell-shocked, which the speaker described as a "loss of control of the mental inteligence."

Col. Cameron stated that shell shock cases disappeared in the French army when a rule was made that a soldier suffering from it would not receive a pension. He advocated that the same rule be applied in Canada, and that any shell-shocked patient who relapsed after being discharged should be returned to the psychogentic ward in which he was first treated.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

THURSDAY, MAY 30TH, 1918.

THE AMERICANS' SUCCESS.

In the midst of their anxiety over the situation on the Aisne front, the Canadian people will find time to applaud the brilliant achievement scored by American troops in Picardy, when the Sammies advanced on a front of one and a quarter miles, captured the village of Cantigny, took 200 prisoners and inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy. The success is a new milestone in the history of the United States troops in France, and the dashing manner in which the attack was carried home shows that when the full force of the American war effort begins to be felt on the western front, the Sammies will prove a most important factor in stopping the German invasion, and in the ultimate overthrow of the enemy forces. The Canadian soldiers will rejoice in the exploit of their comrades from this continent.

NUMEROUS DEFAULTERS.

There has been a spirited controversy for some time as to whether the work of rounding up deserters under the Military Service Act is to be left to the Dominion Police or is to be entrusted to the military police. The latest figures issued in connection with the operations of the Act, would make it appear as if both bodies would be needed if anything like a complete round up is to be accomplished. Statistics up to the 28th of this month show that there are at present no fewer than 13,021 defaulters out of a total of 81,790 men who should have reported. The percentage is a large one, and a more vigilant search for the men who have defied the law would seem to be necessary.

Outside of the large number of defaulters, the latest report shows a gratifying improvement in results achieved by the Act. During the first two weeks of this month, the Canadian army was increased by 18,338 men of which by far the largest number—16,146 in all—went into the infantry. Altogether, since the Act went into force, 68,769 men have been added to the army, the figures including men who voluntarily enlisted and also defaulters who have been arrested and forced to serve. The official statement does not make it clear whether the total includes the Canadians who have joined the Royal Air force.

THE PATRIOTIC FUND.

With the statement that the income of a soldier's family, under the present scale, is not commensurate with the cost of living, there can be no complaint; the truth of the assertion is self-evident and beyond dispute. In ascribing the blame for this condition to the Canadian Patriotic Fund, following the lead of Capt. Burnham, our contemporary, however, has hardly been fair to the officials of the Fund. Why not lay the blame for the inadequate income where it belongs, on the State? The Patriotic Fund money has been raised by the people of Canada, to supplement the wages and allowances paid by the government, and would not have been necessary if these allowances had been sufficient.

The Great War Veterans have expressed the opinion that the Government should administer the fund; the heads of the latter have already announced that there will be no more campaigns for money at the end of the present fiscal year, which will put the matter squarely up to the authorities at Ottawa.

If Capt. Burnham wants to see that soldiers' families receive a proper living allowance, he should use his efforts at Ottawa in endeavouring to impress the need for action on the Government; he can accomplish nothing by attacking the Patriotic Fund, whose allowances are as generous as the financial condition of their funds will permit.

The Government would do well to consider the advisability of basing the separation allowances granted to soldiers' families on the number of children in the latter. Under the present system, the grant to the wife of a private is only $25 a month whether she is childless or has nine children. If this allowance was administered on a graduated scale, made large enough to cover the increased cost of living, there would be no need of any Patriotic Fund.

The responsibility should be the State's, and the State's alone. If the wife and children of the Canadian soldier are "condemned to a life of penury," there is no one to blame but the Government of Canada.

Attacks by Capt. Burnham on the Patriotic Fund, which is only seeking to bring the Government's meagre allowances up to something like an adequate income, will not help the Canadian soldier.

Capt. Burnham knows that the Government of which he is a member, can remedy the conditions he complains of. The next stage in the "Red Triangle campaign of truth" should take place at the capital.

Y.M.C.A. WAR WORK.

That the question of the usefulness of and administration of the Y.M.C.A. military work, brought prominently into the limelight by the resolution passed by the Great War Veterans at Hamilton should be settled by the verdict of Canadian troops now at the front is the unique suggestion of the Toronto Telegram. The Telegram's idea apparently is that many of the Veterans who criticized the Y.M.C.A. at the convention were men who saw service early in the war when the Y military work was comparatively unorganized and that therefore a more intelligent verdict could be given by the soldiers now in France.

The Telegram says:

WRITE A QUESTION TO YOUR HUSBAND, TO YOUR SON, OR TO YOUR BROTHER AT THE FRONT, and judge the war work of the Y.M.C.A. by each soldier's reply to the question in your letter.

Canada must encourage the Y.M.C.A. to either go on in the war work or go out of that work.

Canada's soldiers at the front know whether the activities of the Y.M.C.A. do or do not minister to the needs of a man on the fighting line. Only the soldiers on the battle front should know whether the speeches or resolutions of the Great War Veterans represent the truth as to present conditions in the overseas work of the Y.M.C.A.

Canadian civilians must assess the war work of the Y.M.C.A. according to the valuation that Canadian soldiers place upon that work. The fair and just way to arrive at the valuation is for fathers, mothers, wives and sisters to write a straight question to the soldiers. The answers to such a question will clear up the whole controversy. These answers will either indicate the usefulness or expose the uselessness of the war work achieved or attempted by the Y.M.C.A.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

In the midst of the agitation caused by the Veterans' charges against the Y.M.C.A. comes General Sir Sam. Hughes' endorsation of the latter. There will be considerable doubt as to whether Sir Sam's praise will be a help or a hindrance to the Y.M.C.A.

The loss of Soissons is a serious blow to the Allies, but if General Foch's reserves succeed in arresting the German invasion, the effect of its capture will be neutralized.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

Only Talk

(Kingston Standard)

Mr. Burnham, M.P., of Peterboro, should know better next time—but probably won't. His chief asset seems to be talk.

A Friendly Warning.

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

It is to be hoped Sir Robert Borden will not resort too often to the threat of resigning in order to bring the House of Commons into line with his views. The House might get tired of falling into line.

Little Danger of That.

(Edmonton Bulletin.)

One report has it that the Kaiser's attendants are alarmed over his mental condition. Perhaps they are afraid he will go sane.

A Promise to be Kept.

(Brantford Expositor.)

There is one promise which Premier Borden has not thus far kept, and that is that of placing his Cabinet on fifty-fifty basis. It is because he cannot get Liberals to come in, or because he cannot get Tories to quit? There are not many of the latter who seem to have the virtue of resignation.

ats Off to Canada.

(Boston Transcript)

Mr. Root showed his customary keen perception of the historic significance of events when at Toronto yesterday, he said: "We bow to this warrior country." Our own half million of soldiers in France certainly must stand at their proudest salute when the half million of Canadians who preceded them there pass by. The response of Canada to the call of this war was not emrely the response of obedience to the British Empire. It was a brave, an instant, a most spirited answer to the call of civilization, liberty and that enduring peace of the world which can be based only on the triumph of right over wrong. Canada did not falter, nor bargain, nor question. She responded with her noblest manhood and the blows which she has struck against an enemy quite as much as hers have had their full force in holding back the German invader from the free lands. On Vimy Ridge, that advanced point to which the Canadians carried the standard, they still stand like a rock. If the United States had answered the great call with the promptness and with the proportion of its man power with which Canada responded, the German armies would have been hurled back beyond the Rhine long ago. Yes— we take off our hats to Canada.

The Tank Battalion.

(Toronto News.)

How many men are required to "fight" one tank, how great a proportion of those enlisting in a tank battalion actually get into battle aboard one of His Majesty's land ships, and how many tanks can be manned by a unit such as the 1st Tank Battalion, Canadian Machine Gun Corps, which is now almost ready to proceed overseas?

The answers to these questions are simplified and made definite by an authoritative statement as to the establishment of a tank battalion. A tank crew consists—it is officially stated—of a subaltern a non-commissioner officer and seven privates. Each section has five tank crews, each company four sections and each battalion three companies. In other words, there are twenty tank crews to a company and sixty tank crews to a battalion. As sixty tanks can go "over the top" from one battalion, nine persons on board each tank, 540 of the 800 on the battalion get directly into action with the monsters and the proportion who stay behind is comparatively small.

When it is remembered that each battalion means sixty tanks and an unpublished number fo machine guns, the further intimation from the military authorities that other tank battalions are to be raised in the Dominion under the auspices of the Machine Gun Corps is interesting. The popularity of the tank service is easily explained by the fact that each man who enlists has a more than equal chance of getting into a battle crew, while practically all the lieutenants get command of a tank during action.

AVERTED THE DUEL.

Valor Vanished With the Choice of Weapons and Conditions.

Representative Borland of Missouri gives an account of the challenge to a duel which occurred in Louisiana, supposedly among the last challenges of that environment in the state. The affair was between a gentleman who belonged to one of the oldest families there and a sturdy blacksmith of Georgia, who had become a man of political influence.

The gentleman took offense at some remarks of the Georgian and sent him a challenge. The powerful blacksmith was nonplused.

"'I know nothing about this dueling business,' said he, 'and I positively will not fight.'

"'You must,' urged his friend. 'No gentleman can refuse.'

"'I am not a gentleman,' replied the honest citizen of Georgia. 'I'm only a blacksmith.'

"'But you will be ruined if you do not fight,' continued his friends. 'You will have the choice of weapons, and you can choose so as to give yourself an equal chance with your adversary.'

"The giant requested time to which to consider the matter and ended by accepting. He sent the following reply to the Louisiana gentleman:

"'I accept, and, in the exercise of my privilege, I stipulate that the duel shall take place in Lake Pontchartrain in six feet of water, sledgehammers to be used as weapons.'

"As his adversary was about five feet eight inches in height and the blacksmith who seven feet, the conceit of the latter so pleased the Louisiana gentleman that he declared himself satisfied, as he was one who could appreciate a joke as well as perpetrate one, and he declared the duel off."—Exchange.

Disease Thrives in Dirt.

If we cover with black paper one-half of a petri dish (a small circular glass tray with cover) in which bacteria are growing and then place the dish in a light warm place, for a few days, the growth of bacteria in the light part of the dish will be found to be checked, while growth continues in the covered part. It is a matter of common knowledge that disease germs thrive where dirt and darkness exist and are killed by any long exposure to sunlight. According to George W. Hunter's "Civic Biology" this shows us the need of light in our homes, especially in our bedrooms. —Popular Science Monthly.

CASES DEALT WITH TO-DAY BY HIS HONOUR JUDGE HUYCKE

News of the Loss of 25,000 Men to the Germans Did Not Improve the Chances For Getting Exemption.

CASES DEALT WITH

News of the loss of 25,000 Allied soldiers to the Germans proved an ill omen to the A2 men who came up this morning for further exemption at the Revision Tribunal. The facts as slated on the Examiner bulletin, showd the Judge a good purpose in illustrating the great need of more men and didn't held the exemptionists cause particularly.

The following cases were deal with:—

Daniel Kelley, default.

Leigh Forbes, default.

Leo Conway, Ennismore, had been exempted until he ceased to be a farmer. He works a 100 acre farm with his mother and father. His brother Michael works, a third brother, William's farm as he, William is forced through ill health to live in town. The case which has evidently a deserving one will be be considered. The Judge thought he would probably be given at least until the fall.

Large Production.

Robert H. Edwards, a Warsaw farmer, 30 years of age asked exemption on grounds of production. His brother is unable to do a man's work and the only other help is a 14 year old boy. They are the largest milk producers in the country and have a fair output of hog, cattle and root crops. The Judge thought he would have to go.

Domestic Grounds

Roy Allison, 875 Water Street, a grocer, allowed until class 2 was called, asked exemption on domestic grounds. Two brothers are overseas. He had been called home lately to carry on the business for his aged parents.—Decision deferred.

Over Age.

Hugh Claney, a B man is the only support of his widowed sister. He was 34 December 1916, although over age being so nearly eligible, he conscientiously reported, "to save any trouble," he said. If he can produce a certificate proving his age, he will probably be exempted.

TIE GAME USHERS IN THE BASEBALL SEASON

The baseball season was opened last evening at the Riverside Park when Jake Solomon's Alleys Club and the De Laval battled five innings in a drizzling rain for a six-six tie. In spite of the weather conditions a good sized crowd gathered to see the clash and although the wet ball made the work of the twirlers decidedly difficult the game was a fairly good exhibition. De Laval got an early start, and were leading by 4 to 0 at one stage and by 5 to 1 when the Alleys went to bat for the last time, but the Water street outfit staged a batting rally that sent five men over the plate, and sewed up the game.

The batteries were Kirn and Phelan for the Alleys and Sharpe and Taylor for the De Lavals.

BASEBALL

There will be a meeting of the representatives of the different baseball teams at the Empress Hotel, on Friday night, at 8.30 sharp, for the purpose of organizing a City League here.

The following teams have signified their intention of entering the league: De Laval, Thistles, Oddfellows, Riversides.

Send your representatives to the Empress Hotel on Friday night.

QUEEN MARY JUNIORS WIN GAME FROM KING GEORGE.

A very interesting game of baseball was played last evening at Queen Mary School between Queen Mary and King George Junior Teams. The Queen Marys won by a score of 9 to 8. The batteries were:

Queen Mary: Greene and Davis.

King George: Starr, Curtis and Lipsett.

O'TOOLE AND KELLY TOGETHER AGAIN

Marty O'Toole and Billy Kelly, the famous $28,500 battery of the Pittsburg Pirates of several years ago, are again battery mates, O'Toole has been with Omaha for two seasons, and now President Rourke of the Omaha club announes that he has secured Kelly, the catching end of the pair, for the Omaha team. Kelly has been with St. Louis Brown this spring. He will succeed Larry Pratt who has been released.

OPEN TRENT CANAL ON MONDAY NEXT

WORK HAS COST $16,500,000.

Connection of Lake Ontario With Lake Simcoe is Important.

OTTAWA, May 29. — The Trent Canal, which has now been completed from Lake Ontario to Lake Simcoe, will be formally opened for traffic by Hon. J. D. Reid, Minister of Railways and Canals, on Monday, June 3rd the King's Birthday. The occasion will not be marked by any elaborate ceremonies in view of the state of war. The Minister of Railways and those who accompany him will travel by train from Ottawa to Trenton, the Lake Ontario terminal of the canal. Thence they will make an inspection tour of the waterway by steamer, passing through Peterborough and going on to Lake Simcoe.

As has been said, communication has been established between Lake Ontario and Lake Simcoe by the completion of one section of the canal. Work on the Severn River section of the canal, however, has been suspended, and will not be resumed until after the war, because of the high cost of labour and material and of the demand for money for other more pressing objects. The opening of the channel to Lake Ontario, will likely prove useful, however, inasmuch as it will permit of the carriage of coal to Peterborough and other points on the canal by an all-water route. The Trent Canal has been under construction for more than a quarter of a century, and upon it some sixteen and a half million dollars have been expended. From Lake Ontario to Peterborough it has a depth of eight feet four inches, and from Peterborough on a depth of six feet six inches.

"KEEP OFF THE GRASS" AT THE FIRE HALL

Some of Peterborough's firemen will soon be eligible as landscape gardeners, judging by the vernal display in front of the fire hall. The earth turned up from the sewer has been turned into a veritable garden of Eden by Peterborough's fire fighters. Tufts of grass and burdock plants have been planted in profussion in the pile of gravel and a rail fence has been erected, together with a sign, "Keep off the Grass." It reminds one of the grounds of a French chateau in the hands of the Germans minus the chateau. Two rain pipes look grimly over the top of the embankment suggesting Germany's Black Maria.

PETERBORO TEACHER IS BEREAVED.

WIFE OF DEAN WALLACE OF VICTORIA COLLEGE IS DEAD.

After an illness of some weeks with pneumonia, the death occurred yesterday of Johanna (Joy) Wilson, beloved wife of Dean F. H. Wallace, of the Faculty of Theology, Victoria College, University of Toronto, at her late residence, 95 Bedford Road. The deceased lady was a daughter of the late Bishop Edward Wilson of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of the United States. Two sons and one daughter, with her husband, survive her. One son is a missionary in West China, while the other is on active service in England. The daughter is a teacher in the Collegiate Institute in Peterboro. The funeral (which will be private) will take place from her late residence to Mount Pleasant cemetery.

HAS BEEN AWARDED DISTINGUISHD SERVICE MEDAL.

Chief Engineer Frederick Nicholls, who is on active service on a British destroyer, has recently been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal in connection with the sinking of a German submarine. He is a brother-in-law of Mr. Fred Rappe, of this city.

$10 SUITS FOR SOLDIERS

Free Issue of Clothing to Men Discharged After Six Months' Service.

LONDON, May 30.—The amendment of the conditions under which Canadian soldiers discharged in the British Isles are supplied with civilian clothing has been promulgated. "It does not err on the side of generosity.

Soldiers who have completed six months' service are now entitled to free issue of civilian clothing based on the following scale. Suit $10, tie 25cents, collar 13 cents, hat 98 cents, overcoat (in winter months) $8.75. The men will also be allowed to retain their kit of necessary underwear, one pair of botts, two flannel shirts, and two pairs of socks. Soldiers discharged with less than six months' service will be charged on their pay account with the cost of clothing on the above quoted scale. If a man is discharged on account of injuries received on military duty, he gets an issue of civilian clothing free of charge. But what a suit at $10 can be like in these days is a puzzle.

$4,663.39 Is The Final Cost Of C.P.R. Footbridge To The City

Original Estimate of Expenditure Was $3,200—Weller Street Surface Drain is Too Costly at $1,420—Drains, Sidewalks and Other Incidentals Dealt With by Board of Works.

A BUSY SESSION

The city's share of the total cost of the C.P.R. footbridge is $4,663.39, according to a statement presented to the Board of Works last night by City Engineer Parsons. He reported the receipt of an account from the C.P.R. for $626.42 for the erection of the iron work, but the company later explained that this was an overcharge of $234.04, leaving $392.38 still due the C.P.R. Ald. Edgar moved, seconded by Ald. Saunders, that this bill be paid.

"We're going to have some overdrafts this year," was Mayor Duncan's laconic remark.

Ald. Edgar declared that the accommodation afforded by the footbridge was worth the cost.

Replying to Ald. A. A. McIntyre, Mr. Parsons stated that the estimated cost had been $3,200, but this was increased to $3,800 last year by the higher prices of material.

Weller Street Drainage.

Mr. Parsons presented his report on surface drainage from Weller Street, between Walton and Monaghan Road. His advice in part was as follows: The Edison drain ends at the corner of Weller and Walton Streets. From this point a 24-inch pipe can be run on a comparatively flat grade to a point about 460 feet west, just at the foot of the hill. There would be a catch basin on each side of the road at the end of this surface drain, and also about one-half way between the end and Walton Street, making four catch basins in all. The necessity for a pipe as large as this is that there is a considerable area drained from around the school. If this pipe was ever extended up so as to drain the corner of Monaghan Road and Weller Street, it would have ample capacity to do it.

The estimated cost of the 460 feet is $1,420. The high cost is due to the price of 24-inch pipe, which runs at about $2.00 a foot.

Mayor Duncan voiced the opinion of the Board when he said, "We had better let that soak awhile." In view of the heavy expenditure that would be entailed, and which would not be covered by frontage tax, the surface drain petitioned for will have to wait for more favourable conditions or a new method of meeting the cost of it.

Ald. Edgar moved, seconded by Ald. M. McIntyre, that the Council ask the Provincial Government to amend the Local Improvement Act to provide that surface drains may be constructed under the Local Improvement Act.

The only alternative, it was said, was a petition from the residents concerned that the work be carried out under the Drainage Act, which would apportion the cost on a frontage basis.

Wants Sidewalk Raised.

Mr. Robert Hicks asked the Board to raise the sidewalk in front of his home on Charlotte Street. There is a slight hollow there, which holds the water in spring, and creates a nuisance to pedestrians. Engineer Parsons was instructed to examine the conditions reported by Mr. Hicks and report to the Council next Monday night.

On Mayor Duncan's recommendation, Maude Street, between Princess and Lansdowne Streets, will be graded and finished off.

Dr. Scott requested permission to remove two basswood trees on the west side of Stewart Street, north of Hunter Street. This petition was granted.

"We might as well," said Mayor Duncan, "they are down already."

Offered to Buy Building.

Mr. E. Hurtubise bid $15 for the frame building on the north side of Ferry Street, which was used as a tool storehouse when the Park Street sewer was building.

Mayor Duncan—"Whoever said we didn't need that building was mistaken."

City Engineer—"We will use it as soon as we begin the sewers."

The building is about 12 ft. x 12 ft., and could not be built now for $50, one of the Aldermen stated.

No action was taken on Mr. Hurtubise's offer.

G. Walter Green asked for a crossing on McDonnel Street, opposite his foundry. Granted.

P. O'Toole requested a walk from 40 Centre Street to Caddy Street. Moved by Ald. Saunders, seconded by Ald. Jones, that the bridge over the drain at that point be raised one foot, and that a cinder walk be laid. Carried.

Acting on Mayor Duncan's report of a complaint from M. Kirn, the City Engineer was instructed to examine the drainage in the district of Bethune Street, north of Smith Street.

Mr. Parsons remarked that this work was attended to two years ago, and at that time it was believed that satisfactory facilities were provided.

Poles on Reserve.

Permission was granted the Utilities Commission to erect a line of poles for high voltage wires on the reserve highway from the corner of Water and Charlotte Streets to the old Otonabee power sub-station at the east end of Simcoe Street.

Investigate Encroachments.

Ald. Edgar moved, seconded by Ald. Taylor, that the City Solicitor look into the encroachments on the reserve from Charlotte Street (east end) to the sub-station near the end of Simcoe Street, and advise the Council as to what steps should be taken to protect public rights to that strip.

Must Remove Anchor.

Ald. Saunders moved, seconded by Ald. Taylor, that the Bell Telephone Co. be notified to remove the anchor holding the wire in front of Mr. James Curran's house at the corner of Lake and Aylmer Street. Carried.

Sherbrooke Street Drainage.

The Board reached a deadlock on Ald. Edgar's motion to clean out the ditch on the north side of Sherbrooke Street, and to replace the approaches to the cement culvert with larger pipes that will carry off the water and prevent it from spilling over into the street.

Some of the members preferred to have the Engineer report on the cost of the work, which was generally conceded to be necessary.

Finally Ald. A. A. McIntyre moved a new motion, embodying Ald. Edgar's request. The latter seconded it, and it carried.

Wants Road Oil.

A letter signed by "Mrs. Harper," hoping the Council would show more foresight than its predecessors, urged that oil be sprayed on Crescent Street, from Lock Street to the Cemetery, and in the north end to the Isolation Hospital.

"Some one will ask us to oil the road to Lakefield next," commented the Mayor with a trace of impatience, and the letter was received.

Hunter Street Bridge.

In answer to Ald. M. McIntyre's query respecting the progress of the preliminary work on the Hunter Street Bridge, Mr. Parsons stated that on Tuesday he had engaged an instrument man, Mr. Perks, a returned soldier. "He is a good man," said the City Engineer, "and the work should go on fine. We will have the survey completed within two weeks and the plans ready in three or four more. After that I think they should be checked up by a consulting engineer."

A Child Gets Cross, Sick And Feverish When Constipated

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated clean little liver and bowels.

If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well playful child again.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

YOUTH GETS CHOICE OF WORK OR JAIL

First Case Under New Law Against Loafing and Idleness

Harold Milligan was told by Magistrate Dumble yesterday afternoon that he either had to go to work or to jail. He received the distinction of being the first Peterborough man to be arrested under the new Act that banns "loafing" and idleness. Milligan, who said he was eighteen years old, has been a frequenter of poolrooms, hotels and other places far from employment offices, according to the testimony of Detective Meagher.

Chief Thompson remarked that he feared Milligan was hopelessly lazy. The young man said he was offered a job at the new Duffus garage, and was supposed to report last Friday.

"That was a public holiday," he excused himself, "and I had arranged to go fishing, so I went."

Milligan said there were no jobs in town, and invited the Chief to get him one.

"You come to my place at seven o'clock to-morrow morning," said the Magistrate, "and I will find work for you. I will adjourn this case for one week, and if you are not working then you go to jail. Remember you must report to Chief Thompson what you are doing."

PETERBORO BOY HAS JOINED THE UNITED STATES' NAVY.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Gallop, Charlotte street, have just received word that their son, Harold, has signed up with the United States navy, and is now in training at Camp Farragut, Great Lakes, Illinois. Harold has been on the office staff, as stationer, with the Portland Universal Cement Company, at Buffington, Indiana, for the past eighteen months.

MEMORIAL DAY WAS OBSERVED IN THE STATES

The Event Was Solemnized as "A Day of Public Humiliation, Prayer and Fasting"

(Canadian Press.)

Washington, May 30—Memorial day this year, carrying deeper meaning, because of the fuller participation of the United States in the war, and the more significant because of the new American graves in France, was observed to-day by the American people as "a day of humiliation, prayer and fasting," in accordance with the proclamation of President Wilson issued in response to a resolution of Congress. While in no manner was honour annually shown to the Veterans of past wars lessened, yet the thought of the nation largely was centred on the battle fields of France, where the German military machine is engaged in another drive against the forces of democracy. That the American troops are aiding in an attempt to stem the German ride, was a source of satisfaction, as well as the recent news that the Americans had carried out successfully their first offensive action. Further news of the German offensive was awaited with a feeling among the high officials here that the attempt to beat down the allied resistance would fail, and that the onrush of the Kaiser's armies soon would be stopped.

MIND-READER TRIED; JUDGMENT DEFERRED

Interesting Case at Chapleau, Which Judge Says is a Novel One.

CHAPLEAU, May 30. — "Doctor" Zell Hunt, who was arrested here on May 4th while conducting public exhibitions of hypnotism and mind-reading in the Opera House, charged with telling fortunes in violation of the Criminal Code, and who on the strength of the evidence adduced at the preliminary hearing was sent up for trial, was arraigned at the assize court in session here before Judge Kehoe of Sudbury.

Crown Attorney Miller conducted the prosecution, and the prisoner was defended by Geo. Buchanan of Sudbury.

A number of witnesses called by the Crown testified that Hunt had made a stated charge of $2 for each mind-reading interview, in which he had given advice as to the future and also concerning the health of his interviewers.

Under examination the prisoner admitted that, although he called himself "doctor," he had no license to practice medicine in Ontario. When sworn Hunt refused to kiss the Bible or to divulge his religious affiliations. He claimed to have studied at Heidelburg University in Germany.

Crown Attorney Miller contended that mind-reading as Hunt practised it here was a "crafty science," and as such an offence against the Criminal Code. "I submit he was telling fortunes," he said.

Judge Kehoe in summing up the evidence, said: "This is a novel case, and Canadian decisions throw no great light upon it."

The case has aroused great interest here, many well-known people being involved.

Peterborough Boy Is Enjoying Life With The Flying Corps

Lieut. Killoran is in Charge of a Heavy Bombing Machine, Weighing Over Two Tons.

NOW IN ENGLAND

Mrs. L. E. Killoran, 480 Albert street, has received the following letter from her son, 2nd Lieut. Joseph Killoran of the Royal Army Flying Corps now stationed in England.

Lake Down, May 10th, 1918.

Dear Mother,—Since last writing I have been posted to a squadron and am now settled down to camp life again. We had eight days' leave in London and last Tuesday we were posted to a flying camp near Salisbury. Salisbury is about 80 miles from London and our camp is about 7 miles from Salisbury town. We are living in tents and I like it very well. Each of us have a portable camp outfit consisting of folding canvas cot, canvas wash basin and bath, canvas chair and a sleeping bag. We have batmen to look after our tents, make beds, shine boots and carry water, etc. They do not rush things very much in camp here and so our hours are not too long. I will be flying a big, heavy bombing machine, weighing over two tons with a 230 h.p. engine and capable of doing 125 miles per hour, at 25,000 ft. altitude. It is positively the best job in aviation to-day, as the machine is faster than most German machines and carries a gunner out near the tail for extra protection.

The camp and country around us is very pretty. Our tents are situated on a green hillside between two little woods, there is no mud and you could not wish for nicer camping ground. Our mess is very good, too, and although we do not get things as we like them in Canada, still we get enough to eat. They supply jam and syrup to take the place of sugar and porridge, etc.

I have not met any of the fellows from Canada over here and only six of the bunch I came with are in this camp. They scatter us all over England and Scotland. Tell Mrs. Jackson I will correspond with Bill and so get that stuff to him. There is no telling how long I will be held in England. It might be two months and it might be five or even more. I have been expecting letters at Cecile Hotel but none have arrived so far.

Your Loving Son,
JOE.

Suddards who had been held on a charge of perjury, alleged to have been committed in giving his testimony at the inquest, which was held here on Friday, May 17th by Deputy Fire Marshal James F. Lewis, into the circumstances and cause of the fire which destroyed Mr. Suddards' house at 168 Hazlett street on Friday, April 5th.

Magistrate Dumble immediately dismissed the case, stating that he entirely agreed with Mr. Hatton. Incidentally, Mr. F. D. Kerr, counsel for Mr. Suddards, sharply criticized the manner in which Deputy Fire Marshal Lewis had conducted his hearing.

"He gave the straight lie to Suddards," Mr. Kerr said, "declaring that such expressions were totally at variance with judicial conduct. "He's at the wrong job," Mr. Kerr continued, and expressed strong objections to the treatment to which Suddards had been subject under examination by Mr. Lewis.

The Crown called only one witness, Mrs. Mary Rollo, whose evidence, Mr. Hatton pointed out, was entirely opposite to that which she gave at the Fire Marshal's inquest.

"It is not for me to cross-examine my own witness," Mr. Hatton explained. "We have no further evidence."

Comparison of Statements.

The conflict of statements that developed yesterday afternoon may be plainly indicated by comparing the evidence Mrs. Rollo gave before Mr Lewis with her testimony yesterday. The following is from the report of the conclusion of the fire inquiry o nFriday, May 17th:

"This morning Suddards had declared that on the night of April 3rd he had taken a cupboard from the Hazlett street house for the purpose o delivering it to Mrs. Rollo, to whom he said, he had sold it for $1.50.

"This afternoon, when Mrs. oll who lives at Antrim street, and boarded at Suddards' home on Aylmer street until April 28th, was called, she stated that she didn't know Suddards had anything to sell.

After the fire, she said, she had seen the cupboard in the shed of the Aylmer street house.

"I asked Mr. Suddards if he would sell it to me and he agreed. That was the first time I saw it or knew he had the sideboard."

Mr. Lewis—"Did he bring it there for the purpose of selling it to you?"

Mrs. Rollo—"No."

The witness was positive that it was after the fire on Hazlett street that she offered to buy the sideboard.

Yesterday's Statement.

Mrs. Rollo's evidence yesterday on the point of when she offered to buy the sideboard was as follows:

Mr. Hatton—Did you discuss with Suddards how the fire happened?

Mrs. Rollo—Oh yes, we talked about it.

Mr. Hatton—When was it first mentioned?

Mrs. Rollo—The next morning at breakfast.

Mr. Hatton—When did you first discuss the sideboard?

Some time before the fire. I heard Mr. Suddards say he had one for sale and I told him I would buy it if it suited me.

When was that?

During the week before the fire.

Where was it discussed?

At supper. Mr. and Mrs. Suddards, Miss Armstrong, Mrs. Suddards' brother and myself were there.

When did you next discuss it.

After the sideboard was brought to the house on Aylmer street, I saw it in the back kitchen. That was before the fire. I told Mr. Suddards that when my money came I would give him $1.50.

Magistrate Dumble—What did Suddards say?

He said he'd leave it to his "missus."

Did you consider the sideboard was yours?

Not until I paid for it.

Did Mrs. Suddards give her consent?

I never learned whether she did or not.

Did you get possession of it?

No. I don't know where it is.

Mr. Hatton—Was it before or after the first time you saw the sideboard at Suddards' house that you first discussed the price or purchase of it?

It was before the fire.

Mr. Hatton—That's not an answer to my question.

Mr. Kerr—The question isn't clear.

Mrs. Rollo—I hadn't seen it when I offered to buy it.

Mr. Kerr insisted that this question had been answered previously when the witness said she would give $1.50 for it, if it suited her.

Evil of Substitution Exposed.

A dealer substitutes because he makes more profit on an inferior article. A local citizen was induced to take a substitute for Putnam's Corn Extractor, with the result that the substitute burnt his toes and failed to cure. Putnam's contains no acid and is guaranteed. Always get Putnam's Extractor, 25c, at all dealers.

"RECORD, RECORD, WHO'S GOT A RECORD?"

The hospital ward was big and bare, just a huge figure in officer's khaki on his daily inspection, or perhaps a nurse bending over some helpless form, broke the uniform sameness of the rows and rows of white cots. In the centre of the room within earshot of all, a talking machine had been placed. To these wounded soldiers this was a gift from the skies, for music will soothe the sick, cheer the lonely and brighten the lives of all its hearers. On this particular morning "Silver Threads Among the Gold" had been played twice, "Annie Laurie" had been encored three times, while "Casey Jones," being the favourite, was played on the moving dial over five times. Can you blame the soldiers for not receiving much inspiration and cheer when just three records had been allotted their ward owing to such a limited supply?

This is just one instance of the many that occur in our military hospitals and rest homes, throughout the country, where thousands of returned soldiers are being cared for and who have some sound reproducing machine or player piano, but a very poor and meagre assortment of records or player rolls. Can you not start to-day looking through your cabinets and sort out the records that no longer interest you and have become useless.

Think what it will mean to these various Soldier Homes and Hospitals to receive the selection of records that you have sent them, in care of your local branch of the Red Cross. So let's make this the record campaign for our country's heroes.

The Germans Make Repeated Attempts, etc.

tempts to break through the defense in the Soissons region, but were each time held up by the determined French resistance. In the centre of the German advance, fighting is taking place in the neighbourhood of Vezilly (approximately 18 miles south of Chemine Des Dames), where the German attack was launched on Monday.

OBJECTIVE IS REVEALED.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, May 30. — Allied reserves are now taking up positions in the battle line. They are being thrown in to strengthen defending forces where they are the weakest, in preparation for the placing of a barrier to a further German advance.

Fresh enemy divisions have been brought forward hastily to take the places of those exhausted by the advance of the last three days and continued pressure on the Allies. The territory south of Vesle River, which the Germans have crossed at several points, is more difficult for attack. Now that the Allied command has reached the conclusion that the enemy intends this rush to be his chief attack, prompt measures are being taken to stay the movement.

WILL SOON BE DAMMED.

PARIS, May 30.—The German flood will soon be dammed says a semi-official note issued to-day summarizing the situation between Rheims and Soissons. The note says: The Germans again progressed yesterday, but while on the one hand they failed to pierce our line, on the other it is comforting to observe that their march was slackened considerably by arrival of our reserves.

As these come into play balance will gradually be resorted.

The French commander retains the undiminished confidence, based as it is on the power of our resource and the incomparable valour of our soldiers.

Attempt To Raid Paris

ONE GERMAN MACHINE WAS BROUGHT DOWN.

(Canadian Press.)

Paris, May 30.—German airplanes were not able to penetrate the French defense in an attempt to raid Paris last night. Several points behind the battle line, however, were bombed by the enemy. One German machine was brought down.

TO PAVE OLIVE AVE?

Residents Ask For Price of the Work, Saying They Are Willing to Pay.

Olive avenue, a by-street off Perry street, aspires to the estate of paved roads. In other words, Mayor Duncan announced last night the residents are willing to pay the cost of a paved roadway, and the City Engineer was asked to prepare an estimate of the work. There are twelve houses on the street and it is proposed that the cost be apportioned among them on a basis to which they have agreed. The residents will have to put in sewer, gas and water pipes if they are not already in and have everything complete for a pavement, if the cost is not prohibitive.

PLENTY SUGAR FOR PRESERVING SEASON

Food Board Says No Danger of Famine.

It is stated by the Canada Food Board that its success in securing ships for the transportation of raw sugar to this country and the saving effected by the regulations now in force, have together resulted in a marked improvement in the sugar situation.

The board considers it is able to give the public its assurance that, with economies in sugar, there will be a sufficient supply for preserving and canning the maximum fruit and vegetable crop that can be produced in Canada.

The statement adds that this must not be taken as an indication that restrictions are no longer necessary. Care will have to be exercised, but there is no danger of anything in the nature of a sugar famine and if the public will do their share there will be no shortage for the canning and preserving season.

GEN. SIR SAM HUGHES DEFENDS THE Y. M. C. A.

EX-MINISTER OF MILITIA SAYS IT IS A SPLENDID ORGANIZATION.

"The Y.M.C.A. was a splendid organization during my administration of the Militia Department, and I have heard nothing until the recent resolution passed at Hamilton by the G.W.V.A. convention, which would lead me to think otherwise," was the statement made by General Sir Sam Hughes when interviewed in Toronto yesterday.

"In my opinion the G. W. V. A. were ill-advised to pass such wholesale condemnation as was voiced at the recent convention in Hamilton," continued Sir Sam. "Carping general criticism will never help the veterans attain the desires we all wish for them.

"The Y.M.C.A. has performed a service that no organization I know of could possibly perform. When I was Minister of Militia I personally saw to it that the prices charged were fair and just."

SIR JOSEPH FLAVELLE REBUKES HIS CRITICS

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Ont., May 30.—A rebuke to non-constructive criticism in the matter of Canadian war efforts was administered in the course of an interview by Sir Jos. Flavelle, chairman of the Imperial Munitions Board. Sir Joseph had particular reference to the British Columbia shipyard strike and to the charge that it was largely due to lack of leadership by the Board.

"People," he remarked, "overlook the fact that a great body of men are at present giving their time absolutely without renumeration to the direction of these industries."

Speaking generally of the work of the Board in Canada the chairman stated that 15 per cent. of the total expenditure of the ministry of munitions for the last half of 1917 had been made in Canada and 155 per cent. of all the 18-lb. shell for British forces on all fronts had been made here, and of other calibre shells there had been a proportionate output.

The Board, he said, had expended a total of $950,000,000.

"There should be praise instead of criticism," said Sir Joseph Fravelle.

Protest Against The Ghastly Slaughter

Prisoners Murdered By Germans and Finnish Troops

Canadian Press:

LONDON May 30.—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—A Russian wireless despatch says the central committee of Finnish workmen protests against the white terrorism of Finland, and states that 70,000 citizens, the majority of them social democrats, including 30,000 civilians, has been imprisoned and brutally treated. The ghastly wholesale slaughter of prisoners was committed by Finnish troops, assisted by Germans, in one day one hundred and fifty-eight women prisoners being killed. Many Sisters of Mercy of the Red Guard were killed without trial. Field courts martial are still condemning prisoners to death en masse, although the war is over. The Fininsh proletariate calls out to the civilized world in the name of humanity to stop this mad white terrorism.

"GET IT IN THE NECK"

Up Goes the Price of Men's Collars —25 Cents Each Now.

TORONTO, May 30.—All sorts and kinds of collars of Canadian or American rake are now retailing for 25 cents each in Toronto stores, and the dealers have had to pay the increased price of $2.00 a dozen since the 22nd of the month. Cotton scarcity is the cause of the rise, and the fact that it did not come earlier was due only to the fact that some firms had on hand a large supply of cotton, and were not obliged to purchase until recently. English collars stand at 30 cents.

One Yonge street dealer thought that prices in the States had also been raised. Dealers do not anticipate a rise in the price of shirts.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30. — Thos. J. Mooney, convicted of murder in connection with the Preparedness Day bomb explosion here in 1916, has been re-sentenced to be hanged on an indeterminate date not less than sixty nor more than ninety days from this date, at St. Quentin prison.

Sewers On Princess And Nearby Streets To Be Built Soon

Messrs. W. W. Yale, J. O. Fife, Fred Holmes, H. Bonney, H. Castle and S. Brooks, composed a delegation from Princess street that reminded the Board of Works last night that south end sewers, some of them promised years ago, have not yet been constructed.

Mr. Yale spoke of the necessity of a sewer on Princess street, and Mr. Fife recalled the assurances of former Councils that the street would be given every service. On that expectation the street had been built up, and Mr. Fife said that he had been interested in the building of no less than seven houses.

The Board decided to undertake sewer work as soon as the City Engineer can get a working gang together. Princess, Prince Romaine and George streets constitute the present sewer programme. Full control is placed in the City Engineer's hands with respect to engaging a foreman and supervising the work.

CONTROL FLEA BEETLES.

The small dark coloured "flea beetles," one-twentieth to one-quarter of an inch in length, so-called from their habit of leaping or jumping, eat holes into the leaves of turnips, radishes, potatoes, tomatoes and other vegetables. They are most injurious in spring, when the young seed leaves are often visited by large numbers of the insects and quickly destroyed. The Potato Flea Beetle feeds upon the foliage of the potato, tomato, cabbage, cucumber, bean, tobacco, squash, etc. The Turnip Flea Beetle, also, occurs regularly in the vegetable garden. The Red-headed Flea Beetle is destructive to potatoes and beans. Infested plants should be promptly sprayed with an arsenical mixture containing either Paris green or arsenate of lead, or with Bordeaux mixture alone. The latter acts as a deterrent.

PLAYGROUNDS ASSOCIATION HELD A MEETING LAST EVENING

Mr. J. W. Worth Occupied the Chair —The Proposed Campaign

Enthusiasm and splendid attendance marked the meeting last night in the Public Library, of the Playgrounds Association. Mr. J. Worth, chairman of the Finance Committee, occupied the chair.

SUGGESTED CAMPAIGN.

Advertising and more advertising, was the principal clause of a clever suggestion made by Mr. Worth, for the raising of funds to carry on the Playgrounds. In his address to the Association, Mr. Worth reminded the meeting of the pledged word of the people to the soldiers that we would look after the children and wives. Now, we must remember what our duty is; remembering the restraining influence of properly organized and supervised play, the education imparted under pleasant conditions. Remember that over half the children who used to attend the playgrounds last year were those of soldiers from homes which now lack the disciplining influence of a father.

THE CAMPAIGN.

Mr. Worth suggested that before starting an active canvass, a thorough advertising campaign must be undertaken. Rather than heap up expense a mutual benefit scheme might be feasible by which the leading firms might be asked to donate a portion of their advertising space to the playgrounds campaign and aims. This co-operative scheme would result in advertising the firms as well as the playgrounds campaign. Mr. Worth suggested a house to house canvass.

NO CANVASS

The scheme suggested by Mr. Worth was adopted with the exception of the house to house canvass, regard being taken for the fact that the ladies have only just completed one for the rags and waste paper, and for the fact that during the registration of man power most of the ladies will be employed. The rest of the scheme will be followed and will be supplemented by a canvass for members and funds. Each canvasser will be supplied with a paper signed by Mr. Worth authorizing him to canvass for funds for the Playgrounds Association.

Rowand of St. Andrews, they returned to the home of the bride which was prettily decorated with carnations and sat down to a dainty supper after which the evening was pleasantly spent. TRANSPLANTING.

This is a good time for transplanting and much care has to be exercised in bringing the tender growths out into the open air. Cabbage, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, celery and tomatoes should be purchased rather than grown from the start in the amateur's garden. When buying plants, care must be taken to see that there is plenty of soil in the box and that there is a large root system.

Work swiftly in the garden, making the holes with the hoe or with a round stick. When the plants have been placed in the hollows press the soil just enough to give the roots thorough contact with the earth, allowing no air spaces to remain under the surface. A cloudy day or just before nightfall is the best time for transplanting.

If the gardener has started his own plants indoors in seed boxes or pots, they should be "hardened off" before being set out in the garden. That is to say, they should be placed at open windows and given less and less water until they are finally taken out. The boxes must not be allowed to become so dry, however, that the plants wilt. After a few days, the plants can be left outdoors uncovered all day, and even on mild nights. Then they are ready for transplanting. The hardening process requires about two weeks.

Remove water spots from a dress by dampening in lukewarm water; then place a piece of cloth over the water spots on the right side and press until both pieces of material are dry.

The Crop Situation In The West Is Critical

No Justification For the Optimistic Reports, Says C. W. Peterson—The Farm Help Now Available is of Very Inferior Quality

LABOUR IS THE REAL PROBLEM

OTTAWA, May 31.— C. W. Peterson, deputy fuel controller, has just returned from an extended visit to the Prairie Provinces on official business. While West he conferred with the various Provincial Governments and fuel administrators regarding coal supplies and the "buy-your-coal-early" publicity campaign which is now in full swing west of Lake Superior. He attended a conference of coal mine operators at Calgary, of which increased production and better preparation were the main features. In the absence of serious labour troubles, he says, it seems likely that the lignite mines of Alberta will be able to cope with the added burden of supplying Manitoba and Saskatchewan with domestic fuel next winter.

Commenting on the crop situation Mr. Peterson stated that to make estimates of probable crop production at this stage when the grain has hardly been seeded was, of course, absurd, but he was unable to find any justification whatever for the highly optimistic reports that seemed to have found their way into the newspapers of the East. If pressed for an opinion he could only say that the crop situation generally appeared to be very critical indeed.

Asked as to the labour situation in Western Canada, Mr. Peterson stated that the smaller farmers seemed by unusual exertions to have been able to get their crops seeded within the safe time limit. On the larger places, however, the situation was rapidly becoming intolerable.

"How even a fair crop is to be harvested this year with the class and volume of labour now available in the country," added Mr. Peterson, "is a puzzle. I hardly like even to speculate on it. The real problem seems to be the general inferior class of farm labour now available and the attitude of the men towards their employers."

Uses of Turpentine.

Turpentine, either in resinous form or in spirits, has a household value. A child suffering with the croup or any throat or lung difficulty will be quickly relieved by inhaling the vapor and having the chest rubbed until the skin is red and then being wrapped about with flannel moistened with fiery spirits. Afterward sweet oil will save the skin from irritation. In the case of burns and scalds turpentine has no equal. It is the best dressing for patent leather; it will remove paint from artists' clothes and workmen's garments; it will drive away moths if a few drops are put into closets and chests; it will persuade mice to find other quarters if a little is poured into the mouse holes; one tablespoonful added to the water in which linens are boiled will make the goods wonderfully white; a few drops will prevent starch from sticking; mixed with beeswax it makes the best floor polish, and mixed with sweet oil it is unrivaled as a polish for fine furniture; the latter mixture should be two parts of sweet oil to one part of turpentine. Some physicians recommend spirits of turpentine, applied externally, for lumbago and rheumatism. It is also prescribed for neuralgia of the face.—Woman's Home Companion.

Women No Longer Slaves.

Korean women are no longer slaves of their husbands as in former days, but are ready to assert their rights. Many of them, no longer depend on their husbands for support as of old, but try to obtain their own living by engaging in various branches of industry. Some of the younger women have gone to Japan of late to work in factories, and whenever invitations are issued by factories in large cities such as Seoul and Pyongyang for girls or women, the applications invariably exceed the number required. There is no doubt that this is largely due to the growing economic pressure felt by the Korean people but it is also partly due to the sense of independence that their women-folk now entertain. The time does not seem to be remote, when the Korean woman will be as independent as their Japanese sisters.

Take "Cascarets" If Headachy, Bilious And Constipated

Best for liver and bowels, bad breath, bad colds, sour stomach.

Get a 10-cent box.

Sick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, head and nose clogged up with a cold— always trace this to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels, or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months.

Warning.

For the benefit of automobile users we will repeat the warning not to run an internal combustion motor in a closed garage under any circumstances, says the Scientific American. Contrary to the general impression, the gas that produces such sudden and fatal result has no odor whatever, and a surprisingly small percentage of the gas is fatal. Moreover, in most cases the gas gives absolutely no warning of its presence and the victim has no chance, the first sign of its presence being a sudden, total and helpless collapse.

What appears a saving in price is actually an extravagance when you buy ordinary poor tea. Salada yields twice as many cups to the pound, hence its economy.

FINE HOSTEL OPENED FOR TORONTO TROOPS

Salvation Army Provides Splendid Quarters For Soldiers at the Corner of King and Church Streets

TORONTO, May 31. — Hostels for soldiers have become essential adjuncts to city life in the present war dispensation, and with the opening of the new Salvation Army Hostel on the corner of King and Church streets, Toronto, has now two of the finest of these institutions in existence.

The opening ceremony, which took place on Wednesday, was a bright and happy occasion, as all S. A. occasions are. Mayor Church after partaking of a lavish luncheon with many other prominent citizens, emerged from the side door at 2 o'clock, followed by those citizens, with bare heads and tight waistcoats, and, proceeding to the front entrance on King street, his Worship flourished a key and straightway declared the building open.

Nothing Too Good For Soldiers.

"Nothing is too good for the soldiers," said Lieut.-Col. George H. Williams, in the course of the speeches that followed.

"Does that include Rosedale?" interjected the Mayor.

It can be said, however, that there is nothing better in Rosedale than the new S. A. Hostel for Soldiers.

It has all the appointments of a first-class hotel—without the first-class bill next morning. At this hostel a soldier can secure a single bed in a room to himself for one dollar per night, or five dollars per week.

Prices Are Moderate.

He can have a semi-private room for 40 and 50 cents, or he can sleep in a sumptuous dormitory, as sweet and neat as an hospital, for 30 cents per night with a free shower bath and recreation room included.

As for "the eats," not even a Kiltie could complain. With a cup of tea for three cents, and victuals at an equally moderate price, a frugal soldier might almost secure bed and breakfast for 50 cents under S. A. auspices. And if, perchance, he honestly has not "the price," he need not go bed-and-breakfast-less.

Once a German Rendezvous.

There is more than a touch of irony in the fact that this palatial billet for British soldiers was once the rendezvous of Toronto's elect German "citizens." In the pre-war days those Teutons in exile foregathered in this hostel to drink to "Der Tag," and, under the influence of lager, to dream of a world of kultur and "Deutschland Uber Alles."

This is one of a chain of S. A. hostels for soldiers that will stretch across the Dominion for the benefit of the mass of soldiery that is fluctuating back and forth between the battlefield and the home vases.

There is already a similar institution at Kingston, Ont., which has proved a great benefit to the passing soldier. The Toronto Hostel is under the management of Commandant and Mrs. Watson.

Hon. Dr. Cody Speaks.

The first speaker at the opening ceremony was Hon. Dr. H. J. Cody, Minister of Education, who said he brought greetings and good wishes from Premier Hearst, who he said, had always been interested in the work of the Salvation Army. Dr. Cody said that every effort to give the departing and returning soldiers a welcome and a home should be encouraged. He was glad that the Salvation Army had never separated humanitarian activities from its spiritual activities. No power was sufficient to make men and women new again like the old power which they proclaimed so fervently. He was sure that the hostel would find a great field for its activities and that the sign of the Red Triangle and the S. S. would be harmonious signs which would stand for the same service to the men in khaki.

Tribute From Police Chief.

Col. Grasett, Chief of Police, paid a a tribute to the work of the Salvation Army in connection with the "seamy side" and the "underworld" of city life, with which the police were so intimately acquainted. As an old soldier who had experiences of some rough billets in the old days Col. Grasett thought the new soldiers had fallen upon happier days.

Mr. G. A. Warburton, General Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. said he was present as an evidence that there was no such thing as competition between the Red Triangle and the S. A. Hostel. Christian men should approve of all things that were excellent, and he regarded the Salvation Army as one of the most efficient agencies for doing good. It gave visibility to Christian helpfulness. Every form of Christianity should express itself in practical service.

Rev. Dr. W. H. Hincks, representing the Methodist church, said he believed in a Christianity that took a lonely man by the hand and shook the loneliness out of him.

Good Wishes From Military.

Col. G. H. Williams represented Col. Bickford, and Mr. O'Connor wished the hostel every success in behalf of the Great War Veterans. Commissioner Richards also spoke.

Among those present at the luncheon were: Controllers Robbins and Maguire, Dr. Steele, Chairman of the Board of Education, J. D. Laidlaw,

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receipts yesterday 31 cars, with 71 cattle, 275 calves, 1368 hogs and 45 sheep and lambs.

The Woman Who Changed

By JANE PHELPS

THE NEW CAR IS CHRISTENED

CHAPTER LXXX.

The next morning I called Evelyn. She had already heard from Clark and had consented to go.

"It will be awfully jolly," she said, "I saw him go back in the car, yesterday, and it is a peach."

It was.

A high powered touring car with an especial body. It could seat five comfortably, but really was designed for only four. The seat in the tonneau was built up very high in the back, so that no wind struck the back of one's neck when riding. The front seat was lower, but also protected.

"Will you take the front seat beside me?" Clark asked as we stood on the walk. "Mrs. Reeve and your brother can entertain each other."

Just a suspicion crossed my mind, but I at once dismissed it.

Had he asked Evelyn with that thought in mind? Did he plan to have me sit with him?

"I'll ride with you, going, then change with either David or Evelyn coming back," I said as I let Clark help me to my seat.

"That's a good idea," Evelyn said. "You can come back with me, then your brother can sit in front with Mr. Huntington."

We started off in great good spirits. We rode far out in the country, then stopped at a little road house—a quaint little place, set back from the road, surrounded by trees and vines, with every available space filled with flowers - old fashioned, kitchen garden flowers.

A Real Country Luncheon.

I never had seen the place, before, and was delighted with it. Clark ordered the luncheon. We were too busy looking around the yard to pay any attention to what he ordered so it was all a surprise.

We had great, foamy pitchers of milk to drink a cold roast chicken, hot biscuits and honey, then luscious strawberries with cream so thick we could scarcely pour it from the dainty little blue-and-white pitchers.

It was all delicious, and we ate boyishly said he was "full enough to bust."

After we had rested a while on the broad verandah, Clark told us to pick all the flowers we wanted; he had made arrangements with the dear old lady who owned the place. She came out while we were doing as he said, and she helped us. Such a wonderful looking car as it was when we finally started toward home. Flowers on our laps, in front of us on the floor of the car, and on the seat beside us.

I made up my mind to tell George of the place. He and I would drive out, some Saturday or Sunday, and have luncheon. He couldn't help but be charmed with the quaint place and the delicious food.

I rode with Evelyn, going back. Just why Clark had cared who sat beside him, I couldn't understand, for he had hardly spoken all the way out—was busy driving the car.

"Trying to get used to it," he said. He was a very fast, although I do not think a particularly reckless, driver. But the machine was a different make from either of the others he owned and he was interested in its management.

An Unwelcome Meeting.

We were within a couple of miles of home when I saw a machine approaching us. Someway, it looked familiar. Then, just as we passed each other in a cloud of dust, I saw that it was our car, and that George and a woman swathed in veils were the occupants.

I said nothing, although I knew that Evelyn had also recognized George. I only hoped that David had not. He had been talking animately with Clark, when they passed; both cars were going at such a high rate of speed that I hardly believed he had noticed who was driving the other car. I knew if he had I should be in for a bad half hour when we reached home.

I felt sick. In a way, I suppose I should have thought that George had just as much right to take a woman for a motor ride as I had to go with Clark. But, someway, it seemed so different. He never would take me anywhere during business hours; he always objected when I wanted to go in the touring car. Then I wasn't alone with Clark, and he was with that woman, whoever she was. Another thing, too: George didn't care. He wasn't the least bit jealous of me. And I DID care, I WAS jealous. I wished I could make him feel about me as I did about him. I would be sure he loved me, if I could. Now I thought sometimes he cared a little for me, and again that he cared not at all.

It was a full hour before dinner, when Clark drew up to the curb. Evelyn lived further down-town. He would drop her afterward.

David and I were loaded with the lovely flowers, when we climbed the steps, and so, laughing and seemingly care-free, we bade Clark and Evelyn good-bye. I immediately called for vases to arrange the flowers before they would wilt, and I kept Annie with us until they were all arranged to my liking. David had no chance to say anything private.

To-morrow—David speaks his mind.

AWFUL ATTACKS OF HEART TROUBLE

EASED BY SECOND DOSE OF Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills

One of the first danger signals announcing something wrong with the heart is the irregular beat or violent throb. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or an "all-gone" sinking feeling, or, again you may experience a smothering sensation, gasp for breath and feel as though about to die.

In such cases the action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in quieting the heart, restoring its normal beat and imparting tone to the nerve centres, is, beyond question, marvellous.

Mrs. Frank Arseneau, Newcastle, N.B., writes: "I have awful attacks of heart trouble for the past five or six years, and as I had tried many kinds of medicine without getting any better, I decided to give Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills a trial, and to my surprise I found ease from the second dose. I continued taking them until I had used six boxes, and now I feel as well as can be.

"At present my sister is taking them for nervousness, and finds great comfort by their use."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A BROKEN TYRANT.

The Statue of Napoleon Serves as a Symbol.

There is a statue in the Corcoran Gallery of Art in Washington that repays study in these strenuous days. It will restore high ideals and demonstrate again the truth that unbridled ambition is foredoomed to failure. It is the statue of a man old, sick, powerless, alone, prisoner, dying—Vela's presentation in marble of the last days at St. Helena of that almost-conqueror of the western world, Napoleon I.

Napoleon sits in an armchair with a pillow at his back and his feet resting on a cushion. His dressing-gown lies open, showing one sunken and emaciated shoulder. A thin lock of hair strays carelessly over his forehead; his hands rest, listless. But his face! In that look of his out over the imprisoning seas is the pent-up story of his life.

"I was the man of iron," the look says; "yet here I am like this, and I don't, I can't comprehend."

In his lap lies a map of Europe, just as probably it now lies constantly before another tyrant trying to slaughter his way to a Pan-European empire.

"I was the great conqueror," that forceful chin and set line of mouth maintain. "I forced the haughty Austrians into my hand. I, a notary's son, bargained with the Spanish Bourbons and beat them. Prussia, the Rhine provinces, Bavaria, Italy, Holland, Switzerland, these too I brought under my sway. I could have made a French lake of the Mediterranean, if—" And there the upper part of the face takes up the story.

"I am bewildered; I don't understand," say the blood eyes. "This map shows just how I was to proceed. What cared I for a million lives, or [illegible] I would rather

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Colour and Lustre to Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Straw In Brickmaking.

Everyone is familiar with the story of how Pharoah commanded his taskmakers to increase the burdens laid on the Israelites by withholding from them the straw wherewith to make bricks; and doubtless many have wondered wherein the hardship lay. By most people, probably, the view has been held that the straw was added as a binding material, much as hair is used in mortar; but such an explanation is scarcely satisfactory when it is remembered that the straw fibre is a very weak one. Alexander Findlay says in his "Chemistry in the Service of Man":

"About fourteen years ago it was found by Dr. E. G. Acheson, to whom we owe the discovery of carborundum and the process of making artificial graphite, that when clay is mixed with a dilute solution of tannin, it becomes much more plastic, and the strength of the dried brick is, moreover, greatly increased. Although straw does not contain tannin, it was found that when straw is treated with water, the extract obtained has the same action on clay and the hardness of the brick being greatly increased."—Popular Science Monthly.

BARNUM AND JENNY LIND.

How the Great Showman Secured the "Swedish Nightingale."

The site of Iranistan, with its Moorish towers and minarets, was engraved upon the letterheads of P. T. Barnum and was the one thing which attracted Jenny Lind when he wrote seeking to engage her for an American tour. In fact, she confessed that it was this picture that determined her coming to America.

Jenny Lind contracted to come to America in 1849, the "Swedish Nightingale" agreeing to sing at 150 concerts for $25,000, all traveling expenses paid. After she arrived in America Jenny Lind asked Mr. Barnum when and where he had heard her sing, and upon receiving the answer that he had never had the pleasure of seeing her before in his life, she asked, "How did you risk so much money on a person whom you never heard sing?"

"I risked it," gallantly answered Mr. Barnum, "on your angelic character and reputation, feeling that you would please the American public."

Then began a campaign of advertising to prepare the people for the appearance of Jenny Lind. Two hundred dollars was offered as a prize for an ode entitled "A Greeting to America," to be sung by Jenny Lind, and the award was won by Bayard Taylor. No singer who has ever appeared in the country has secured more enthusiastic welcome than Jenny Lind, all because of the genius of P. T. Barnum.—Joe Mitchell Chappie in National Magazine.

Growing Old by Degrees.

Growing old has many stages. You can remember the time when in reading your favorite author you were disgusted to find that he had made his hero forty years old, and you wondered how he could be guilty of imputing romance to such an unconscionable age. By and by, even though you found forty years to be the old age of youth, you were solaced by the thought that it was the youth of old age, and still later you will wonder where youth ends and old age begins.—Neal Brown in National Magazine.

Tax Disastrous to Drama.

The proposed extension of the amusement tax now levied upon variety houses, motion picture theatres and circuses, so as to apply to the dramatic stage, has evoked strong protests from many sides. The tax has already forced one circus to close its doors, after an existence of many years, and has driven a number of cinematograph houses out of business. The theatre managers declare the tax will be even more disastrous for legitimate drama.

The Honeymoon.

The honeymoon has no definite duration, but is longer or shorter according as the temper of the high contracting parties determines, or their relatives, or the weather, or the mode, or the comparative cost of traveling and staying at home. Briefly, it is that interval during which the man, going out in the morning, remembers his kiss and forgets his overshoes as distinguished from the interval during which he remembers his overshoes and forgets his kiss.

Dinners in the Old Days.

Dinner was a substantial affair in the reign of the maiden queen, who was by no means indifferent to the pleasures of the table. The first course on great occasions, says a contemporary, would probably be wheaten flummery, stewed broth, spinach broth, gruel or hotenpotch. The second consisted of fish, among which we may note lampreys, stockfish and sturgeon, with side dishes of porpoise. The third course comprised quaking puddings, bag puddings, black puddings, white puddings and narrow puddings. Then came veal, beef, capons, humble pie, mutton, marrow pasties, Scotch collops, wild fowl and game. In the fifth course all kinds of sweets, creams in all their varieties, custards, cheese, cakes, jellies, warden pies, junkets, syllabubs, and so on, to be followed perhaps by white cheese and tansy cake; for the drinks, ale and beer, wine, sack and numerous varieties of mead or metheglin, some of which were concocted out of as many as five and twenty herbs and were redolent of sweet country perfume.

No Joke.

A. A. S. claims that a man will steal all the postage stamps he needs from his employer, and think nothing of it. But if he sees a street car conductor knock down a nickel he thinks he ought to notify the company.

Still on the Job.

"The old-fashioned door-knocker seems to have gone out of style," remarked the Observer of Events and Things, "but, don't make any mistake, opportunity is still on the job."

A Bitter Disappointment.

"When I was in Paris," remarked the collector of curios, "I discovered in a bookstall a volume which I knew at first glance to be of extraordinary value. I could scarcely believe my good luck. Breathless, I inquired the price of the dealer. Just think of it! I could have had that treasure for a song!"

"Well, why didn't you get it?"

"Never could sing a note in my life," cried the collector, bursting into tears.

Ten persons are employed in the branches of the work, and six varieties of fish are handled.

NEW NAPOLEON STORY

LATEST TRADITION SAYS HE WAS SHOT IN AUSTRIA.

Amazing Tale Is Now Unfolded to the Effect That a Devoted Double of the Emperor Gave Himself Up and Died on St. Helena—Napoleon Himself Died Visiting Son, It Is Said.

Every student of Napoleon is ready to declare on oath that the emperor died on May 5th, 1821, in his narrow chamber at Longwood, St. Helena. A storm was rolling over the island prison, and on its wings, muttering "France—Army—Head of the Army—Josephine!" the most dazzling genius of the modern world passed out of life. To this history posterity has adhered.

We have another and far stranger one to unfold.

Napoleon died, not at St. Helena, but in Austria. He died, not in his bed, with the faithful remnant of his followers beside him, but shot by an Austrian sentry. He died, not as Napoleon, but as an obscure refugee from Italy.

How can we make good a tale so extraordinary?

Napoleon had a double. This double, his very image, had more than once been employed by the emperor to pose for him in one situation or another; sometimes to test the truth of some new story of plot against the great man's life—plots more numerous than history in the main is aware of. To the imperial police the double was known both by sight and by name, though they were not always, of course, in the secret of his comings and goings.

Well, the day comes when, after Waterloo—and the drums of the Old Guard have rolled the dirge of the last march of the last army of Napoleon—the fallen emperor, the cup finally at his lips, must sail, an exile, to the rock in the Atlantic. But he does not sail! It is the devoted double who gives himself in charge to Captain Maitland of the Bellerophon (the Bully Ruffian of the sailorman); the double who settles down with Bertrand, Montholon, Las Cases, to the appalling dreariness of St. Helena.

And Napoleon? What becomes of him? Napoleon, more or less transformed in style and appearance, withdraws secretly to Florence. In Florence he purchases the shop and little business of an optician, and forthwith enters on the most extraordinary phase of the most extraordinary career in Europe. He gains the esteem of the neighbors. The disguise of the Man of Destiny must have lacked something, for they perceived in him a notable likeness to Napoleon, and familiarly bestowed on him that name which had shaken empires. Then, one day, on a sudden, Signor "Napoleone," optician, disappeared. The little shop was closed and shuttered; the little man so curiously resembling the victor of Austerlitz, the victim of Waterloo, no longer stood behind his counter or gossiped in his doorway. Florence, in brief, beheld him no more.

To the new King of France, however, Signor "Napoleone," before departure, had addressed a letter, the contents of which filtered somehow from the throne; and to buy the silence of those persons who had become aware of this missive Louis XVIII. distributed among them a large sum of money. Almost in the same hour a small and rather corpulent individual, fifty years of age or thereabouts, is fired at and killed by a soldier of the Emperor of Austria while attempting to scale a wall of the park of Schoenbrunn. It was at Schoenbrunn, readers will remember, that Napoleon's son and hope the gentle young Duke of Reichstadt, languished—neglected by his careless mother, Marie Louise—in the most wretched of gilded captivities Napoleon, always pining for sight and sound of the boy, had stolen to Schoenbrunn to see him.

Not unnaturally, the affair of the sentry's bullet made some stir at the French Embassy. Not unnaturally, the Embassy decided to say nothing whatever on the subject. There is yet a little to relate. The civil registers of the village in Lorraine where the emperor's double was born carry the following legend: "Died at St. Helena," and the date is precisely that of the death of Napoleon. Let it be added that an English lady of the aristocratic world, received in audience at St. Helena by the dethroned monarch of Europe (to whom, in his imperial days, she had been presented at the Tuileries), protested formally that she failed to recognize him in the prisoner of Sir Hudson Lowe.

This story has not, until to-day, been printed in English, and in only one other language in Europe has it ever seen the light. What a subject (were he still among us) for the pen of the elder Dumas, who gave us the most fascinating of all histories of the Man in the Iron Mask—though there is not a word of truth in it!

This most mysterious narrative of Signor "Napoleone," optician of Florence, and the Emperor Napoleon's thrice-attached double, who dies contentedly for his master on the rock in the Atlantic, is surely romantic enough for the most imaginative pen that ever yet has sought to transmute fable into fact. But there is at least one question to which, we fancy, the majority of readers would like an answer: Who, then, wrote the "Memorials of St. Helena"—Napoleon's testimony to mankind? Was it the work of his double?

Birds In Winter.

Though birds have a much higher temperature than a man's—man's is 98, while theirs is 107—they suffer cruelly from the winter cold. In a mutton country it is not uncommon to find sheep with dead birds fastened on their backs. The little, cold creatures snuggle in the sheep's wool to get warm, their feet become entangled in the fleece, and they starve to death.

Forsook Medicine for Literature.

Henrik Ibsen, the Norwegian dramatist, at the age of twenty was a medical student at the University of Christiania. Before receiving his degree a play from his pen was produced at the National theater, with such success that Ibsen concluded he would do better in the realm of literature than in that of medicine.

Stalled.

A writer in the New York Evening Post wants a day set aside for returning borrowed books. So far as our experience goes, all the days in the year are set aside in that respect, and are so thoroughly side-tracked that they never get on the main line.

Quite a Change.

"Percy is getting used to public speaking, isn't he?"

"Oh, yes. I remember when you could hardly get him to stand up, and now you can hardly get him to sit down."

Women and Hats.

"Aren't some of the hats women wear absurd?"

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne, "and yet when some people put them on they do look so appropriate."

The Poor Poet.

"My husband never gets what he should for his poetry," said the poet's wife, with a tinge of sadness.

"Oh, don't be too hard on him," replied the girl absentmindedly.

Useful Parasites.

"Bz-z-z-z." "Bz-z-z-z"—the buzzing sound comes nearer. It is produced by the vibrations of the wings of a most peculiar-looking insect. Its body is about two and a half inches in length, with transparent wings marked with dark spots. Hanging straight down from the rear end of the slender body is a thin, hair-like something, above five or six inches long, which seems to interfere with flight.

Clumsily the insect circles around the trunk of the big elm tree. The buzzing ceases. The insect crawls around the trunk for some time before it stops.

Without further preliminaries the queer insect raises its threadlike appendage straight up, then curves it in form of a loop over its back, so that the sharp tip at the end of it comes down on the bark. The appendage, which seems to have the rigidity of a steel wire, is planted perpendicularly upon the trunk and is drilling a small hole into it with surprising rapidity. At last the drilling ends. With unerring instinct the insect, known as the Ichneumon Fly, has located the burrow of another insect, the large Pigeon-Tremex, belonging to the insect family known as Horn-Tails. The female has drilled through bark and wood with its slender ovipositor until it reached the burrow. It deposits one egg in it.

The Ichneumon Fly is a parasite. It deposits its eggs in the burrows of the Tremex and its larvae, which develop from the eggs in a short time, feed upon and kill the larvae of the Tremex which they find in the burrow. It is the female of the Tremex which drills the tell-tale holes into the bark of our shade trees and deposits eggs in them. The larvae which comes from these eggs burrow into the hes wood of the tree unless their career is cut short by an Ichneumon larva.—Popular Science Monthly.

HIS DREAM MATERIALIZED.

Curious Incident In the Career of Novelist S. R. Crockett.

One morning the postman brought to S. R. Crockett, the novelist, a letter from the editor of the St. James' Gazette containing a small check as payment for a contribution. Mr. Crockett knew that nothing was due to him, that he had been paid for all articles, and—remarkable man—he did the check up in an explanatory note and returned it to the editor.

The next day back came the check from the editor—remarkable man—with a note saying it was due. The St. James Gazette had published an article from the pen of Mr. Crockett which had not been paid for, hence the check. Again Mr. Crockett—remarkable man—returned the check, and still the remarkable editor reforwarded it, this time with the article cut out of the columns of the St. James' Gazette.

Now comes the curious feature of the incident. When Mr. Crockett clapped his eyes on the article he was astonished to find it one of his dreams materialized. One night, going to bed extra tired, he dreamed that a good idea for a St. James' Gazette column had occurred to him, that he then and there sat down, wrote it and posted it. Next morning he remembered his dream and made up his mind some day to write the article exactly as he dreamed he had written it, when, to his astonishment, came article and check from the newspaper. Few writers earn checks while asleep.—London Standard.

Some Heat.

It has been estimated that the total amount of warmth diffused by the gulf stream would cause a river of metal as large as the Mississippi to flow, or would raise from a constant winter to a constant summer temperature the whole of the air that rests upon the British isles and France. The fogs to which England is so subject are, in a great part, owing to it, and through it the western coasts of Ireland enjoy a temperature two degrees higher than those on the East.

Caucasia In History

THE average person, if called upon suddenly to explain what he understood by the Russian province of Caucasia, might possibly agree with the school girl who described it as the land of beautiful Circassian women, whose men-folk spent all their days rescuing them from the clutches of the hated Turk. But the Circassian, or Adighe, as he calls himself, to whom many people vaguely attribute their good looks and their rosy cheeks, as parent of the European or Caucasian stock, occupies only the northwestern corner of Caucasia. To the Russian and the Turk he is Tscherkess, which is merely a polite way of saying "thief" or "brigand," but this term should be avoided by the peaceably disposed stranger as an unpalatable cognomen liable to provoke unexpected explosions. Caucasia, the mountainous neck of land lying between the Black and Caspian seas, is a land of many races and intermingled tribes, with no interracial solidarity to speak of. Only a few stand out as distinct nationalities. Their chains of Titanic mountains are practically unclimable, and there are only two passes good for year-round traffic, so that the modern railway, seeking passage into Transcaucasia and Asiatic Turkey from Russia, has to hug the coast line, when not doubling upon itself, to reach Kars, which, in the great Russian military advance into Armenia, was virtually the most southern jumping-off place for the armies. This railway line first extends through Circassia and crosses the Classic Phasis of the Greeks, now called the River Rion. The Greek merchants who explored that river to its source came back to tell of rivers running gold, and natives laying down sheepskins in which to enmesh the precious metal as it came down stream past the cataracts. Thus, the Greek imagination and fecundity of fancy was led to create out of Caucasia an Eldorado or Ultima Thule of dreams. Up the ancient Phasis Jason sailed the Argo to gain the Golden Fleece, and ploughed his acres in the Field of Mars of ancient Colchis. Over the endless steppes Io wandered,, pestered by Juno's gadfly; through the land of gorges and caves, where fire-breathing griffins dwelt and one-eyed Arimaspians waged eternal war, Hercules journeyed to wrest from Queen Hippolyte the girdle which made of the Amazons of modern Daghestan such redoubtable foes; and somewhere to the north, on the foaming Terek river, by the eastern face of the romantic Kasbek Mountain Aeschylus, the dramatist, chained his Prometheus, who had sought to restore the sacred fire to man.

When one has enumerated the Ossetians, or "gentlemen of the mountains," the Khevsurs, who wear chain mail and helmets of the Crusader type, the Tchettchets, the Ingouch, who are said to see their gods in the rocks or yerdas, the big, powerfully-built Daghestans, the Karbadans, the Suanetians or Soans of Strabo, whose civilization has stood still for a thousand years, the much-scorned Mingrelian tribesmen, the Imeretians, the Pshavs, and the semi-Turkish Tartars, the light-fingered highwaymen who used to wait for wealthy strangers in the great waste places around Tiflis, there is still left the one great dominant race, or aristocrats of the Caucasus, the Georgians.

The Georgians were the real masters of the Caucasus until Peter the Great introduced the Russian, six centuries after their Gold Age under the Georgian Elizabeth, Queen Thamara. There will, therefore, be no more kings of Georgia, it is pleasant to think that; on his own proud showing the Georgians subjection has not robbed him of the distinction of possessing the bravest men and the most beautiful women in the world. The Russian has generously added his testimony, not without a subdued touch of irony, that, no matter what the occupation of the Georgian, he is almost sure to be a prince. The title, indeed, is as amazingly common as baron in Germany, and recalls the judge and colonel of the Georgia of the New World. But behind the harmless boast is usually a hoary pedigree and a national patriotism which has become a fetish since the Russian occupation.

For the first time these Caucasian peoples are ruled by one power under a viceroy, including almost plus royal que roi. Their country, or countries, including as they do Baku of the oil and cotton fields, the Black and Caspian seaports, and the fine city of Tiflis, have a great economic future. It is sincerely to be hoped, however, that the question of self-determination and rights of small nationalities in the Caucasus will not find its way to the coming peace conference, if ever the delegates to that epoch-making assembly are to dispose of their Herculean task. It would be nothing less than an interminable wrangle, and the world might be tempted to wish that the many and various nations of the frosty Caucasus were back in that condition of which Herodotus speaks when he describes them as "living mostly on the fruits of wild trees." Pliny tells of 300 distinct languages in ancient Colchis, and it is on reliable record that the Romans had to employ 130 interpreters to conduct affairs satisfactorily.—Christian Science Monitor.

Soldiers' Rations Reduced.

The shortage of wheat in France has become so serious that the bread ration of the French soldiers has been reduced. Eighteen million bushels of wheat were promised Europe from North America every month. Since January 1st, the shortage has been 26,000,000 bushels, according to the Hon. Everett Colby, Senator for New Jersey, in his speech delivered at Ottawa the other day.

The Persian Diet.

The lower-class Persians will eat several pounds of grapes, cucumbers, or apricots for a meal; they eat onions as we eat apples. Pomegranates and melons are in great demand by them as food, and melons, which run to fourteen pounds in weight, are very nutritious. Cucumbers are looked on as a fruit, and are eaten in large quantities by rich and poor. They are not indigestible. Seven pounds weight may be often had for a halfpenny. Grapes there are in infinite variety and of the most delicious kinds, from the huge long grape, which measures two inches, to the tiny Sultana, sweet as honey to the taste.

Properly Situated.

"They may say what they like against him," said the convicted one's defender, "but his heart is in the right place."

"Yes," assented the other, "and so is the rest of him for a few years."

Slight Stroke Of Paralysis

Down Left Side—Stomach and Heart Affected—Case Baffled Doctors For Three Years

TRENTON, Ont., May 16.—A very interesting report has been received from Mrs. Pringle in regard to her recovery from partial paralysis. This was a most extreme case, for doctors had been trying for three years to find something which would restore the depleted nerve force.

Mrs. C. Pringle, Queen street, Trenton, Ont., writes:

"About five years ago I was troubled with my stomach, there was a sort of paralyzed feeling across it and up my left side, and my heart seemed almost to stop beating. I called in the Doctor, and he thought it was symptoms of a stroke. My stomach kept getting worse. At times the pounding would be intense, almost unbearable, and I thought I would go wild. Sleep was out of the question. I tried different Doctors, giving each one a fair trial, and doctoring nearly three years. My case seemed to baffle them. It was a nervous breakdown caused by overwork and worry. During all this time I could not do any work, and my friends thought it was a matter of time, how long I would live. Some one advised me to try something to build up my system, and I tried different medicines. Finally I thought I would try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and see if they would do me any good. A famous Doctor sanctioned my using these pills, and told me they would be good for me. They seemed to be just what I required, as I soon saw an improvement. I took about fifteen boxes, and the results have been very gratifying. I am now enjoying splendid health, and able to do all my work, eating anything I wish, and can go to bed and get a good night's rest. I have recommended Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to many of my friends, who have also secured good results from this treatment."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.75, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co. Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

Pensions Cause Excitement

MEMBERS of Parliament, with the American record of pensions explcitation before them, do not propose to allow anything of a similar kind to happen in Canada as an aftermath of the present war. Consequently special interest is being taken in the proceedings of the special committee of the Commons on Pensions, which has been critically examining, under the chairmanship of Hon. N. W. Rowell, the pensions awarded to Lt.-Col. R. H. Labatt, member of the Board of Pension Commissioners, and to Senator George Bradbury, former Conservative M.P. for Selkirk, and a "veteran" of some two or three weeks' service in England and France. Col. Labatt draws a salary of $5,000 per year as Pension Commissioner, and along with that a total disability pension aggregating $2,300 per year. Col. Bradbury is recommended for an eighty per cent. disability pension, and at the same time is able to draw $2,500 per year for his services to the country as a member of the Senate.

The real points of criticism in both cases lies in the doubt as to whether the "disablement" was actually incurred through service at the front or whether it was a result of physical conditions prior to enlistment. Apparently in the case of officers who applied for pension the working principle is that present physical conditions are taken as the basis of determining disablement through military service, without due regard being had to physical conditions prior to joining the Expeditionary Force. For officers there was not the same searching physical examination and medical history sheet written prior to proceeding overseas as obtained in the case of non-commissioned officers and men.

In Col. Labatt's case, for instance, the evidence shows that the disability for which he has received a pension was a matter of development and did not originate on active service. In Senator Bradbury's case the medical board which recommended him in December last for a pension refers to the fact that "this officer's age and most probably high blood pressure was the predisposing cause of his condition."

There is no attestation as to the conditions of health of Col. Labatt or Senator Bradbury prior to enlistment.

Members of Parliament do not believe that the country should be called upon to pay life pensions to officers for disabilities not really occasioned through military service. The rather intense feeling which has been aroused in connection especially with the Labatt pension is evidenced in a letter which Mr. H. H. Stevens, M.P. for Vancouver, wrote to Hon. N. W. Rowell on April 23 last, and which has been placed upon the records of the Pensions Committee. This letter is as follows:

"Dear Mr. Rowell,—Referring to the attached questions and answers in the Hansard of March 20, you will observe that Col. Labatt is in receipt of a total disability pension and is also in receipt of a salary of $5,000 a year as a member of the Pensions Board.

"I cannot conceive that such a condition should be allowed to exist with the knowledge of the Government, and I feel it is but necessary to bring it to your attention to have it dealt with. I am writing you as chairman of the Pensions Committee of the House of Commons, and I not only ask that this case be considered and rectified, but that the Pensions Committee should recommend such amendments to the regulations as would prevent the recurrence of any such case as this.

"Briefly, I may state that either Col. Labatt is in receipt of his pension by virtue of misrepresentations or undue favor through powerful influence, as it is clear that he is not suffering from total disability at all, and if the Pensions Board is to be swayed by influence from the outside in the granting of pensions, I warn you, as a prominent member of the Cabinet, that it will result in destroying your influence as a Government, because such injustice will not be tolerated by the people.

"I prefer to place this before you in this way rather than to take it up on the floor of the House and cause undue embarrassment. I think as a final word I should point out that Col. Labatt is reported to be a brother-in-law both to the Minister of Militia (Gen. Mewburn) and to the Minister of Railways and Canals (Hon. Dr. Reid).

"I am yours very truly,
(Signed) "H. H. Stevens,
"Member for Vancouver Centre."

This letter has since been partly answered by the two Ministers mentioned. Gen. Mewburn denies that he is related to Col Labatt, and Hon. Dr. Reid, while admitting relationship, says that it had nothing to do with the generosity shown to his brother-in-law.

The Idea.

"I see where Smythe has got into trouble by an abusive letter to the man who injured him." "That's so. Justice does not always allow a man to write his wrongs."

Best Methods.

An ounce of prevention is worth—well, you know what it is. The best way to put out a fire is not to let it start. The best way to cure a cold is not to have one.

Time the Only Cure.

Nothing but time will get the hero of sixteen out of the notion of marrying the heroine of fourteen. It may take a month.

Run Irony.

The irony of it! The Germans, after destroying the art treasures of Louvain, Ypres, and Rheims, are about to undertake the work of preserving the artistic treasures of the French and Belgian territory now in their possession! The "All Highest War Lord" is said to have promoted the scheme, and to have given directions for properly classifying, indexing, and photographing his newly acquired prizes for the benefit of posterity. Is this an indication that the German guns are to be more merciful in the future? Meanwhile, the world will doubtless prefer the unostentatious French way of expressing its love for the beautiful and ornate; for once again, as in previous springs, the historic parterres of the Tuileries Gardens, with their wealth of color and fragrance, are being planted, and will stand forth as an example of the inspiring courage and faith which war cannot destroy.

NINE BOILS

Kept Coming On Neck One After the Other

Anyone who has ever suffered from boils, knows how sick and miserable they make you feel.

When you think you are about cured of one, another seems ready to take its place and prolong your wretchedness. All the poulticing and lancing you may do will not cure them and stop more coming.

Boils are simply bad blood bursting out, and the bad blood has be made pure before the boils disappear.

Burdock Blood Bitters is the greatest blood purifier known. It cleanses the system and removes every particle of foul material from the blood, then never another boil comes and the cure is permanent.

Mr. Geo. Ayers, 302 Gloucester St., Ottawa, Ont., writes: "I wish to tell you what I know about your wonderful Burdock Blood Bitters. In the spring I suppose my system needed cleaning out, for I had nine boils come on my neck one after the other. I quickly got a bottle of B.B.B., and before it was half finished I felt a great change, and it certainly put an end to my boils, otherwise I might have had a lot more. I recommend B.B.B. to all I can, for I know it to be a great remedy."

East Africa's Big Game.

Big game of British East Africa, outside of the three preserves of the colony, is rapidly vanishing and, according to W. T. Hornaday, "is absolutely certain to disappear in about one-fourth the time that it took South Africa to accomplish the same result." Mr. Hornaday points out that the present legal bag limit is ruinously extravagant. For $250 any man may buy the right to kill 300 head of hoofed and horned animals of forty-four species, not counting carnivorous animals that may also be killed. Thus the richest big game fauna of any one spot in the world, which nature has been several million years in developing and placing there, seems likely to be wiped out by man within the next fifteen years.—Chicago News.

Monkeys Pick Tea.

In a well-known restaurant in New York city's Chinatown tea is served at various prices, from ten to fifty cents a cup. The fifty-cent tea is called "Vos Ban Yen." A Chinese waiter in this restaurant, on being asked the reason for the high price of this particular brand, said: "Him high up on rocks. Have get monkey pick him." It would seem that the high cost of living must have affected even the monkeys' rate of wages in China to warrant this price for a single cup of tea.

MARCH TO VICTORY

Courage is a matter of the blood. Without good red blood a man has a weak heart and poor nerves.

In the spring is the best time to take stock of one's condition. If the blood is thin and watery, face pale or pimply, generally weak, tired and listless, one should take a spring tonic. One that will do the spring house-cleaning, an old-fashioned herbal remedy that was used by everybody nearly 50 years ago is still safe and sane because it contains no alcohol or narcotic. It is made up of Blood root, Golden Seal root, Oregon Grape root, Queen's root, Stone root, Black Cherry bark—extracted with glycerine and made into liquid or tablets. This blood tonic was first put out by Dr. Pierce in ready-to-use form and since then has been sold by million bottles as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If druggists do not keep this in tablet form, send 50 cents for a vial to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., or branch in Bridgeburg, Ont.

CENTRAL BUTTE, SASK.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for a number of years and am pleased to recommend it as a blood purifier. I know it has no equal, as I used it for my boy. My neighbors and friends were surprised with the results; in fact, I do not think he would be alive to-day had it not been for the 'Medical Discovery.' I also keep it on hand for coughs as it differs so from other medicines, instead of upsetting the stomach as cough syrups do it is good for the stomach. I only wish I had known about Dr. Pierce's medicines sooner."—MRS. PERCY WOOD.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

AFTER the STORM

By William Haven Ross

Copyright, , by the S. S. McClure Company

The hurricane had died out, and the only trace of the storm upon the waters was the heavy swell which tossed the ship's longboat.

The sun shone with tropical fervor upon the three occupants of the little craft. Not a sail was within the perspective, and no long wreath upon the horizon gave sign of the presence of a steamship.

At the bottom of the boat, his head resting upon the lap of a young woman, a man lay. His face was white and drawn, and the glitter of his eyes told of extreme physical weakness. The other man sat upon the stern thwart and watched sea and sky with anxious gaze. The woman's face had the apathy of prolonged suffering.

"Water! Water!" murmured the man at the bottom of the boat.

"Have patience, Tom," said the woman in a mechanical voice. "We are in the track of ships and must be rescued soon."

"No," said Tom faintly; "you will be saved—you and Dick—but not I."

Dick glanced at him in pity, but remained silent. The woman pushed back the matted hair from Tom's eyes with feeble fingers, but made no reply. The look of death was on the face pillowed upon her knee.

Three days had passed since Tom and Kate, passengers, and Dick, master mariner, had abandoned the sinking bark West Wind, bound from Rio to New York. Of the fate of their shipmates they had no knowledge. They had gone without food and without drink, and the weight of sheer exhaustion had begun to deaden their senses.

Finally Tom spoke again. He looked Dick in the face searchingly and said:

"Will you forgive me, Richard? I could die happier if you would. Kate will never forgive me, but you might."

"Forgive you!" exclaimed Dick wonderingly. "Why, what have you done?"

"You always loved Kate," said Tom.

"Yes," replied Dick very slowly and after a pause: "I always loved her."

"And she always loved you," said Tom.

Dick half started from the thwart, but checked himself.

The woman turned her face away.

"I came between you," said Tom. "I did you both a wrong. But, oh, how I have suffered! You can't realize, Dick—you will never realize—the agony of mock possession, the anguish of having a wife who in her heart loathes your slightest caress. She never loved me, Dick, and I have been kind and good to her always. But what are kindness and goodness to a woman when she does not love you? Nothing, Dick, worse than nothing!"

"I don't understand you at all," said Dick. "I know that you're out of your head. Speak to him, Kate; it may quiet him."

But Kate neither spoke nor turned her head.

"No; you will understand," said Tom, with more emphasis. "I'm going to tell you something. If I were not dying, perhaps you would kill me for it, but I would not care. I do not want to live unless I can have Kate."

"Have Kate!" repeated Dick. "Why, man, she's your wife!"

"No, no!" cried Tom weakly. "She never was my wife! It was only an empty ceremony that shackled her to me. She was always yours, Dick, and yours only. Soon she will be yours forever."

"Speak to him, Kate. He's raving."

said Dick hoarsely, but she sat as if stone, watching the sky line.

"You see," said Tom, "she will not lie even to soothe, and she is right, for lies are useless. I knew she loved you, and I lied to keep you apart. You thought it was friendship and kindness that made you master of my West Wind, but that was the first syllable of my lie. I wanted to put half the world between you two, so I made you captain of my best bark and chartered her for China. Then the lie grew and grew. It was I who had published in New York and copied in the home newspapers the lying notice that you married a woman in New York the day before you sailed. After Kate had read the lie she thought the world was at an end for her, so she married me. Now you know it all except what I have suffered. You can never realize that."

There now was a deep flush upon Kate's cheek, and Dick was bending forward, speechless and glowering.

"You won't forgive me, then?" asked Tom pleadingly. "She will soon be yours, and—and—and I've left her everything."

"Blast you and your money!" cried Dick, now upon his unsteady feet, with a threatening gesture.

But Kate, who still sat with averted gaze, put her arm across Tom's face as if to protect him, and Dick sank back sullenly upon the thwart and turned his head away too. Thus they remained for many minutes. But when Dick again turned his eyes to the horizon he could scarcely restrain an exclamation.

Far away upon the edge of the waters was a sail.

It then was but a tiny blur, but the prescient eye of the sailor saw at a glance that the vessel was southbound and sailing toward them. If the wind held in the same direction, the ship would be apt to make a long reach before going about and must surely pass so near that they would be sighted.

Dick looked at Tom and then at Kate, while a battle raged in his soul. The excitement which had sustained the sick man during the morning had passed, and Dick could see plainly enough that the reaction was tugging hard upon the frail strand of life. Yet he understood that he had at command as potent a stimulant as was ever compounded by a pharmacist.

It was hope!

In an hour or two the approaching vessel would be within hailing distance. Another hour or two meant life or death to Tom. If he knew that rescue, food, drink and comfortable quarters were but a few dwindling miles away, existence would grow sweeter to the wealthy shipowner and importer, and the innate love of life might buoy him through the crisis.

"Shall I speak?" he asked of himself.

If Tom died—but he tried to put that out of his mind. How he loved and had longed for the woman he faced! A flickering spark was all that kept them apart. Should he fan it into a blaze or let it go out forever?

At last Tom again opened his eyes, and, looking him in the face with a pitiful, pleading expression, he feebly put forth his hand.

"Forgive me," he whispered in a voice of utter weakness. Kate bent over and kissed him—kissed him as a mother might her child.

Dick drew a long breath, and a tremor shook him like an ague spasm.

"A sail!" he cried hoarsely and rose unsteadily. For a moment he swayed with the rocking of the boat, pointing straight ahead, and then he sank upon his knees and took Tom's hand in his own.

"Tom," he said, "rouse up, man, and listen to me. There's a ship coming. She's not five miles away. Think of it, man—something to drink and plenty to eat. Don't weaken now after all you've been through. Let the past be bygones. Live it out and be happy."

"A ship in sight!" gasped Tom. "Oh, let me see her!"

It taxed Dick's failing strength to the utmost, but he lifted him to his knees and held him thus while he looked longingly at the distant sail. For a brief space the luster of hope rekindled the fire of failing vision, but it was only for a moment. A film beclouded his eye again, and he sank back to the bottom of the boat with a gasp.

"Too late," he murmured, "too late for me!"

When Dick looked up, he met Kate's gaze. It was a calm, steady look she gave him and the first since Tom began his story. Dick felt meaner and guiltier than he had ever felt before. He had to do something to distract her eyes.

"The sail!" he said, pointing over the waters. "Why don't you look?"

"I saw it," said she, "two hours ago."

"And you were waiting for me to tell Tom of it?"

"Yes," replied Kate, "and how I should have despised you if you had not."

The ship's crew answered Dick's faint hail with shouts of encouragement, and the vessel luffed up into the wind with flapping sails. A boat skippered by the mate was lowered and towed the castaways alongside the ship's quarter.

"How are they?" asked the captain as he leaned over the rail and looked down upon the recumbent figures in the boat, for Dick had collapsed.

"One man is gone, I think, sir," said the mate after holding his hand over Tom's heart.

"Yes," said Kate; "my husband is dead."

In No Hurry.

A lecturer one torrential night addressed an audience which might have been much larger without taxing the seating capacity of the hall. Naturally he was willing to curtail his address, and, having reached what he considered the psychological moment, said, "I'm afraid I've kept you too long."

Whereupon a voice replied, "Go on; it's still raining."

Rubbing It In.

"Why does that lady grin so every time she sees you?"

"She knows I'm only getting $10 a week."

"But why the grin?"

"I was engaged to her once and broke it off, and she afterward married a millionaire."

Not Consistent.

"What was I saying when I dodged that automobile?"

"You were saying that life is not worth living. But if you think so why did you dodge?"

The Canadian Bankers' Association

Invites the Co-Operation of the Public on Behalf of the Banks

Staffs Heavily Reduced by War

MORE than half the men in the banks of Canada are now on military service, and the number which remains is being steadily reduced.

Women clerks have been employed in thousands and have done splendidly, but they have not the experience of the men they replace. It would be out of the question to expect them to work as rapidly or with the same knowledge of banking as officers of many years training in the profession.

The drain upon the number of experienced officers has now reached a point where it is necessary to ask the public to take into consideration this decrease in efficiency, and to lighten, as far as they can, the burden thus thrown upon those left to run the business. Canada was never so busy as now and the volume of banking business is greater than ever before.

How the Public Can Help

Transact your banking business in the morning as far as possible, and as early as possible. Try to avoid a rush at closing time.

Do not draw any more cheques than are absolutely necessary. Instead of paying small accounts by cheque, draw the money in one amount and pay in cash.

Change in Banking Hours June 1st.

On and after June 1st banking hours will be: 9.30 to 2.30; Saturdays 9.30 to 12.00.

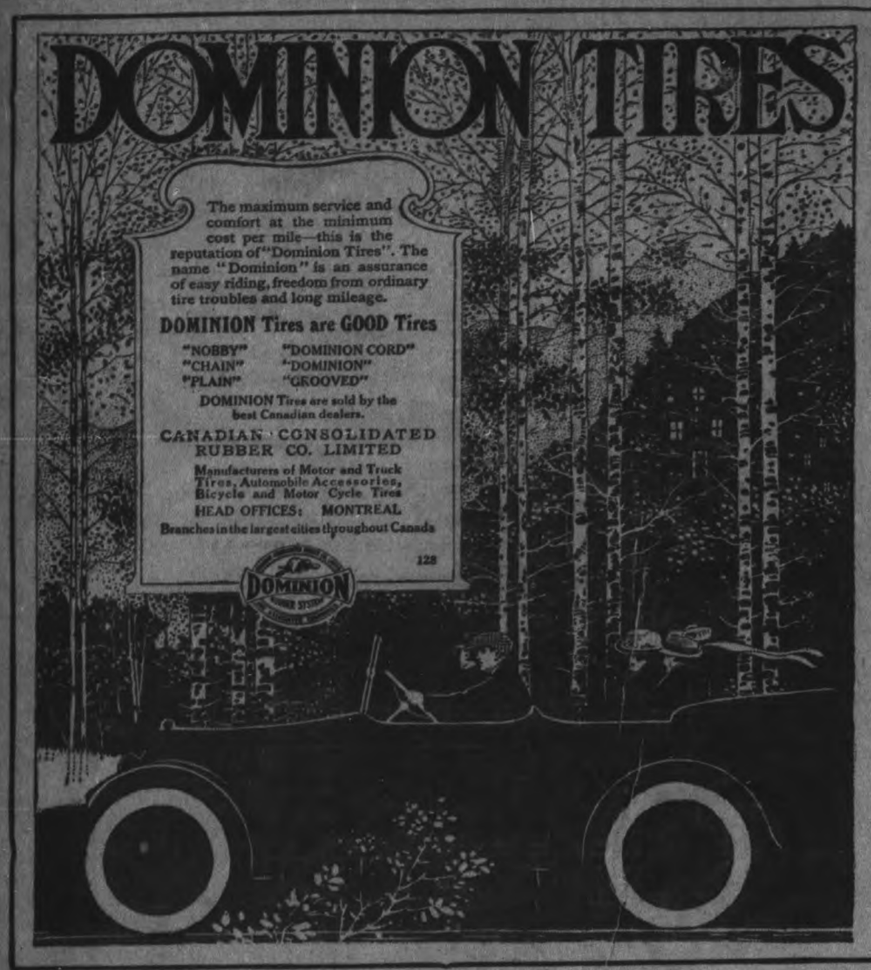
This arrangement will give the staff more time to complete the large amount of work which cannot be taken up until after the office is closed to the public.

Special Services Discontinued July 1st.

Certain services must of necessity be discontinued, for a time at least.

On July 1st banks will discontinue receiving payments for tax bills and the bills of gas, electric and other public service corporations.

The banks desire to render all essential services including many special ones arising out of the war. In order to do this they make this appeal for co-operation in the manner suggested above



GRAIN MARKET

Some enquiry for cash oats and very small offerings again gave a stronger feeling in the oats market at Winnipeg yesterday, that market closing 1c higher on May oats. The July option also reflected the stronger tone of the cash market, closing 1 3-8c higher, though the crop prospects continue most favorable. There being a general holiday in the States yesterday the Chicago market was eliminated as a factor. The local market is very quiet.

A Tip to Mamma.

Little Rollo had been reproved for his table manners by papa and mamma. He trained his baby stare on mamma to ask, "When you was a little girl didn't y'ever dip your jelly roll in coffee?"

"No, my dear," with a tinge of acerbity.

"Y'ot to try it. Gee it's great!"

He Hit It Right.

"Now, Tommy," said the teacher, "what is a simile?"

Tommy hesitated visibly. "I—I—I fergit now," he finally answered.

"But if you said, 'My hours at school are bright as sunshine,' what figure of speech would that be?"

"Irony," responded Tommy.

Expensive.

"Yes," said the young wife proudly, "father always gives something expensive when he makes presents."

"So I discovered when he gave you away," rejoined the young husband.

Advance In The Price of The Weekly Examiner

On the First of July next, the Subscription Price of the "Weekly Examiner" will, in future, be at the following rates:

Year - $1.50 Six Months 75c

Three Months 40c

Payable in Advance

Outside of Canada, the yearly rate will be $2.00

In war or peace this is as low a price as a Weekly Newspaper of the size of the Examiner can be published for. The Examiner was established in August, 1856—sixty-two years ago and has been a staunch and faithful visitor to its Subscribers ever since.

Subscriptions will be received at the rate of $1.00 up to May 1st, Subscribers in arrears will be charged at the $1.50 rate as has been the rate in the past.

Address all letters to the "Examiner" Office, 419 George Street

Owing to the continually increasing cost of paper, labor and material, the Weekly Examiner can no longer be published for $1.00. Nearly all other weekly papers of a similar size as The Examiner have already increased their rates.

FEARLESS WOMEN DIVERS.

How the Shellfish Hunters of Japan Work in Icy Waters.

The women shellfish divers of Toba, Japan, perform the work that men elsewhere feel called upon to do. In fact, travelers claim that the women of Toba do nearly all the manual labor, the men being shiftless. Of the shellfishers in particular writes W. D. Cameron in "The Far East."

"Our sampan pushed off and was headed for a small island in the bay off which was a boat containing in addition to the boatmen two women. They were dressed in a costume representing an upper and a lower garment, and as we approached they jumped into the sea and swam toward us. I may mention the afternoon was bitterly cold, with a raw north wind blowing, necessitating our party turning up heavy overcoat collars and drawing up rugs. After a few preliminary strokes the two women turned turtle, as it were, and disappeared beneath the surface of the water.

"It being clear, we could see them swimming down into the depths until they completely disappeared, the water at that spot being at least twenty-five feet deep. They stayed down for a period covering anything from one and a half to three and a half minutes, reappearing bearing in their hands five shellfish, seaweed, etc., taken from the bottom. This spoil they dropped into our boat, resting a few moments by hanging on to its side, repeating the performance again and again.

"The most impressive and I may almost say awe inspiring feature of the whole performance was the remarkable sounds those women gave vent to while preparing to go under. The noises were like nothing more than moans starting at first softly and gradually increasing both in volume and scale until they reached a stage resembling the cries of a soul in torment. Between these sounds were emitted shrill whistles, all this extraordinary performance being apparently a preparation of the respiratory organs for the long spell under water.

"After repeated dives the women were picked up by their boat and rowed to the neighboring island, where presently we saw the smoke of a large fire, from which no doubt the 'mermaids' obtained a considerable degree of comfort after their prolonged immersion in the icy water."

Live Minnow In Tube For Bait.

Of interest to fishermen is a novel contrivance recently patented for using a single live minnow for an entire day's fishing for maskinonge or bass. A strong, clear glass tube is equipped with metallic rings, to which are attached clusters of hooks, and a loop wire. A live minnow is placed within the tube, which is filled with water, and the fishline is attached to the wire loop. Upon casting the minnow into the water the tube magnifies the minnow and attracts the large fish. Fresh water is constantly admitted into the tube, and the minnow is not injured, mutilated nor hurt in any way, no matter how many times it is cast. The glass tube, filled with water, is invisible the moment it is submerged.

DANDRUFF MAKES HAIR FALL OUT

A small bottle of "Danderine" keeps hair thick, strong, beautiful. Girls! Try this! Doubles beauty of your hair in a few moments.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine for a few cents at any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

The Tragedies of Old Age.

With all its compensations, age has yet many tragedies hard to endure. The old man finds that many of his hopes have withered, that many of his ambitions are unsatisfied. He started out in life with great ambitions to become a Prime Minister, a president, to command the applause of listening senates, to achieve great riches. He slowly finds that his initial ambition can bear no fruit and that he must be content with little. He must learn to secure a degree of comfort in lowering his ambition to second place or to third place or to no place at all. But age brings the compensation of a better judgment of values.

Maddening Snuff.

On the Amazon river several Indian tribes use snuff, called pareca, which is made of the seeds of a species of plant. When a bout of snuff taking is determined on the people become highly intoxicated and then use the snuff. The effect of pareca is so violent that the taker drops as if shot and lies insensible for some time. Those more accustomed to it are highly excited, dancing and singing as if mad. The effect soon subsides. Other tribes use it to repel argue during the wet season.

Waste.

By habit and false pride we are a wasteful people. Public and private extravagance is a national vice in which we glory while sermonizing about it. Honest thrift is an alien characteristic that we are apt to regard with lofty contempt. So we squander our resources heedlessly in the government of our cities and the conduct of the household and call ourselves a practical people with strictly modern business ideas.

Fishing On Vancouver Island

ALTHOUGH I had always looked upon British Columbia as one of the very best trout fishing countries in the world, it was not until I came to Vancouver Island to live, that I fully realized how superlatively good it is.

Sport which would be considered excellent in the best district of Eastern Canada, may be had at any time in dozens of streams and lakes on this island, and that, too, without it being incumbent on the fisherman to travel more than half a dozen miles from the railroad, which, by the way, is now a branch of the Canadian Pacific system, although still retaining its baptismal title of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway. At anyone of a dozen points on this line, the sportsman who is not ambitious to overcome some of the really big fellows, can find excellent hotel accommodation within walking distance of water, which, for the reasonably skilful fisherman may be relied upon to yield daily baskets of from three to six dozen speckled beauties, running all the way from ¾ of a pound to two pounds in weight, and withal full of fight and as game fish as can be found anywhere in the world.

There are many camping isns where the best of accommodation can be secured, and the ardent fisherman who is looking for sport can make no mistake if he start out from Victoria by train and drop off at any station at which he spies an hotel.

Should he desire a somewhat more elaborate outing with an even greater diversity of sport, let him take an automobile and strike out boldly. The simplest of camp equipment will suffice for such a trip during the summer time, and no difficulty will be experienced in obtaining frequent and ample supplies of gasoline. Thus equipped our sportsman may easily penetrate to lakes and streams which are veritably an angler's paradise. He will, however, find that on some, if not most of the lakes, fishing with a fly will be practically barren of results. Here he will need to bring a small spoon or an artificial minnow into play, and he will be rewarded with fish running as high in weight as three or even four pounds, monsters, which, if he be fishing for the sport with light tackle, will tax his skill and resource to the utmost ere he is able to slip the net under them.

From this it is but a step to the last and crowning stage of trout fishing on the island. This consists in the following up of some few of the mountain streams, rivers would really be a better word to use, which empty on the west coast of the island and which are comparatively difficult of access, but in which cavort the patriarchs of the trout family, lordly fish which have been known to run as high as 14 pounds in weight and which are none the less as full of fight and sporting qualities as the very gamest of their smaller brethren. Here may the true fisherman taste the sweetest of all earthly joys, that of landing a really big fish after a battle royal of perhaps a couple of hours duration, in the swirling, icy waters of a rapid and difficult stream.

This experience is not, however, for the many, unless one can cast a long line, light as thistledown and with unerring accuracy, never a rise will one secure from the big ones.

Let us suppose that our sportsman makes Victoria his starting point. Leaving the capital he will soon come to some famous grilse water where large baskets are caught almost every day in the proper season. The view of this water, known as the Saanich Arm, which is here shown, was taken from the roadway, several hundred feet above the water level. It is really a land-locked arm of the sea, and provides splendid sport for hundreds of fishermen from Victoria. Just a little further along one reaches another fine stretch of salmon and grilse water known as Tod Inlet, and here also excellent sport is to be had for the asking. Leaving the Inlet behind and travelling some half a dozen miles further up the line, one comes to the Shawnigan Lake station, from whence it is but a short ride to the lake itself. Here while domiciled in comfort at either one of the two excellent hotels to be be found on the lake shore, the very best of sport with lake trout which sometimes run as large as five and even six pounds in weight, may be had, and that too in the midst of scenery which will appeal to anyone with even the most rudimentary love of the beauties of nature.

Eight miles further up the line Cowichan is reached, and here will be found one of the most famous trout streams on the island. This may be most conveniently fished from the town of Duncan, where the hotel accommodation is of the best. From this centre also a run of an hours duration will take the angler to Cowichan Lake, where he is certain to find ample opportunity of testing his skill to the uttermost. Excellent fishing may also be had in numberless small streams in this neighborhood, still making Duncan one's headquarters. The next jump will be one of rather greater magnitudes, to Nanaimo, in fact, just over thirty miles, though the angler who has chosen to make the trip by car, will find plenty of small streams occurring in the intervening section which will well repay his attention.

Having arrived at Nanaimo, the Nanaimo Lakes will first claim notice. They are not exactly easy of access, lying as they do some eight miles from the town, but there is a good road leading to them, though not as yet in a fit state for motoring. As will be seen from the accompanying view of a morning's catch on this lake, there is no lack of fish, and that, too, of goodly size. While at the Nanaimo Lakes a tramp through the woods of an hours duration will bring one to Echo Lake, a sheet of water which is also well stocked with magnificent fish, which will amply reward the angler for his pains in arriving thereat.

Returning to Nanaimo itself, the Millstream, which runs right through the town, holds many a fine trout, steelhead having frequently been caught here running up to 7 and 9 pounds in weight. The bay surrounding the coal city also provides splendid sport in the shape of trolling for salmon for those who like this branch of the anglers art, and, indeed, he who will indulge in a bit of sea fishing, will find himself well suited here, for the variety of fish to be taken is endless. Excellent sport is also to be obtained in the lakes and streams of the upper and northern end of the island.—"Sportsman."

The French Resistance Is Increasing In Strength

PARIS AND LONDON VIEW THE SITUATION MORE FAVOURABLY

Foch Is Holding The Huns On Both Flanks

It Is Not the Intention of the French Leader to Accept Battle on Hindenburg's Terms

SAVING THE MEN

(By J. W. T. Mason—United Press).

NEW YORK, May 31.—General Foch is holding the German advance on both flanks, while Von Hindenburg continues to move forward slowly in the centre. There is thus being created a dangerous salient that will compel the Germans to protect their newly lengthened lines by an unusually large number of troops, which they can ill afford.

The re-establishment of the French front protecting Rheims and the continued holding of the outlets from Soissons by the French units are the most important developments of the past twenty-four hours. The Germans must secure full possession of Soissons, and especially Rheims, with their immediate environs, if Von Hindenburg is to find any reasonable degree of security for his new lines.

An Uneasy Position.

As long as General Foch can hold his present positions on these wings the Germans must rest very uneasily.

Von Hindenburg's advance northwest of Soissons is not in immediate relationship with the Marne offensive. It is a new local drive along a front of not more than five miles, and is twenty-five miles north of the German wedge moving toward the Marne. A German success northwest of Soissons, beyond Blerancourt and Epagny, would carry Von Hindenburg in the direction of Compeigne. At Compeigne the Aisne flows into the Oise, which latter runs southwards to Seine and so to Paris. If Von Hindenburg can reach Compeigne he wil be in a favourable position to secure the control of the Aisne west of Soissons for a new defensive line. This is probably the ultimate strategic purpose of the Blerancourt-Epegny movement.

The Present Situation.

The situation now facing General Foch in its essential strategy is the same as that which he met during the Picardy-Flanders offensive. He can stop the German advance any time he desires by throwing in the major part of his reserves and the Americans now in France. But to do this would be to play Von Hindenburg's game. It would mean accepting an offensive battle on Von Hindenburg's terms. This is what General Foch is trying to avoid. The loss of ground is unimportant compared with avoiding submission to Von Hindenburg's own plans of campaign. In this respect, which is the most important from the standpoint of democracy's ultimate victory, even these are progressing satisfactorily.

WAR SUMMARY

Canadian Press:

NEW YORK, May 31.—The Associated Press war summary today says: By penetrating to the Marne or southward from Fere-en-Tardenois, seven miles north of the river, which they now hold, the Germans apparently hope to spread out eastward and westward, as they failed to do further north, and thus outflank the strong Allied positions at Soissons and at Rheims. The French resistance in the centre, however, is growing in strength and the Germans are getting farther and farther away from their original base along the Ailette. Paris and London view the situation more favourably, and in neither capital is there any fear that the German offensive will become as serious a menace to the Allied defence as the original onslaught in March.

2 P.M. SUMMARY

NEW YORK, May 31.—The Associated Press war summary this afternoon says: Keeping the tide of their advance in the centre flowing strongly, although seemingly less swiftly toward the Marne, the Germans simultaneously have executed a stroke on the Allied left flank that has extended the battle line westward and virtually linked up the present battlefield with that on the Somme. The Noyon area was included within the field of the German offensive in March, when the French established new lines along the Oise and Oise Canal to the east and south-west of that town, after being driven back below St. Quentin. The German drive down the Oise valley toward Paris was then checked. The present offensive movement here suggests the possibility of its resumption.

THE GERMANS AIM TO CAPTURE THE CITY OF RHEIMS

The Enemy Plans an Encircling Movement With the Object of Surrounding the Coveted Position

ATTACK HELD UP

(United Press.)
(By Henry Wood.)

With the French Armies in the Field, May 31. — The Germans are determined to capture Rheims. Held up by the British to the east, north and west of that city, the enemy plans a wide encircling movement to the south east, hoping thus to surround it, the military authorities believed to-day.

To accomplish this the Germans are expected to enclose their pressure between Brouillt and Janvry with the intention of breaking through along the Arde river and following this valley southeast-wards, gradually turning to the east so as to approach Rheims from the south. This strategy would entirely capture the valley of En-Tardenois for miles to the south east of Brouillet and two miles to the west of the Arde. The Arde rises in a small lake 4 miles north of the Marne at Epernay. It flows northeastwards, converging with the Vesle at Fismes. The German progress has been slower and more difficult for the past several hours owing to the steady arrival of French reserves. The enemy apparently has been entirely checked on the most of the front. His efforts seem to be concentrated in driving towards Farr-en-Tardenois, as a part of the attack to take Rheims.

METHOD OF ATTACK.

Every German regiment engaged in the southern drive, advanced in successive bounds. Four companies are in the front rank each time. Each company has four portable machine guns with one in reserve. Each regiment in addition has three machine gun companies possessing 12 machine guns and three mounted trench mortors, a piece which have a new long range weapon. As each wave of four companies leaps forward successively it is able to protect itself with machine gun barrage, while portable trench mortars and machine guns wipe out the centres of the attacking point.

PETERBORO'S OPPORTUNITY

The Formal Opening of the Canal Means Much to the City—Reception to Minister Will Be Simple

AN APPEAL TO THE PEOPLE

The visit of the Hon. Dr. Reid, Minister of Railways and Canals, to Peterborough on Tuesday for the formal opening of the Trent Canal, will not be marked by any elaborate ceremony or demonstration. Certainly the Minister himself would disapprove of any suggestion of extravagance in the reception that will be tendered him, the City Council is also mindful of the spirit and necessity of public economy and of the unfitness of mere display in these anxious days, and the people are consumed by the news from France.

Invited by Peterborough.

It must be remembered that Hon. Dr. Reid comes to Peterborough at the request of the Council and in compliance with the city's representations of the importance of formally declaring the canal open from Lake Ontario to Lake Simcoe. Peterborough desires to create, through an association of ideas, a widespread realization that the canal places this city on an open waterway with the upper lakes on the west, and Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence river on the east. And, it is hoped that the events of Monday and Tuesday will have this effect, and that the opening of the canal for navigation will be given extensive publicity.

It need scarcely be repeated that the Minister decided to tour the canal, and formally open it, at the urgent request of Peterborough; for that reason the obligation of making his visit noteworthy must be adequately fulfilled. In short, the people of this city will be wanting in their duty to themselves, and to the prospects the canal promises if they do not co-operate to the fullest extent in the simple reception the Councill is arranging.

Will Arrive on Tuesday Afternoon.

Hon. Dr. Reid and his party will arrive in Peterborough early in the afternoon of Tuesday, May 4th. He will board the steamer at Trenton on Monday morning and will spend the night at either Campbellford or Healey's Falls. The city's programme has not been finally completed, but it includes a visit to the Quaker Oats mills and to other factories, a public address of appreciation at Central Park at 6.45 p.m. and a luncheon at the Empress.

Ald. Taylor is selling the tickets for the dinner, and it is confidently expected that a large number of citizens will be present. The Board of Trade, Trades and Labour Council, Board of Education and other associations should be largely represented. The visit of Hon. Dr. Reid will not only afford the city an excellent opportunity of conveying its appreciation for the completion of the canal from Lake Simcoe to Lake Ontario, but also of emphasizing the importance to its full efficiency of opening it as soon as possible all the way to Georgian Bay.

This is the occasion and the chance Peterborough has looked forward to for years. It is unfortunate that the present is so fraught with the German menace that the formal opening unhappily synchronizes with the latest and seemingly the greatest of the Hun thrusts but the city should not lose sight of the importance of Tuesday's opportunity. It is not only a duty to the city to-day, but also to the men who will come back to it to-morrow. For the canal and its possibilities are only now presented to the people to make of it what they will. And there is no doubt that it will become a big factor in the industrial development of this city.

Hang Out Flags.

Business men on George street and other streets, and citizens at their homes, are requested by the Mayor and his committee to hang out their flags. The Council is reviving upon them to co-operate in this detail, which will not be otherwise provided. Hence, the flags should be brought from storage and should be displayed not later than Monday morning.

Other announcements of Tuesday's programme will be made later.

Roads Crowded With Refugees

The Streams of Fleeing Humanity Made a Pitiful Spectacle—Exodus From the Battle Front

NO HAVEN IN VIEW

(United Press).
(By Henry Wood.)

With the French Armies in the Field, May 31st.—From every point of the 60 mile battle front between Rheims and Soissons, streams of refugees to-day poured down the roads leading to Central France—fleeing the Hun invasion.

Late last night when I returned from the fighting line, where the homes of these people are being engulfed, the highways were bordered with the bivouac of fugitives for miles upon miles. The rolling country on all sides was all a flicker with their camp fires. They tarried for rest wherever night found them, sleeping beneath trees; the lucky ones who had thought to bring a little food, cooking and eating it under the stars.

The streams of fleeing humanity made a pitiful spectacle. Each road seemed to have its own particular caravan, and the whole scene resembles the exodus of the children of Israel as it is described in the Bible.

A PITIFUL SIGHT.

Every conceivable vehicle was used, from the huge two-wheeled French farm wagons hauled by the oxen, to baby carriages. These ox carts are capable of transporting the effects of an entire household.

On the top of the piles of goods on some of the wagons I saw groups of old women sitting with babies among them, some of the children clutching geese and chickens.

In line with these farm lorries, we saw many old buggies, decrepit cabs, smart traps and dog carts and even automobiles, and between them and flanking them paced the less fortunate families who had to march on foot carrying their sole possessions in wheel barrows and baby carriages and hand carts.

A SICK BABY.

There were some folk still poorer, whose only possessions were what they were able to carry on their backs.

Sometimes the luggage which these wanderers bore on their shoulders was topped off by a sick baby tied firmly to the bundle of household effects.

Intermingled with the human caravan were hordes of oxen, sheep, horses, goats and cattle. Here and there little girls drove flocks of geese before them. Others herded chickens, and pigs, poking them with long sticks to hustle them along, sometimes stopping a moment to glance back at the familiar scenes that were being left behind them, hurrying on to give the family live stock another urge on the way.

YOUNG MEN ABSENT.

The peasants walked behind their single cow, those who had once been fairly well to do, leaving behind dozens of cows, but all were homeless, and hardly had any particular goal in sight. As mile after mile of the endless column trudged past we scanned their faces and saw that there were no young men among them. All the faces were those of women, girls, children and very old men—showing that every Frenchman who can fight is at the front.

Where all these who were forced from their homes at a moment's notice, are going, God only knows. Few of the refugees have any particular haven in view. With them it was simply a case of keep going—going.

BRITISH OFFICIAL

German Prisoners and Machine Guns Were Captured in Patrol Encounters

HEAVY GUNFIRE

(Canadian Press.)

London, May 30. — The activity of the German artillery in the Villiers-Bretonneux sector east of Amiens, and in the Albert region to the north, is reported to-day by the war office. There has also been lively gun fire from the enemy lines on the Flanders front between Festubert and the Clarence river. A statement says: A party of our troops rushed a German post south east of Arras during the night, and captured a few prisoners. Some prisoners and machine guns were captured by us also in patrol encounters northeast of Ypres. The enemy raided one of our posts northeast of Robecq. A few of our men are missing.

HEAVY GUNFIRE.

(Special to Examiner.)

Ramsgate, England, May 31.— Very heavy gunfire was heard in the direction of the Belgian coast for 5 hours last night. There were also terrific explosions and a great flare accompanying each one.

(Ramsgate is situated just south of the mouth of the Thames River, fifty-seven miles from London. It is about thirty miles from Ramsgate across the English Channel to Calais.)

Public Optimistic

LONDON, May 31.—The developments of fight in the past twenty-four hours, have brilliantly demonstrated the value of the idea of the supreme allied commander which Premier Lloyd George finally accomplished in the face of determined opposition in certain British military quarters. The British press and public were more optimistic today, than at any time since Monday There is not the slightest criticism of the French retirement. The over whelming numerical superiority of enemy forces and gallantry and cool headedness of the French defenders are fully appreciated here, likewise, Gen. Foch's refusal to be stampeded into withdrawing the bulk of his reserves from the northern front is commented upon with appreciation. The forcing of such a move, it is pointed out, was certainly one of the enemy's principal purposes in planning the present drive. If Foch, should fall into such a trap, it is declared the Aisne advance would become merely subsidiary.

Not Definitely Stopped.

LONDON, May 31. — (By Ed. L. Keen — United Press Service). — Thanks to the most stubborn resistance offered by the Allies, the heroic defense of every inch of ground yielding to the enemy and the maintenance of closest co-ordination, between French and British forces, the Germans thrust towards Paris, in Soissons - Rheims sector has undoubtedly been checked, even if it is not yet definitely stopped.

The Allied troops are falling back slowly and in orderly fashion and their reserves are increasing the support given the hard pressed front line troops at critical points.

QUAKER OATS COMPANY WILL CONSIDER EXTENSIONS WHEN CANAL IS OPEN

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Will the people of Peterborough and district allow me to address an urgent word to them at this juncture. In a letter to me from Mr. Robert Stuart of the Quaker Oats Co., he says: "With an open waterway as a safeguard we are ready to consider extensions." That is "extensions" to the plant here. It is, therefore, vitally necessary that the government push on this work to Georgian Bay. I am writing to urge people to meet the Minister here on Tuesday as it is an occasion fraught with the gravest possible importance to this district. The Mayor and Council, with the invaluable City Clerk, are tireless in looking after Peterborough's interests, but the people and the people only, can impress visitors by assembling in crowds and by showing in every possible way their anxiety with regard to the completion of the canal. Of course much is being done toward its completion and the times are difficult, but we cannot do too much to uphold a necessary industry, even if the war were at our very doors.

Impression Prevails That Worst Of the German Offensive Is Now Over

French Re-captured Thillons in a Counter Attack—The New Line Holding—Very Heavy Fighting

FRENCH OFFICIAL REPORT

Canadian Press:

PARIS, May 31.—The Germans, by an attack in the Ailette River region, between Coucy Le Chateau and the Oise River have definitely consolidated the Aisne and the Picardy battle fronts, according to the French War Office announcement to-day. Before this attack the French have withdrawn from Blerancourt and Epagny, fighting stubbornly. In the centre the Germans have advanced slightly towards the Marne. On the left the French are still holding the western outskirts of Soissons. On the right a French counter attack recaptured Thillon, two miles and a half west of Rheims.

The Germans prolonged their efforts towards the Oise by violent attacks in the Ailette region. The French withdrew fighting north of Blencourt and Epagny. In the neighbourhood of Soissons and further south, German attacks were broken by the French resistance. The French maintained their positions in the western outskirts of the town and along the Chateau-Thierry road."

"In the centre the Germans made a slight advance in the region north of the Marne.

"Further to the east—north-west and north of Rheims—all German efforts were in vain, an energetic French counter attack retook Thillois," War Office statement adds.

ARE STILL ADVANCING.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, May 31.— Germans continued to push forward south of Fere-en-Tardenois, according to the latest advices reaching Paris, but neither Chateau Thierry nor Dormans have yet fallen into their hands. There is reason to hope that Chateau Thierry, the population of which has fled, will be saved.

Chateau Thierry is ten miles south of Fere-en-Tardenois, while Dormans is six miles south of Vezilly. Both towns are on the River Marne.

Numerous refugees from Soissons Rheims, Chateau Thierry on Marne and other points have arrived in Paris during the night and were sent onward hence toward the centre of France. They had been ordered to evacuate their homes and be carried on motor trucks to the nearest railway.

THE NEW BATTLE LINE.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, May 31.—A Havas Agency says: The fighting front it is declared, runs as follows: From Chavigny, north of Soissons, it describes a circle west of that city and re joins the River Crise south of Soissons, then it goes to Berzy, follows the Soissons, Chateau Thierry road until near Hartenneo, where it bends south-east to Grand Rozoy. Thence southward, leaving Mutchy Le Chateau it passes Nanteuil Notre Dame, and advances toward the Marne to Courcy, Breny, Courpil and Le Charmel, which marks its extreme southren point. Through Vezilly Brouillet, Savigny and Thillois it runs north eastward to the environs of Rheims.

The extreme point of the German advance is Le Charmel, about two miles north of the River Marne, according to an outline of the battle front as marked out by newspaper correspondents, the Havas agency says.

CONFIDENCE UNSHAKEN.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, May 31. — The impression prevails in Paris that the worst is over so far as the Aisne phase of the German offensive is concerned.

The announcement that the Allies' reserves are hurrying forward, adds to the confidence of the public. The Capital's morale remains untouched by air raids and long range bombardments. The streets are thronged every day with people in gay summer attire most of them wearing flowers.

Greek Minister Claims That East Offers Best Chance For A Victory

Roussos Says This Is the Logical Spot For Definite Results

A WEAK LINK

United Press:

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The eastern war theatre was urged by the Greek Minister, George Roussos to-day, as the logical spot for a blow at the Central Empires. In an interview with the United Press, Dr. Roussos held that the west front would remain a virtual fortress, where countless lives and incredible amounts of munitions would be blasted away to no avail. On the other hand, he argued, the east offered a weak link in the Teuton chain —a chance to achieve victory without the see-saw and the stalemate of the west.

Roussos declared that Napoleon struck through Italy and brought the Duel Monarchy to its knees. An offensive aimed at Laibach and Vienna will shatter Germany's mittel Europe schemes. The United States has at least recognized that Austria cannot be peacefully estranged from Germany he declared, and the recognition of the Jugoslav aspirations follows as the logical result.

A SERIOUS DEFEAT.

"The Albanians and other Austro-Hungarian subjects," he continues, "will never rest until Germany suffers a serious defeat."

"The Allies now have about 700,000 troops in the Balkans, Roussos stated. Five hundred thousand of these are British, French and Italians, two hundred thousand are Greeks. Greece is rapidly mobolizing and can add almost an equal number bringing the Allies' Balkan army to a million men.

The Germans have only about four divisions on the Salonica front, while the Bulgarians, Austrians and Turks make the total amount 500,000. To conduct an offensive with any reasonable chance of success, the Central Powers must have an excess of 500,000.

Another Large British Hospital Has Been Bombed

Nurses and Patients Were Pinned Under Wreckage of Building

(United Press)
(By William Philip Simms.)

With the British Armies in France, May 31.—The German airmen on Corpus Christi day again bombarded a British hospital, far behind the lines, killing women nurses, doctors and patients, and setting fire to the buildings.

After dropping flares so as to reveal their targets, the Germans dropped a large number of huge bombs. One scoring a direct hit on a large hospital prominently displaying the Red Cross, wrecked the building in which the Sisters ministering to the patients were pinned under the wreckage, together with the wounded soldiers and stricken attendants.

The British front is fairly quiet. Only raids, patrolling and artillery activity was reported to-day.

FRIDAY, MAY 31ST, 1918.

MORE CAMOUFLAGE.

The noisy campaign that is being conducted by Capt. J. H. Burnham, M.P., and his local newspaper supporter, on behalf of the soldiers' dependents, and of returned soldiers, is so transparent that no one is deceived, least of all those for whose benefit the agitation is presumed to be made. The latest campaign is in regard to pensions, and here again, as in the case of allowances to soldiers' families, there can be no argument over statements that the pensions are not adequate. Capt. Burnham, and the newspaper that follows his lead, are quite safe in condemning the scale with all the vehemence at their command.

The effect of Capt. Burnham's complaint is weakened, however, by the fact that in the session of Parliament just finished, Capt. Burnham never raised his voice to demand better pensions for the soldiers. That was the time for his eloquence and indignation—not after the session is over. If the disabled soldiers are not receiving adequate pensions, and nobody with any common sense or knowledge of the conditions, will dispute the statement that they are not, why did not Capt. Burnham introduce a resolution into the House and see that an opportunity was given of debating this most important question? He found time to discuss many subjects, even to talk about titles, although he could not find time to vote as he talked, but the robust baritone of the member for West Peterboro was silent about soldiers' grievances at Ottawa, although raised often enough in Peterboro, and even in Hamilton.

Capt. Burnham has played safe. When he could do something for the returned soldier by talking he was dumb. When it was too late to have the matter discussed in Parliament, he condemned the soldiers' pay, and inspired articles about the soldiers' pensions.

It is a wondrous campaign, this "red triangle campaign of truth," but it gets nowhere.

BATHING FACILITIES.

The management of the Young Women's Christian Association are to be congratulated upon the successful opening of their new swimming pool, the completion of which is an epoch in the history of Peterboro, inasmuch as the Y.W.C.A. effort provides the first opportunity that the girls and young women have been given of learning the useful art of swimming. It is a shameful confession to make that in a city so blessed with water facilities as Peterboro that it has been necessary to wait until the enterprise of the Y.W.C.A. could provide an indoor bath before such an opportunity was given, and it is hoped that the visit of the Mayor and Council to the new swimming pool last night has impressed them with the desirability of providing adequate dressing rooms along the river so that in the outdoor bathing season a cooling dip may be enjoyed by as many of Peterboro's young women as possible. The Y.W.C.A.'s magnificent pool, one of the finest of its kind in Canada, will give to hundreds a chance to learn to take care of themselves in the water, and will fill a long-felt want in that respect.

What is needed now is civic action to supplement the enterprise of the Y.W.C.A. by seeing that the girls of Peterboro are not deprived of the opportunity offered by the splendid river which flows through the city. Fortunately the Nicholls Park Trust has shown a commendable public spirit this year by providing a dressing station at Inverlea Park, devoting to this end a building not originally intended for this purpose, and their action will be blessed by hundreds of people during the next three months. The expense of providing such accommodation at other points would not be large, and the matter should not be lost sight of by the council.

CARRYING DOCUMENTS.

For the benefit of many worried men, of middle age and over, who are wondering where they come in under the regulations calling for the carrying of documents after June 1st, it may be pointed out once again that the order-in-council requiring these papers to be carried, refers only to persons who might reasonably be supposed to come within the description of class one of the Military Service Act. If you are obviously over the age of thirty-four years, there is absolutely no need of you worrying about the papers. If, however, your appearance is such that you might be considered as belonging to class one, it is up to you to carry the documents that will show that you are not in the class in question.

If you are not yet nineteen or were over thirty-four on the 13th of last October, an official birth certificate, or a certificate signed by two reputable citizens testifying to your age, would be required.

If you are not a British subject, a certificate of nationality from the consul or vice-consul of the country of your birth, or else a passport issued by the Government of that country, should be carried.

If you are excepted because of service with the army or navy, you must have your discharge papers.

If you are excepted under the clause regarding the clergy, an official document to that effect is necessary, while if you have been exempted by a tribunal under the Military Service Act, you should have your exemption papers ready when called upon.

Once again, if you are forty years of age, and look it, you don't need to carry papers.

And, as a last reminder, this regulation has nothing whatever to do with the National Registration. Everybody from sixteen years and upwards must register next month, and must carry a registration card, but that is for national service and has no connection with any of the Military Service Act regulations.

PUNISHMENT BY BOYCOTT

(New York Times)

In Norway's Parliament members have been complaining because German submarines attacked fishing boats along the Norwegian coast a few days ago, sinking five and killing fishermen who were striving to reach the shore in lifeboats. And the Foreign Minister has asked the Berlin Government for an explanation, hoping to get a German promise that the shelling of men in such boats shall not occur again. All this is a waste of time and effort. It is an old story the sinking of fishing boats in those waters, and the murder of men at work on them. Such boats were torpedoed and shelled there last year. Those whose lives were taken then had been catching fish for Germany. Last week's victims were working to supply the same foreign market. Since the beginning of the war Norway has been selling fish to the Germans, and our new trade agreement permits her to export 48,000 tons a year, with the understanding that Germany will receive nearly all of plaints and protests to Berlin last year, but they came to nothing. If promises were made, they have been broken.

Nearly 2,000 Nerawegian sailors have been killed, a majority of them by submarine gunfire. The Scandinavian Seamen's Union has reported against these murders, but without effect. Norway's fishermen and sailors should consider the expediency of ordering such a boycott as the British union, by means of its Merchant Seamen's League, has determined to enforce against Germany after the war. In this way the submarines might be restained. Some time ago we spoke of this boycott, which was suggested by the killing of defendless sailors. Its term, originally two years beyond the coming of peace, has been prolonged to five years and a half by adding one month for each new offense. There are now some additional reports about this project. Members are added to the league every day, and the number now exceeds 10,000. At the text election it will oppose any candidate for Parliament who withholds his approval. During the boycott's term no member will work on ships or for companies that serve German interests in any way. The movement will affect labor at British coaling stations in many parts of the world and at colonial ports. Officers of the league are informed that its plans are already regarded with some anxiety by German commercial interests. Neutral Norway has had more provocation than belligerent Great Britain for such a boycott.

A COSTLY LOSS.

Germans Copied Gothas From Captured British Airplane.

A Dutch engineer, Mr. Theodore Van de Linden, who was working in Essen in 1917, gives an account of the arrival in the Krupp city of the British airplane which fell in the German lines and which was copied for the building of the new Gothas. We make the following extract from the article as it appeared in the London Daily Mail:

Mr. Van der Linden states that one day at Essen there was great excitement in the airplane departments, when, without the slightest warning, the Kaiser, accompanied by the Crown Prince and Hindenburg, arrived at the Villa Hugel. He continues:

Prolonged conferences were held at the Villa Hugel, and in all these Gen. von Hoppner participated. I learned the secret of their conferences as a result of the confidence of one of the overseers in the airplane department who was quartered with me. The man one evening told me with great glee of the capture by the Germans of a wonderful British airplane. He said that the machine had flown from England to France and had descended in error during a thick fog inside the German lines.

On the following day I actually saw the machine, in company with the overseer who had told me of it.

While we were examining the airplane I heard the sound as of motor cars approaching, and, looking up, was surprised to see the Kaiser, Crown Prince, and others coming with Hoppner and von Bohlen. The Kaiser and Crown Prince went aboard and all the details of control and the bomb-dropping apparatus were carefully explained to them. The War Lord took the pilot's seat, and turning to the Crown Prince, who was occupying the gunner's seat, said: "A useful gift from our enemies. We can use it with good effect against them."

The Crown Prince agreed, and added: "These will be the machines to destroy London."

After the two royalties had descended from the machine it was loaded with dummy bombs in preparation for a flight. The now famous German flying officer, Richthofen, took the seat which the Kaiser had vacated, and two other officers also boarded the plane. With a terrific roar the two engines were started, and like a bird the airplane rose in the air. It climbed rapidly to about 10,000 feet, and the Kaiser turned to Gen. Hoppner, saying:

"How is it that, at such a height and on so cold a morning, the lubricants do not freeze?"

"The British have discovered the secret that we have been seeking for months," replied the general. "Our great difficulty is now surmounted. It is a gift from Providence. Does it not show that God fights for us?"

As the pilot in the exhibition flight manoeuvred the machine, performing some wonderful feats, the excitement of the Kaiser was intense. Closely he watched the plane through his glasses, and during a sensational spiral dive, when it seemed that the machine must certainly crash to earth, so close was it to the ground, it darted upward again, almost on its tail.

A few weeks later von Hoppner was appointed head of the Imperial German Air Service. Krupps were kept busy constructing the powerful twin engines for these machines of death, while a special plant was laid down in other towns, and factories speeded up. It was well-known in Essen and other places in Germany that in the early summer of 1917 a large fleet of these machines would be ready to commence operations against Britain. The production of Gothas of an improved type was rapid. By June last it was stated that Germany possessed a fleet of sixty.

China Must Enforce Order.

In view of the seriousness of the situation in the Far East, the Japanese Government has changed its policy hitherto adopted toward China, says the Japan Advertiser, and is reported to have advised China to effect a compromise between the South and the North. An opinion favoring the mediation between the two factions is maintained in a section of the Government, but no change had been tried to the existing policy due to the existence of certain circumstances. Owing to the sudden change of the situation in the Far East, however, it would be unwise to leave China in a chaotic condition, with the result that the opinion favoring the compromise has been rekindled.

Under such circumstances, there is good reason to believe that Baron Hayashi's departure for Pekin has been again postponed in order to carry out the mediation between the two factions during the absence of the Minister from Pekin, through the efforts of the acting Minister. A report asserts that friendly advice has already been given to the Chinese Government informally through an influential statesman, suggesting them to avoid further conflicts in view of the grave situation in the Far East.—East and West News.

Brave Merchantmen.

The gunners of the armed guards on merchantment have made a record of which they may be justly proud. The contests of the Silver Shell, which sent down the submarine which attacked it; of the Moreni, on which the men stayed at their guns until the flames flared up to the top of the smokestacks on the burning ship; of the Compana, whose gunners fought for hours until their ammunition was exhausted; of the J. I. Luckenbach, which, though under a rain of shells hit nine times and temporarily disabled, fought a submarine for four hours, before aid arrived, and later managed to reach port under her own steam; of the Armenia, which, though torpedoed, was saved through the courage and resource of its captain, crew and armed guard; of the Navajo, the Mongolia, the Petrolite and a dozen others are notable enough to be recorded in the naval history of the time.—Review of Reviews.

PRINCESS WAS FOOLED.

Wooden Soldiers Stood as Sentry at Her Door.

In 1805 Ferdinand IV. was driven from the throne of Naples. All the members of his family, except an aged half-sister, fled to Sicily. Of the lonely old Bourbon princess who remained in the land where her family had reigned, De Gute Kamerad tells a touching little story.

The victorious French, who had driven Ferdinand from the throne, treated the old lady with every consideration. The new King, Joseph Bonaparte, left her property and her income virtually intact. But he did order that the sentry who always had stood before the door of the princess and had saluted when she passed, should be removed. And on this point, in spite of the princess' pleas, he remained firm. The Bourbons had ceased to reign, he said, and no royal honors could properly be accorded to a member of the family.

The loss of this mark of respect wounded the princess more deeply than many more serious losses had done. For the first time she felt herself an outcast, an exile in her own land. She grieved so steadily that her strength began to fail.

Finally the loyal servants who had stayed with their mistress, decided to resort to a subterfuge in order to restore the old lady's spirits. Accordingly they fashioned a great wooden soldier, of dignified and martial appearance; on this dummy they painted the gay uniform of the Neapolitan grenadier. They set the figure in a sentry box by the gate of the princess' residence, and waited for their mistress to drive out.

They counted on the nearsightedness of the princess, and on the fact that she always passed through the gate in her carriage, to make the ruse successful. And when at last the carriage did pass, they saw by the glad flush that came to the princess' face that she had not detected the deception.

From that time the princess revived. The sentry never left his post, and the princess never discovered the ruse by which her loyal servants had restored her spirits and her health. But occasionally she did complain that under the new regime soldiers did not present arms, as they had done in the days when her brother was King.

The Coward.

It lies before my wounded feet;
The cross I am to bear.
Blocking my path, it frightens me
To see it lying there.

And yet, I dare not turn away,
Nor yet dare go around.
God, give me strength to carry it:
The thing upon the ground.

Capitalizing His Looks.

He draws a salary of $10,000 a year. Think of it. And he doesn't look as if he had sense enough to come in out of the rain.

True. But it helps considerable sometimes for a man to look that way and be quite the opposite. He can fool a lot of people.

CRUDE THOUGHTS FROM THE EDITORIAL PEN

OUR BOYS.

Yes, boys will be boys; and why should they not? Now, a boy should go to school, but there is no particular pleasure in that, for fun he wants, and fun he will have. Your boy should always be nice and clean; it makes him look well—but even that does not satisfy his frisky nature. A boy should go to meeting once or twice during the week, but, good as he is, he will crave for pleasure. We love a boy with a merry twinkle in his eye; he looks so cunning; and, besides he will need all the spirit of a young colt before he gets through the world. If properly trained, it will be to him what steam is to an engine. Did it ever occur to you to turn boy yourself and lay aside your dignified serious airs? Try it. Play with them, sing with them; and, when night comes you can pray with them with a result you little dreamed of. If they can always have more pleasure with you than anybody else you will always know where they are. Did you ever notice how the older animals play with their young? It looks funny, you will admit. We have often laughed at an old stiff-legged horse playing with a colt, and what a queer game of "tag" it was; the baby horse beat every time, but the little one always kept close to its mother, and was never heard to neigh. Parents, take a lesson, and it will be possible to know where the "wandering boys are to-night."

The Boy's Shadow.

Recently the mother of a boy who is about twelve years of age made complaint before the judge that her son was unruly and she feared he was associating with company that in the end would bring disgrace to him and her. The judge told the son to step near him, and in a pleasant tone of voice said, pointing to the parent: "Boy, there is the only true friend you have; obey her. Let me impress this on your mind; think of it; remember it! Whatever shadow you cast in life will follow you as long as you live and always keep in to you. That is your reputation. It is always in sight and just your size exactly, and how proud and happy it will make your fond mother if you will stop going with bad youths and stand in such a position in the sunlight of heaven that your shadow will always be on the one side of honesty and respectability. Go home this time with your mother, turn over a new leaf and prevent the law from sending you to the reform school." Golden words. No more pertinent truth was ever more aptly spoken; no wiser council ever proffered by mortal lips. Your reputation in your community is your shadow. It is exactly your size, and you can never get away from it; though you may flee a thousand miles of a cloudy day, the moment you sho wyourself in public your shadow is at your side. Your habits and modes of thought have left their imprint upon your features, unconsciously controlling your speech and action, and dissemble as much as you may, are constantly signalling from behind the mask that you are not what you pretend to be.

HOME AND SUNSHINE.

In view of the fact that home touches and lives in all hearts great care should be exercised in making it a cheerful and sunny place. The plant that lives in the shade is sickly and unsightly. The animal of darkness is restless, troublesome and fierce. And what is there worse than a sickly, unsightly plant or a wild ravenous beast? Nothing, but the man whose home has been cold, stormy and and cheerless, with sun shut out until everything above him is black, every room a swamp, every picture a weeping willow. He is worse than a funeral procession, with hearse and casket moving silently through the streets. These have a place and have a purpose. But a murmuring, faultfinding man is the worst thing nature ever ordered or produced. Never happy, never allowing others to be happy in his presence. He carries a face as cheerless as a tombstone, and as gloomy a heaven's arch in a thunderstorm, minus the lightning. His presence is like the discordant organ ground by the hand of fate; he drives a hearse through every social gathering, hangs pictures of gloom on the walls of home and hastens the death of the sick. We are provoked to sing in his presence the song of the painter Bliss.

"Go bury thy sorrow, the world has it share;
Go bury it deeply, go hide it with care,
Go bury thy sorrow, let others be blessed,
Go give the world sunshine, tell Jesus the rest."

EMPRESS ZITA LIKES ALLIES

Has Relatives in the Entente Armies.

HER INFLUENCE IN AUSTRIA

Recent Events In Europe Have Indicated That Pro-Ally Workers Are Busy In the Court of Emperor Charles, Who Has Been Forced to Discipline Some of Them to Please the Kaiser.

So many of the reigning houses of Europe are related by blood or marriage to the Hohenzollern that it is not surprising to find most of them rather hoping for a German triumph which would, incidentally, be a good thing for the king industry. The Austrian Emperor's amazing letter to his brother-in-law, Prince Sixtus, and the subsequent edict which banished his mother-in-law from Austria for the period of the war calls attention to the fact that the allies have a few friends in places near the Austrian throne. The Duchess of Parma, who will now be permitted to go to France or Belgium, or perhaps to England, in all of which countries she has friends, is not only the mother of the Empress of Austria, but she is the sister of the Archduchess Maria

EMPRESS ZITA.

Theresa, who was the mother of Francis Ferdinand of Austria, whose assassination furnished the Kaiser with the pretext for beginning the war. On the other hand, she is related to the Queen of the Belgians, and has two sons, Sixtus and Xavier, fighting in the Belgian army.

The Empress Zita is of the Bourbon family. Her father was Duke Robert of Parma, who was married twice and had twenty children. When he was but twelve years old he lost the Duchy of Parma, which was incorporated in the Kingdom of Italy. He had, however, inherited the chateau of Chamford and an accompanying fortune from a Bourbon uncle, and it was from France, therefore, that the family derived its income. Duke Robert, however, lived most of the time in Vienna. By his first wife he had eight children, of whom five were feeble-minded. The present Empress of Austria, like Xavier and Sixtus, were children of his second marriage. They spent a great part of their childhood in France, and the Empress herself received her education in a Benedictine convent on the Isle of Wight, and was brought up to think in the English way, a habit, no doubt, which she still clings to. It is worth noting that neither she nor the present Emperor ever showed any Germanic leanings in the early days, and indeed are said to have received several snubs from Wilhelm, who was then paying court to Francis Ferdinand.

It is interesting to note that it was on the Isle of Wight that the present Emperor and his wife met each other and fell in love, and if their union was the "true love match" that invariably explains royal matings, they must surely have some romantic affection and respect for the flag that witnessed their first toddling footsteps in the garden of love. The Empress' brothers are by birth and training strongly pro-ally. They were educated in France, and, on the outbreak of war, sought to enlist in the French army. They were debarred through a law suggested by Gen. Boulanger to the effect that no member of a family that had ever reigned in France should be accepted for military service. The idea was that some young Bourbon or Bonaparte might become a war hero, and, on the crest of military enthusiasm, re-establish a dynasty.

But there was nothing self-seeking about these young princes. Rejected by France, they applied to Belgium, and, after many difficulties, were accepted as stretcher-bearers in the ambulance corps. So gallantly did they bear themselves in rescuing wounded men under fire that both were decorated by King Albert, and won commissions in his fighting troops. Later on they were presented with the Military Cross of France by President Poincare. From almost the beginning of the war they have been serving and fighting in the Belgian army, taking their chances of death and their food rations like any other Belgian officer. Something of the personal worth of Prince Sixtus is indicated by the fact that the Emperor of Austria, whose subjects the young princes are fighting, should address so fraternal a letter to him.

The Y. W. C. A. Swimming Pool Formally Opened Last Evening

Mr. G. W. Morrow Acted as Master of Ceremonies—Mayor Duncan Made Some Rash Promises

THE PROGRAMME

With fitting ceremony and with the endorsatinon of Mayor G. H. Duncan, and practically all of Peterborough, the Y.W.C.A. swimming pool was formally opened last evening by Mr. George Morrow. In declaring the pool open Mr. Morrow spoke of the great work of the Y. W. C. A. and of the splendid building which was at last complete with its latest and very important addition. He complimented Mr. William Langford on the conscientious and splendid manner in which he had, as contractor for the pool, carried out the original plans made by the architects, Sproatt and Rolff, of Toronto. The architects had written off $135.00 from their account and Mr. Langford $165 from his as a donation towards the pool. In conclusion Mr. Morrow gave an account of the finances of the "Y," which are in a very satisfactory condition.

Some Rash Promises.

Mayor Duncan, who was next called upon, enumerated the great advantages of the pool not only in providing a course which is a safeguard from drowning, but which is a splendid exercise, aiding in physical development. He made a few rash promises in assuring the girls that when they are able to swim he will take them canoeing—a thing he would not attempt without knowing that they were cuipped with a knowledge of how to save themselves in case of accident.

The Programme.

Preceding the swimming demonstration all kinds of attractions were offered upon the grounds of the 'Y.' In a big marquee refreshments were served by a number of young ladies and classical dancing by Miss Littlefield's pupils in costume lent a charming effect to the whole gaily decorated and illuminated picture. Miss Edith Price and Miss Esme Aylmer by special request gave the rose ring dance. Inside the swimming house, Mr. Morrow acting as master of ceremonies, a programme to which Miss Scott contributed a charming solo also Mr. Douglas Carlisle, Mrs. Widdess and Mr. Asa Huycke, Miss Agnes Logan a piano solo and Mr. Huycke and Mr. Carlisle a duet, was given.

Swimming Exhibition.

Lastly came the swimming exhibition by the physical director of the Y.W.C.A., Miss Littlefield. Clad in a one-piece black swimming suit, she gave an exhibition of different strokes, dives and stunts which rivalled Annette Kellerman in grace and ease. Starting with a "swimming lesson" in which Agnes Carmichael was the pupil, she illustrated the methods of teaching the beginner, which in its primary stages is done with the aid of water wings. Continuing she illustrated the long plunge with breast stroke, alternate over-arm stroke, double arm on back, sculling, floating, marching in water, and lastly the different dives which was enjoyed by all, but those who stood too near in the "naughty boy" dive.

Life Saving.

An excellent exhibition of life saving, with Miss Carmichael again as the victim, was perhaps the most intesting feature of the evening. This was done so realistically that one small voice created some amusement by calling out "Is she dead" as Miss Carmichael was propelled to 'safety.'

The Band.

Throughout the evening the Salvation Army gave most enjoyable selections, contributing in no small measure to the success of the garden party and exhibtion.

MEN ARE REPORTING FREELY IN QUEBEC

The Flying Service is Getting a Large Number.

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, May 31.— Gratifying reports continue to reach the department of Militia nd Defence regarding the workings of the Military Service Act in the Province of Quebec. A communication received to-day states that on May 27th, 138 men were ordered to report to the Depot Battalion at Quebec City and that 138 reported. Of the number 100 were attached to the Depot Battalion and the others joined the Laval University Battalion and the flying corps. Similar satisfactory results it is stated, are being attained daily.

IS NOW ABLE TO STRAIGHTEN UP

Had Rheumatism So Bad Was Nearly Helpless —Tanlac Overcomes Trouble

"If you had seen me playing football yesterday with the rest of the boys you'd never have thought I was the same chap that a few weeks ago was so crippled with rheumatism that I couldn't straigthen up," said James M. Norman, of 467 Willard Ave., Toronto, in telling the other day of his remarkable restoration through the use of Tanlac. Mr. Norman is an expert machinist, holding a responsible position with the John Inglis Co., Ltd., and before coming to Toronto he was for ten years foreman of the Canadian Steel Foundries, Ltd., of Montreal.

"During the past three years," he continued, "I had rheumatism so bad that I was obliged to give up my old position that I had held for ten years. A little over a year ago I had an acute attack that laid me up for three solid months, when I was totally unable to do a thing. The trouble was right in my back, which would feel so stiff and sore when I waked up in the mornings that I would hardly raise myself up, and would have to roll over sideways to get out of bed, and even then it was all I could do to put on my clothes. I was all drawn over like a very old man and if I tried to straighten up or bend way over to tie my shoe I felt just like a sharp knife was sticking in my back. Many a time after going to bed I would suffer such agony that I was unable to get a minutes rest all night long.

"It is utterly impossible for me to describe all the misery I suffered during these three years, and although I tried all kids of medicines, and was treated by specialists, and had my back massaged time and again, I could get no relief. When I began to read the statements about Tanlac made by so many reliable people I decided to try it, too, though I had little hope that it would benefit me any. Well, sir, by the time I had finished my second bottle I could see a decided improvement. I have been taking Tanlac now for some time and firmly believe that it is the only thing that has kept me on the job. I never have a bit of trouble with my back, the pain and stiffness are completely gone, I never notice any tinges of rheumatism and feel just as supple as I ever was. It is no trouble for me to bend over at work, and my back is as straight as anybody's. I feel just splendid in every way and can hold my end of the game when out playing or tussling with the boys. Tanlac has done me more good than all the other medicines I have ever taken put together, and I can't say too much in its praise.

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd. In Havelock by A. C. Denike. In Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd. In Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter. In Gelert by A. J. Scott. In Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

HUN AVIATORS ATTACK HOSPITALS IN AMERICAN AREA

Enemy Airmen Swept Low Over Hospital and Deluged Tents With Machine Gun Fire

(United Press.)

(By Fred S. Ferguson.)

With the Americans in Picardy, May 31.—German aviators attacked three hospitals in the rear of the American area on Wednesday night. They not only dropped bombs but swept low over the hospital tents deluging them with machine gun fire.

This attack took place on Corpus Christi eve—the religious feast day, on which the Boches obtained immunity for their own towns through the intercession of the Vatican following the appeal frm the German Archbishop of Cologne.

The ever-beautiful smocking is still a favoured mode of trimming children's dresses.

War's Blighting Hand Is Showing on Enemy's Youth

Undernourished, They Are Losing Patriotism and Delinquency Has Trebled—"The Dark Shades are Falling Over the Picture of 1914"

SPIRIT OF SERVICE DISAPPEARS

Washington, D. C., May 31. — The Bureau of Education, Department of the Interior, in response to requests for information on present educational conditions in Germany has made public the following translations from an article by Dr. Paul Hildebrandt, in the Vossische Zeitung, Berlin, January, 23. After reciting the early enthusiasm of German youth for the war and their activities in behalf of war measures, the article continues:

"The sixth grade pupils of 1914 are now about to be promoted to the upper third. They have become accustomed to the war. Who can wonder then that now in the fourth year of war our children exhibit signs of a change? Too many of the restraints have been removed which should shape their development—the loosening of family ties, and in the lower ranks of society doing the work of men; the omission of school discipline.

"Of the teachers of the Berlin public schools, for instance, two thirds have gone into the army. The remainder are overworked. Dropping class periods or combining classes is the order of the day. In the higher schools half of the teachers are in the army. Furthermore, standards in the higher institutions of learning have gradually been lowered until the final examination has been pushed back fully two classes. All these conditions have influenced our students, and have weakened their persistence, since they see that they can attain a scholastic standing without effort that formerly demanded the severest application.

HARDSHIP OF INADEQUATE NOURISHING.

Young people follow the law of their nature. They are guided by the impressions of the moment and they cannot permanently resist them. In addition as time went on, especially in case of the students of the higher institutions, and particularly in the towns, the hardship of inadequate nourishment appeared. It is the unanimous judgment of the medical specialists that the children of the middle classes suffered the most in this respect.

"General attention was attracted to the fact that the chidren were less sensitive to reproof, that they paid no more attention to threats, because the school authorities had directed that they should be treated with every leniency, and since promotions no longer represented any definite standard of accomplishment.

This special consideration for the children was most obvious in the schools of the larger cities. Was not harvest work and the country vacation necessary to maintain the health of the coming generation and was it not necessary for a great many to be set back in their studies so that they required repeated concessions to maintain their rank and thereby continually lower scholastic standards of their classes?

SPIRIT OF SERVICE DISAPPEARS

"That spirit of voluntary service, which at the beginning of the war revealed itself in its fairest aspect, has now disappeared. Everywhere we hear lamentations over the increasing distaste shown for military service. Pupils collect articles now for the reward, not from patriotism, and the older pupils have their struggles. Shall they take advantage of the opportunity to leave school with a half-completed education or shall they avoid placing themselves in a position where they will have to enlist for their country? What an unhappy indecision even for the best of them. Those who really think about the matter.

"Furthermore, in these ranks of society which are less influenced by tradition, discipline and education, we find increasing violations of the law. At first this manifested itself merely in an increase of theft. More recently it has taken a decided turn toward personal assaults. It is true that the latter are still negligible in proportion to the total number of juvenile offences but they are increasing every year. Already the number of violent crimes committed by youths in the city of Berlin, is more than three times the number reported in 1914.

"Thus dark shadows are falling over the brilliant picture of 1914. Every disciplinary influence, every effort of the fundamentally sound German nation must be exerted to oppose this tendency and to lead the children back to th path of rectitude."

FARMERS CLUB WAS ORGANIZED LAST EVENING

Douro Farmers Held an Important Meeting—The Speakers.

A Farmer's Club was organized last night in Douro, with officers elected as follows:

Pres.: M. D. Sullivan.
Vice-Pres.: Maurice Condon.
Sec.: Jos. Garvey.

LARGE ATTENDANCE.

The meeting called for the purpose of forming the club was unusually large and the hall at Douro was crowded to capacity. Farmers who are members of the Warsaw and Indian River Clubs, and the Club Secretary from the East City branch were present. Reeve Walsh occupied the chair.

MAIN SPEAKER.

Mr. H. B. Cowan, editor of Farm and Dairy, who was the main speaker, outlined the conditions which led the farmers to commence to organize all they can.

Following his address it was warmly voted to organize at once, and a large number joined the Club.

ATTENDED THE CONFERENCE.

Mr. Andersen, a member of the Warsaw Club, who attended the recent farmers' deputation to Ottawa, regarding the Military Service Act, gave a lucid account of what took place at Ottawa, and the results likely to grow out of the deputation's visit.

GOOD PROSPECTS.

All the farmers present reported the same condition of crops—that prospects for a record harvest are bright, provided the weather holds and sufficient help can be secured, this will be a record year.

LITTLE HOPE OF FINDING THE BODY OF CHRISTOPHER FAGAN

Mr. Cadigan, a relative of the late Christopher Fagan, who was drowned on Friday, May 10th, at Feild, Ont., has returned from Field, after unsuccessfully searching for the body for some time.

HOW ACCIDENT OCCURRED.

Mr. Cadigan told briefly how the accident occurred. Mr. Fagan had come into the cook house at noon on Friday, and finding the cook and his assistant about to leave for the place the lumbermen were cutting wood, he offered to take the assistant's place, and paddle over to the men. They were crossing the Narrows where the creek enters Lake Nipissing, when the wind caught the canoe broadsides and overtipping them in 40 feet of icy water. They clung to the canoe until Fagan's strength or heart gave out and he released his hold and sank. The cook still retained his hold and he drifted against a boom, where three hours after, the men becoming alarmed at the camp, a search party found him almost completely exhusted and after working with him for hours revived him.

LITTLE HOPE.

The search parties are still bombing the place where Mr. Fagan sank, and dragging for the body, but little hope is held out for the recovery.

GOITRE PREVALENT IN LINDSAY

One of the military medical examiners at Kingston is responsible for the statement that goitre is prevalent in Lindsay and district to an alarming degree — in fact, more young men were found to have goitre from this section than in any other part of the military district. The prevalence of goitre is due, he claims to the deposits of lime in the drinking water.

Goitre is an enlargement of the thyroid gland on the anterior part of the neck.

Mrs. Edna Sexsmith Committed For Trial This Morning On A Charge Of Stealing $73.00

Mrs. Edna Sexsmith was committed for trial by Magistrate Dumble this morning on a charge of stealing $73 from Dr. McGrath. In reviewing the evidence for the prosecution, which was presented a few days ago, His Worship wrote his decision as follows:

"It was proved that the prisoner bought an organ from Auctioneer Hancock for $24.50 on May 9th, 1918, and that amongst Hancock's money that night were one Standard Bank bill with a yellow back; also one $10 bill of the Bank of Montreal; and prisoner admitted that she paid Hancock two $10 bills when paying for the organ. So that the evidence shows that the prisoner had in her possession six ten dollar bills, and they correspond with the six tens the Doctor said he had lost. Detective Newhall got the bills in a purse in prisoner's trunk at her house while she was in the police station under arrest. The question is: Are these Dr. McGrath's bank bill, and, if so, how came they into the possession of the prisoner.

This woman bears a bad character. She had been in and around Dr. McGrath's residence during the time he had the money, assisting in the house work, but where the money was in the Doctor's house at the time it was taken is not proved. The Doctor states he remembers putting it under his pillow one night; he saw it in a drawer in his office, and part of the time he carried it just as he got it, in his trouser pocket.

There is no means of identifying the bills save that they correspond in size and as to banks with the description the Doctor gave when giving to Chief Thompson the description of the lost money. No explanation is given by the prisoner as to how she came by the money.

It corresponds with the amount lost by Dr. McGrath. It corresponds with the designation of the lost bills. It is found in possession of and is traced back to the prisoner who was suspected and had opportunity to take it. I think the onus of explanation is cast upon the prisoner. I therefore commit her for trail at the next sittings of the next court of Competent Jurisdiction."

Interesting Presentation At Heintzman Hall

Military Wrist Watch to Mr. Alex Pigeon, the Firm's Book-Keeper —A Sad Telegram.

A very pleasing, and at the same time, impressive duty was performed in Heintzman Hall's business office this morning, when Mr. Alex M. Pigeon, the respected young bookkeeper of the firm, was presented with a solid silver military wrist watch, suitably inscribed.

The presentation was made on behalf of manager Britton and his staff by Canon Davidson, of St. John's Church, of which Mr. Pigeon, is an exemplary member. The occasion was the result of an official message received from military headquarters calling on Mr. Pigeon, to report for duty at Kingston by Saturday.

Although Mr. Pigeon has only occupied the position of book-keeper for Heintzman Hall for about six months, he had won the confidence and respect of Manager Britton and Mrs. Britton, as well as of the whole Heintzman Hall staff of salesmen.

Expressions of regret at losing Mr. Pigeon's services were made by those present as well as encouraging words on the eve of his departure to his military duties. Canon Davidson took advantage of the occasion to address Mr. Pigeon, personally on the new duties he was soon to enter upon. Bidding him a cheering God speed and urging manly confidence in the emergency which had called him to join the ranks of the Allies as a soldier of the King.

After the presentation was made, Mrs. Britton asked Mr. Pigeon's permission to open the neatly flag-wrapped package containing the watch and to strap it onto his wrist, where, she hoped, it would remain until he would return to them safely to occupy his same position again in Heintzman Hall.

A card attached to the presentation contained the names of the donors as follows: — Mr. and Mrs. Britton, C. Gentleman, S. J. Dwan, J. P. Wood, A. Naish, T. B. Hutchinson, W. J. Moher, W. Teabo, O .W. Frecborn.

The interesting proceedings were closed with an earnest intercessory prayer by Canon Davidson.

A Saddening Telegram

During the course of the presentation, Mr. Britton, manager of Heintzman Hall, took occasion to refer to the following telegram which he had received:—

Toronto, May 30.

Heintzman & Co., Peterboro.

"Flight Lieut. T. H. Heintzman, son of Herman Heintzman, Vice-President, has been killed in aeroplane accident. Funeral Saturday. Out o frespect, close store all day, Saturday.

Heintzman & Co.

Mr. Britton referred feelingly to this additional casualty which had come to the official members of his firm. Five members of the families connected with the firm of Heintzman & Co., Limited, had thus far, sacrificed their lives for the cause of the Allies, exating a toll which few other Allies, exacting a toll which few other

FORMER ACCOUNTANT OF LOCAL BANK HAS DIED FROM WOUNDS

His many friends in Peterborough will regret to learn of the death from wounds of Lieut. John S. Watson, Royal Naval Reserve, and formerly accountant of the Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Lieut. Watson has been a resident of Peterborough for several years before the war, coming here from the New York office of the bank. He left three years ago to join the Glasgow Division of the R.N.R.; and for two years was with a torpedo boat squadron in the North Sea, being twice wounded. Afterwards he was attached to the 215th Naval Maching Gun Company in Flanders, and in the recent offensive was severely wounded, his death ensuing on May 5th. Mr W. H. Dunsford, manager of the Bank of Commerce, received the sad news to-day. Lieut. Watson was thirty-two years of age, and was a native of Glasgow, Scotland.

LOST 30 CENTS IN A CARD GAME CHASED WINNER WITH A KNIFE

E. L. Abrico lost thirty cents in a card game, and so peeved was he that the "bank" had gone against him that he chased the winner around the block with a knife, and finally wound up in Police Court this morning, when he pleaded guilty to having created a disturbance, and was fined $12.60.

Lewis Manes was the winner of the mere thirty cents in a little card game, in which other compatriots participated. After losing, Albrico talked more than 30 cents worth, and wrangled and worked himself into a reddish hazy state that promised trouble.

The wordy war was a prelude to the chase around a west-end block, starting from Donegal Street. Albrico was waving a knife, and Manes, a few paces ahead of him, shouted and cried, evidently imagining the blade was feeling for a space between his ribs.

For this little show which the police reported, and which Albrico pleaded guilty to this morning, he paid $10 and costs.

Paid $4.60 For Not Having Dog License

His neglect of buying a license, for his dog cost Wm. Mullin, $4.60, this morning, plus $1.00 for the tag.

James Gates, made $1.50 by destroying three cats. The rate 50 cents for those who have cats, they want put out of the way by a newer method than tying them in sacs weighted with rocks, and dropping them in a rainbarrel. But this is an anachronism.

The blue gown should have a white collar and a cherry-coloured tie.

THE WORLD OF SPORT

JOE'S POPULARITY DEPENDS ON HIS MOTIVE FOR MOVE

Discussing Joe Jackson's decision to go to work as a painter in a shipyard rather than enter the army as a draftee Howard Man in the Chicago Evening Post has this to say:

Either one of two things actuated Jackson in making this move. He figured he could do his bit best by giving up a $5,000 a year baseball job to work in the shipyards for a half or a third of that amount, or he figured he could evade the draft.

If Jackson figures he can be of most service to his country painting warships and transports, that is his business, and he does so at quite a loss of income, and he makes his action all the more praiseworthy. On the other hand, if Jackson has taken to painting ships in order to evade the army service, the fans of Chicago don't care if they ever see him play ball again.

"PERCHERS" MUST PAY TAX.

WASHINGTON, May 28. — Persons who sell seats on any roof or structure overlooking a baseball park will be obliged to pay a war tax to the Government, according to an announcement issued by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The tax must be collected and paid by the enterprising owner or occupant of the building who receives payment for the seats occupied by "perchers." The announcement says that in one city a woman, whose yard adjoins the ball park has been selling seats in a tree, the price being 5 and 10 cents, depending on how high the patrons have to climb. Recently the price has advanced to 6 and 11 cents, the extra cent being added to the war revenues.

SPORTING COMMENT

Lee Magee continues to hit the ball for Matty's Reds and he has played no small part in the recent successes of the Redland team.

Just about the time that Hugh Bedient returned to the majors another of those 1912 world's champions also returned. Steve Yerkes signed with the Cardinals.

Though he has been given special classification, Benny Kauff now believes he will be called to the colours within the near future.

It is rumoured in St. Louis that the Yankees are after Bruno Betzel, who was released by the Cardinals to Indianapolis.

Both George Burns and Clarence Walker are playing a brilliant game for Connie Mack, and hitting the ball to various sections of the field as well as into the bleachers.

Jack Hendricks is having his troubles at St. Louis, but it would be unfair to blame it on Jack. His stars are in a slump with the stick.

Leibold and John Collins become outfield regulars of the White Sox as a result of Joe Jackson's departure. They divided the work in right field up to the time the vacancy was created in left.

The weakness of the Detroit team with the stick is a big puzzle in view of the fact that the team includes such hitters as Cobb, Veach, Heilman and several other dangerous batsmen.

Nick Cullop and Eddie Plank, the two southpaws who figured in the big trade between Yanks and Browns last winter, still decline to report to the clubs which obtained title to their services.

The veteran Lefty Leifield is with the St. Louis Browns, but he is not being used very often, except to finish up games.

"Red" Ames has been around for a long while, but he is far from being "through" as a major league pitcher.

High Rollers Win From West Ends

In the five-pin league at the Water street alleys last night the High Rollers won two of the three games from the West Ends in a hard fought match. The High Rollers rolled up the neat total of 904 for the first game and for 3 game pinnacle made a record for the league, with 2,548. The West Ends' best total was 817.

Heaslip for the High Rollers, and Weber for the West Ends were in the 600 class with 628 and 621 for total. Cocks' A 244 for the High Rollers was high single of 244.

To-night, Grocers vs. Maple Leafs. Last night's scores were:

Wedding Bells

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Dawson, South Monaghan, on Wednesday, May 22, 1918, when their elder daughter, Iva M., was united in marriage to Charles C., son of Mrs. Robt. Fisher, Bailieboro. The bride was dressed in white Georgette crepe, trimmed with satin and wore a tulle veil with orange blossoms. She was given away by her father. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Kathleen Waterman, consin of the bride. The ceremony was conducted by Revd. W. Leigh, B. A., under an arch of evergreens and apple blossoms. After congratulations the guests adjourned to the dining-room, Mr. and Mrs. Fisher left on a motor trip to Niagara, the bride wearing a navy blue serge suit. On their return they will reside on the Fisher homestead, Bailieboro. The bride received many beautiful presents which shows the high esteem in which she is held. We join in extending hearty congratulations to the happy couple.

AN ERROR CORRECTED.
Printers have a lot to answer for, and they have to take the blame for a lot of things that come out wrong in the paper. Last Wednesday the advertisement of the Peterboro Shoe Store stated that a table of shoes would be sold on Wednesday only for 50c, when it should have read on Thursday only. The error spoiled the sale as the paper only came out on Wednesday evening, but the store announces now that there are dozens of big bargains ready for Saturday selling that will be pleasant surprises for the customers. Be sure to visit the store, 291 George street, in the new Lundy block, opposite Opera House.

These men are the most unfortunate of the victims of war—Their actual existence is only possible through the Red Cross parcels of food and clothing, which are sent regularly and received safely.
The Progressive Club has contributed $84 a month to the Prisoners of War Fund, since October 1916. This amounts to over $1,000 a year, which is a heavy drain on the treasury.
This Tag Day on Saturday, is the first one to be held by this club in its 3 years and 8 months of steady work, and the officials of the club look forward, confidently to a generous response to this appeal for the Prisoners of War.—42 of whom are Peterboro Boys.

Revolution Aims To Raise The Standard Of Surgery In Canada And Protect Public

"We Must Houseclean Ourselves Or the Public Will Do It For Us" Says Prominent Surgeon at Hamilton Convention—Degrees That Mean Something.

TRAINING FOR A SURGEON

Special to the Examiner:

HAMILTON, June 1.—Agreeing with the words of the chairman, Dr. J. K. McGregor, that "We must either house clean ourselves or the public will do it for us," a large and representative gathering of prominent surgeons attending the convention now in session in Hamilton yesterday morning, and unanimously passed a resolution, whereby it is hoped to raise the standard of surgery in Canada and protect the public from incompetent men. The resolution asks that all licensing bodies, the universities and the Government, take steps for the protection of the public.

Question of Degrees.

This action followed a discussion on the speech of Dr. Jasper Halpenny, one of the most famous surgeons of the Middle West, on Thursday. This speaker urged that the public insist on surgeons having degrees, which will mean something. Degrees at present, he said, mean absolutely nothing. Men turned out under the present system, if unscrupulous, were menaces to the public and a reflection on the profession, he said.

Dr. Halpenny advocated for the surgeon at least a three years' training in a hospital or assistant to a recognized surgeon after a medical course.

The chairman cited the good effect which the Rockfeller reports had on the re-organization of the Universities of Canada, and he thought that it was quite reasonable to suppose that the requirements demanded by the American Medical Association and the Congress of Surgeons of the United States would have the same effect on Canadian hospitals as they have had on the American hospitals. These requirements demand that the Board of Governors be directly responsible to the Government for the surgery done in hospitals to which the people have subscribed, either for construction or maintenance.

WAR GARDEN BULLETIN

Practical Daily Guide For Vacant Lot and Backyard Gardeners Enlisted in Greater Production Campaign.

BELATED GARDENERS.

There are plenty of "eleventh hour" gardeners in Canada, and there is no reason why the belated amateur should be discouraged. Even if his neighbour is already using his lettuce and radishes he may still do his bit and, assuredly, it's better late than never. Right up to the first of July even the so-called "early" seeds may be sown and no man or woman should call off because he or she thinks it is too late to make a start.

Weather and soil conditions vary all over the country and these bulletins do not pretend to be uniform for all our war gardeners. But cut them out and keep them on file. They will help you out and serve as constant reminders.

Perhaps you are feeling a little discouraged over your garden. It may be that you planted some garden seeds when the early birds came and they never sprouted. You cannot control the weather. Get busy again and give them another trial. Gardening is something like gambling, with the chances all in favour of winning. The one essential thing is that everyone should have a war garden of some kind and add to the country's food supply.

MANUFACTURERS WILL TALK FREE TRADE

Special to The Examiner:

HAMILTON, June 1.—President S. R. Parsons of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, in an address to the local organization here to-day, intimated that the manufacturers of Canada would make a big stand on the protection issue at their annual convention in Montreal within a few weeks' time. Parsons said there was considerable free trade talk in Canada west and among politicians at Ottawa, and the Manitoba crops should show their colours now.

Bristol Long Famous Port.

Bristol is one of the ancient ports of England, and three or four hundred years ago it was second only to London. From the very outset it has been connected with trade on this side of the Atlantic, and, in fact, it was out of Bristol that John Cabot sailed in 1497 on the voyage that brought him to the coast of Nova Scotia and was, therefore, the first to reach the mainland of this continent.

Roller Bearings.

Ball bearings are a German invention, and it is only a comparatively few years ago that they made their appearance on the market. Roller bearings, both cylindrical and conical, are an American invention. The advantages claimed for the rollers over the balls are that they can sustain both the radical and the axial strain and they are more easily replaced when they become worn.

CATTLE MARKET

Although the total receipts of cattle this week were unusually light, the trend of the market, particularly the first two days, was towards lower prices. Monday's market opened up very slow and what looked almost like a frame up among the big packers was in full force, for, as if by tacit agreement, no one seemed to want any cattle, and for the whole of the forenoon, there was practically nothing doing, and dealers and drovers were left to speculate as to how much the big buyers intended to knock off the previous week's prices. On one point everyone, buyers and sellers alike, excepting perhaps a few of the drovers who had paid top prices in the country, and were likely to be stung, agreed, and that was that prices had climbed too high, and that it was time they were cut down to more reasonable levels. And so the packers, or somebody, decided to try and get at least 50 cents off. In this laudable attempt the buyers were at least partially successful for in the trading for the first two days of the week, the general average of prices was a good 50c. lower than the previous week's average. Some of the salesmen, in fact, insisted that the cut was deeper and that prices, except for the very choicest butcher and heavy steers, was at least 75c. lower. The movement for lower prices, however, was short lived, for receipts of cattle in the market were gradually dwindling as the week advanced, and the demand for cattle began to be slightly more urgent. If prices appeared to be still low or steady with Monday's decline, the cattle were fuller, and probably in the dressing were dearer cattle than those bought in the earlier markets. By the end of the week the market had quite steadied again, and was evidently on the turn for a recovery to the former high levels. Should receipts continue to be light, there is little probability tht prices will be materially lower for some time to come.

During the week, in spite of the generally easier tone of the market, several transactions took place, showing that for extra quality cattle prices were as firm as ever. Several choice lots of butcher steers and heifers sold in the neighbourhood of $16, a straight load sellin gat $16.15, and three or four loads of butcher cattle were shipped east to Montreal and Quebec, costing from $14 to $15. Fat cows and butcher bulls generally held good and firm.

Stockers and feeders were comparatively quiet, prices generally holding steady to firm at recent levels.

Calves were in good demand, the market during the week advancing 25c. to 50c.

Sheep and lambs firm.

Hogs were weak, coming down another 50c., making a dollar decline in the past two weeks.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying, and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Be Fair to Your Dealer

AS a business man, your shoe dealer has only one object in life. That is to fill your requirements exactly—to thus make his store a more satisfactory place to shop.

Every minute of the day he is on the alert to obtain new and reliable merchandise, so that when you come into his store, you will have the best of everything at the lowest possible prices to choose from.

In addition to supplying your needs, he tries in every way possible to avoid misunderstanding, mistakes and annoyances. He sells you not only merchandise, but service.

For example: In Canada from coast to coast, there are approximately 10,000 dealers who sell shoes. They sell thousands and thousands of pairs of shoes each day. It would be surprising if among these thousands of business transactions some mistakes or misunderstandings did not occur.

Now then, when something goes wrong with your purchase, what is your attitude towards your dealer?

In most cases, of course, the basis of adjustment is evident, and most dealers in Canada are quite ready to give prompt attention to reasonable claims. That is the understanding on which all business should be done.

If you buy a suit and a seam rips or any other little thing goes wrong, you do not ask or desire a new suit, but merely have the trouble repaired.

Are you equally reasonable about Shoes?

Do you make demands on your shoe dealers which in comparison with other business would be unreasonable or excessive?

Do you fully realize that footwear has to stand the roughest treatment of any wearing apparel, and is oftentimes subject to actual abuse and rough usage?

All reliable manufacturers stand fully behind their dealers in cases of reasonable claims arising from chance defects of workmanship and material. But if you force your dealer to make allowance for a claim that is unjust, he has to stand the loss.

Appreciate the fact that your retail shoe dealer wants your trade, and that he wants to have you consider his store a pleasant and satisfactory place to shop. He wants to be just, even at financial loss to himself. So the next time you have a complaint or a re-adjustment to bring to his attention, why not be sure that your claims are well founded and that what you ask him to do is reasonable.

Be fair to your dealer.

When you see the A. H. M. trade mark on a shoe, you know that not only is that mark an endorsement by the largest shoe concern in Canada, but that being the product of a highly organized industry, the shoe you are buying represents the utmost in value, style and wearing qualities which can be obtained at the price.

s That He Would Never Walk Again 'FRUIT-A-TIVES" Brought Relief.

MR. LORENZO LEDUC

3 Ottawa St., Hull, P.Q.

Fruit-a-tives' is certainly a wonder. r a year, I suffered with Rheuma-m; being forced to stay in bed five months. I tried all kinds of dicine but without getting better; t thought I would never be able walk again.

One day while lying in bed, I read out 'Fruit-a-tives' the great fruit dicine; and it seemed just what I eded, so I decided to try it.

The first box helped me, and I took tablets regularly until every trace the Rheumatism left me.

I have every confidence in 'Fruit-a-es' and strongly recommend them every sufferer from Rheumatism".

The Woman Who Changed

By JANE PHELPS

DAVID SPEAKS HIS MIND

CHAPTER LXXXI.

The moment we were alone, I realized that David HAD seen, and that he was angry for my sake. I must be careful, if his visit was not to be spoiled, and all of us made uncomfortable.

"I call that pretty rotten!" he declared.

"What?" I pretended innocence.

"You mean that you didn't see!" he returned in a skeptical tone.

"See what? What are you driving at David?" I asked, still dissembling.

"Didn't you see George pass us with some woman?"

"Why, yes. What of it? Is that all you have had in mind?"

"Ah! I should think it was enough! I swan, I can't understand city ways. And you don't seem to care."

"Care, because George happened to meet some woman he knew and offered to take her home? Wasn't I having a good time? He couldn't very well take me, when I wasn't at-home!"

"Well, you beat me. I'll bet the girls at home would give their husbands merry hell, if they did as George does. Why, they always go to places together, just like Dad and Mum. But here it seems to be the style to go as you please. I don't like it, Sis, and I don't believe it is right, or that it will make you happy in the end."

"My, what a lecture. Now let's hurry and get dressed for dinner. We may want to go somewhere, to-night."

"Say, Sis, before we start I'd like to ask one more question: Why are you so afraid to sit up when George is out? Mum never went to bed in her life unless Dad was home."

"I'm not afraid, silly! George wants me to get my beauty sleep. He hates to have me look tired, and think he was the cause. Now clear out, and make yourself handsome."

The Reaction.

I was absolutely weak from the strain of keeping David in ignorance of my feelings, and throw myself on the couch for a moment before commencing to dress. I was becoming awfully deceitful. But I couldn't feel that it was wrong. Surely it was better to keep my hurts to myself? David would be sure to go home and tell father and mother, if I let him know how I felt. He would tell them enough, as it was, I thought, just as I heard George come in.

I jumped up and hurriedly commenced to dress.

"Dress to go out, both you and David," he called. "I have tickets for the theatre."

"Are you going, too?" I called back, scarcely daring to believe.

"Of course," he answered in a decided tone. One, to hear him, would imagine he always went with me. But I was so happy — the reaction was so great—that I never thought of being critical.

"Dinner clothes, David!" I called. "George is going to take us to the theatre."

"All right, Sis."

We were quite gay at dinner. I was so proud of my handsome husband, my fine looking brother. I told them so, telling them they always should wear dress clothes.

"You don't look so bad, yourself, Sis. Does she, George? That dress is a peacherino. But Oh, what would the home folks say to see you dressed up like that. I know mother would worry herself to death for fear you would take cold."

"Nonsense," I replied, as George and I both laughed.

A Delightful Evening.

We had a box, as usual. I preferred the orchestra, but George was tall, and said the seats were not comfortable—that there was no room for his long legs—so we always had a box when he went with me. David never had sat in a box, before, and he was very funny.

"I feel like I did when I put on an open face coat and vest for the first time," he said, when George tried to have him sit nearer the front. "It sort of seems as if I was out in the world and everyone was staring at me."

"Don't worry; they don't even know you are here," I chaffed.

"Then what was the use of coming?" he replied. "Well, if they don't look, they won't know what they have missed," and he settled down to watch the stage.

"I have to go to New York, next week, Helen. Would you like to go along?" George asked during intermission.

I frowned, and looked toward David. Was George crazy to think I would leave my brother, on his first visit to me?

"Don't look so scandalized. I mean to take David, too. I shall be very busy and have little time to show you around. As neither of you ever have been there, you can search out the interesting things together. What do you say, David?" and he repeated what he had said to me.

"It would be bully!" David replied but"—he hesitated.

"It is my treat to you both. It will be a great favour to me to have you take care of Helen."

"Of course if you put it that way, I can't refuse."

EVOLUTION OF DANCING.

Graceful Art Is to Be Found Recorded In Oldest Ornaments.

To take notice of that outcry against the dance that have fascinated men and women of to-day would be to suppose that the world had suddenly become dancing mad. And yet the sculptor and the painter have for centuries caught and imprisoned for later generations to admire the haunting beauty of the fair attitudes and rhythmic grace, and the spirited action of dancing figures. According to a contributor to a contemporary the present ebullition of the dancing spirit marks one of those high tides that, in an eternal action and reaction, are noticeable at intervals of greater or less length.

Dancing, always suggestive of youth, is one of the oldest arts. Traces have been found of its existence in Egypt more than 2,500 years before Christ. Like many of the arts, it found its highest expression in the golden days of Greece. Friezes and urns, fragments of temples and other edifices, bear witness to the wonderful beauty of the dance of those days, and have served to teach the painters, poets, and sculptors of succeedings ages. The world has never entirely forgotten that language which so divinely governed all bodily movements, regulating them by rhythm. Still men are stirred even by the painted presentation of the radiant choir of Muses led by Terpsichore, the chaste graces mingling with forest nymphs in rounds under the pale light of the moon, and bands of maidens crowned with oak leaves and garlanded with flowers dancing in honor of Pan, Apollo, and Diana.

Corrupted by its interpretation by the Romans, it never really came into its own again until the days of chivalry aroused it in France. With the other arts it flourished under Louis XIV., especially during the early days of his reign, when the Academy of Dancing was founded. Under Louis XV. and Louis XVI. the minuet and gavoile were introduced, and the dainty grace and elegance of the 18th century developed. Then came the dire days of the Revolution, and dancing as an expression of gaiety fell by the wayside again until about 1830, when there was a great revival of its popularity.

When the polka came in 14 years later there was another revival. The new dance invaded dancing saloons, drawing-rooms, shops, and even the streets. Markowski brought in the mazurka, created the schottische, Sicillienne, and Quadrille of a Hundred Guards, and dancing went on from dark until dawn. At the magnificent court balls persons braved suffocation for the sake of the dance. One need not think, however, that it was only in glad, blithe, careless times that the populace was given over to madness in dancing. The horrors of the French Revolution was hardly at an end when 23 theatres and 1,800 dancing saloons were opened every evening. Mercier tells of "Victim Balls," to which were admitted only those who had lost a member of the immediate family, and they were crowded.

Dancing was universal at the Carmelites between massacres, in ruined churches, and on the stones of tombs not yet destroyed. They danced in every tavern on the Boulevard or along the Champs-Elysees and along the quays. These horrors, indulged in for forgetfulness, were not the kind of dancing that Watteau, Boucher, Lancret, Latour, and Debrucourt had portrayed—the dancing of lords and ladies, of gay peasants, and all the poetry of the dance. That is an epoch by itself.

SPIRIT AND DRUG TAKERS.

Physical and Psychic Changes That Grow With the Habit.

Two marked changes are noted in all spirit and drug takers. One of them is physical and is noted by changes in the face, eyes, tone of voice, manner of walking and general expression and control. The heart is irritable and deranged in its action. There are muscular feebleness, nutrient disturbances, with insomnia, and unusual emotional excitement or depression. The general health, conduct and appearance, as well as capacity, of the person are changed.

A second change of symptoms noted is the psychic one. The person is bold, assertive, egotistical or the opposite. His former manner of hopefulness or depression is altered. Where he was frank before, he is now secretive, untruthful, unreasoning, has little respect for his words and statements, incurs obligations, asserts or denies emphatically matters of no consequence. His general appearance and pride of character are lowered.

These symptoms may be unnoticed in the early stages, but later they are prominent. Both the physical and psychic are intimately associated with each other, yet from the very beginning there may be marked differences in the prominence and intensity of either one or the other, indicating the direction of the most active degeneration.—Dr. T. D. Crothers in Alienist and Neurologist.

Labatt's

Huns Boast of Atrocities

GERMAN propagandists in Spain are circulating a document dealing with what has been "accomplished" by the German armies, and which would seem to convict the Germans out of their own mouths of many of the charges of violation of international law, cruel treatment of prisoners, looting of civilians and reprisal against the civilian population in occupied France and Belgium, of which the Germans have been accused. It is evidently intended to overawe neutral countries.

The document claims that 50,000 British have been made prisoners, and admits that 124,806 German prisoners had been taken by the British. The document was circulated before the recent German offensive in Flanders and Picardy began, and these figures regarding British prisoners refer to the total prior to the recent offensive. Extracts from the document were made public by the State Department at Washington in this form:

"The Department of State has received a copy of a circular which is being distributed by German propagandists in Spain, setting forth claims as to what has been accomplished by the German armies. The authenticity of the document as being of German origin has been established.

"The circular, which is in Spanish, states:

"Besides an untold amount of war material captured on the battlefield the Germans have taken possession of incalculable booty in France and Belgium, including: High-grade watches, 147; average watches, 5,016; underwear, 18,073; embroideries and women's handkerchiefs, 15,112; umbrellas and parasols, 3,705; silver spoons, 1,876; bottles of champagne, 533,000.

"These figures show a large increase over those of the campaign against France in 1870-71.

"In Belgium, besides many art treasures, they have confiscated old paintings valued at 3,000,000 pesetas.

"Due to the treachery of Cardinal Mercier and other priests, who did their utmost to stir the people against the good-hearted Germans, the soldiers, they were forced to teach a severe lesson to the Belgian and French Catholics.

"Cathedrals destroyed, 4.

"Rendered uninhabitable, 8.

"Churches destroyed, 27.

"Rendered unserviceable, 34.

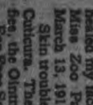
"Total, 73.

"In Poland also a large number of churches have been destroyed for military reasons. The figures concerning these have not yet been published."

"As a result of the stupid stubbornness of the Belgian people in continuing the struggle after their country had been completely overrun, and additional detachments had been sent to Belgium, the German offensive against the British front was delayed for a month, and the German divisions released for the western front will be employed against the British army."

Cuticura Heals Sore Red Pimples

Itching, Burning and Irritated. Lost Sleep.



"My face broke out in pimples that would heal up and then break out again. It was very sore and red and all the time itching and burning, and I irritated it by scratching. I lost a lot of sleep.

"I had the pimples for over five years. Then I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment healed my face completely." (Signed) Miss Zeo Parkes, Ostervilla, Ont., March 13, 1917.

Skin troubles are quickly relieved by Cuticura. The Soap cleanses and purifies, the Ointment soothes and heals.

He Knew No Fear.

Prince Metternich was driving in Vienna one day during the congress of 1815 when the horses bolted, the carriage was overturned and Metternich was thrown into the roadway. Finding he had no bones broken he picked himself up and walked quietly away. The same evening he met the King of Naples, who had seen the accident.

"How horribly frightened you must have been," said the King.

"Not at all," answered Metternich. "It is no merit of mine, but I am constitutionally inaccessible to fear."

"It is as I thought," replied the King. "You are a supernatural being."

TROUBLED FOR YEARS WITH BRONCHITIS

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup GAVE INSTANT RELIEF

Bronchitis is a disease which is very prevalent during the late winter and early spring, when there are sudden atmospheric changes. It is a condition of inflammation of the bronchial tubes, which produces mucous or phlegm. This irritates the throat and causes you to cough in order to get rid of it. The cough may be tight or loose according as to whether this mucous is sticky and hard to remove, or soft and easily expelled.

Bronchitis is not really dangerous but the complications which are liable to follow makes it necessary to get rid of it at the first sign. This you can do by using Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. A remedy that has been on the market for over 25 years.

John D. McFarlane, Jr., S.W. Margaree, N.S., writes: "I was troubled for years with bronchitis, and could not find any relief. I was especially bad on a damp day. I went to a druggist and asked him for something to stop the constant tickling in my throat. He gave me a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I

BELGIUM WAS NEUTRAL.

Former Krupp Director Answers Pleas of German Rulers.

Dr. Muhlon, ex-director of Krupps, who is now living in Switzerland, has an interesting article in the Journal de Geneve on German attempts to counteract Bethmann-Hollweg's statement in the Reichstag that "necessity knows no law," and his further statement that the wrong done to Belgium would be made good, by casting doubts on the genuineness of Belgium's neutrality—doubts which, Dr. Muhlon says, for anyone capable of reflection, have been superabundantly refuted.

"No Chancellor," he says, "has ever withdrawn the phrase uttered on August 4, 1914. They have only been afraid to repeat it too distinctly. So far as I am concerned, I have spoken in Germany with many men in a position to know, and have never met one who ever attempted in the slightest way to allude to fault on the part of Belgium. Nevertheless, these accusations are still daily renewed by countless hirelings with the sole object of effacing the recollections of the Chancellor's declaration and hardening German hearts in regard to Belgium. The German people wish to believe, in spite of Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg, that the Belgians deserved to be invaded."

Dr. Muhlon, then, as former director of a Krupps, gives the following evidence of Belgium's innocence:

Before the war Belgium ordered at Krupps four 280-centimetre guns for Antwerp. These were ready and paid for at the beginning of 1914, but, as their emplacements were not ready the Belgian Government begged Krupps to delay delivery, and Krupps, reluctantly agreed; at the outbreak of the war the guns, which were worth £160,000, were seized by the Germans. The fact that many, if not most, of those present were known to be in liberty accord with the declaration of Corfu, and the suspicion

The Harmonious Home.

Home may be a sacred refuge, it may be a mere place to call for breakfast and dinner, and a shelter for the sleeping hours. It may be a destitute of attractions—a tobacco spit, instead of a covered haven. In this be the case, remarks a writer on home life, the fault is with those who by their own conduct make it unattractive. Whenever parents and children, their offspring are beginning to look for any other place before home, let them ask themselves these questions, and they may discover the secret of their children's unfortunate preferences. Does the father strive to make the home bright and happy, is he silent, moody and unsociable? Are his children furnished with proper supply of books, papers, magazines and such other means of amusement and improvement their natures require? Does the mother make friends and confidants of her daughters, or does she merely dole out to them food and clothing? In the joys and griefs, the hopes and fears, of their children, or do they ignore all that is most essential to the happiness and genial culture of childhood?—E. Suffolk Gazette.

MAKING YOURSELF WELL AND STRONG

You Can Improve Your Physical Condition By Keeping the Blood Pure

People with strong constitutions escape most of the minor ills that make life miserable for others. Do you envy the friend who does not know what a headache is, whose digestion is perfect, and who sleeps soundly at night? How far do you come from this description? Have you ever made an earnest effort to strengthen your constitution, to build up your system, to ward off discomfort and disease? Unless you have an organic disease it is generally possible to so improve your physical condition that perfect health will be yours. The first thing to be done is to build up your blood as pure blood is the source of physical weakness. To build up the blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is just the medicine you need. Every dose helps to make new blood which reaches every nerve and every part of the body, bringing color to the cheeks, brightness to the eyes, a steadiness to the hand, good appetite and splendid energy. Thousands throughout the country whose condition once made them despair, owe their present good health to this medicine. If you are one of the weak and ailing, and note the daily gain in new health and abounding vitality. Among those who have proved the truths of this statement is Mrs. Fred Goshin, R.R. No. 2 Ruthven, Ont., who says:—

Rule of the Austrians Is Defied by Jugoslavs, Who Want Independence

THE Constituent Assembly of the Czecho-Slovak Nation, which met in Prague on Jan. 6 and demanded complete national unity and independence, seems to have been paralleled to a considerable extent by a gathering of Jugoslavs at Zagreb (Wagram) on March 2, which included the Jugoslav Deputies in the Austrian Reichsrat, practically the entire membership of the Croatian Sabor, (the Legislature which exercises a limited amount of local autonomy,) and other representatives of the nation. The full resolutions have not yet reached this country, but, according to the Hrvatska Drzava, extracts from whose account have been translated by the Serbian Press Bureau in Geneva, they contained the following statement:

"After having discussed the general political and national situation the assembly has agreed on the necessity of a concentration of all parties and groups which, from the point of view of national self-government demand the creation of a national and independent state of Slovenes, Croats, and Serbs founded on the principle of democracy."

The language of this passage is strongly reminiscent of the Declaration of Corfu, by which exiled leaders of the Jugo-slav movement demanded the union of the Jugoslav territories in Austria-Hungary with Serbia and Montenegro into one kingdom under the Karageorgevitch dynasty, and Austrian papers at once became agitated because there was no reference to the carrying out of its aim within the framework of the Hapsburg empire. The fact that many, if not most, of those present were known to be in liberty accord with the declaration of Corfu, and the suspicion

Great Shooting.

Smith and Jones were walking along the boulevard one afternoon when Brown was incidentally mentioned in the conversation.

"Speaking of Brown," thoughtfully remarked Jones, "I understand he is something of a shot."

"He is a wonder," was the prompt rejoinder of Smith. "We were out in a field practicing one day when he hit the bullseye at the first shot."

"Fine for Brown!" commending returned Jones. "Tickled him almost to death, I suppose?"

"Don't you believe it!" answered Smith. "He had to pay for the bull.

Growth of Eucalyptus.

In a period of ten years the eucalyptus tree will grow twelve inches in diameter and ninety feet in height, while it will take white oak and hickory 90 to 100 years to attain the same growth, and other hardwoods, such as walnut, will take from sixty years to attain the same size. This in itself is a tremendous advantage, and together with the fact that it reproduces itself from the stump makes it of special commercial value.

He Knew No Fear.

Prince Metternich was driving in Vienna one day during the congress of 1815 when the horses bolted, the carriage was overturned and Metternich was thrown into the roadway. Finding he had no bones broken he picked himself up and walked quietly away. The same evening he met the King of Napies, who had seen the accident.

"How horribly frightened you must have been," said the King.

"Not at all," answered Metternich. "It is no merit of mine, but I am constitutionally inaccessible to fear."

"It is as I thought," replied the King. "You are a supernatural being."

TROUBLED FOR YEARS WITH BRONCHITIS

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup CAVE INSTANT RELIEF

Bronchitis is a disease which is very prevalent during the late winter and early spring, when there are sudden atmospheric changes. It is a condition of inflammation of the bronchial tubes which produces mucous or phlegm. This irritates the throat and causes you to cough in order to get rid of it. The cough may be tight or loose according as to whether this mucous is sticky and hard to remove, or soft and easily expelled.

Bronchitis is not really dangerous but the complications which are liable to follow makes it necessary to get rid of it at the first sign. This you can do by using Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. A remedy that has been on the market for over 25 years.

John D. McFarlane, Jr., S.W. Margaree, N.S., writes: "I was troubled for years with bronchitis and could not find any relief. I was especially bad on a damp day. I went to a druggist and asked him for something to stop the constant tickling in my throat. He gave me a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I found gave me instant relief. It is the best remedy for bronchitis I know of, and I now take care that I always have a bottle of it on hand."

See that you get "Dr. Wood's." Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c and 50c.; manufactured by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Huns Boast of Atrocities

GERMAN propagandists in Spain are circulating a document dealing with what has been "accomplished" by the German armies, and which would seem to convict the Germans out of their own mouths of many of the charges of violation of international law, cruel treatment of prisoners, looting of civilians and reprisal against the civilian population in occupied France and Belgium, of which the Germans have been accused. It is evidently intended to overawe neutral countries.

The document claims that 50,000 British have been made prisoners, and admits that 124,806 German prisoners had been taken by the British. The document was circulated before the recent German offensive in Flanders and Picardy began, and these figures regarding British prisoners refer to the total prior to the recent offensive. Extracts from the document were made public by the State Department at Washington in this form:

"The Department of State has received a copy of a circular which is being distributed by German propagandists in Spain, setting forth claims as to what has been accomplished by the German armies. The authenticity of the document as being of German origin has been established.

"The circular, which is in Spanish, states:

"'Besides an untold amount of war material captured on the battlefield the Germans have taken possession of incalculable booty in France and Belgium, including: High-grade watches, 147; average watches, 5,016; underwear, 18,073; embroideries and women's handkerchiefs, 15,312; umbrellas and parasols, 3,705; silver spoons, 1,876; bottles of champagne, 523,000.

"'In Belgium, besides many art treasures, they have confiscated old paintings valued at 3,000,000 pesetas.

"'Due to the treachery of Cardinal Mercier and other priests, who did their utmost to stir the priests against the good-hearted German soldiers, they were forced to teach a severe lesson to the Belgian and French Catholics.

"'Cathedrals destroyed, 4.

"'Rendered unserviceable, 8.

"'Churches destroyed, 27.

"'Rendered unserviceable, 34.

"'Total, 73.

"'In Poland also a large number of churches have been destroyed for military reasons. The figures concerning these have not yet been published.'"

"As a result of the stupid stubbornness of the Belgian people in continuing the struggle after their bloody and final defeat on the battlefield, the German officers were forced, against their will, to impose punishments on many rich individuals and wealthy cities. This has contributed the following amounts to the German treasury:

"Punishments, 87,000,000 pesetas; security, 13,000,500 pesetas; reprisals, 15,750,000 pesetas; forced contributions, 4,320,350 pesetas; total, 120,750,150 pesetas.

"This amount includes a fine of 15,000 pesetas imposed on the Alsatian children who insisted on speaking the French language and refused to study the beautiful German language. These statistics are a most useful warning to the neutral countries.

"If there are any still thinking of siding with the Allies, let them take warning from the fate of the others."

It is claimed in this document that more than 50,000 British have been made prisoners, and in this connection the following statement is made:

"Although to these fingers the British oppose 124,806 German prisoners taken by them on the Western front, it must be remembered the British treat their prisoners with notable kindness (Islandura notoria), while the regime imposed on the British prisoners by the Germans is one of extreme rigor, so that the Germans, with a small number of prisoners, have secured a much superior moral effect. Besides, to the 2,264 officers and 51,325 soldiers must be added the several thousand British prisoners that have died in consequence of disease, scanty food and other accidents in German concentration camps."

The figures regarding British prisoners, it is explained, refer to the total prior to the recent drive in Picardy and Flanders.

Siamese Superstitions.

All babies in Siam receive the same name at birth. The name of Dang, which means red, and it is the only designation vouchsafed the newcomer for some months. For several years they wear no clothing, though perhaps a string of beads or bracelets or anklets as ornament. At a child's birth a cord that has been blessed by the priests is tied around the outside of the house, and three balls of rice are thrown in "lucky directions" by three old women, who are always present at such a time, and whose business it is to solicit for the little one the patronage and protection of sundry guardian angels. The cord and the scattering about the premises of a certain kind of native fruit are supposed to be efficacious in preventing the entrance of evil spirits.—E. Suffold Gazette.

BELGIUM WAS NEUTRAL.

Former Krupp Director Answers Plea of German Rulers.

Dr. Muhlon, ex-director of Krupps, who is now living in Switzerland, has an interesting article in the Journal de Geneve on German attempts to counteract Bethmann-Hollweg's statement in the Reichstag that "necessity knows no law," and his further statement that the wrong done to Belgium would be made good, by casting doubts on the genuineness of Belgium's neutrality—doubts which, Dr. Muhlon says, for anyone capable of reflection, have been superabundantly refuted.

"No Chancellor," he says, "has ever withdrawn the phrase uttered on August 4, 1914. They have only been afraid to repeat it too distinctly. So far as I am concerned, I have spoken in Germany with many men in a position to know, and have never met one who ever attempted in the slightest way to allude to fault on the part of Belgium. Nevertheless, these accusations are still daily renewed by countless hirelings with the sole object of effacing the recollections of the Chancellor's declaration and hardening German hearts in regard to Belgium. The German people wish to believe, in spite of Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg, that the Belgians deserved to be invaded."

Dr. Muhlon, then, as former director of Krupps, gives the following evidence of Belgium's innocence:

Before the war Belgium ordered at Krupps four 280-centimetre guns for Antwerp. These were ready and paid for at the beginning of 1914, but, as their emplacements were not ready the Belgian Government begged Krupps to delay delivery, and Krupps reluctantly agreed; at the outbreak of the war the guns, which were worth £160,000, were seized by the Prussian Ministry of War.

"Again, shortly before the war Belgium ordered from Krupps, although Krupps was then inferior to the French gunmakers—Dr. Muhlon always had the impression that Belgium hoped in this way to keep Germany in good humor—put herself completely in the hands of Krupps for new and barely-tried artillery and munitions. Krupps handed over this business to the firm of Cockerill (a Belgian corporation), and at the moment of the outbreak of the war, Mr. Muhlon saw a letter from the Messrs. Cockerill announcing the payment of £40,000 for patents.

A dead sure cure, and a simple one to use, is Catarrhozone; you just breathe it—that's all. You see Catarrhozone Inhaler sends healing piney vapors through the nose, throat and lungs, and these antiseptic soothing vapors are death to colds or Catarrh.

Thousands testify every year that nothing ever discovered will cure a cold, or help the throat like Catarrhozone. Mr. Everett L. Wassan, of Blair, N.B., writes: — "About five years ago I took a cold in the head, and Catarrh set in. It kept increasing by leaps and bounds. I kept putting off getting anything until at last I found I would have to. After trying several things I heard of your remedy, "Catarrhozone," and procured a bottle and began using it. I was not long in finding out I had struck the right thing. I am recommending Catarrhozone to all who have Catarrh, etc."

I did not want to do this, and having often heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a strength builder I decided to try them. I was greatly surprised at the help I received from them. Mad Democracy.

When the Russian revolution had finally gotten rid of the Czar, the management of affairs, even the affairs of the army hospitals, were taken over by soldiers' committees, says Florence Harper. The author was for a time a nurse in a field hospital, just back of the Russian lines. How a soldiers' committee made a truly democratic distribution of the hospital milk supply she tells in the following passage from her book:

"Attached to the hospital was a herd of fourteen cows. They gave enough milk to supply all the patients and the staff. The soldiers began to cast longing eyes at the pails of cream that were left over after the hospital had been fed. For dessert, we would have bowls of sour milk. This is rather good. It doesn't sound very appetizing, but when sprinkled with sugar and eaten with bread and butter, it is not bad. We also had blinchiki, svaragom, delicious little pancakes filled with cottage cheese or 'crowdy,' and eaten with thick cream and sugar. It is a delicious dessert and one of which I became very fond.

"The committee, at the request of the soldiers, passed a resolution that the staff was only to be allowed half a glass of milk a day. This was just enough for our morning coffee. The remainder of the milk was to go to the soldiers. In order to see that there was no cheating, a soldier accompanied the housekeeping sister every night and every morning when she milked the cows. He would measure off the milk for our kitchen, measure off the hospital supply; and carry the rest away to the soldiers' kitchen. I do not know what they did with this milk, because what was enough for fifteen or twenty people couldn't begin to feed two hundred men. The head sister tried to tell them that they were foolish, that they would only get about a teaspoon each, but it was no use. According to them, they had a right to it, so we couldn't have it."

Rule of the Austrians Is Defied by Jugoslavs, Who Want Independence

THE Constituent Assembly of the Czecho-Slovak Nation, which met in Prague on Jan. 6 and demanded complete national unity and independence, seems to have been paralleled to a considerable extent by a gathering of Jugoslavs at Zagreb (Wagram) on March 2, which included the Jugoslav Deputies in the Austrian Reichsrat, practically the entire membership of the Croatian Sabor, (the Legislature which exercises a limited amount of local autonomy,) and other representatives of the nation. The full resolutions have not yet reached this country, but, according to the Hrvatska Drzhava, extracts from whose account have been translated by the Serbian Press Bureau in Geneva, they contained the following statement:

"After having discussed the general political and national situation the assembly has agreed on the necessity of a concentration of all parties and groups which, from the point of view of national self-government, demand the creation of a national and independent state of Slovenes, Croats, and Serbs founded on the principle of democracy."

The language of this passage is strongly reminiscent of the Declaration of Corfu, by which exiled leaders of the Jugoslav movement demanded the union of the Jugoslav territories in Austria-Hungary with Serbia and Montenegro into one kingdom under the Karageorgevitch dynasty, and Austrian papers at once became agitated because there was no reference to the carrying out of this aim within the framework of the Hapsburg empire. The fact that many, if not most, of those present were known to be in hearty accord with the Declaration of Corfu, and the suspicion that practically all of them favored it at heart, caused much thundering against the "introduction of the policy of Belgrade" in the Viennese press.

The matter was further complicated by the activity of the police in the affair, they having broken up the first session of the assembly and posted a guard around the hall. Demonstrations of the students against this, which seem to have gone no further than parading up and down the streets singing Slavic national songs, were broken up by the police with the utmost violence, and many were arrested. This did not prevent a large gathering, principally of students, at the station the next day to bid farewell to Dr. Korosbetz, leader of the Jugoslav Club in the Reichsrat, who is taking the lead in the organization of a Jugoslav National Council of some twenty-four members in the country, whose aims are euphemistically described, for the present, as "to arrange the tactics of the general Jugoslav policy."

The economic conditions which contribute to the revolutionary ferment in the Jugoslav countries were set forth in a speech in the Reichsrat in the course of a budget discussion just before this assembly by Dr. Matko Leginja, Deputy from Istria and vice-chairman of the Jugoslav Club. He quoted the appeal from an Istrian commune which ended:

"We beg, ask, and demand bread, peace, and the return of our brethren, fathers, and sons to console us, to see that our fields are worked properly, and that there should be some one with us to close the eyes of the dying parents."

Of many instances of starvation which he gave was one of a parish in which in 1913 there were 67 births and 23 deaths. In 1917 there were 23 births and 68 deaths, without counting those who died in military service.

USED FOR SHAVING.

Many men are troubled, more particularly in the cold weather, with a sort of roughness of the skin or eczema caused by shaving. The application of Dr. Chase's Ointment after the shave soon cures the trouble and by using it after each shave you keep the skin soft and prevent irritation and soreness. Because of its antiseptic qualities this ointment prevents and cures Barber's Itch.

Queen's Deputy Is Name Given to Princess Mary, Who Has Now Come of Age

PRINCESS MARY, known affectionately throughout the kingdom as "the Queen's Deputy," became of age on April 25. The event is important in an official and historical sense as a matter of record for Burke's Peerage, but it has a deeper significance than that.

The princess now is likely to exert an influence for the strengthening and building of war service second to that of no other woman in the Empire. The past achievements of this fair-haired young woman forecast such a mission. An income of $30,000 a year and full independence are the particular elements of the status she now assumes, which make big things possible for her. The income automatically begins for the princess on her twenty-first birthday. Her war service had its beginning when she was a wisp of a girl nearly four years ago.

The efforts of the little princess sparkle. She has raised thousands of dollars through personal appeals and through the direct work of her deft fingers.

Even before the war the princess had achieved note on her own merits

AMUSE THE KIDDIES.

How to Play the "Cut-Out" Game With the Youngsters.

Mothers are often at their wits' end to know what to do with convalescing children. During this trying time it takes much ingenuity to keep them interested.

One of the most pleasurable things to boy and girl alike is the cut-out game. It is as old as the hills and yet has kept its newness and interest to this day. The boy will scorn the ordinary cut-out play, but give him first a blank book, then a catalogue from a sporting firm, a pair of scissors and a bottle of glue and tell him to furnish you a summer camp in the Adirondacks, such as he would like to live in; then suggest that he fix up a scene in Canada in the winter time, with ski-ing, skating, and so on.

The way to interest the little chap is to excite his imagination first. Describe to him in detail the interior, then the exterior, of a camp in the woods; then tell him to cut out from the catalogue all the pictures which have anything to do with tent life. These include guns, fishing rods, boats, cooking utensils, cots, etc. Clothing for summer camping will probably be illustrated by pictures of men or women dressed in these garments. These figures may be grouped round a fire or standing in a canoe or climbing the mountains.

When the child has a number of illustrations cut out let him use his ingenuity to furnish the scene. Much can be done if the mother can draw a bit. In such a case she could outline on the first page the inside of a bare tent, to be furnished by the child. On the second page could be the outside of the tent, with the mountain in the background and a lake at one side.

Further interest can be added to this game by giving the little one a set of crayons with which to color the pictured scenes. Water colors are a joy to children if they can be arranged in such a way that the water will not spill. An excellent way to do this is to give the child a sewing board. Where the board is cut out in a curve it will fit into the body, and the paints may be placed on its flat surface with no danger of upsetting them.

Planes Can Carry Cannon.

Germany has built giant planes capable of carrying cannon, according to the Manchester Guardian.

The German newspapers call the new airplanes "Riesenflugzuge" or giant airplanes.

After the reports of tests being made in Germany, which first called attention to the existence of these new machines, it became known that the Germans were using them on the Western front for bomb-dropping. The next thing was that they appeared in photographs of German aerodromes taken by British observation aviators. The Guardian says:

"It appears that most of these machines are very big biplanes equipped with four engines. The engines are placed between the wings much in the same way that the engines of the Gotha biplanes are placed, but tandem fashion, so that one engine on each side drives a pusher air screw behind the wings, as in the Gothas, and the other engine on each side is placed immediately in front of it and drives a tractor air screw, as do the engines of the Handley-Page, Caudron and Caproni machines."

Blood Poison Developed

As a Result of Accident—Nerves Break Down After Three Weeks of Suffering—A Glowing Tribute to Treatment Used

KINGSTON, Ont., May 16. —Blood poisoning seems to become more common from year to year, and the dread of it is ever on the increase. In the case reported here the doctor did not seem able to get rid of it, and after three weeks of suffering the patient was almost a nervous wreck.

Mrs. Susie Thompson, Smith street, Kingston, Ont., writes:

"Early in the fall of 1916 I had a painful accident. I ran a sliver under my thumb nail and neglected having it extracted. My thumb festered very badly, in fact my arm was fearfully swollen up to the elbow. It developed into blood poison, and I had the doctor lance it several times, but it failed to get better. With the intense pain and loss of sleep I became a nervous wreck. After following the doctor's orders for three weeks and not getting any benefit I wrote my mother about it. By return mail she sent me a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment. The very first application eased the pain, and I slept that night quite easily. I kept using the Ointment regularly, and by the fifth day all the swelling was gone, and also the inflammation.

"During this time I had become so weakened and run down that my whole nervous system seemed affected. I was very nervous and restless, appetite became poor, and I had frequent headaches. I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and had the same splendid results from this as from the Ointment. Using the Nerve Food internally built up my system and made me strong, while using the Ointment externally healed my sore thumb. I am now quite well, thanks to your wonderful remedies—the only regret I have is that I did not begin using them earlier, and saved myself months of suffering, to say nothing of Doctor's bills."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.75 at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

Marsh Fly Eggs a Delicacy.

The Indians of Mexico eat many curious foods. One of the most remarkable of these is made of the eggs of a species of marsh fly. This fly deposits its eggs in incredible quantities upon flags and rushes. The eggs are gathered and made into cakes, which are sold in the markets. The Indians call the eggs water wheat. They resemble fine fish roe and when mixed with cornmeal and fowl eggs form a staple article of diet, particularly during Lent. The insects themselves, which are about the size of the housefly, are captured, pounded into a paste, boiled in corn husks in much the same fashion as tamales and in this form are eaten.

When the Waiter Wins.

Two men were wrangling as to who should settle with the waiter for the luncheon. When the question had been finally decided and the contestants had gone the waiter said to one of his regular customers who was a witness of the scene: "That's what we like, for every time it happens we come in for an extra tip. The man who couldn't get the check has only one way to get even, and that is by giving the waiter something, and nine times out of ten he does it and makes the amount more than he would have given if he had paid the check. This one ordered extra cigars and left the change for me. We like the 'give me the check' quarrels."

The World's Deepest Lake.

In Lake Baikal, in Asia, the extraordinary depth of more than this by far the deepest fresh water known.

It now appears that Lake Tanganyika, in Africa, may approach this depth, as Captain Jacobs of the German navy has reported a sounding of 4,190 feet, and a Belgian officer claims to have penetrated still lower. Tanganyika's deepest bottom is at least 1,600 feet below the sea level.

Italy Will Stabilize Exchange.

No money can now be sent out of Italy by means of bank drafts unless the sender can prove the absolute necessity for so doing as by the presenting of bills to be paid. This is particularly true of large sums of money. This is one of the measures taken by the Government to stabilize exchange and prevent speculation in Italian money. Exchange rates are also fixed by law weekly, to prevent artificial fluctuations. According to Oscar T. Crosby the real difficulty of not only Italy but also Great Britain and France is that they are in need of American money to stabilize their exchange. "What they need is dollars," he said.

Suffered Great Agony FROM PAIN IN STOMACH FOR OVER 5 YEARS

Most of the misery and ill-health that humanity is burdened with arises from disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. If you are feeling out of sorts, have pains in the stomach, especially after eating, bilious spells, headaches, sour stomach, coated tongue, sallow or muddy complexion, specks floating before the eyes, you should take a few doses of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and note the change.

Miss Ida Hogan, Deseronto, Ont., writes: "For over five years I have suffered great agony from pains in the stomach. I tried several remedies but got no relief until a friend advised me to take Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I started with two vials and before I had one quite used, I found much relief. I continued until I used four vials, and they have completely cured me. That was fourteen months ago and I have not had the slightest return since. The best praise I could give them is not enough."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Enameled Bracelet

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"It is a charm, madame," smiled Count Sorio as he bent above Mrs. Raymond's pretty hand. "To wear it will avert the evil eye and a host of other ills." He smiled charmingly down at her.

"You are very kind, count," protested Mrs. Raymond, withdrawing her hand and picking up a silk covered jewel box, "but, really, I cannot accept this bracelet."

"Not as a souvenir of those delightful days in Florence?" reproached the handsome Italian. "I am sure your husband will join me in the wish that you may accept it as a token of my warm friendship for my good friends the Raymonds!" He laid his shapely hand on Dick Raymond's broad shoulder and smiled the smile of good fellowship into the young American's honest eyes.

Dick Raymond smiled rather doubtfully, for when he had last met Count Enrico Sorio it had been a most unpleasant occasion; he had detected the impoverished nobleman cheating at cards, and, although Dick had allowed the matter to pass until the game was concluded, he had privately informed Sorio of what he had seen and warned him. There had been one moment when things hung in the balance. The Italian had looked at Dick with murderous hate in his black eyes, but he had not offered to avenge the insult in blood; he had merely turned on his heel and walked away, and the Raymonds had not seen or heard of him for many weeks until this sunny afternoon, when the repentant nobleman had called upon them, apologized handsomely to Dick and tendered an exquisite enameled bracelet as a peace offering to Mrs. Raymond.

"You will not permit the acceptance?" flared the count. "You perhaps have suspicions that I come by it not honestly? Alas, what a sad reputation I have gained through one small slip!" He turned away to hide his emotion.

Ethel Raymond, touched by the grief of the temperamental Italian, smiled and nodded at her husband. Dick flashed a smile back, and his big hand went out to grasp the long, yellow fingers of the nobleman.

"Very well, count. We will consider the matter closed. As for the bracelet, I am sure Mrs. Raymond will be charmed to add it to her collection of Florentine enamels. Come, my friend," he smiled as the count turned a transformed countenance toward him—"come, let us walk on the terrace and smoke a cigarette before lunch. You will, of course, stay?"

"With pleasure," beamed Sorio. And, with a deep bow to Mrs. Raymond and a significant smile as he watched her lingering the enameled bracelet, he followed his host on to the terrace, where there was a delightful view of the ovely Arno flowing toward the distant sea and the hills that encircle the city of Florence.

To the men walking on the terrace the view was a familiar one, but never tresome. Sorio had been born in Tuscany, and he loved it. Dick Raymond was a landscape painter, and he loved it because of its unchanging beauty.

As they passed the drawing room windows it was Sorio's dark eyes that flashed an inquiring glance through the open casement. Always he smiled furtively as he noticed that Ethel Raymond was holding the bracelet in her fingers and admiring its beauty.

He did not love Ethel. He hated her with deep intensity born of her husband's deadly insult to him many weeks ago. Her husband was devoted to her. Through the wife Sorio might be revenged upon the husband. Revenge was sweet, and it was very near just now.

"Come down and look at our roses," urged Dick. And, quite confident that he could leave the enameled bracelet to do its duty, Enrico Sorio followed his friend down the steps, and they disappeared in the garden.

The door opened, and Carlo announced a visitor.

"Mme. Testino!"

A tall, graceful woman, clad in white, came forward, and Ethel laid aside the bracelet and went to meet her with outstretched hands.

"Ah, Lisetta, I am so glad to see you," she cried warmly. "Sit here. Margot shall carry away your wraps. You must remain for luncheon. Count Sorio is here."

Lisetta Testino flushed beautifully and involuntarily glanced around the room.

"They are walking in the garden," explained Ethel demurely, for she knew that the fair Italian lady and the count were deeply in love with each other. She suspected a romance here, and she was prepared to watch it with interest, for, like most women, she thoroughly enjoyed a love affair.

"I am surprised," hesitated the beautiful widow as she gave her hat and cloak to the waiting servant. "I thought that Sorio and your husband were not friends—that they had a difference of opinion."

"It was so, and I was sorry," confessed Ethel, "but they have made it up, and as a peace offering the count has brought us this lovely bracelet to add to our collection of enamels. Is it not exquisite?"

"Beautiful!" breathed Lisetta, a jealous light gleaming in her dark eyes. "Ah, madame," she added playfully, "if I had glimpsed this wonderful bracelet first Sorio would never have brought it as a peace offering to you!" She laughed with sudden merriment, all her ill humor gone in a second. "Am I not a bear to look so cross about your bracelet?"

"I am sure Count Sorio would rather place it on your arm than on mine," laughed the American.

"If it did not seem ungrateful to Count Sorio, I would like to have you wear it away as your own," added Ethel. "Ah, Cesare, we will come at once," as the servant announced luncheon. "The gentlemen are coming now."

When Count Sorio saw Lisette Testino standing in the library toying with the enameled bracelet his face went suddenly pale and his greeting to her was shortened to utter a whispered word of protest.

"Such gaudy trinkets do not become your pale dignity, my queen," he whispered hurriedly. "Put it aside, Lisetta. It is ill luck. It attracts the evil eye. It is accursed." He shuddered as he caught himself up sharply.

Ethel's clear voice was speaking as they moved toward the dining room.

"Count Sorio says that the bracelet is a charm, that it will avert the evil eye and that it will bring me good luck!"

Dick Raymond laughed genially, but the dark eyes of Lisetta met the black glance of Sorio. There was a puzzled questioning in her glance and a mingling of fear and annoyance in his.

Lisetta went back to the drawing room after her handkerchief and when she returned there was a look of amusement in her cool glance as it crossed that of her lover.

The meal progressed slowly. The Raymonds had a good cook in the person of Margharita, the grandmother of Cesare, and the wine of the country was excellent.

Lisetta was sparkling with gayety, and the count's dark eyes often sought hers across the low arrangement of flowers on the table, and the Raymonds realized that very soon would the fiery Italian declare his love for the widow.

Suddenly Lisetta lifted one white hand to adjust the rose Ethel had tucked in her jet black hair. As she did so her three companions saw for the first time that she was wearing the enameled bracelet.

Lisetta tossed her head and smiled impudently at Ethel.

"See, carissima, I am wearing your bauble while I may!"

"It becomes you rarely, madame," laughed her hostess.

Sorio's face was ghastly pale. Twice his lips parted as if to give utterance to some protest, but they closed, as if secrecy demanded silence at any price. At last he could contain himself no longer.

"Madonna!" he gasped, rising and reaching across the table at Lisetta's arm. "Take it off, cara mia. It—means—death!" He half whispered the last words and sank back in his seat as Dick Raymond jumped up and held a glass of wine to Lisetta's pale lips.

Mme. Testino had uttered a sudden cry of anguish and her head drooped slowly down until it rested on one shoulder.

"The pain, the pain!" she muttered before she lost consciousness.

Dick Raymond dashed around the table and caught the shrinking Sorio by the shoulder. "What has happened, you coward?" he demanded. "What is there about that bracelet that causes Mme. Testino to swoon, and the very sight of her wearing it upon her arm causes you alarm? Eh? Tell me, or, by thunder, I'll shake you into eternity!"

Cesare had darted in and out of the room like lightning flashes. He had dispatched a page for a physician, and while Dick was still trying to get an explanation from Sorio the doctor arrived and went into the salon where Lisetta was lying on a sofa, pale and lifeless.

That was an eventful night in the Villa Rosario. The doctor remained until morning and administered antidotes for the deadly poison which had been injected into Lisetta's veins through the medium of the poisoned bracelet. A tiny needle had darted into her flesh as she clasped the bracelet about her shapely wrist, but the prick had been so slight that she had scarcely noticed it.

By morning the danger was over. The poison, which had remained in the bracelet for perhaps a hundred years, so ancient was its history, had lost its potency, and the quick action of the physician, combined with Lisetta's splendid physique, resulted in complete recovery for Mme. Testino. As for Enrico Sorio, who had intended the poisoned bracelet for Ethel Raymond, the wife of the man upon whom he wished to be revenged, Dick permitted him to disappear from Florence.

It was perhaps punishment enough for his murderous heart that he forever lost the regard of Lisetta Testino and, as for the Raymonds, they left Florence at once and went back to America, and before they went they disposed of their interesting collection of enamels.

"I never want to see a Florentine enamel again," shuddered Ethel.

But the enameled bracelet remained in the possession of Lisetta Testino. She had it cleansed of its poisonous properties, and it remains on her dressing table in a crystal box.

"To remember, carissima," she explained to Ethel Raymond one day, "lest I forget the treachery of one I loved!" she added sadly.

School Life In China.

At six years of age Chinese boys are supposed to attend school and prepare for their life-long bondage to Confucius by beginning their dreary struggle to master the characters which take the place of our alphabet, multiplied a thousandfold. They are taught to write each character separately on small squares of red paper; and by slow degrees they learn to pronounce each, while the little fingers learn to fashion the elaborate crabbed strokes. Though these small students are just as merry and full of life as our own schoolboys, they seem to take very kindly to the studies which they see their elders value so highly. Nevertheless the cane is a fully-recognized institution in every school, and is applied unsparingly, without respect of sex. As one passes outside of such a school—which is probably held within the precincts of some merchants' guild—one hears the hum of many voices, all repeating lessons aloud; and, if one looks in, one sees a troup of quaint little shaven-headed chaps, with their long black plaits and blue clothes, sitting at small ornamental tables, very different from our school desks and benches, and suggesting a remarkable absence of the destructive element in these small Chinamen. Of course, a conspicuous figure in the school is the shrine of the tablet bearing the name of Confucius, to which each scholar must do daily homage.—Family Journal.

"Bake 10 minutes in a very hot oven"

THE clock will count those minutes for you to the exact second, but how about that "very hot" oven?

Every woman has known the nerve rack of that guess; whether the oven is "just right" or not; whether the cake will "fall" or burn, or whether it will come out done to a turn.

With the glass door and the tell-true oven thermometer of the Pandora Range there is no guess—only the sure knowledge of seeing exactly what is going on in the oven.

You not only can see the cake as it bakes but you can also see by a glance at the thermometer when the baking temperature of the oven is exactly right.

And by the Pandora flue and control systems you can instantly regulate that condition — raise or lower the temperature.

The woman who is plodding along with a worn-out range or an antiquated stove cannot appreciate the joy there is in store for her the day a Pandora Range is set up in her kitchen with its "daylight" oven and thermometer that never forgets to tell the exact heat of the oven.

Mounted Police and the Indians

THE North American Indian before civilization (?) corrupted him was pretty much of a man by man's measures. He recognized and practiced heroic virtues. He was ready to take without whimpering anything he would prescribe for an enemy. And he knew and admired a strong man whose word was trustworthy and who lived, rather than preached, the religion of a square deal. He naturally resented the coming of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police to disturb the ancient tenor of his ways. He chafed under the new regime of discipline and regulation. He made it as lively for the troopers as he could find ways to do so. Yet he soon learned to respect the red-coated riders and by degrees to give them his friendship and his support.

In 1879 the chance presented itself for the police — always tactful and humane administrators — to impress on the native mind that they and the great White Mother were friends as well as rulers. At last the buffalo herds failed, exterminated by the indiscriminate hunting fostered by a widening market for the hides. Starvation faced the red men.

It was the Mounted Police who came to the rescue and from twelve to fifteen hundred Indians were fed out of stores, the supplies being at one time reduced to six sacks of flour. The famishing Indians found that the policemen who would spend a week in the saddle, determined, resourceful and vigilant, to bring a lawbreaker to justice, would also go as far and farther, to give food and hope to the dusky wards of the Government.

Later as many as seven thousand Bloods, Peigans and Sarcees were placed on rations by their police-protectors, beef and flour being distributed daily from June until October.

The great wall of distrust and suspicion that the police had ever found an impenetrable barrier between themselves and the native nations, if it did not crumble, at least had many breaches made in it afterwards. The abler and stronger chiefs began, too, to recognize the wisdom of official sternness in dealing with the whiskey trader, the smuggler and the outlaw; and as years passed, tribe after tribe aligned itself in support of police authority, simplifying the great task and once anew illustrating the soundness of that centuries-old policy that has made Britain the greatest colonizing power of any age or era.

It was largely through cemented tribal friendships that the work of safeguarding C.P.R. construction was simplified and ultimately accomplished with but a nominal clash between aboriginal wilfulness and the new authority in the land; and in 1883 the Government was able to transmit the official thanks and congratulations of the railway company upon the success achieved and the great reform accomplished in the breaking down of the whiskey traffic organization during the eventful railway-building period.

The police work had been strenuous, difficult, incessant. It had involved a display of courage, of stamina, of hardihood, of administrative genius that gave "the force" recognition and brought to it adventure-seeking recruits from Old Country families of nobility and ancient lineage, whose younger sons discovered to their joy that the scarlet tunic of the prairie rough-riders had become as recognized a uniform of high distinction as the historic blue of the famous Guards. There was breathing room for high spirits in the life, and inspiration in such tales as might be read between the bare-bones lines of scant official reports chronicling the day's work of the troopers, as when, in 1883, two of the self-sure constables were officially acquainted of the fact that Pie-a-Pots and his band of several hundred braves had camped on the right-of-way and threatened no end of trouble.

"Go out and move them back," was the order.

And the two policemen saluted, swung into the saddle, and sped to execute orders.

They found Pie-a-Pots and his people in ugly temper. They gave the Indians fifteen minutes in which to move camp; and when the reds displayed no obedient intent, the sergeant in charge brought matters to a head by kicking out the key-poles of the tepees.

It is axiomic of the police policy "when in a tight place—start something yourself."

In this particular instance it was a case of hundreds against two — but the two were clean-strain white men with will and nerves of steel.

So the Indians moved.

In years later it was Sergt. Fitzgerald who was called to headquarters one evening to be told that two northern tribes nursing an ancient vendetta had donned the battle paint and feathers and were facing one another with a thin ribbon of river dividing the camps, the stealing of a girl being offered as excuse for the making of war medicine.

"You will disperse both the forces and bring their chiefs back with you here," said the unblinking commissioner.

How he calmly and confidently informing the opposing chiefs that unless the tribes were dispersed, the war abandoned and they themselves came down to headquarters to make required explanations and assurances, all would forthwith be arrested and taken in chains to prison is one of the epics of the service unrivalled by any of the fictional exploits of D'Artagnan or Gerard.

MAKING WIRE.

Rolling and Drawing a Bar of Iron Into a Fine Thread.

Bars of metal four inches square are heated and passed while hot and plastic through rapidly revolving rolls, reducing them to wire rods which vary from one quarter of an inch to an inch or more in diameter, depending upon the finished size of wire wanted.

These rods, which are formed into coils as they pass through the rolls, are dipped in acid baths to remove loose scale and provide a lubricant for drawing. Drawing consists of pulling rods while cold through holes of gradually increasing diameter drilled in steel plates. During this process the particles of metal become elongated and strained, making the wire harder and more brittle. To restore it to a proper temper it is necessary to heat or anneal it.

When a fine diameter is required there must be repeated annealings and drawings. This may be done until the bar, which originally was four inches square and fou feet long, becomes reduced to a diameter of a single thousandth of an inch and extended 13,000 miles in length. Before so fine a size is reached the wire will cut into the steel of the die plate, ro the usual die plates must be discarded and the drawing continued through holes drilled in diamonds, the diameter of these diamond dies decreasing by fractional parts of a thousandth of an inch. This wire affords a striking illustration of a material made more valuable by the application of labor.

From the time the bar of metal enters the furnace nothing is added to it. All the work is done with one article, which is passed through rolls and drawn through die plates until it is finished.

Japan and Russia.

As long as the Russians seemed able, or willing, to resist the German onslaught, Japan was ready to back her. She has advanced 378,000,000 yen to them, and has shipped to them enormous quantities of war supplies. She has transferred three warships to the Russian flag and has sent to the Russian army numerous guns and large quantities of ammunition. Japan knew that a friendly Russia would mean a buffer between the Far East and Germany. She knew that as a neighbor Germany, aggressive, well organized, eager to expand, efficient both in commerce and in arms, would be far more dangerous than Russia, potentially powerful, but still unorganized and in a comparatively low state of efficiency. At any rate, Japan considered herself fortunate to be separated from Germany by 6,000 miles of Russian territory. With that fact in view, Japan has, ever since the Manchurian war of 1915, striven to make friends with Russia. Her efforts have not been in vain. The friendship, which, in the last days of the Romanoff dynasty, culminated in an entente cordiale between the two countries, would have continued under the new regime, had the Liberal Government, which rose upon the ruins of the autocracy, been only capable of observing Russia's solemn covenant with her allies.

Japan hopes that Russia will eventually "find" herself and succeed in establishing a stable, efficient government, which will prove friendly to her and stand as a bulwark of protection against Germany's eastward advance. But Japan must deal not with the uncertain developments of the future, but with the stern realities of the present. Considerations of her own safety demands that she must act, and act promptly.

Canada's Fondness for Automobiles.

It will surprise most Canadians to know that among the nations of the world their country holds third place in the number of automobiles in use. In 1917 there were 199,302 cars registered in Canada, an increase of 47,705 over 1916, while the number of new cars registered in that year was nearly 76,000. The increase for 1918 is expected to be on a proportionate scale. One Canadian in every 40 owns a car; and, roughly speaking, there is one automobile for every eight families. Considering that in 1903 there were only 220 automobiles in Ontario, and that in 1917, 84,353 auto licenses were taken out, the increase is nothing short of amazing. A marked feature of the pre-eminence which Canada enjoys is the ever-increasing proportion of motor licenses which are being taken out by farmers, a fact which in itself affords a strong guarantee that good country roads will soon be the rule rather than the exception.

To Fence In Italy.

Owing to the amount of smuggling of contraband goods from Switzerland and the consequent loss of revenue, the Italian Government has decided to fence the frontier with metal netting. The netting is about nine feet high, and to it is attached bells, which the moment the netting is touched or trodden on creates such a ringing that all the customs officials are immediately on the alert for some distance along the line.

It has also been decided to increase the number of posts and employes. These officials will be provided with police dogs, the animals being expected to attack and catch smugglers and to fight their dogs.

THE SIBERIAN SITUATION.

Germany May Receive Control of That Portion of Russia.

In view of the presence in Siberia of a large number of German prisoners of war, the disorganization in that part of the country becomes all the more alarming. With complete collapse of Russia's military authority in Siberia one can well imagine how easy it is for these Germans to secure freedom and engage themselves in the work of promoting German influence in the East. The recent report from Irkutsk that 2,000 Germans there are drilling Russians is an ominous indication of what they are capable of doing. Even before the war, Germans were the dominant factor in Siberia. The Russians, slow and inefficient, were no match for them in trade and industry. In Vladivostok and Harbin, and in fact in most cities in Siberia, trade was practically in the hands of Germans.

As early as 1908 the British consul at Vladivostok wrote of that port as follows: "The bulk of the foreign population here is German. Commercially speaking, the town is practically a German one. Not only the wholesale, but also the retail, business is in German hands, and there is only one Russian firm of real importance." If, as the result of the disorganization of Russia, the Siberian railways are even temporarily controlled by Germany, Vladivostok, that Russian Gibraltar of the Far East, will be converted into a German military outpost. It would be easy for the Germans to ship submarine parts over the Siberian line to Vladivostok, where they would be put together and used to the detriment of allied interests.

It must be remembered that Vladivostok is far more formidably fortified than Port Arthur had ever been fortified in the historic days of Gen. Alexieff. Russian Island, lying athwart the main entrance to the harbor, is guarded with the heaviest guns, and prior before the war, was garrisoned with a whole division of troops. The Skhott and the Gondolbin Peninsulas that embrace the harbor are likewise impregnably protected. At the outbreak of the war there were at least seventy-six forts mounting some 580 cannon of different calibre and manned with 8,000 soldiers. The military and naval warehouses were constructed on a grand scale, extending for thousands of feet along the naval basin and capable of storing supplies sufficient for a long siege. Vladivostok, in short, is one of the most strongly fortified ports in the world. Such a port, if controlled by Germany, will be like the mailed fist aimed directly against the Japanese. For Japan is only forty hours' ride across the Japanese Sea.

Punishment In Effigy.

Punishment in effigy was legally practiced in France and with great solemnity up to the time of the first revolution. If the man condemned escaped a dummy was put up in his cell and the entire routine of the law allowed to take its course. The warrant was read to it, and on the day appointed it was conducted to the scaffold in the presence of all the legal functionaries and with all the circumstances of the law. Sometimes the same person was executed in effigy simultaneously in several cities, but that did not exempt him from actual punishment should he be afterward caught. The scaffold was always ready.

Chlorine and Its Discoverer.

Chlorine is perhaps the most important of all gases in commercial chemistry. It is the great bleacher, without which we could have no white linen or white straw hats. It is also the best disinfectant known. It is essential to the manufactur of chloroform, and it is used extensively for the extraction of gold from its ores. Chlorine's value to the world has been incalculable, yet Scheele, the man who discovered it, lived hungry and died a pauper.

HUNDREDS KILLED IN LATE GERMAN ATROCITY

The Battle Still Rages On The Western Front

French In Counter Attack Drove Back Masses Of German Troops At Soissons

Several Hundred German Prisoners Taken—The Situation is Serious But the Signs Are Reassuring.

THE OFFICIAL REPORTS

LONDON, June 1.—The German artillery was considerably more active this morning in the sectors of Villers Bretonneux, east of Amiens, and Hebuterne, north of Albert, it is announced officially.

THE STATEMENT FOLLOWS:

A hostile raid was repulsed last night east of Villers Bretonneux. Local fighting has taken place to our advantage at Avelluy Wood, north of Albert. Prisoners have been taken by our troops in these encounters. The hostile artillery developed considerable activity early this morning in Villers Bretonneux and Hebuterne sectors and has been active during the night south and west of Lens and in the neighbourhood of Lens.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, June 1.—(Official).—The German attack continued during the night with redoubled violence on the western side of the new salient between Soissons and Chateau Thierry. The French made counter-attacks and drove back masses of German troops in the region of Soissons and on the line of Chaudun Vierzy, gaining ground everywhere and taking several hundred prisoners, the War Office announces. Along the northern bank of the Marne the Germans pushed forward advance parties from the northern and the eastern borders of Chateau Thierry as far as Vernueil. On the French right there was sharp fighting on the road between Dormands and Rheims. The situation is unchanged north-west and north of Rheims.

SIGNS RE-ASSURING.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, June 1.—The military critics, says a Havas Agency review to-day, still view the situation as serious, but consider the signs as reassuring. The most important development is regarded as the enemy's attempt to advance westward and push toward Paris, thus, it is considered, revealing the strategic intentions unmistakably. In the first shock of this new push it is pointed out that the Allies were obliged to give ground in some places, but they held their own on the Aisne and Ourcq, and their vigorous attacks are considered a prelude to a stoppage of the enemy advance. At present the most important part of the battlefield is that with Noyon, or the region to the south. It is here that the German rush towards Paris demands undivided attention.

ANOTHER AIR RAID ON PARIS.

PARIS, June 1.—German airmen attempted two air raids on Paris last night. The first was a failure, but on the second occasion bombs were dropped on the capital, with some casualties.

Two Girls Injured By Automobile On Charlotte Street

Two little girls, Marjorie Grey, 203 Charlotte street, and Doris Skinner, 334 Stewart street, were knocked down on Charlotte street, opposite the Robt. Hicks' coal office, last night about 7 o'clock, by an automobile driven by Mabel Noffall, 168 Dalhousie street. The girls started to cross the street, and not noticing the approaching automobile walked against the side of it as it passed. Both were thrown to the ground. Marjorie Grey, 13 years old, was bruised on one arm and has an ankle injured. Her companion, Doris Skinner, 4 years old, was hurt about the head and arms.

Dr. Cameron attended them. Apparently neither was seriously injured.

AMERICAN CASUALTY LIST CONTAINS NAMES OF SEVENTY-TWO MEN.

Special to the Examiner:

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Gen. Pershing reported seventy-two names on the casualty list to the War Department, divided as follows: Three killed in action, six dead from wounds, ten dead from disease, one dead from airplane accident, seventeen wounded severely, eleven slightly wounded, and nine missing in action.

Important Questions To Be Discussed

It is Proposed to Close Some of the Colleges Throughout Canada

VOLUNTEERS WANTED

(Special to Examiner.)

London, Ont., June 1.—The element of uncertainty occasioned by the discontinuance of the special convention and excursion rates on Canadian railways is having a disconcerting influence in the arrangements for the Presbyterian General Assembly, which convenes at St. Andrew's church, on Wednesday, June 5. Recently requests for statements of intention were sent to the six hundred representatives from all parts of Canada, who were eligible for attendance. Thus far eighty have written stating that they will not be present, while two hundred and thirty have definitely announced their intention of coming to London. Billets are being arraged in advance only for those who give warning but the expectations are that accommodation will be found for all.

ACCOMMODATION OFFERED.

The members of the different denominations are lending their assistance, the assembly officers expressing special appreciation of the action of the Anglican Bishop, who has placed Huron College, with dormitory accommodation for from 40 to 50, at the disposal of the Visiting Commissioners.

While the most vigorous debate is expected to arise from the proposale to mobolize the Presbyterian universities throughout Canada in the interest of war time economy, the most momentous matter for consideration is what is known as the Forward Movement. This scheme is designed to strengthen the church by a process of recruiting both to Presbyterian membership and to the pulpits. A determined effort is likewise urged to the end that more volunteers must be secured for the ministry for mission fields and for desconship work.

Good Results.

The adoption of such a plan on a scale of the magnitude followed where good results have been obtained in the United States, would require substantial financial backing. The organization to secure the necessary funds will accordingly provide one of the problems.

Though it was proposed some time since to close four of the eight colleges for training ministers during the war other suggestions have since been made that only one of the colleges, either in Montreal or Toronto, be kept in active operation. The attendance continues to fall off because of the war and as a result the claim is made that there are more professors than students in some of the colleges.

ATTEMPTS TO DECEIVE

German High Command is Making Every Effort to Conceal Their Real Objective

SHELLING CONTINUES

(By Wm. Phillip Simms—United Press).

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, June 1.—While the armies of the Prussian Crown Prince are thrusting southwards across country traversed in 1914, drunk with the success of the first phase of the battle, the German high command is making every effort to deceive the Allies as to the future turnings of the offensive.

Some prisoners claim one thing, some another. All probably are primed to mislead their captors. Some declare the Rheims offensive is merely secondary, and that the real blow is yet to come. Others say the main thrust is to be toward Ypres.

It is hardly possible that Foch and Haig will fall for such cock-bull stories. Likely enough, they have a good notion of the main plans of the enemy and will act accordingly. Shelling and bombing of Arras in the rear of the lines continue. Popperhinge and the Flemmish battlefields, the Arras sector and the Somme country are principally involved.

Offensive Is Shaping Up On Italian Front

(Special to The Examiner.)

ROME, June 1.—Military critics consider the arrival of General Bohm-Ermolli at Fruili, and the council of war held in Udine under General Borrovic as certain indication that an Austrian offensive is imminent. The Austrians continue massing troops along the Italian front, reinforcements are still arriving from Roumania and Ukrane, and new Turkish contingents are reported. The Italians are fully prepared and the morale of the troops is the highest.

U-BOATS ARE AFTER TRANSPORTS

Submarines Have Bagged Four in a Little Over a Week.

Special to the Examiner:

WASHINGTON, June 1. — The German sinking of the American transport "President Lincoln" and three British transports in little over a week tended to confirm recent reports that the U boats are making a special effort to get troopships.

The Navy Department advices showing that submarines were lying far out, including the vicinity of the Azores, plus the recent British destruction of a super submarine off the Portugal coast, indicates that the U boats are being forced out of their usual patch.

OTTAWA VETERANS NOT BEHIND THE CRITICISM.

Ottawa, June 1. — Colonel D. F. Pidgeon, president of the Ottawa branch of the Great War Veterans' Association, speaking with reference to the statements made regarding the Y.M.C.A. at the provincial convention, said that the Ottawa branch was not a member of the Ontario Association. "We have refused to recognize that association," he said, "consequently the resolutions passed at that convention do not necessarily express our views." He said that on the matter raised regarding the Y. M. C.A. they were non-committal, as the facts were not before them, but in view of what had been said he thought the matter should be in some way investigated for the benefit of the general public and the Y.M.C.A.

The Germans deserve every credit for the secret manner in which they brought up their reserves during the night before the attack, and two hours of artillery and trench mortar fire effectively downed the wire.

On the first day of the assault, the Crown Prince's army advanced twelve miles, over-running the French lines and crossing the Aisne in an effort to cut the Paris-Chalons railway and to deepen the salient.

THE AMERICAN SUCCESS.

Considerable success attended his efforts in the centre, but he was frustrated on the flanks. It is not fair to blame the Allied command for the reverse. It was the outcome of an unfavourable strategical situation, carried out with a numerically superior enemy force. We cannot have adequate reserves at all times at all threatened points which would be methodical in preventing initial German success.

The American attack at Cantigny has caused considerable favourable comment by the Allied military authorities. It was extremely well conducted and can be all the more applauded because the Americans not only captured the village but held it.

It is easy enough for troops to capture a place, but it is hard for them to consolidate it. The attack above shows high class training, discipline and fighting quality of troops.

GERMANS HAVE REACHED MARNE ON A TEN MILE FRONT

Enemy Claims to Have Captured 45,000 Prisoners and 400 Guns

Canadian Press:

LONDON, June 1.—The enemy have reached the Marne on a ten mile front. The Germans claim to have so far taken forty-five thousand prisoners and four hundred guns. Large masses of enemy reserves still remain in the north.

The Germans have begun a violent offensive on the west wing and have advanced five miles. Headquarters is confident that the battle will soon turn in favour of the Allies.

The French Put Up a Gallant Fight Against Overwhelming Odds—Artillery Out of the Fighting

HOLDING THE LINE

(Henry Wood—United Press)

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES ON THE AISNE FRONT, June 1st. —The German advance on this front has been so rapid that at present the artillery is playing a comparatively minor role in the battle Rifles, machine guns and trench motars constitute their main offensive arms.

A few small detachments of the enemy are reported to have reached the Marne near Charteves, but his main force is still on the plateau above Chateau Thierry, which descends abruptly by sharpe sloped hills to the river edge.

Following the capture of Fere-En-Tardenois, the Germans were able to advance with great rapidity under cover of the heavy forests south of that place although the battle was raging desperatedly on the plateau

Infantry Action.

The Germans having advanced so rapidly they were unable to bring up any guns except their light artillery. Thus, the wounded which passed, were suffering almost invariably from bullet wounds.

Returning from the vantage point where I had seen the fighting on the wooded slopes of the plateau, I encountered French infantry men who stolidly took up their positions in houses and sheltered nooks, resting while the occasion offered.

Long lines of infantry mule drawn machines guns and ammunition wagons were held ready to rush up and throw weight in the path of the boches.

Withstood the Shock

Here, I also met standing in the middle of a road and surrounded by his staff, a famous French General. His troops who had been fighting on the plateau had withstood without a single break in their front, the German advance clear from the Chemin-des-Dames.

Numerically Superior

This General who had just returned from firing line declared that although the Germans were numerically superior—to the extent of at least four to one—his troops were falling back without haste with supreme readiness the moment the order might be given to put up a determined stand. Ascending the sharpe sloped hills leading to the plateau from the south I found sunny orchards, vineyards and fields dotted with guns who were cooly and methodically installing their deadly 75s, glancing up occasionally, to see if the moment had arrived when they should open fire on the Germans in support of the infantry below.

But the sunset found the greatly outnumbered poilus on the north of the plateau still keeping back the foe.

During the first day of the German drive, I learned several battalions of French surrounded in the forest of Pinon (then on the extreme left allied line) decide to fight to the finish.

Had to Surrender.

They immediately sent a carrier pigeon announcing their decision to the French commander. He sent back an air plane which dropped an encouraging message.

Throughout Monday and Tuesday the encircled troops held out reporting regularly by pigeons to their commander who replied as regularly by airplane until 6.30 Tuesday, when the last pigeon to arrive carried a message announcing that the three battalions remaining had no more amrunitions and had been obliged to surrender.

THE PRESS COMMENT

London Press Are Hopeful of the Situation—A Chance For Strategy

CRISIS NOT OVER

Canadian Press:

LONDON, June 1.—The gravity of the news from the western front is emphasized in this morning's newspapers which comment anxiously on the situation. Although they express hopefulness as to the final outcome, the Daily News says the statement given last night by a military authority to the Associated Press, in which the situation was depicted as a very serious one, is disquieting since it must be accepted as reliable. This newspaper, however, encourages the view that the situation is no wise past retrieving.

Great Possibilities.

The Daily Telegraph sees great possibilities in the strategic situation. Asserting that anxiety and stress of the last few days are not diminishing, it adds: "It would appear that a second battle of the Marne, of far greater intensity and weight than in 1914 is opening, but in totally different circumstances. The difference, however, is as much to the advantage of the Allies as the enemy.

Confidence Expressed.

Confidence in American help is shown in the comment of several newspapers. The Daily Mail enumerates strong points in favour of the Allies, including the rapid arrival of American troops, which will speedily restore the Allies' preponderance in numbers.

The Americans.

The Times also looks to the day when the arrival of Americans will more than reverse the present proportions.

WAR SUMMARY

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

NEW YORK, June 1.—The Associated Press war summary to-day says:

Hurling the weight of great numbers against the stubbornly resisting French defense north and south of Soissons the German Crown Prince has been unable to make progress on a vital sector of battle line from Noyon to Rheims. In the centre the German detachments have reached the Marne between Chateau Thierry and Dormans, while on the east the Franco-British line stands firm. After a retirement to the line through Blerancourt and Epagny, the French halted and in a series of furious attacks and counter-attacks, have held the enemy forces. West of Soissons too, the Germans have been repulsed with great losses, and for some ten miles south of the town they have not advanced more than several hundred yards in spite of assault after assault against the French defense.

SMALL GAINS.

The Germans gained near Oulchy-Le Chateau and threaten Chateau Thierry, an important railway centre on the Marne, forty-six miles northeast of Paris. In the centre where small enemy forces have advanced southward to the Marne, French tactics in the past few days apparently has been to retire until the line of the Marne, of heroic memory, could be reached. The Allied forces have held the enemy for small gains for three days. North of Amiens the enemy has advanced only ten miles since Sunday. The line eastward through the Champagne to Verdun is not yet affected by the battle on the Aisne front.

French In Counter Attack Drove Back Masses Of German Troops At Soissons

Several Hundred German Prisoners Taken—The Situation is Serious But the Signs Are Reassuring.

THE OFFICIAL REPORTS

LONDON, June 1.—The German artillery was considerably more active this morning in the sectors of Villers Bretonneux, east of Amiens, and Hebuterne, north of Albert, it is announced officially.

THE STATEMENT FOLLOWS:

A hostile raid was repulsed last night east of Villers Bretonneux. Local fighting has taken place to our advantage at Avellup Wood, north of Albert. Prisoners have been taken by our troops in these encounters. The hostile artillery developed considerable activity early this morning in Villers Bretonneux and Hebuterne sectors and has been active during the night south and west of Lens and in the neighbourhood of Lens.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, June 1.—(Official).—The German attack continued during the night with redoubled violence on the western side of the new salient between Soissons and Chateau Thierry. The French made counter-attacks and drove back masses of German troops in the region of Soissons and on the line of Chaudun Vierzy, gaining ground everywhere and taking several hundred prisoners, the War Office announces. Along the northern bank of the Marne the Germans pushed forward advance parties from the northern and the eastern borders of Chateau Thierry as far as Verneuil. On the French right there was sharp fighting on the road between Dormands and Rheims. The situation is unchanged north-west and north of Rheims.

SIGNS RE-ASSURING.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, June 1.—The military critics, says a Havas Agency review to-day, still view the situation as serious, but consider the signs as reassuring. The most important development is regarded as the enemy's attempt to advance westward and push toward Paris, thus, it is considered, revealing the strategic intentions unmistakably. In the first shock of this new push it is pointed out that the Allies were obliged to give ground in some places, but they held their own on the Aisne and Ourcq, and their vigorous attacks are considered a prelude to a stoppage of the enemy advance. At present the most important part of the battlefield is that with Noyon, or the region to the south. It is here that the German rush towards Paris demands undivided attention.

ANOTHER AIR RAID ON PARIS.

PARIS, June 1.—German airmen attempted two air raids on Paris last night. The first was a failure, but on the second occasion bombs were dropped on the capital, with some casualties.

Two Girls Injured By Automobile On Charlotte Street

Two little girls, Marjorie Grey, 263 Charlotte street, and Doris Skinner, 364 Stewart street, were knocked down on Charlotte street, opposite the Robt. Hicks' coal office, last night about 7 o'clock, by an automobile driven by Mabel Noftall, 188 Dalhousie street. The girls started to cross the street, and not noticing the approaching automobile walked against the side of it as it passed. Both were thrown to the ground. Marjorie Grey, 13 years old, was bruised on one arm and has an ankle injured. Her companion, Doris Skinner, 4 years old, was hurt about the head and arms.

Germans Still Have Large Number of Reserves to Use In The Present Offensive

The Military Situation is Still Serious and is Likely to Remain So For Some Days—Transport of the Allied Reserve Forces is Working Smoothly

GERMANS HAVE THREE OBJECTIVES

(United Press.)
(By Ed L. Keen.)

LONDON, June 1.—There is no disguising the fact that the military situation is very serious, not only because the Germans advanced twenty-eight miles in five days, but because they still have a large number of fresh reserves which they can break into the battle, according to the opinion of high authorities to-day. Until it is known where these reserves are to be used the situation still remains anxious.

The transport of British and French reserves is working smoothly and there are plenty to check the German advance, with every hope of holding the enemy, it was declared.

THREE OBJECTIVES.

Aside from the main German object of crushing the Anglo-French armies, the enemy has three objectives—the channel ports, separation of the British and French armies and the capture of Amiens and Paris. German reserves can now be used in these. It is impossible to tell which of the reserves at the right and left of the Crown Prince's army have not yet been touched. It is known that the German attack in the Aisne region was not a complete surprise, because an enemy concentration there was known to be in progress, but there was no definite information that a really great drive was impending.

The Germans deserve every credit for the secret manner in which they brought up their reserves during the night before the attack, and two hours of artillery and trench mortar fire effectively downed the wire.

On the first day of the assault, the Crown Prince's army advanced twelve miles, over-running the French lines and crossing the Aisne in an effort to cut the Paris-Chalons railway and to deepen the salient.

In the centre the German detachments have reached the Marne between Chateau Thierry and Dormans, while on the east the Franco-British line stands firm. After a retirement to the line through Blerancourt and Epagny, the French halted and in a series of furious attacks and counter-attacles, have held the enemy forces. West of Soissons too, the Germans have been repulsed with great losses, and for some ten miles south of the town they have not advanced more than several hundred yards in spite of assault after assault against the French defense.

SMALL GAINS.

The Germans gained near Oulchy Le Chateau and threaten Chateau Thierry, an important railway centre on the Marne, forty-six miles north-east of Paris. In the centre where small enemy forces have advanced southward to the Marne, French tactics in the past few days apparently has been to retire until the line of the Marne, of heroic memory, could be reached. The Allied forces have held the enemy for small gains for three days. North of Amiens the enemy has advanced only ten miles since Sunday. The line eastward through the Champagne to Verdun is not yet affected by the battle on the Aisne front.

SWORN TO AND GUARANTEED

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

SATURDAY, JUNE 1ST, 1918.

NATIONA REGISTRATION.

Registering under the Military Service Act and registering under the National Service Registration are two entirely separate things. The repetition of this explanation may be wearisome to such of our readers as have grasped the distinction, but so many questions are being asked the Examiner in regard to the tow matters that it seems as if a daily reminder is necessary.

In the first place, every man and woman, sixteen years old and upwards must register for national service on June 23 or the week preceding that date. Definite information as to the places where citizens may register will be given in a short time. The main point to remember is that registration is compulsory for every resident in Canada who has reached the age of sixteen years, and that this registration has no connection whatever with the Military Service Act.

AN EASTERN ATTACK.

The suggestion that the Allies should strike a blow at the Central Empires in the Eastern theatre of war, as advocated by George Roussos, the Greek Minister to the United States, is an interesting one. Dr. Roussos is firmly of the opinion that the Western front is a virtual fortress, where the constant slaughter of men and the firing of tons of ammunition are of no avail in deciding the issue. On the other hand, the East he points out is the weak line in the Teuton chain, as the Central Empires have only half a million men on the Salonica front, of which only about four divisions are German, while the Allies have already an army of 700,000 British, French, Italians and Greeks, while the rapid mobilization of Greece would bring the Allies' strength in the Balkans to one million men. Dr. Roussos' theory is that a shrewd blow struck at Laibach and Vienna would shatter Germany's dream of a "mittel Europe," and would bring the dual monarchy to its knees. There have been many advocates of such an enterprise in Great Britain, but the majority of leaders have contended, and their counsel has prevailed, that the Western front is the principal and all important one, and that the war must be won there.

AN HISTORIC EVENT.

It is to be hoped that the people of Peterboro will take part in the ceremonies in connection with the formal opening of the Trent Canal from Lake Simcoe to the Bay of Quinte, on Thursday next, with a willingness that the importance of the occasion warrants. That the inland waterway which was commenced many years ago, has now been completed over the greater part of its length, should be a matter for rejoicing on the part of Peterboro's citizens, for the event means much to this city. The visit of Hon. Dr. Reid to Peterboro over the canal, is an historic event, and it is fitting that it should be marked by a demonstration on the part of the municipalities along the canal, of which Peterboro is by far the most important.

It is the desire of the Mayor and Council that citizens generally shall recognize the occasion by decorating their premises. The opening of the southern portion of the canal is another milestone in Peterboro's history and should be commemorated in a suitable manner.

UNITED IN SORROW.

Many a housewife who pays fifty cents and upwards for a pound of butter says in her haste that this is the farmer's golden age, and she envies the man of the plow wickedly and without measure, says the Toronto Globe. At the same moment it is possible that her husband is experiencing some disillusions which will modify his views for years to come. Catching the super-production fever, he is gardening at home or on his club's farm as he never did before. In the physical sense alone he has learned some of the sorenesses and monotony of muscular labour. A half-day with a hoe raises blisters and a weariness that brings mystifying silence to his tongue.

Before he has recovered he encounters some of the discouragements of his new avocation. On paper his adventures should bring abundant return for the investment of money and labour. But the seed catalogue and the prospectus take no account of the adversities ahead. Could every crop yield one hundred per cent. of expectations there would be no need of a Food Controller. There is, for example, the delay in spring rains, which gives things a bad start, from which they may not recover. Then come the thousand and one pests that fly or crawl or burrow. The apple trees are a mass of bloom, but the club man learns that the blooms will mean nothing if the poison is not sprayed on them several times to kill some bug he never heard of before. The potatoes, he learns, face a deluge of bugs, which must be taken on the right day, or they, too, will fall as a crop. Even the tomato plants need a bug-icide when planted or they will be nipped off by some strange crawling creature.

So the club man or the home gardener is entering a new world these days. It is a world of uncertainties compared with the salary that comes regularly and undiminished each week. The farmer gambles with nature for his reward. He matches his skill against the forces arrayed against him. The city man finds it a transformed business since he left the farm, with new enemies and new ways of overcoming them. The lesson will be full of surprises, but it will be a profitable by-product of the war period if Mr. City Man learns more tolerance for the farmer's viewpoint and understands the troubles of the combat with the forces of nature.

JOHN ROSS ROBERTSON.

"By and by comes Christmas Eve. John Ross Robertson is not at home. No, he is up at the hospital Christmas tree; and he is Santa Claus in a coon skin coat with sleigh-bells jingling and as benign white beard that is a mere apology of a make-up for him. The laughter of the children is the music of his soul. From cot to cot goes the benevolent fakir, handing out gifts and good cheer. And when the snow-flakes drive up and down the street on the north wind, he goes home, hunching under his cap, the burly, lop-sided old benefactor, smoking a long black cigar, and thinking he sees in the face of the clouds or the quiet of his room the joy-faces of little children, made glad by him, and the work which he has made the one grand hobby of a strange temperamental career."

Such is the remarkable pen picture of John Ross Robertson, proprietor of the Toronto Telegram, whose death occurred yesterday, given in Augustus Bridle's book, "Sons of Canada," and the paragraph quoted, sums in a few words the side of the famous newspaper man by which he will be longest remembered. In the passing away of John Ross Robertson, Canadian journalism loses one of its most outstanding figures, the children of Canada one of their greatest friends and the Canadian national winter game of hockey its father and benefactor. John Ross Robertson has been described as "the most conspicuous example of personal journalism "since the days of Edmund E. Sheppard on Saturday Night," and as "Toronto's most interesting land mark."

His work on behalf of children was Mr. Robertson's chief hobby. The Sick Children's Hospital and the Home on Toronto Island used in the summer months are monuments of the efforts of the philanthropist to carry out the Christ idea among the children.

Among hockey players and followers of the game, John Ross Robertson will be remembered by his interest in the Ontario Hockey Association. It was to that interest that much of the success and progress of the greatest hockey body in the world is due. He was president for a long term, and up to the time of his death was a member of the sub-committee, and he was bitterly opposed to professionalism. Woe betide the unhappy club that had erred if the facts came into the possession of John Ross Robertson, and he dominated the Hockey Association as he did his newspaper.

His passing is a loss to Toronto and a loss to Canada.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Kaiser has once more bobbed on the western front. Following his usual custom he will retire from the scene as soon as the allies check the drive.

The Canadians while preparing for a possible assault on their front have found time for a few profitable raids into the Hun trenches.

Sir George Foster says Canadians should wear their clothes for three years. Many a newspaper man would like to, but the police would arrest them.

What is the matter with the Toronto postmastership. Are the politicians blocking the appointment?

A Windsor minister has refused an offer of $200 increase in salary from his congregation. He declined in view of war conditions. Another name for the honour roll.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

Worth While Assets.

Winnipeg Tribune—John Redmond left only $28,000, an amount less than he inherited.

For many years he was the foremost man of his race in Ireland.

Brains and character were his great assets.

Proudfoot Rapped.

(St. Thomas Journal.)

His own constituents are rapping Mr. Proudfoot, for his wobbly stand in the last federal election. Men who call themselves Liberals but practise Toryism are becoming increasingly unpopular in Canada.

Not a Surprise.

"The Minister of Education and St. Paul's" is the way The Weekly Sun prints it. The Hon. Dr. Cody appears to be surprised that the proposal that he retain the rectorship of St. Paul's is criticized. It would be a surprise were it not.

In the Dry Belt.

(Judge)

Not only the cloven hoof, but the cloven breath as well, seems to have disappeared from our literature.

The Price of Peace.

(Detroit News)

Hunger stories coming out of Austria make it seem possible that the day will arrive soon when Uncle Sam can bribe Austria to leave the central powers by presenting her a barrel of flour, a side of bacon and a ham or two.

But Return Tickets are Scarce

(New York Sun)

Whoever should grow faint hearted ought to come to the front and see the devastation. — The Kaiser, Hindenburg and Ludendorff are planning a number of "personally conducted tours" so that even German lads of seventeen or younger may have a chance to view it.

Stewed Eels for Epicures.

(London Times)

The Thames Conservancy has decided to purchase some two hundred thousand young eels in order to replenish the present diminishing stock. Lord Desborough said the fresh water fish supply had been neglected, but it was hoped to establish an eel farm. Arrangements had already been made with the fisheries board to achieve this object, as eels were a valuable food.

The Why of it.

(The Los Angeles Times)

Some people do not see the force of being asked to save food when some of the substitutes cost more than the original. The fallacy lies in the assumption that the drive of the Food Administration is to save money. Abstention from the use of certain food products is for the purpose of saving them for the use of our fighters and Allies.

A Comforting Thought.

(Regina Leader.)

The next time you fall into the gutter at the corner with a pain at your heart, and the vision of an auto dashing on out of sight it will comfort you to reflect that the law holds the pedestrian has the right of way.

A Hard Slam.

(Toronto Telegram.)

Canadians will know how to sympathize with Americans if the Washington Government fulfills its resolve to close all places of amusement.

Canada's chief place of amusement was closed when prorogation sent the House of Commons away from Ottawa.

A Limit To It.

(New York Sun.)

Germans in Bohemia will find that there is a safety limit to drawing one's belt closer as a means of satisfying the pangs of hunger. After reaching a certain hole in a belt one becomes subject to the ailments which arise from tight lacing.

Honey From Cucumbers.

(Baltimore American.)

A Berlin paper says that the entrance of the United States into the war has brought Germany decided advantages. It is difficult to decide where optimism like this merges into pathos.

Hun Hospital Raiders.

(Philadelphia Record.)

A spy of the enemy caught within the lines is shot. What punishment should or would likely be meted out to such a spy if he walked up to a hospital and deliberately blew up the building and its inmates? Why, indeed, should a spy be any less a spy when he drops from the clouds than when he crawls along the ground?

PIGEON SAVED AVIATORS.

Thrilling Experience of Flight Commander Leckie, D.S.O.

How Flight-Commander R. Leckie, D.S.O., again proved his mettle by the rescue of two aviators from a seaplane, fifty miles from the North Sea coast, after they had been exposed to the buffetings of waves and weather for no less than four days, is modestly told in a letter received by Mr. Robert Leckie, of Toronto, who is proud to be an uncle of the intrepid young birdman.

After telling of the difficulties experienced in fighting Zepps owing to their ability to rise to extreme altitudes, the letter proceeds:

After having been under shell and machine-gun fire for almost an hour, I found myself facing the necessity of making a landing between 50 and 75 miles out at sea to rescue the crew of a land machine which had dropped in the sea through engine trouble. After getting the pilot and passengers aboard my craft, I found it impossible to get off again owing to the rough sea, and the fact that the hull of my "boat" had been struck by shrapnel at a height of 10,000 feet, and was fast making water.

I will not describe the horror of the days that followed, days spent in 'watching waiting' and nights in duty watches. No food at all and water at the rate of one eggcupful each day, until the small allowance gave out, then the muck from the engine radiators. All the while the seaplanes gradually broke up. Also we were compelled to bale incessantly to keep afloat. During this time our base was quite unaware of our fate, though patrols were sent out searching for us.

"As you may know most long distance patrol seaplanes carry homing pigeons aboard. I had four of them with me, and it is to the splendid endurance of one of these birds that six men to-day owe their lives. On Wednesday I released a pigeon, carrying a message to the base giving our position and cause of trouble. On Thursday a second bird was released carrying a similar message. On Friday morning a third bird was sent, and knowing that we could not last much longer, our remaining pigeon was released on Friday afternoon carrying an S.O.S. signal.

"The first three pigeons failed to reach England, but the fourth was a winner. He failed to reach his loft, it is true, but reaching the English coast about twenty miles north of our base, almost instinctively it would seem, picked out a coast guard station and fluttering into the court yard fell dead from exhaustion. At the cost of his own life he delivered his message and thus saved ours — we were picked up by H.M.S. —— the next day."

Chaos In Eastern Siberia.

An international situation to which it would be hard to find an historic parallel, exists in Eastern Asia. The titular government of Russia is not the government of three-fourths of the territory of the republic. Leaving out of sight the Finns and the little Russians who have set up for themselves; Poland that is under the heel of Germany; the Esths, the Letts and the Lithuanians who are marked for German absorption, and the somewhat shadowy state organizations which are feebly asserting themselves in the Caucasus and the Khanates, there is the vast stretch of Siberia, in the settled part of which the authority of the Government at Petrograd manifests itself, through its Bolsevik adherents, mainly in the form of murder and pillage. The Government is denied recognition equally by the appointees of its predecessor in Eastern Asia, and by Russia's neighbors there. Its suppression of the Russian Ministers at Pekin and Tokio and of the director-general of the Chinese Eastern Railway at Harbin has been treated as so much waste paper by all immediately concerned. In the Russian sphere of influence traversed by the railway in Northern Manchuria where China has resumed an authority long held in abeyance, a disposition to co-operate with the discredited officials of the Petrograd Government and with the much dreaded Japanese became quickly apparent when the whole social and administrative fabric was threatened with utter collapse.—John Foord, in Asia Magazine.
